In commemoration of the 200th anniversary of our nation's birth we proudly present this book of the past, present and future.

May it bring to memory those Founding Fathers, both of the nation and of Cass County, the places, things and events which contributed so greatly to our Heritage of freedom.

Let it be our contribution to the cultures and traditions of the American people in the Festival of 1976.

It is our hope that its pages may inspire those citizens yet to come to shape a better tomorrow on the Horizons of the future.

FOREWORD

Not all family sketches in this book appear as they were originally written. Some were condensed because they were too long for the limitations of this publication; some, short and of the same family, were combined for better continuity; some were edited to delete repetitious items or items the editors considered extraneous to the scope of this work; some were rearranged for clarification of generations and relationships; some were rewritten because the forms in which they were presented weren't suitable for use in this volume. To those whose handwritten material we transcribed we regret any errors, trusting you realize that handwritten manuscripts are very subject to misreadings.

The Cass County Historical Society acknowledges with gratitude the earlier work of Mrs. Walter G. (Alice Lewis) Heid, first Family History Chairman, and her committee, whose collection of family compilations was the genesis of this book. The Cass County Historical Society also acknowledges with gratitude the rewarding response of members and others interested who have more recently submitted material.

We hope this book will bring pleasure and a sense of family pride and solidarity to all represented here, will be of interest to other readers, and will be helpful to all searchers.

HERBERT F. ACUFF

Herbert Franklin Acuff was the third of eight children born to Claiborne Franklin Acuff (June 19, 1861-February 8, 1932) and Nancy David (Halliburton) Acuff (January 24, 1866-August 3, 1946). He was born November 20, 1892, on the same farm on which his father was born in Woodlawn Township, Monroe County, Missouri, which had been purchased by his grandfather in 1856.

On April 9, 1914, he was united in marriage with Kathryn Collins, born November 15, 1891. She was the ninth of twelve children born to James Howard Collins (April 11, 1848-June 28, 1915) and Helen (Armstrong) Collins (June 21, 1853-March 25, 1923). They resided on a farm in Monroe County until 1924 when they moved to Shelbina, Missouri. They were the parents of two children: Howard Franklin Acuff, born August 15, 1924, and Nancy Helen Acuff, born December 10, 1925.

In 1928 the family moved to Lee's Summit, Missouri. In October, 1936, Herbert F. Acuff and J. H. Harris purchased the holdings of the White Motor Company in Harrisonville, the firm name becoming the Harris-Acuff Motor Company. In March, 1941, Herbert F. Acuff purchased the interest of his partner and continued the business under the firm name of Herb Acuff Motor Company until his death May 14, 1960. He took an active interest in local civic affairs. He was a charter member of the Harrisonville Lions Club and served as president; he was a member and former president of the Harrisonville Civic Association; he served for several years as a member of the Board of Directors of the Kansas City Area Council of Boy Scouts of America, and was an honorary member of the Tribe of Mic-O-Say. Kathryn Acuff was a member of the First Baptist Church, a charter member of the Harrisonville Lioness Club and the Young Matrons Club. She died March 25, 1963, exactly fifty years after her mother's death.

Howard Franklin Acuff was married March 11, 1954, to Ida Belle (Millington) Walker (April 1, 1913). They now reside at 1505 Ann in Harrisonville. He is employed at Baptist Memorial Hospital and she with the Bendix Corporation, Kansas City, Missouri. They have been active members of the Baptist Church for many years.

Nancy Helen Acuff married on June 6, 1948, George Taylor Lawson, Jr. (March 12, 1925). She was graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree from Central Missouri State University in 1946. She is a member of Delta Zeta sorority and Delvers, Missouri Federated Women's Club. She served as secretary of the United Funds for three years. She also held offices in the American Legion Auxiliary, the VFW Auxiliary, the Harrisonville Music Club, Band-Aides Club, and was a charter member of the Harrisonville Pre-School Association. They are members of the First Christian Church and both have held offices through the years. She is currently employed by the City of Harrisonville and he is with Larry Bridges Chevrolet — Oldsmobile Company. They reside at 707 South Independence, the home built by her father in 1948. The children born to this union are:

She attended Central Missouri State University and is employed by the National Board for Respiratory Therapy in Westwood, Kansas. He is a graduate of Iowa Western Community College and is manager of Gibson's Discount Center in Harrisonville, where they live.

Richard Franklin Lawson (December 11, 1956) is currently employed by Hicks Brothers Chevrolet Company in Hickman Mills, and lives in the family home.

THOMAS WILLIAM ADAIR

Thomas William Adair was born in Kentucky on October 9, 1856, the son of James Milton and Mary Adair. He was graduated from the Kansas City College of Medicine, later became an Alumnus of Missouri University School of Medicine.

He came to Archie in 1885 and established his practice when Archie was only five years old. He, being a Registered Pharmacist, also owned and operated a Drug Store.

On January 18, 1891 he and Susan Dora Bullock, daughter of Harber N. Bullock, a native of Kentucky and Margaret Mason Hereford Bullock, who came from West Virginia, were married in her parent's home. To this union were born Harold Otto in Nov., 1892, who died in infancy, Mary Merle in Nov., 1896 and Robert Bullock in April, 1904, who died in Wichita, Kansas in 1958.

Dr. and Mrs. Adair, called "Doc and Dorie" by many, made their home in Archie for over fifty-two years where both took an active part in all the affairs of the community. They were diligent workers in the Democrat party and many a Caucus was held in the little Drug Store. Mrs. Adair was delegate to the National Democratic Convention in Philadelphia in 1936.

Dr. Adair, a member of the Archie School Board for many years, worked hard to give that community an efficient school system and was successful in getting a Consolidated District.

In spite of bad weather, muddy and water covered roads by Grand River he always made it to the bed-side of a sick patient. "Mac and Fan" powered the buggy he drove and often he had to ride one of them horseback when the buggy couldn't make it. When he graduated to a Model T, many times he had to leave the car and walk, but he made it. Many a patient was operated on, on the kitchen table by lamplight and most of the hundreds of babies were delivered in their homes.

Doc and Dorie Adair.

He was the first Doctor in Cass County to administer Diptheria anti-toxin and saved the life of twin girls. He took many Post-Graduate Courses in Chicago, St. Louis and at Mayo Clinic and kept himself informed in all phases of medicine. During the Flu epidemic, he made rounds night and day. He would send messengers into Archie to Mrs. Adair, who was a registered pharmacist and operated the Drug Store, and she would put up fresh supplies of medicine to send him. He grieved that he lost two patients of the hundreds he cared for during that epidemic.

In 1941 he sold the Drug Store and gave up active practice but many people came to his home for him to prescribe for them and relatives would come for him to take him to see sick patients who thought only "Doc" Adair could cure them.

After being in bed only two weeks, he died on March 5, 1943 and soon Mrs. Adair came to Harrisonville to live with her daughter, Merle and husband, Allen B. Glenn, an Attorney in law and a native Cass Countian. Allen B. Glenn died on Nov. 28, 1947.

Though Mrs. Adair became an invalid she never lost interest in her church, Democrat Politics and kept the radio tuned to all the Base Ball, Fast Ball and Basketball games. She died in the home of her daughter in Harrisonville on April 12, 1955.

Thus ends the story of "Doc" and "Dorie" Adair.

The Adams Family in 1893: Pearlie, Amanda, John, Grover and Ida Gertrude.

WILLIAM ADAMS

William Adams, only son of John and Margaret Durr Adams, was born in Mercer County, Kentucky, January 4, 1817. He was married to Catherine Jane Black in Sept. 1840, also a native of Kentucky. Their daughter Margaret C. was born in Kentucky. They left Kentucky in 1841 where their first son John Henry was born in Greene County, Illinois on December 25, 1841.

The family arrived in Cass County, Missouri in July 1842, where they purchased land two and one-half miles south of Gunn City, Mo. This home became the birth place of the following children: Anna Arminta White, Laura B. Morrow, Ellen A. Sallee, William T., James Albert, Sarah V. Withers, Mary Alice Hoover and Robert Lee Adams.

At one time Mr. and Mrs. Adams owned 233 acres, one 40 acre tract being acquired by riding horseback to the patent office in Lexington, Mo. The original house was burned during Order No. 11 and Mr. Adams took his family east to near the present Bear Creek Baptist Church, where they remained until the end of the Civil War. The son John Henry served during the war in his father's place, as could be done by conscription.

The house near Bear Creek was moved to the old homesite where it still stands as a home with many additions and improvements. The large red barn is 100 years old this Bicentennial year, built by a son James A. Adams, a carpenter, who was also a Justice of the Peace in Gunn City and Index Township.

Mrs. Adams died in 1866 and Mr. Adams died in July, 1888. They were members of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. Both were laid to rest in the Index Cemetery.

The eldest son, John Henry, and wife, Amanda Gloyd, were married in 1868 and after the death of his father purchased the farm from the heirs and moved his family there in 1891. They were the parents of six children: Charles E., William Logan, Pearlie Jane, James Albert, Ida Gertrude and Grover Cleveland Adams. Mr. J. H. Adams died in 1918, Mrs. Adams in 1920. Both are buried in Index Cemetery.

In 1924 John Henry's youngest son, Grover C., and wife, Lena Davis Adams, bought the farm and continued farming until his death Dec. 21, 1974, at the age of 85. He was a member of the Gunn City United Methodist Church. He is buried in the Orient Cemetery, Harrisonville, Mo.

In April 1975, Lena sold the farm and in January 1976, Ida Gertrude sold her 42 acres, this being the last of the original 233 acres bought by Mr. and Mrs. William Adams in 1842.

Thus, the three generations of the Adams family of men lived on this land a total of 182 years and the women 107 years.

ALDERSON FAMILY

The Alderson family migrated from England to Virginia early in the 1600's. John Alderson, whose son, John, was married July 4, 1729 to Jane Starke, daughter of James and Eleanor (Todd) Starke. John Alderson lived in North Farham, Richmond County, Virginia and died in 1785.

His son, James (May 18, 1730-June 8, 1782) married Sarah Ann Walker. They had seven children and seventeen slaves. Two sons served in the Revolutionary War. Their son, William, (11/17/1769-1830) married Mary Orr from South Carolina. They moved to Tennessee and later to Kentucky. In Kentucky, they owned a large plantation and a number of slaves. There was a large cave on the place that had a cold stream of water flowing from great crevices, where the slaves rinsed the laundry. This cave also had stalactites hanging from the cave ceiling.

William's son, William "Buck" Alderson (Dec. 19, 1795-April 10, 1861) married Margaret Boren in Summer County, Tenn., and settled in Simpson Co., Kentucky. They came to Missouri in 1856, after suffering financial losses. Mr. Alderson had been an extensive trader in livestock and supplier for Southern plantations. They had nine children: John, Nancy P., James C., Ersin, Benedict, David, P. H., Jane and Vincent.

James C. Alderson (Jan. 5, 1818-1856) married Lucinda Bush (Feb. 5, 1816-Oct. 5, 1887) in Kentucky and came to Independence, Mo. in 1840 to her sister's home, Mrs. Ailsa Rider. They farmed in Independence a few years and their son, Vincent, was born in 1841. They moved to Cass County in the High Blue district and also acquired land in the Swampy School District. During their stay in High Blue, they were partners in a general store with a Mr. Young and joined the High Blue Cumberland Presbyterian Church. In 1849, they moved into a mammoth loghouse in the back of which was a kitchen and dining room thirty feet long. Mrs. Alderson was known as Aunt Cindy in the entire community. She had a smoke house and the family killed from 15 to 25 hogs every winter. Aunt Cindy stayed in her home during Order No. 11. The house was in the center of a half section of land. It was ¾ mile back from one side of the section and the river had to be crossed from the other side. No one mentioned her during that time because she was loved by everyone in the community. She always gave a helping hand to everyone who needed shelter or food, including slaves, wounded, deserters or neighbors. So the house was never touched. When her husband, James C., died in 1856, Aunt Cindy gave an acre of land on her farm for a graveyard and over fifty graves contain the remains of Aldersons, Borens and Sears. Most of the graves have stones still in good condition. They (Lucinda and James) had six children: James, Margaret, William, Willis, Missouri (died in infancy) Vincent (1841-1879).

Vincent was the eldest son and was educated at William Jewell College in Liberty, Mo. He was a Confederate soldier in the Civil War and was wounded. He was married Apr. 17, 1866 to Gale Collins Judd, a Civil War widow, who had a daughter, Emma. Vincent and Gale had five boys; Edgar, James, William, Vincent and Ernest. William was born in Belton on March 14, 1874 at 202 Second Street and died Dec. 14, 1941. He married Martha Ross (1879-1925) on Oct. 27, 1897. They had four daughters: Marie (Mrs. William H. Groh), who died Jan. 2, 1952; Pauline (Mrs. Frank Mosby), Berniece (Mrs. B. Weadock) and Kathryn June (Mrs. Vincent R. Powell). Kathryn and Pauline both reside in Belton. Mrs. Powell has two sons, Robert (who is married and resides in Morristown, New Jersey) and Don (who is attending Washington Univ., St. Louis.) Mrs. Mosby has a son, William J. (who is in the real estate and insurance business in Belton) and two daughters, Frances and Helen (Mrs. Wm. M. Graham). Both live in North Kansas City. William J. is married to Joann Savage and they have two sons, David, who is a lieutenant in the Air Force and Douglas, who is a security guard in Kansas City.

Five generations of this family have been born in Missouri: Vincent in Independence, William Alderson, Pauline A. Mosby, William "Bill" and David Mosby in Belton.

JOHN P. AMENT

John P. Ament was born in 1806 in Green County, Kentucky. He and his wife, Mary, came to Van Buren, now Cass County, Missouri, in 1842. They made their home in Harrisonville for about ten years, where they lived in a small frame building at the northeast corner of the square. John P. worked at his trade making furniture and coffins.

In the early 1850's, John P. and Mary, his wife, purchased a tract of land from the government located southwest of Harrisonville. The old Brick Yard and the Anaconda Wire and Cable Company are on a part of this land. Here they built a log cabin northwest of the Bell Plain school building. To this union were born nine children.

They farmed their land until the Civil War in 1861. After Order #11, they moved to Illinois for a short time. When they returned to Missouri, they had to rebuild and restock due to war damages, but soon resumed farming operations. After the death of John P. and Mary, the farm was sold to a Mr. Will Ryan and the money divided among the seven living children. They invested their money in various enterprises.

Members of the Ament family who have been life long residents of Cass County are the following: Melvina, who married E. T. Payne, E. P. (Bud), who married Eliza Shingleton and Thomas Metcalf, who married Louisa F. Nave. Soon after their marriage, these other children removed from Cass County: Laura, who married the Rev. ED M. ANDREWS

Frances Cooke, a woolcomber from Blyth, England, and one of the original congregation at Scrooby, came to the new world aboard the "Mayflower" in 1620. Mrs. Dwight (Wanda) Roth and Mrs. Theron (Nina) Swigart are the daughters of E. M. and Thelma Pauline Cook Andrews and are direct descendants of Frances Cooke.

Cooke and his wife, who came to this country in 1623 aboard the "Ann", built their first home with those of the other elders of the colony of Plymouth, Massachusetts.

Ed and Thelma Andrews moved to their first home in Cass County in 1941, on a place near Jaudon on Holmes Road south of Belton. They later moved northeast of Harrisonville on the farm that is presently occupied by the Twin Pines Country Club. In 1946 they moved to their farm three miles north of Harrisonville. Wanda and Nina, then ages four and three, were soon to attend school at Walnut Grove School District #66, just a few yards south of their home. They attended the Wal-Center 4-H Club and became members of the Harrisonville United Methodist Church.

In 1952 Thelma Cook Andrews passed away and the girls were kept by their great aunt, Mrs. Nina Keltner, who operated a turkey farm on the southeast edge of Harrisonville. Mr. Andrews continued to operate his dairy farm there until 1955, when he sold half of his farm to the City of Harrisonville for a lake. He then moved to Atchison County, Kansas, near Cummings. Wanda and Nina attended high school at Effingham, Kansas, but returned to live with Mrs. Keltner as soon as each had graduated from high school.

Wanda and Nina, 3 and 11, with mother and aunt Nina Keltner.

On July 8, 1962, Wanda married Dwight Allan Roth, son of Harold and Mildred Roth, who lived on a farm eight miles east of Harrisonville. They purchased the Dave and Mary Hershberger farm on Highway #2 one-half mile east of K Highway. They farmed in partnership with Harold and Mildred and in 1970 they joined in a family farm corporation called Roth Hereford Farms of Missouri, Inc. This was a second generation partnership, for Harold had farmed in partnership with his father, Frank, until Frank's retirement in 1957. JOHN M. APP

APP — The family of this name has almost disappeared from southern Cass County by now (1975) but from 1874 to 1925 it was prominent in farming and business. The family started just as the Civil War was ending when John M. and Harriet S. App arrived from Selingsgrove, Pennsylvania in a covered wagon. They were part of well established families of farmers and bankers and she was a granddaughter of a governor of Pennsylvania.

With one child born on the trip, which took more than one year, the family grew to 6 children. Ellen married and moved to Montana. Harry moved to California. George S., Katinka (Kitty), and Emily did not marry and spent their entire lives on or near the family farm. John O. did marry and never lived farther away than Adrian. Kitty and Emily continued to maintain a well organized home, as did their mother. They were quite good at painting in water colors and taught others. They carried on correspondence with leaders of Woman's Suffrage organizations and the W.T.C.U.

George App continued to operate the family farm, which was about 3 miles East of Archie. He is better remembered for his many, many acres of Grand River bottom land in both Cass and Bates Counties, which reached at one time or another from almost Archie to almost even with Dayton. He had threshing rigs, sawmills, a steam tractor that was too big for any farm at that time, he raised shetland ponies and had many other odd interests. He was even accused of stealing 20 miles of railroad. He would build a four room house of hard wood lumber from his sawmill for almost any one who wanted to farm on shares and usually neither of them made any profit. All this made him one of the four or five strongest supporters of the idea to dig the Grand River drainage ditch. While owners of upland received some damages for crossing their land, he was assessed only benefits. These benefits and falling farm prices after 1920 left him almost bankrupt and living in one of his own 4 room houses from which he moved to Montana and died at an old age in the 1940's.

John O. App was almost a complete opposite to his brother. He farmed several years and then took over the management of the Austin Inland Telephone Co., which the two had started in Austin with 7 patrons. It grew to have exchanges at Archie, Adrian, Belton, Creighton, Ballard, Merwin and other towns in Cass and Bates Counties. He was a staunch Republican and Methodist. (The parents were Charter members of the Methodist Church at Austin). He was a delegate to the convention that nominated Warren G. Harding. His wife was Maria Roberts, whose father had a drug store in Austin. Their descendants still living in Cass County (1976) are: Mable Morriss, Marjorie and Wendell Patterson, Harriet, Urson C. Jr. and Jason Logue, Linda, Ann and Lee Zellmer and Helen (Becker) Henderson, of Belton. Most of the family are buried in Austin Cemetery.

JOHN FRANKLIN ATKINSON

Frank Atkinson was born June 1, 1855 on a farm southwest of Harrisonville which had been homesteaded by his grandfather Elijah Bailey Atkinson in 1834. He was one of seven children: William Ezra, Dora Elizabeth (Barnard), Permelia Catherine (Minnie Clatworthy), Elijah Bailey, Sarah Ann (Richardson) and Milo J. Frank spent his life in Cass County.

He received his education in the local schools, and attended Ottawa University, Ottawa, Kansas. In 1888, when he was 22, Frank Atkinson started a business career that extended over a period of 58 years. He started in Freeman where he had a general merchandise store until 1903. After four years with the Union Pacific Railroad, he resigned to accept management of the Cass County Telephone Company where he remained until June 1, 1916. During this time, he became owner of the Globe Trading Company of Harrisonville. This firm passed out of existence Feb. 1, 1916 and was supplanted by the A.-C. Mercantile Company of which Mr. Atkinson was president. His first partner was Mr. George Cable. Later his sister Minnie Atkinson Clatworthy entered the firm. Mr. Atkinson retained management of the firm until his retirement, May, 1, 1946, at which time his daughter Eldine and her husband James E. Weaver assumed management. The store was founded upon the principles of fair trade and honesty with the slogan "The One Price Daylight Saving Store." The "Daylight Saving" referred to the large skylight which enabled the lady shoppers to accurately assess the quality of dye in the fabrics, which in those days was unstable in some materials Mr. Atkinson offered for sale only high quality merchandise and became a successful merchant. The store remained in operation in its original site on the west side of the Harrisonville square from 1916 until Eldine Atkinson Weaver retired in May 1969.

Mr. Atkinson's astuteness in business coupled with a mechanical ability make him a natural leader in civic affairs in Harrisonville. He was for many years president of the Board of Public Works and was instrumental in seeing his home town acquire a municipal water and light system in 1929. His interest in that project continued long after his work with the board was completed. He and Cleo Brown collaborated in inventing and patenting a multiple cone water aereator which was marketed internationally. One of the aereators is still in use in the purification process of the local water plant. Frank Atkinson also supervised the construction of the school auditorium in Harrisonville.

On November 6, 1888, John Franklin Atkinson and Martha Jane Richardson were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in Freeman, Missouri. She was the daughter of Benjamin and Katherine Richardson. Her father had come to Missouri from the Hudson River Valley in New York state. She had one brother Charles Wesley Richardson.

Martha Jane and Frank, having had no children, took into their home and later adopted their little great niece, Eldine Barnard, daughter of their nephew Lloyd Eldon Barnard. The child's mother was a victim of the World War I influenza epidemic and died January 1919 in Kansas City, Kansas when Eldine was two years old. Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson loved and cherished their little daughter as their own, and she remains still living in the home which Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson built in 1918, having been married there and rearing her four children in this home.

July 8, 1967. He is a staff engineer with the Bendix Corp. When they met Meg was living in San Francisco and Dick courted her by private airplane, flying his Cessna to San Francisco for weekends. After marriage they lived a while in Arleta, Calif. but did not want to rear their children in the Los Angeles area so Dick requested a transfer and received the best offer from Kansas City, Mo., where they arrived May 30, 1967 and began looking for a farm. Neither had ever lived on a farm but it had been Dick's childhood dream. They found their present "Balpointe Farm" which had been owned by Vincent and Alma Haug for 25 years and on which the house had been built shortly after the Civil War. Patt Devlin of Kansas City named the farm "Ball Point" because it is reportedly the highest point in Cass Co., and the name caught on so was kept with spelling modified. The Balpointe brand is a capital B inside a curved triangle. In the summer of 1976 the Balls began restoration of the farmhouse to its original appearance, planning also an addition to the rear for extra space.

Dick was born Richard Edward Serkowski. His father later changed his own mame to Ted S. Brandon and lives in Oceanside, Calif. Dick adopted the surname of his stepfather in early childhood. His mother, Florence L. Ball, retired to Harrisonville Oct. 1975 but returned to Chicago the following year. She was born Florence Lorraine Wojtas and reared in Hegwisch, a Polish community of Chicago, where she met and married Dick's father. She passed on the many Polish traditions and customs, especially of Christmas, that the Ball family maintained. Dick was educated at Lake Forrest Academy, just north of Chicago, and the University of Southern California. Meg had attended 22 schools by the time she graduated from high school, studied Theatre Arts at the University of California, Santa Barbara, and had traveled extensively in Europe and the Middle East. Her father, Paul M. Johnson, is a construction engineer, which necessitated much moving around, and her mother, Helen Smith Johnson, had pursued a career in the theatre before her marriage. Paul Johnson is the youngest of 6 children, the 4 eldest born in Sweden. He has recently retired as Vice President and General Manager of Charles Luckman Associates, a planning-architecture-engineering firm in Los Angeles, and serves as a construction management consultant. Helen Johnson, an enthusiastic collector of antiques, especially dolls, pursues her hobby by exhibiting at various antique shows near their home in Playa del Rey, Calif. The youngsters attended the Funk country school located near the Barron farm.

W. H. Barron (Grandpa Barron), stricken with pneumonia in the late 1800s, was the first patient o' Dr. S. W. Fair who cared for four generations of Barrons.

After the children established their homes, the parents sold the farm and moved to Raymore where Grandpa Barron was Justice of the Peace.

As a young man, Newell Barron operated a hardware store in Raymore. He married Marcia Conant Johnston on August 15, 1899. He was a member of the 1902 Raymore Band, an Odd Fellow and a member of the Modern Woodman Lodge. In March of 1911, the Newell Barrons purchased the farm formerly owned by his parents.

ISAAC BEAMER

The recorded history of the Beamer family dates back to the early 1800's. Isaac Beamer, who was born in 1804 in Hillville, Virginia, Carrol County, is the earliest member mentioned in family records.

Although it is not known when the marriage took place, records indicate that Isaac Beamer was married to Miss Frances Combs, who was born in 1808. The marriage is credited with producing two children, Luke, whose birthdate is unknown and Mark, who was born October 4, 1883.

It is recorded that Luke was married, but the name of his spouse is not included in the family tree. It is stated, however, that the couple had one child, Helen, and it is believed that there was another child in the family.

No dates of death are recorded for either Isaac Beamer or Frances Combs Beamer. John W. Adams, who was born in 1799, a native of Virginia had settled in Henry County, Missouri around 1844.

Adams and his wife, the former Mary Katherine Cartwright, had eight children, six of whom died from childhood typhoid fever in and around 1846. The children are buried in Johntown, Missouri with no grave marking. John W. Adams and wife were buried on the family homestead. The 200 acres was entered with a grant for 12 cents an acre in the Clear Fork area, Cass County, Missouri.

The Adams' youngest daughter, Telitha Angeline, born January 5, 1844 survived, however, and on September 26, 1860, she and Mark Beamer were married. An account by. T. H. Weller, leader of a 15-member expedition traveling through Cass County in 1854 reads, "We found no better grass growing anywhere for our cattle, than on the lands belonging to Oesh, King, Schrock and the Mark Beamer farms.

Attesting to her great love for the Beamer homestead, it is reported that, in 1878, after their home was burned, Mrs. Beamer saw to it that it was rebuilt at once.

Between the years of 1863-1888, the Beamers union was blessed with eleven children. The names of the children appear in the Beamer family tree. The family remained an unbroken and happy one until the death of Jasper in 1908.

Mark Beamer, Sr. passed away May 7, 1909 and Mrs. Beamer moved to Garden City, Missouri in 1915 where she lived until her own death.

The Mark Beamer Family in 1898.

An obituary recalled that "no man in the county had more friends than Mark Beamer. He was perhaps better known for his genuine hospitality than for any other characteristic which he possessed." Often referred to as "Uncle" Mark, Beamer was considered one of the most highly respected citizens of the Garden City area at the time of his death.

Outliving her husband by over 20 years, Telitha Adams Beamer died August 22, 1929 in Garden City. In her later years, Mrs. Beamer fought nobly against an illness that would eventually make her an invalid.

Of the eleven Beamer children, family records speak most of John, the next to the oldest child, born May 26, 1866. Born and raised on the Beamer family homestead near Garden City, John Beamer continued the family legacy of farming and stock raising in Cass, Lafayette and Saline counties. He retired from active farming 1940. His wife, Jeannette Ann, died in 1949, and after that time, he made his home with his son, Lyle, in Clay County.

QUINCY FRANKLIN BECKERDITE

Quincy Franklin Beckerdite, born September 19, 1863, near Randleman, North Carolina, son of Percy Franklin Beckerdite and Nancy Harriet (Adams) Beckerdite. Quincy Franklin's father died when he was seven months old so he was raised by his maternal grandparents, John and Isabelle Adams. After Quincy Franklin was married, his mother Nancy Harriet Adams Beckerdite always lived with him.

Luella (Frazier) Beckerdite's father died of typhoid fever when she was a teenage girl and as she was the oldest of a large family she went to work in the cotton mills at Randleman, walking to and from work, and helped support her younger brothers and sisters.

On March 2, 1910, Quincy Franklin, then residing at Pleasant Garden, North Carolina, just six miles from where he had always lived, leaving his eldest daughter, Bertha Bell, in North Carolina, who just three months earlier was married, journeyed by train in a charter car to Wellsville, Kansas, where an old childhood friend then lived. He rented a farm one mile west of Wellsville and with his wife and seven children began a new life in what was then considered the far west — a land with dust storms and cyclones which failed to materialize very often. In 1917 with his then nearly grown family he moved from Wellsville, Kansas to six miles northeast of Harrisonville on a large dairy farm owned by two Kansas City businessmen. He was always a farmer and dairyman in North Carolina, Kansas and Missouri. A tornado in September 1917 badly damaged every building on this farm. In February 1920 he bought a farm southeast of Freeman. He later moved near Harrisonville where his wife died on January 12, 1937. And that one frosty day in 1849 J. M. LESTER LEETON BELL

One stormy April day in 1890, a new Iowan was born. On April 13, 1890 to be exact. The new Iowan's name was Lester Leeton Bell. After a few years, he moved to Cass County. He did this because he was only 7 years old and he wanted to be with his family. His parents, Sarah and James Bell moved to a farm south of Lone Jack. (The location is now the Gipson Quarries.) Lester attended Rock Hill Rural School and Pleasant Hill High School. After high school he moved to Kansas City and opened a restaurant. In 1912, a beautiful Indian maiden from Oklahoma came to work for him and on Christmas Day of 1912, they were married. They moved to Pleasant Hill where he went into the used furniture business. During all this, three children were born to Lester and Georgia. Hazel was the oldest, Lois came later and James Howard was the caboose. During the early 1930's the Bell's lived at Coleman, Mo. and operated the Coleman Store, while still operating a furniture store in Pleasant Hill. When James Howard got old enough to start to school, they moved to Pleasant Hill. During the thirties and forties, Lester was a merchant, was elected mayor of Pleasant Hill and became well-known as the best Santa Claus in the territory. He even owned his own red suit. From time to time Esma Hodges of Pleasant Hill joined his act, playing the part of Mrs. Claus. Untold thousands of persons were allowed a little extra joy for having known Lester Bell. He left Cass County during the sixties to retire in Los Angeles, California. He passed away in February 1974 at the age of 83. Lester Bell was at one time or another, mailcarrier, McNess Medicine man, furniture salesman, Mayor of Pleasant Hill, many times the main attraction at street fair tacky parades, Metropolitan Insurance Co. agent, real estate agent, school teacher and many other positions. However, to the "Bell Kids" he will always be Santa Claus. Cass County is better off for having had Lester Bell as a part of it.

The Bell Family about 1936.

WILLIAM VINCENT BLAYNEY I

William Vincent Blayney I, was born November 15, 1855 at Taylorstown, Washington County, Pennsylvania, the son of Vincent Miller and Mary (Donahey) Blayney. His grandfathers, Charles Blayney and Samuel Blayney, both immigrated to Pennsylvania from Ireland in 1795. The children of Vincent Miller and Mary (Donahey) Blayney were: Anna Jane (Blayney) Eagleson; Charles P. Blayney; Samuel Donahey Blayney; William Vincent Blayney and Joseph Clarence Blayney.

William Vincent received his education in the local school. He remained at home helping his father with the farm. In February 1880, he came to Missouri to live on a farm, near Grant, Missouri which his parents had recently purchased from Captain Stahl. His brother, Charles P. Blayney, met him at Holden, Missouri. The snow was crusted so deep that they could not find the road, so they just drove across fields and fences.

William Vincent Blayney and Mary Elizabeth Sliffe were married at the home of her parents on December 23, 1884. Mary Elizabeth (Sliffe) Blayney was the oldest daughter of Benjamin and Druscilla (Maxwell) Sliffe. She was born November 4, 1861 in Tuscaroras County, Ohio. Her grandfather was one of the early pioneers of Ohio, coming in 1803. Mary's great-grandfather, Jacob Sliffe, immigrated to America from Germany when 17 years old. He served under George Washington and fought at Valley Forge.

Mary (Sliffe) Blayney came with her parents to a farm near Austin, Cass County, Missouri in 1880.

William V. and Mary (Sliffe) Blayney were the parents of three children: Homer Uel, February 15, 1886; Grace Carsona, May 31, 1888 and William Earl, born July 16, 1897. All born near Creighton.

In 1889, William and Mary built a two story house. The framework was all full-cut yellow pine, well braced. The living room and hall had trim of butternut wood, carved, as was the fashion. The walls were plastered and are still in good condition. The ceilings are ten feet high. David Erwin was head carpenter. In 1912, a large, well-constructed barn was built by J. M. Smothers with 3 helpers.

Beside farming, Mr. Blayney taught vocal music, beginning in the winter of 1881. He taught singing schools in many communities in the Bates and Henry Counties. From 12 to 30 young people would assemble at a school house (usually) every night for three weeks. The fee was one dollar per pupil. A contract between William Blayney and young people of Hickory Grove, Henry County, is in existence.

William directed the choir of the Grant and later the Creighton Presbyterian Church for many years and encouraged a love for good music in many young people. He died November 4, 1922 at his home and is buried in Grant Cemetery.

Mary continued to live at the family home, a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church and the Olive Branch Missionary Society. She died April 23, 1950 at her home and is buried in Grant Cemetery. She was loved and respected by all who knew her.

Grace C. Blayney preceded her parents in death, March 24, 1920 and is buried at Grant Cemetery. She attended Dover Rural School north of Creighton and one mile from the town of Grant. The first Dover school house which according to old settlers, was a log building at the northeast corner of the Blayney farm. The school which Grace and her brothers attended was ¾ mile farther east. In 1904 that building was moved ½ mile north and ¼ mile west to a new site. One year later a brick building was erected and was used until about 1950.

She was a member of the Creighton Presbyterian Church and of the Olive Branch Missionary Society, serving as secretary.

When bad road conditions kept the family from driving the distance to Creighton, the Blayneys walked across the fields to the Methodist Church at Grant where Grace was with young people her age and Mary often taught a class of boys.

Homer Uel Blayney oldest child of William and Mary was a farmer all his life. When a young man he worked away from home near Garden City, Missouri then went to Pueblo and Leadville, Colorado.

On February 26, 1915 Homer was married to Mabel Grace Stevens, daughter of Williams A. and Emma (Sliffe) Stevens. They farmed near her parents near Garden City for a few years, then went to Rupert, Idaho where they raised their family of four children. He was successful in farming, having to learn new methods of agriculture. They were members of the Grange and of the Methodist Church where Mabel taught a Sunday School class until 3 months before her death.

WILLIAM JAMES BOALS

In 1868 William James Boals, 25 years old, came to Cass County from the State of Michigan. He purchased land north of Garden City. His parents and an older brother and sister, both single, came to join him.

William was born in New York state, but left there with his parents, who had come from Ireland, when he was two years old.

Another sister, Rosa, and her husband, John Anderson, soon joined the family in Missouri and bought the land on which the main part of Garden City stands.

William and his brother, John Boals, improved the land which they owned with new buildings. They built a new house, as the old one burned their first year in Missouri.

Mrs. William Boals (Lucy Stair) came to Missouri at age six in 1866 from Wisconsin. Her folks settled on a farm near the old Union Hall rural school. She taught school before her marriage.

One of their sons, John, was an honor student at Warrensburg State Normal in 1912-14. Two of their daughters, Pet Mae and Zara, finished C.M.S.T.C. at Warrensburg and taught school for many years. The oldest daughter, Agnes, stayed at home and helped with the enormous farm chores.

In 1914 William Jr. and John both passed away at 21 years and 19 years of age. So Frank, the youngest son, a lad of 14 years, and his 72 year old father were left to operate the farm. Mr. Boals hauled his surplus wheat to Pleasant Hill, a distance of 25 miles each way, in a wagon drawn by a team of horses. Several years later the wheat was harvested by a binder drawn by horses, which were driven by Zara while Dad and Frank shocked the wheat or oats.

Three events during the year were important: the "Bean Eat" at Austin, the county fair at Harrisonville and the street fair at Garden City. The family would get up at 4:00 A.M., do the chores, then ride to the affairs in their surrey, pulled by a gay pair of driving horses. Sure enjoyed the cotton candy. Threshing days were big also, sometimes lasting five days with much food to prepare.

Those early days were full of work with enjoyment and time to visit, truly one had a full happy family life, which is something to treasure in spite of sorrow along with happiness.

Grandpa Boals was the third person buried in Clearford Cemetery back in 1869.

Because of the tense political situtation, Lometa was not allowed to accompany him. He was stationed in Hong Kong, and was there when the city fell to the Japanese on Christmas Day, 1941. He remained a prisoner of the Japanese until August, 1942, and then returned to the U.S. on the M.S. Gripsholm in a prisoner exchange.

He returned to Asia after the war as sales manager and eventually Managing Director of the General Motors operation in several countries. At his retirement he was manager of the General Motors operation in Mexico. Since his retirement in 1961 he and his wife have maintained homes in Hot Springs, Arkansas, and Boca Raton, Florida, and now live in San Diego, California.

WILLIAM ASBURY BRANNOCK

William Asbury Brannock was born 1821, Paris, Ky. and moved to Cass Co., Mo. 1854, where he bought several hundred acres at $1.25 an acre. During his lifetime he had many vocations, stone mason, farmer, trotting horse breeder and liquor dealer. By his first wife he had one son, Walker Brannock. His wife died and he married second Elizabeth Kiser of Ky. where she stayed with his small son during the Civil War. During the war William kept Union soldiers overnight, supplying them with food, water and bedding. They did not loot or burn his property but went up the road to the Judy farm and burned it to the ground after looting it. After the war Elizabeth came to Cass Co., bringing with her two young negro girls, Mary and Tiz, who had been slaves of her father but who from then on received wages. In 1869 William built a comfortable home 5 miles W. of Pleasant Hill, Mo. In the same year their son Eddie Lee was born. William's interest in the betterment of the community was shown by his giving land for a public road, now highway 291. At his death he still owned 160 of his original acres. He died 1903 and was buried on Christmas Day in Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

Eddie Lee Brannock married Emma Mills. Emma died 1933, Kansas City, Mo., and Eddie Lee died 1948 at his daughter Virginia's in Calif. Both are buried in Mount Moriah Cemetery, Kansas City. At Eddie Lee's death the land was divided between his 4 children. His son Lee received the plot with the house where he lived until Feb. 1954, when the 85 year old house burned leaving only the chimneys standing. At that time the land had been in the family over 100 years. The 4 children of Eddie Lee and Emma Brannock were: (1) Mildred Frances (Brannock) Floerke born 1894, of Overland Park, Kans. She had one child, Joe Eddie Floerke, of Overland Park, Kans., who had 2 children, Linda Sue (Floerke) Camp of Belton, Mo. who has 2 daughters, Kimberly Allison and Kendra Lynne Camp, and Joe Eddie Floerke II. (2) Virginia "Teddy" (Brannock) Marchel born 1897, of Overland Park, Kans., had no children. (3) Lee Dunlap Brannock born 1901, of Albuquerque, New Mex., had 5 children: Hugh Douglas Brannock of Pleasant Hill, Mo. who has 2 daughters, Barbara Lee (Brannock) Brown who has children Joseph Douglas and Christy Lee Brown, and Joyce Ann (Brannock) Stogdell who has daughter Lisa Ann Stodgell; Lee Dunlap Brannock Jr. of Kansas City, Mo. who had 3 daughters, Sheri, deceased, Paula Jane and Rhonda Hope; Robert Ewing Brannock of Calif. who has 2 sons, Robert Lane who has daughter Lisa Ann, and Jesse Parker; William Parker Brannock of Calif. who has children Jessica Ann and William Lee; Merle Jean (Brannock) Flannery of Pleasant Hill, Mo. who has children Dara Lynn (Flannery) Swadley, Rex Lane and Randy Ray Flannery. (4) William Ewing Brannock of Camarillo, Calif., born 1903, had 3 children, Lorna Maurine, deceased, Elinor Lee (Brannock) Gunther of Calif. who has 3 daughters and a son of whom are Stefani (Gunther) Knoeller with children Adam, Jason and Cory Knoeller and Teresa (Gunther) Reimiller with children Amie and Hans Reimiller, and Wilma Louise (Brannock) Peet of Calif. who has 4 sons, Ronald, Kevin, Lindsay and Dennis Peet.

JOSHUA JAMES GIVEN BRATTEN

After serving three years in the Civil War (Company F, Indiana Cavalry), and with some skirmishes in the western part of Missouri, Joshua James Given Bratten had seen enough of the west to whet his desires for the future. So it was, in 1869, with his bride, Theodoshia Orenda (Gookins), and with Cass County as their destination, they left Ripley County, Indiana, traveling in a covered wagon to Harrisonville. The trip required four full weeks of constant plodding, averaging about twenty miles per day.

Working as a drayman, hauling freight by mule-drawn wagon, was his first occupation. The route was Westport to Harrisonville. A couple of years later, however, farming attracted them and a small acreage was obtained near the old Rocky Ford schoolhouse southeast of Peculiar. In 1880 land was purchased in the southeast corner of Raymore Township, near the Coleman community, where the home was established with a family of seven children: Irma (1870); Clifford (1872); Clarence (1875); Lillie (1878); Daisy (1880); Nellie (1886); and Lloyd (1893). The latter three children died in their younger years. Joshua and "Dolie" were involved in the affairs of the community and the Coleman Baptist Church. Josh was a deacon and "Dolie" was the first president of the newly established Women's Missionary Society.

Each of their four older children was married to a childhood sweetheart of the community: Irma to Ab Reeder; Clifford to Emma Shackelford; Clarence to Lilly Benton; and Lillie to George Painter. Josh and "Dolie" moved back to Harrisonville for their retirement in 1902, where they lived until her death in 1922. Josh then went back to the farm until his death in 1938.

Of the four married children only Clifford and Emma remained in the community to make their home and raise their family at the Bratten farm. Their children were: Della (1899); Margie (1906); and Clifford, Jr. (1909). Like their parents before them each married a childhood sweetheart and classmate from their Raymore High School days: Della to Lester Chaffin; Margie to Lyle Jeter; and Clifford, Jr. to Mary Louise Campbell. Also, like their parents before them, the children of Clifford and Emma started their elementary education at the Greenlee School. After college, Della was a high school math teacher for several years in the county, at Pleasant Hill for one year and at Peculiar for three years. Margie taught at the Coleman grade school. Mary Louise (Mrs. Clifford O., Jr.) taught at West Union for three years and at Peculiar grade school for two years. Clifford Jr. followed a business career in advertising and is now, after retirement, living at the farm. Clifford III, a fourth generation of the Bratten family, also lives at the farm while attending graduate school at UMKC.

Community, church and school activities were well served by this branch of the Bratten family. Clifford, Sr. was a deacon in the Coleman Baptist Church, for seventeen years served on the Raymore Township Board, served as a Justice of the Peace, was on the school board, and in his later years, after a long period of farming, was a director of the Cass County Mutual Insurance Co. After his death in 1957 Emma continued to live at the farm home alone until shortly before her death in 1974 at age ninety-nine. The family farm is still owned by their children, making it continuously in possession for just short of one hundred years by the direct descendants of Joshua and Theodoshia Bratten.

FORREST BREMER

Forrest T. Bremer was born in Derby, Iowa in 1897 to Mr. and Mrs. Newton M. Bremer. He was the seventh of a family of nine children, the second son.

He got his education in the Derby public school, coming to Peculiar, Cass County in 1912 with the family, his father having bought a farm south of Peculiar in 1911. The farm, 320 acres, was first entered in the name of Charles F. Payne in 1853. In 1890 it was sold to James H. and Margaret P. Welborn, later they sold to Thomas and Mary F. Coulter, Mr. Bremer purchasing it from Mr. Peter Samuelson. The family lived in Peculiar until Mr. Bremer could build the new home. As customary, the original house was near the center of the farm and was not adequate for the Bremer family. The new house was located near the road.

Forrest farmed with his father, which was mostly grain farming until 1922, when he was married to Miss Nannie Belle Fowler. Nannie Belle was born at Sweet Springs, Saline County, Missouri the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fowler. She got her education in a rural school in Lafayette County and Blue Springs High School. The family lived at Bates City, moving there in 1906 from North Dakota where Mr. Fowler had homesteaded. In 1919 they moved to Peculiar, having purchased a farm from Mr. Albert Phillips.

Forrest and Nannie Belle began their married life on the John Ecton farm North of Peculiar. In 1923 they moved to a farm South of Belton and in 1924 his father asked him to take over the home place which he did, farming most of the land for the next fifteen years, after which, he purchased the south 160 acres from his Mother, she being an invalid and his father having passed away in late 1939. His brother, John, had bought the north 160 acres in 1937, which is now known as "Home Place".

While cropping the land the grain produced was corn, barley and oats. They also produced milk from a herd of registered Jersey cows and raised purebred Corriedale sheep. This was Forrest and Nannie Belle's way of life until 1948, when they sold the Jersey cows and replaced them with purebred Polled Hereford cattle. They were also interested in soil and water conservation always striving to improve the soil with soil testing and adding lime and fertilizer as needed and farming on the contour. In the past ten years, because of age and health reasons the farming has been reduced to hay and a small herd of Polled Hereford cattle.

The Bremers have always enjoyed participating in community activities such as church work, Farm Bureau and Extension Service; but that, too, had to be given up. Both are suffering from arthritis; but are still doing what they can to keep the farm something to be proud of. Although not publicly known they call it the Forr-Bell Farm, the emblem four sheep bells.

NEWTON MERVIN BREMER

Newton Mervin Bremer came to Cass Co., Mo. in 1912. He was born Oct. 2, 1855, Jefferson Co., N.Y., son of Jacob and Abigail Bremer, a family of old American stock, dating back as residents of N.Y. State for a number of generations. This couple had 4 children: Ella, Ida, Nora, and Newton Mervin Bremer.

N. M. Bremer received most of his education in the public schools of Iowa, having moved there with his parents at an early age. When 22 he began a life for himself as a farmer and in 1887 he married Nancy Elizabeth Throckmorton of Derby, Ia. To them were born 9 children: Abbie who died in infancy; Mrs. John K. (Lois) McEowen, deceased; Mrs. Cress D. (Merva) Mosier of Beech, Ia.; Mrs. Clark (LaVede) McCall of Merced, Calif.; Mrs. Covert (Olive) Brown, deceased; Fred N. Bremer, deceased; Forrest T. Bremer of Peculiar, Mo.; Mrs. Kenneth (Jeanette) Money of Walnut Grove, Calif.; John J. Bremer of Peculiar, Mo.

When Mr. Bremer came to Cass Co. 1912 he established his home 1½ miles south of Peculiar. His mother and a maiden sister came with him. Mr. Bremer sold the farm to his sons Forrest and John in 1939, when he could no longer work it and his wife became an invalid. Forrest Bremer bought the south 160 acres and John Bremer the north 160 acres, the homeplace where he now lives. Later John sold 53 acres to the city of Peculiar for a lake site, furnishing water for the city and a park for the community. This left a few acres in the NE corner which were sold for home sites.

Newton Mervin Bremer died Oct. 2, 1939. His widow then lived with the Forrest Bremers until her death in Aug. 1946.

JEREMIAH BRICKER

Jeremiah Bricker, son of George and Elizabeth Hill Bricker, was born 18 Aug. 1829, Franklin Co., Pa., and died 23 July 1904. On 10 June 1850 he was married, by the Rev. Hartman, to Susannah Aughinbaugh, daughter of Phillip Aughinbaugh, born 23 Mch. 1823, Shippensburg, Pa., and died 19 Apr. 1913.

Jeremiah Bricker farmed and operated several threshing machines. On 20 June 1868 he bought 60 acres at $37.50 an acre and 31 Oct. 1868, 160 acres at $7.00 an acre, making 220 acres in Sec. 10, Peculiar Twp., Cass Co., Mo. ¼ mile south of

DR. H. A. BRIERLY

In 1845 Henry Ambrose Brierly, Sr. came from Tipperary County, Ireland to Missouri and was married to Miss Lucretia Perry Bridges in Syracuse in 1859. Later they moved to Strasburg where Henry Ambrose Brierly, Jr. was born on November 11, 1868.

His high school education was obtained while staying with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Haynes, Harrisonville. After graduation, he taught in Cass County Schools for two years.

Driven by a desire to help "heal the hurts of humanity", he enrolled in the University Medical College, Kansas City, Missouri and was graduated with high honors in 1895. He selected Peculiar as home-base for his medical practice.

On September 30, 1896 Dr. Brierly married his boyhood sweetheart, Miss Hattie Van Hook Warner of Strasburg. She was well-suited for the role of a country doctor's wife as she joined her husband in projects to enrich the religious, educational, cultural, and social life of the community. As vice-president of the Cass County Bank, superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School, and president of the Board of Education, Doctor kept his finger on the pulse of the community.

In 1910 their home was brightened by the birth of a daughter, Ailine. When she was eleven, her mother's death left her and her devoted Daddy to carry on with the help of friends and neighbors — but home was lonely.

This vacancy was filled in 1924 when Doctor married Miss Clara R. Porter whose family had moved from eastern Jackson County in 1905. She was close friend of the Brierly's and Ailine's first teacher. Mrs. Brierly ably filled her role as Doctor's wife and Ailine's mother. Though married, she is affectionately called "Miss Clara" by many, including Ailine, because of her nineteen years of teaching in the community.

After finishing high school in 1927, Ailine attended Cottey College for two years and then received her B.S. in Education from University of Missouri in 1931. She taught in two Kansas High Schools, Arcadia and Shawnee Mission.

For several years Doctor had been hospitalized for brief periods. After a month with his wife by his bedside in Wesley Hospital, his spirit slipped from his frail body on March 4, 1934. The entire area mourned the loss of a beloved friend and counselor.

Mrs. Brierly returned to her church work with youth, teaching and leading them in fund-raising projects to pay expenses to the annual Youth Assembly at Central Methodist College, Fayette. She taught and served as Dean of Women during these conferences.

On June 25, 1937 while "Miss Clara" was attending a conference at Central College, Ailine was married to Frank J. Thomas in the campus chapel. After nine and a half years of happy married life in Pittsburg, Kansas. Ailine's husband suffered a fatal heart attack on December 15, 1946.

In 1949 Ailine returned to Shawnee Mission North High School as librarian. She received her M.A. in Library Science from University of Denver in 1953. Ailine has been active in her profession, serving as president of the Kansas Association of School Librarians, district director of American Association of School Librarians, and a member of Advisory Committee for World Book Encyclopedia. She is a member of Beta Phi Mu, an honorary Library Science Fraternity.

Mrs. Lillie Porter, Mrs. Brierly's mother, lived in the Brierly home from the time she fractured her hip in 1939 until her death in 1945. Claude Hunter, an elderly cousin of Mrs. Brierly, lived in the home from 1939 until his death in 1960.

Then "Miss Clara" returned to her hobby — oil painting. Her pictures are scattered far and wide. She is now past ninety and still painting, especially during the winters spent with her daughter.

CHARLES BROCKHOUSE

Charles Brockhouse was born Jan. 26, 1855. His family had settled near Meredosia, Morgan Co., Ill. As young men he and a boyhood friend, James Harris, came by wagon to Mo. and settled near Peculiar, Cass Co. On Oct. 13, 1886 Charles Brockhouse married Emma Huffman who was born June 21, 1864 near the Shawnee Mission just over the Mo. line in Kans. She was a daughter of James and Stella Huffman, he born about 1803 in Va., of parents born in Germany, and she born about 1818 in Ind., of parents born in N.Y. The James Huffmans had lived in Iowa and Kansas before coming from Ill. to Cass Co., Mo. prior to 1880. Emma Huffman's maternal line extends back to Huguenot refugees from Holland, France, and England to America where they stopped first in New York City then moved to a site on the Hudson River where they built a mill and boats to transport their lumber to the New York City market. During Revolutionary times the ancestral Faurot farm was the scene of several war events.

Charles Brockhouse died Nov. 18, 1931. Emma Brockhouse died June 20, 1965, practically age 101.

Charles and Emma Brockhouse had 8 children: Milton and Melvin, twins, deceased; Walter James who married Oct. 20, 1913 Ada Ellison; J. Eva who married June 7, 1924 Curt M. Weber; Frank, deceased, who married Sept. 15, 1920 Ella Weeks; Allan who married Aug. 20, 1924 Ona Elizabeth Barber, now deceased; Charles W.; and Ruth Elizabeth who married Apr. 20, 1935 Homer Morgan.

WILLIAM FRANKLIN BRONAUGH

In the fall of 1852 William Franklin Bronaugh, his wife Sarah Swope Bronaugh and their infant son, Robert, arrived in Cass County from their home near Danville, Kentucky. The trip was made in covered wagons, with their household possessions, negroes, supplies and livestock.

The home, three miles east of Pleasant Hill, was a double log house and a large barn was built of native lumber to house the Registered Shorthorn Cattle. Through the years Mr. Bronaugh bought more land, until he had 1700 acres, and had planned to build a handsome house like his family home in Kentucky, which is still standing and is in excellent condition. It was built by Mr. Bronaughs' grandfather Barbee in 1798.

The Barbees had come to Kentucky from Culpepper County, Virginia at the close of the Revolutionary War. John Barbee and his six sons had all served in the Revolutionary War. The eldest son, General Thomas Barbee commanded the Kentucky Volunteers at the Battle of Maumee (1794) when the Indians were finally defeated.

The Bronaugh family was also from Virginia. William Franklin Bronaugh's father, Robert Newton Bronaugh, was the son of William Bronaugh whose father was Captain Thomas Bronaugh of Fauquier County, Virginia. The Bronaughs had been in Virginia since 1671.

William F. Bronaugh and family.

Sarah Swope Bronaugh (wife of William Franklin), daughter of Dorcas and Benedict Swope III, was born August 12, 1834 in Garrard County, Kentucky. The Swope family had been in Kentucky since its earliest history. Her grandfather, the Rev. Benedict Swope, had come to Kentucky as a missionary to the Indians when the only settlements were two or three Forts. At the close of the Revolutionary War he brought his family from Baltimore, Maryland and they settled in Lincoln and Garrard Counties. Among his descendants were Bishop Keener, of New Orleans and Col. Thomas Swope, who gave Swope Park to Kansas City.

The children of William and Sarah Swope Bronaugh were: (1) Robert B., born April 18, 1851, died Sept. 26, 1916, attended schools at Danville, Ky. and William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo. He married Margaret Sharp of Sharpsburg, Ky. Feb. 24, 1886. He was a stockman like his father. They had one child, Amelia Bronaugh Benson. Grandchildren: Margaret Ann, Robert and George Benson. (2) Samuel H., born May 8, 1854, died Jan. 16, 1916, attended William Jewell College, married Adelia Jones in Cass County (1880). Children: Eulah Reid, Pauline and Sam Bronaugh. Grandchildren: Judge Frank Reid, Alice Henry, Margaret Hulten and Dr. Richard N. Bronaugh. (3) Annie, who died in infancy. (4) William A., born March 28, 1859, died March 12, 1957. Attended school at Warrensburg Normal, married Martha Alice Knorpp of Jackson County Nov. 25, 1896, was a stockman in Cass Co. for nearly 70 years. During World War I he furnished many car loads of mules. Daughters: Laura Whitlow and Margaret Grimes. (5) Margaret Dorcas, born 1861, died 1893, married James Dunn, son of Earl E. Dunn. Granddaughter: Emily Dunn of New Orleans, La. (6) Mary Elizabeth, born Jan. 27, 1865 in Clay Co., Mo., died March 7, 1947, attended St. Teresas' Academy in Kansas City.

When Order No. 11 was issued in Cass County, the Bronaugh family went to Clay County. When they returned after the war, they found the farm stripped of everything of value, barns burned, but the house was still standing, though border warfare was still raging. Soon after returning, William F. Bronaugh sent a wagon train to Westport Landing for lumber and supplies to rebuild. While on the way, riding horseback ahead of the wagons, he was shot and robbed by Kansas Redlegs on May 4, 1865. He was born in Mercer County, Ky. Feb. 20, 1823.

Sarah Bronaugh moved her family to Pleasant Hill the fall of 1865 to send the children to school. Soon after that she gave land for a school in the country (Bronaugh School), which eventually became Plum Grove School.

Robert and William, with James Dunn and a cousin, contracted to grade a section of the first railroad through Arizona. They had many experiences during their two years in Arizona and were glad to return to Cass County.

DAVID BROOKHART

Mich Borkart (sic) arrived at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the ship "Patience" Sept. 9, 1751.

Jacob Bruckard (sic) as recorded in the will of his father, Michael, continued in residence in Hellem Township, York County, Pennsylvania, having married Catherine prior to 1783.

In 1787 Jacob Brookhart with his family removed from Hellem Township, York County, Pennsylvania, to Frankford, Hampshire County, Virginia (New Franklin, West Virginia), where he and his wife Catherine acquired property as did his brothers, John, Michael and Phillip.

The holdings of Jacob and Catherine Brookhart at Frankfort were liquidated in 1795, and at about the turn of the century they were established at Jefferson County, Kentucky, in the vicinity of Louisville, as was their brother Phillip and family.

The children of Jacob Brookhart and Catherine were:

1. Jacob Brookhart, Jr., born at Hellem Township, York, Pennsylvania, recorded as age 26/45 in the census of Jefferson County, Kentucky, of 1810. The name of his first wife is not discovered, but she died prior to 1805 leaving issue two sons and one teen-age daughter. Jacob Brookhart, Jr., married "Kellery, Barbary" (sic) in Jefferson County, Kentucky, June 20, 1807. Believed to have been Barbara Keller of whom there now exists several descendants, one of whom, Florence Keller, resided with her aunt Mrs. T. S. Kirtland at Georgetown, D. C. in the 1890's. 2. Catherine who married Henry Briscoe. 3. Magdelene who was named in her mother's will of 1828. 4. Lydia who was named in her mother's will and married first Matthew Davers (or Devers), and second Matthew M. Towers on Nov. 14, 1822, she being stated as "daughter of Jacob dead and Catherine". 5. "My son David Brookhart" named in will of Catherine.

David Brookhart, son of Jacob and Catherine, recorded as having been born in Virginia in the U.S. Census of Jefferson County, Kentucky, for 1850. It appears that when David was about 22 he went to his family in Kentucky for he was a Private in the Captain Kelly's Company, Eighth Kentucky Mounted Volunteers.

On March 23, 1820, David married Thereca Funk, daughter of John Funk and Susannah (Boyer) Funk, of Boonsboro, Maryland. In 1826 he qualified according to law to be a Justice of the Peace for Washington County, Maryland. During the years 1829, 1830, 1831 and 1835 he is listed as a member of the House of Delegates for the State of Maryland. A sketch of his life in the History of Cass County, page 435, published in 1883, says that he served for eight terms (16 years) in the Maryland Legislature, representing Washington County. And so, it seems, he returned after the War of 1812 to Washington County, Maryland. He continued in practice of law in Washington County until 1839 when the family removed to the northern district of Jefferson County, Kentucky, in the vicinity of the property belonging to his mother at the time of her death. He lived a useful life even up to the time of his death, serving as Presiding Judge, Cass County, 1856-1859.

Near Harrisonville he owned a large tract of land known locally as "Brookhart Hill", which had been a land grant to him from the government. His wife, Thereca, died Dec. 29, 1858, at the age of 74. Very soon afterward on March 5, 1859, David Brookhart followed his wife. They are both buried at Orient Cemetery in Harrisonville.

Thereca and David Brookhart had three children. One son, John Kellar, died Nov. 1, 1840, in Monterey, Mexico, during the war with Mexico. A daughter, Ann Cecelia Brookhart, married John Fauntleroy Carter, and preceded her father in death on Jan. 19, 1859, in St. Louis, Missouri. The other son, Jacob Funk Brookhart, lived to fulfill a rich life.

JOSEPH M. BROWN

Some years before the Civil War, exact date uncertain, the Dye and the Boren Families came from Kentucky to make their homes in Missouri. They bought farms about one and one-half miles south of Belton, Missouri.

Riley C. Boren and Elizabeth Dye, children of the people who had moved to Missouri, were married. They had four children, two sons and two daughters. The younger son and older daughter died when they were twenty-five and thirty-five years old. The other daughter, Anna Lee Boren, and Eugene Boren lived all of their lives in or near Belton.

Joseph M. Brown came to Belton as a young man in his twenty's, from the northern part of Missouri. He and Anna Lee Boren were married in Belton in 1894. They had three sons, Charlie, Forest and Claude.

Charlie served in the First World War. After he returned, he worked as a driver for Roy Zumwalt, who owned and operated the bus line between Belton and Kansas City.

In 1923, Charlie and Claude decided to start their own bus line. They started with one seven passenger Cadillac running between Peculiar, through Raymore, to Kansas City. There weren't any paved roads at that time. Highway 71 had just been started from Kansas City on south. Many times they were stuck in the deep mud, sometimes over night.

In 1924, Roy Zumwalt died and the Belton Bus Line was sold to Charlie and Claude. The headquarters was moved to Harrisonville in 1925 and the Bus Line incorporated as "Brown Bros. Bus Line". The line expanded to Garden City and Nevada and then on to Joplin. In 1930, the name was changed to "Crown Coach Co.". The office and garage was moved to Joplin in 1932. The line continued to expand through Arkansas to Little Rock and Texarkana.

WALTER R. BROWN

Walter R. Brown, the youngest of the family of Robert A. Brown — the early settler of Cass County, had three children: Glessie Brown Cockrill, Joseph Lisle Brown and Margaret Brown Thompson. The son died seven years ago. The two daughters still surviving, both living in Liberty, Mo.

Walter was a small boy at the time of the Civil War and could most vividly describe the horrors of that war as it pertained to the home of Robert Brown. It was three miles out of Harrisonville and easily accessible to raiders of Northern soldiers out of Missouri and Kansas. They came in wagon trains and carried off household goods, machinery and all farm supplies available. It was dangerous living on the farm so Grandfather Brown moved his family into town to occupy the hotel that he owned. The same building that is still occupied and operated as a hotel on the Northeast corner of the square in Harrisonville. Following the war, they moved back to the farm, a large body of land and the home that was named "Wayside Rest," which had miraculously escaped destruction. It was a stately brick home, beautiful in size and structure — the one that still stands on the remaining acres of ground and is occupied by a granddaughter, Agnes Brown Hamilton. It is still lovely and dear to the hearts of all of the descendants of Robert A. Brown.

Our grandfather was closely associated with and much interested in the development of Cass County and the City of Harrisonville. He built the first Methodist Church of the community on this farm, a small log building that was attended by his family and all the early settlers. As membership outgrew that little church, he was instrumental in building a larger one in town, donating both labor and money. He sent off quite a distance and bought a bell, which everyone considered very lovely in tone. This was later placed in the still larger church which was built on East Pearl St., that one, since enlarged and still in use. When the latest addition was being made on the church the bell was taken down and was stolen before it could be replaced on the church. A window in the church bears the names of Robert A. Brown and Mary A. Brown.

We, the three children of Walter R. Brown, attended school in a large, three story brick school building. This has since been torn down and replaced by a lovely large building on the grounds of the original one.

At the time of my father's marriage, he owned the old brick homeplace and Lisle Brown and I, Glessie Brown, grew up there.

JOHN THORNTON BUCKNER

The paternal grandfather of John Thornton Buckner, Dr. Francis Thornton Buckner, was the first of the Buckner family to settle in Cass County. Dr. Buckner was born 29 Nov., 1836 near Greensburg, Kentucky, the son of Robert RoBards and Mary Tate Buckner, and came to Callaway County, Missouri with his family in 1844. He was a graduate of Westminister College at Fulton and Bellevue Hospital College in New York. The paternal grandfather of Dr. Buckner had come to Green County, Kentucky from Caroline County, Virginia about 1790. He was William Buckner, surveyor general of Kentucky, whose wife was Elizabeth Lewis RoBards Buckner, daughter of William and Elizabeth Lewis RoBards of Goochland County, Virginia. From William Buckner, the Buckners trace their descent through Captain William, who married Mary Madison, daughter of Thomas Madison and through three generations of John Buckners in Gloucester County, Virginia. The earliest of these Johns came from England with his wife, Deborah Ferrers Buckner, to Virginia in the mid 1600s. It was he who established the first printing press in Virginia that the people might be informed of their rights under the law.

Dr. F. T. Buckner first came to Pleasant Hill in 1865, where he practiced medicine and established a drug business in 1881. He married April 4, 1886, Mary Margaret Armstrong, daughter of John M. Armstrong, one of the earliest settlers of Pleasant Hill. Their son, John Armstrong Buckner, born 12 Jan., 1869 near Strasburg, was the father of John Thornton Buckner, who was born in Kansas City on Feb. 15, 1903, his mother being, before her marriage, Mary (Mayme) Barret Thornton, daughter of John Fitzhugh and Mary Jane Wherritt Thornton.

In addition to their son, John, Dr. Buckner's family included four daughters, Elizabeth Armstrong, born 1871; Mary Pinkney, born 1873, married Samuel Goodfellow; Ella Margaret, born 1876, married Edward O. Murray; Frances Thornton, born 1879, married Michael Downing and three sons, Robert Samuel, born 1867, died 1868; Staunton, born 1881, died 1882 and William Gibbons, born 1883, married Delia Crookes.

John Thornton Buckner was educated in the public schools of Pleasant Hill and the Salt Lake Collegiate Institute of Salt Lake City. He was employed in the drug store of George N Dunn, Jr. at the age of fifteeen years, where he continued until 1941 when he purchased a partnership in the former Lain-Shortridge drug store in Pleasant Hill. Here he has continued the business under the name Chambers-Buckner Rexall Drug Company. He is a graduate of the Bowen Institute of Pharmacy at Brunswick, Missouri.

John T. married Marjorie Ellen Pearce, daughter of Dr. Gilbert D. and Minnie Shaw Pearce, on Dec. 25, 1926. They have one son, John Richard Pearce Buckner, born 15 Jan. 1931 at Pleasant Hill, who was educated in the public schools of Pleasant Hill and Kansas City, Missouri and received his Master's degree in Electrical Engineering from Southern Methodist University at Dallas, Texas. On Oct. 7, 1951 he was married to Edith Mary Essex, daughter of Arthur Essex, of Pleasant Hill. They have three sons, John Leslie, born 1 July, 1955, who married Sandra Patterson, of Dallas; Michael Richard, born 26 Feb., 1957, a student at Texas Tech University and David Arthur, born 17 Oct., 1961.

JOSEPH BURKE

Joseph Burke was born in Bristol, England, on June 12, 1812. He became a naturalist and as a young man traveled in Africa and India gathering specimens for the Earl of Derby to put in the British Museum.

After returning to England from Africa and India he became a member of the Hudson Bay Company with headquarters at Vancouver, British Columbia. He remained there about one year, then returned to England.

In the year 1848 Joseph Burke and his wife, Elizabeth and their two children left their home in England and sailed for the United States. They landed in New York City, then came to Jackson County, Missouri and entered 160 acres of land where the former Ridge Building stood in Kansas City. After living there in a cabin for a few months, he sold the land and came to Cass County, Missouri. They had only lived in Cass County a short time, when the news reached them of the discovery of gold in California.

This news of finding gold sounded good. A great many people from here were going so Joseph Burke decided to go too. For this try he bought a covered wagon and a good team of mules and on May 1, 1849, he started on his journey. It took him 3 months to make the trip. When he reached there he found there really was gold! He engaged in placer mining, having to use a sieve to separate the nuggets from the gravel.

Joseph Burke sold his wagons and mules, having decided to come home by boat. He sailed on the Pacific Ocean, then on the Gulf of Mexico to New Orleans, up the Mississippi River to St. Louis, on the Missouri River to Kansas City and by stage to Cass County.

He arrived home in December, 1851, bringing with him $5000.00 in gold and two nuggets, one of which he kept just as he found it, and the other he had made into a broach.

In the spring of 1852 he entered 240 acres of land in Cass County, Missouri, one mile south of Harrisonville. He made this farm his home the remainder of his life.

CHARLES SAMUEL BUSH

Charles Samuel Bush was born December 1, 1861 in Pleasant Hill, Missouri, the son of Robert Neil and Henrietta Fleming Bush. He spent his childhood in Pleasant Hill and at 19 went to Colorado to search for silver. He had no luck so he joined a survey crew for the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, the first railroad put through the mountains south of Denver. When he returned home he entered business college in Kansas City.

In 1888 he went to Oklahoma as an industrial teacher at the Kiowa Indian School at Anadarko. He resigned after a year and went to Fairfax, Washington, where he worked for 2 years with a surveying crew, laying out another railroad line.

He then returned to Pleasant Hill and was city marshal for a year before quitting to make the run into the Cherokee Strip. He had gone down and picked out a farm site to run for near Blackwell, Oklahoma. He thought he was out in front and that no one passed him but when he got there someone was already there. Next he obtained a position as an industrial and agricultural instructor with the Sioux Indian Agency in South Dakota. He was later transferred to Fort Yates, North Dakota where he spent 4 years.

While at Fort Yates he was chief of police and judge for the Federal Government. As police chief, he headed a force of 40 Indian policemen who replaced the soldiers as the Indians were given more self-government. As judge he did not conduct the trials, for this was done by an Indian judge. His job was to review the decisions and then refer the ones he disagreed on to the Federal Agency.

Chief of the Sioux at this time was Rain in the Face, a warrior at the Battle of the Little Big Horn. Sitting Bull, who was chief at the time of the battle, was buried on the reservation.

Charles Bush was married on May 29, 1902 to Hattie Gibson of Pleasant Hill. They lived in North Dakota and she taught the Indians as long as he was in this work.

In 1904 he asked to be sent to the Ponca Agency at White Eagle, Oklahoma. Four years later he resigned and they moved to Ponca City, Oklahoma.

On December 21, 1908 he and L. C. Harsh opened the Harsh and Bush Grocery. He continued in the business until he retired 26½ years later.

Mrs. Bush taught school in Ponca City, was county school superintendent, and in her later years tutored those who were having trouble in their school work. When she was in her 80's she took a short course at Enid to familiarize herself with Modern Math.

They never had any children of their own but they did raise a niece, Frances Gibson. Frances died during the flu epidemic, leaving 2 children, who were raised by Mr. and Mrs. Bush.

They lived in the Bush settlement near Winchester. There were five Bush brothers and a sister who came from Virginia in the company which Daniel Boone and Capt. Billy Bush (one of the brothers) brought to Kentucky. They built the first Baptist church in Kentucky, called the Providence Church. It is still in use today.

At the age of 19 years Robert came to the home of his brother, Landon, who owned land near the present day Prairie Lee Lake and Lake Jacomo in Jackson Co. Soon after he came to Missouri he went into wagon-freighting with Majors and Waddell. For seven years he made trips from Independence to New Mexico and Utah.

On December 7, 1858, he was married in Old Town P.H. to Henrietta Fleming, daughter of Violinda Fleming. Three years after his marriage, the Civil War began and as a strong believer in state rights he became a member of Co. A, 16th Missouri Infantry C.S.A.

After the War he came back to Pleasant Hill and went into the butcher business with "Uncle Will" Fleming. At the end of a year he went with his family to Texas. He remained there two years and came back to Pleasant Hill to stay. He farmed for several years and in 1879 became sexton of the Pleasant Hill cemetery and held that position until 1916.

His wife died September 16, 1875 after a long illness, leaving 3 boys, the youngest of which was only 5 years old. These were Chris, Charles and David Nelson Bush. Robert never married again and raised the boys himself. There were 2 black women — Mary and Mandy Hockaday — who washed, ironed, and cleaned for them. He died December 24, 1920.

Prof. Andrew Jackson Trapp, father of Alma Leah Trapp, was born September 15, 1832 near Hazel Hill in Johnson County. He was the son of Judge William and Rebecca Lovelady Trapp. He attended Chapel Hill college and continued to study throughout his life, having an excellent education, especially in mathematics. He went to Jefferson City, stood an examination and was granted a lifetime certificate as a teacher. He was awarded the honor of working a problem in Ray's "Higher Arithmetic" that no one had been able to work. He began teaching at age 17 and taught his last school at age 77.

He went to Utah as a scout for a wagon train. He was in Salt Lake City when the Mormon Temple was begun.

He was also the surveyor in Johnson County for 2 terms. He helped lay out several towns and surveyed the grounds for Central Missouri State University. His name is on many of the deeds in this area.

Prof. Trapp was married to Sarah Katherine Young of Atchison, Kansas, having met her while teaching there. They had 4 daughters and 2 sons.

He was a member of the Christian Church and was also a Mason. He died at the age of 94.

David Nelson Bush was born January 14, 1869 to Robert Neil and Henrietta Fleming Bush in Pleasant Hill. He was a farmer and spent all of his life here except for a year when he went to the Urton Ranch in New Mexico to work as a cowboy. When asked why he didn't stay he said that back in Missouri he had seen a pretty girl in a poke bonnet. That girl was Alma Leah Trapp, daughter of Andrew Jackson and Sarah Young Trapp. They were married December 1, 1892 at her home in Old Town. They had 1 daughter, Katherine Fleming, who married Edgar Riggs. Their 2 daughters are Nancy Neil Riggs, a teacher, and Caralee Riggs, who is married to Ernest Dodson and has 3 sons who are all in the Air Force; T/Sgt David and Patricia Dodson have 2 sons, Gwain and Damian. Chandler (1837-1915) and Mrs. Emily Hilliard Chandler (1840-1915) came to Missouri from Medina County, Ohio. They established their home on 370 acres. Here they reared their family of four: Robert H., Lura N., Jennie L. and Roy A. All but Robert lived their entire lives in this home.

Mr. Roy A. Chandler (1880-1960) and wife Effie Gregg Chandler (1886-1967) were also the parents of two sons and two daughters; Ruby (Allbritten), Leona (Harris), George I., and H. Gene. They, as well as their parents, attended the rural school known as Greasy, District #2, located at the northeast corner of the farm. Marriages and vocations eventually took three of this family away from Cass County.

Mr. H. Gene Chandler carries on the tradition of passing the inheritance from father to son and now owns the majority of the original acres.

He and his wife Pauline Estep Chandler live there presently. They have two daughters, Paulette and Cynthia and a son, Glenn.

Although ways of life, community living, school systems, public roads and utilities have changed greatly, five generations of Chandlers frequently gathered at "Home" to enjoy family treasures, the big old house (now well past the 100 year mark), the barn (a local landmark built in 1886), the productive fields and the beauty of Missouri woodlands.

JOSEPH C. CHRISTOPHER

Joseph C. Christopher and America Bryant were married in Lexington, Kentucky in 1837. In 1850 with their six children they moved to Missouri. They came by boat to Independence. While enroute their boat struck a snag in the river and they barely escaped with their lives. They settled on a farm about a mile south of the Jackson County line where six more children were born to them. All twelve of their children grew to maturity.

Mr. Christopher, who had been a member of the Kentucky legislature, was greatly interested in politics. When the Civil War broke out he became a Union sympathizer. Because of his opinions, which he discussed very heatedly at times, his wife realized that he was making enemies.

On the night of January 22, 1862, about nine o'clock there was a knock at the door. The father and mother, whose bed was in the living room, had retired and the trundle bed, which had been pulled out from beneath it, was occupied by the small children. The knock was answered by one of the older sons. A band of men (Bushwackers) entered and commanded the family who had risen, to be seated while they ransacked the house. Mr. Christopher asked the men by what authority they came. Without a moment's warning the command to fire was given and Mr. Christopher, shot through the temple, fell to the floor dead. America Christopher with a three month old babe in her arms, witnessed the assassination of her husband. As their father fell the sons jumped from their chairs; the man who had shot the father whirled and shot George Kiene Christopher and knocked down another brother, who fell across the trundle bed. When the assassin tried to stab him, the boy pulled the man's whiskers and he desisted. The house was pillaged, winter's provisions, clothing and the horses were taken. No one was permitted to leave the house until an hour after the tragedy. Then the nearest neighbor came to the aid of the family.

Dr. John Bryant, in Independence, was sent for and arriving the next day, amputated the two fingers of the son George Kiene, who was wounded and removed the bullet from his breast. Arrangements were then made for removal of the family to Independence. Dr. Bryant took the wounded boy and two of his brothers in a sleigh to the Doctor's house. On the way he was stopped by a posse of Quantrell's band,; but Dr. Bryant, being a southern man, was allowed to proceed after he explained what had happened. Joseph Collins Christopher was buried in the Independence Cemetery. William Clark Christopher (1840-1926) married Mary B. Warren (-1914) and moved to Pleasant Hill, Mo., where they lived for several years. In 1883 Mr. Christopher purchased a lot on East Pearl Street, Harrisonville, and built the house, which was occupied continuously by the Christopher family until the death of Laura B. Christopher April 8, 1976. Mr. Christopher for a number of years owned and operated a dry goods store on the north side of the square in Harrisonville.

ABIGIA C. COPE

Abigia Christopher Cope was born April 20, 1872 in Hancock County, east Tennessee, and died May 20, 1949. At the age of 14 he moved to Grainger County, Tenn. He married Mahala Samantha Parris, who was born July 27, 1872, Clairborne County, Tenn., died April 14, 1947. Both are buried in Pleasant Hill, Mo., Cemetery. Their six children were born in Tennessee.

Abigia and Samantha were married in an unusual ceremony. Horseback riding was the order of the day. The bride, in her riding habit astride her side saddle and riding mare, and the groom on his horse were united in holy matrimony Nov. 19, 1891.

They went to housekeeping in a log cabin in the shadow of Clinch mountain near his father's home, where a spring of cool clear water flowed. They later built a new house on Copper Ridge on land given by his father.

The Cope men were woodmen by necessity. They made furniture for their homes from walnut and cherry trees, also "settin" chairs put together without nails or screws with split hickory bottoms.

The women accomplished much with very little. They never let the fires die out. They spun wool into yarn, dyed it, wove the cloth, made all the clothing, made soap, milked the cows and churned the butter. The Beech Grove Baptist church which now stands on land once owned by Grandfather Woodson Cope was attended regularly. Singing schools were popular.

By February 1912 the family had outgrown the new house. Abigia and Samantha moved to Pleasant Hill, Mo. They bought a 120 acre farm on which stands the historic stone house built in 1885 in the area of Hickory Grove school, where a Sunday School had been organized in 1908. The family became active in Sunday School.

The Hickory Grove Baptist Church was organized in the schoolhouse in 1913. The church building was erected and dedicated in 1914. This church stands as a memorial to the Copes and the many people who made its existence possible. Abigia Cope served as assistant builder, deacon, clerk, treasurer, trustee and strong supporter all his life.

The move to Missouri changed the life style to some extent, as from a fireplace in each room to wood burning stoves. There was still horseback riding, but the vehicles that stood at the front door of the old stone house were like carriages at a king's palace. One was a spring wagon with two seats and no top. Then came the carriage with top and side curtains. The last of the horse drawn vehicles was a surrey with the fringe on top. Last, but not least, Mr. Cope bought the faithful "model T" ford. The trip to church each Sunday in either of these was an event to write home about.

In 1918 a son, Lanie, was inducted into World War I. This was also the year of the great flu epidemic.

In the 1920s, activities centered around the church. The times were relatively prosperous, but didn't go very far. The financial crash came in 1929. The 1930s brought the Great Depression and drough, which went from bad to worse.

Abigia and Samantha retired in January 1938 and moved to Pleasant Hill. In the 1940s they saw their grandsons enter World War II.

MARCUS ANTHONY CREIGHTON

Marcus Anthony Creighton, (1847-1918) was the son of John Brutus Creighton and Amelia Ann Ferree. The family came to Missouri in the 1850's. His grandparents were Matilda Fox Creighton, (Irish) of Meath County, Ireland and John Creighton, (Scotch) of Killmore, Ireland.

The Creighton name, (formerly spelled Crichton) originated in Southwest Scotland where the old home was located at Dumfries. The date the family emigrated to Ireland is unknown, but according to records it must have been before the 17th Century.

The town of Creighton, Missouri was built upon the land provided by Marcus Creighton. Mr. George H. Nettleton, President of the Kansas City, Clinton and Springfield Railroad wrote a letter, (January 12, 1885) to the Creightons concerning the naming of the town and said he thought it would prosper. Mr. Creighton was an eager promoter of modern transportation for the community. Marcus (Mark) Creighton was a prominent farmer, civic leader and churchman who believed Cass County was the "Garden Spot of the World."

Marcus A. Creighton and Mary Adella Wallis of Johnson County, Missouri were united in marriage June 25, 1873.

Mary Adella Wallis Creighton, (1849-1933) was the daughter of Jacob Cooke Wallis and Mary Dimm Wallis who came to Missouri in 1868 from Muncy, Pennsylvania. She had strong leadership qualities which she used to promote education, (she had been a school teacher), religious activities in the Presbyterian Church, and social life for the family and friends in the large white home located east of Creighton.

Her interest in history was further stimulated by the records of her ancestors, Colonel Jacob Cooke, who fought in the Battle of Brandywine, September 11, 1777 during the Revolutionary War. Mary Adella Creighton's religious training was probably due to the strong ties of her mother's family, the decendants of John Dim (changed to Dimm) who came to America from Wurtemburg, Germany in 1750. This family helped found the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Lycoming County, Pennsylvania.

In this Bicentennial year, 1976, it is interesting to read an old letter from Mrs. Mary Jane Levan of Muncy, Pennsylvania explaining that Mary Adella Wallis Creighton's Great, Great Grandfather had left an unusual will. In this letter she states, "More than twenty years ago I saw a pamphlet containing the names of the heirs of the John Luckens estate. He was the first Surveyor General of Pennsylvania. In this will he stated that the lands not be divided until a propitious time or until they increased in value." The City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania is built on much of the land now. The propitious time never came.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Creighton are buried in Grant Cemetery, Creighton, Missouri.

Children of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Creighton were: Lula Grace Creighton (February 28, 1875), Jane Amelia Creighton (September 16, 1877), Marcus Ralph Creighton (November 8, 1879), John Wallis Creighton (January 16, 1882).

MELVILLE ROGERS CREIGHTON

The Creighton family originated in Scotland. The name formerly was Crichton. The old home was Dunfries. The date at which the family emigrated to Ireland is unknown, but it must have been before the 17th Century. They settled in County Fermanagh. Hugh Creighton lived at Garbrattan, County Cavan and it was his son Robert who married Matilda Fox of Kilcoursey. The Fox family traces its lineage in an unbroken chain of descent from Niallus Magnus, the 126th Monarch of Ireland.

Robert Creighton and Matilda Fox made their home at Rice Hill near Calvin, County of Cavan, in Ireland. After Matilda died in Ireland, the family came to America in 1836. Their fourth child was John Brutus Creighton. The family lived in Adams County, Illinois and later came to Missouri in two covered wagons with a number of horses following. They settled in Cass County, north of the area which became the town of Creighton. Land was cheap, and quite a lot was purchased, often trading horses for land.

The John Brutus Creighton family had six children. One was James Henry Creighton, who was born Dec. 15, 1854. The family sold some of their land and moved to Holden for a short time; but news of the railroads coming brought them back to the Creighton area, where they built a house and started a store with their son, James Henry Creighton.

The village of Creighton thrived with the arrival of the Kansas City, Clinton, Springfield Railroad. John Brutus Creighton owned the land on which the town of Creighton was built. A friend, who lived in Harrisonville, was influential in naming the town "Creighton." As other stores came in the Creightons sold their store. James Henry Creighton built a house south of Creighton and purchased 400 acres of land on Grand River.

James Henry Creighton married Eva Price and the family had four children: Hobart Price Creighton, Clifford Talmage Creighton, Veta Creighton Cox and Eula Creighton Nelson.

Clifford Talmage Creighton married Hoyland Rogers and they lived south of Creighton and Urich before moving to Harrisonville in 1965. One child, Melville Rogers Creighton, was born to this union. He married Genevieve Lear Coover, of Urich, Mo. in January 1940. Mrs. Creighton's paternal family of (Kober — Cover — Coover) came to America and arrived Aug. 29, 1730 at Philadelphia on the ship, "Thistle of Glasgow." They were from the border of Switzerland and Germany and it is not known for sure whether they were Swiss or German. However, their closest friends were Swiss and their early associations would indicate that they were from Switzerland. They settled around Lancaster, Pennsylvania before coming to Missouri. Her maternal family of Lehr, later changed to Lear, came from Germany, settled around Franklin, Kentucky before they came to Missouri.

Melville Rodgers Creighton served his country during World War II in the Pacific zone. After his discharge he was Superintendent with the National Life and Accident Insurance Co., of Nashville, Tennessee in the area of Lexington, Mo. In 1953 he went to work for the State Farm Insurance Company and moved to Harrisonville, Mo. He is a past President of the American Legion, Lions Club and Civic Association. Their first child, John Henry was born in 1862 in Fairfield, Iowa. In 1864 the Crows and a host of others went by covered wagon to Canon City, Colorado. Joseph Andrew, 1864 and Lewis A. 1866 were born in Canon City. In the spring of 1867 they came back to Missouri and settled in Johnson Co. near Pittsville. Here Isaac Franklin, 1867; Mary Lane, 1870; James D., 1873; Ida Nancy, 1875; and Cora Belle, 1878 were born. In 1879 the Crow family moved to a farm northwest of Ballard, Mo. where Walter William, 1880; Alva B., 1883; Effie May, 1885 and Herman Carl, 1888 were born. It was here that William James died in 1893 and was buried in the Cloud Cemetery near the Fairfield Baptist Church where William James and Martha were charter members. Martha Jane continued to live on the farm with her family until 1906 when she moved to Adrian, where she remained until her death in 1941. She is buried with her husband in the Cloud Cemetery. The farm near Ballard is still in the Crow family.

The lives of these children were varied. Their occupations included farming, railroad engineer, lawyer, banker, teachers and bookkeepers. HENRY DAHMAN

Henry Dahman arrived on Ellis Island from Strasbourg, Germany in 1855 at the age of 14 and with his family, which included several brothers and sisters and father and mother, settled near Beardstown, Illinois. At an early age he, and other members of the family, ventured to Cass County, Missouri where he homesteaded 160 acres of land near the town of Gunn City. After establishing his claim he returned to Illinois to marry Miss Mary DuVall, whom he then moved to Missouri. The DuValls and Dahmans from the same general area of Germany, had long been friends and had subsequently settled in Illinois near Jacksonville. Children born to Henry Dahman and Mary DuVall include: Hannah — married Elmer Gilleland; Millie — married John Schmoll; George W. — married Vallie J. DeVore; Elizabeth — died at age 14; Henry — married Ida Yoder; Clara — married John Reed, later married Rollin Zook; Addie — married Lee Harris.

Henry Dahman and his sister-in-law, Jane DuVall, ardent admirers of President Lincoln, are credited for leading many torch light rallies on behalf of the Republican Party in Cass County. Henry Dahman added several acres to the original homestead, part of which is now the Gunn City Cemetery where Henry, wife Mary, and daughter, Elizabeth, are buried. Several grandchildren from the above Dahman family still reside in and near Cass County.

DALE FAMILY

The ancestors of Sam Dale of Freeman, Mo. date back to early Virginia days.

Great-grandfather George Dale of the "Old Dominion" was a Revolutionary War soldier and present at the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown.

After the war he went west into Kentucky, then later into Indiana where he exchanged one pound of feathers for one acre of land.

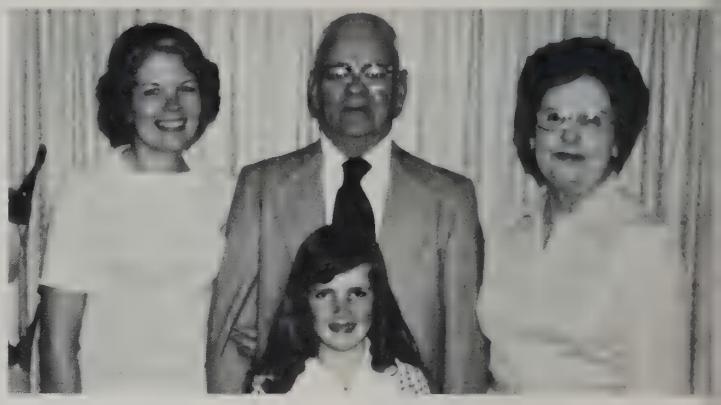
Grandfather Samuel Dale of Indiana came to Cass Co. in 1866 and settled on a farm southeast of West Line, Mo. where he and his wife died. He was the father of twelve sons. Douglas Dale, his eldest son, was one time sheriff of Cass Co. then Representative to the State Legislature from Cass Co. from 1880-1882.

Sydnor Dale, father of Sam Dale of this sketch, was the youngest of the twelve sons. He was a carpenter by trade.

He was married to Laura Clark and started their home in Freeman, Mo. They were parents of six children, two dying in early childhood. They attended Freeman school and the Presbyterian church.

Sam, the youngest, started to work at the Freeman pipe-line station after high school and was Operating Supervisor there when he retired in 1970 after 45 years of service.

Sam was married in 1934 to Frances Laningham, daughter of Edward and Mary Ellen Laningham. They have one daughter, Mary Ann (Dale) Davenport and one granddaughter, Leigh Ann Davenport. Sam's hobbies are fishing and travel-trailer trips. He owns and lives in the parental home in Freeman, Mo.



The Sam Dale Family.

Walter, the eldest son of Sydnor and Laura (Clark) Dale is a veteran of World War I. He married Mary Barnes of Oklahoma and they were parents of two daughters, Barbara, who married Ralph Detwiler and Darlene, who married Doyle Miller. Darlene was an adopted daughter. There are four grandchildren: Lisa and Dale Detwiler, Don and Allen Miller.

Walter was a cabinet maker. He died in 1967.

Helen Dale was married to George DeHaven of Pennsylvania. There was one daughter, Rita Dale (DeHaven) Welsh. There are three grandchildren: Jennifer, Kathy, and Laurie Welsh. They reside in California.

Lucille, the eldest child of Sydnor and Laura (Clark) Dale, was educated in Freeman School. At 18 years of age she took the county teacher's examination and taught two years in the primary room of Freeman school, then a new brick building. She was married to Thomas Cleveland Bundy in 1910 and moved to the Bundy farm east of Lisle, Mo. Here they reared a family of four children who attended Coldwater rural school, Drexel and Freeman high schools and college. The three girls became Cass Co. school teachers.

There are six grandchildren: Carroll Quinn, David Branaman, Dennis Adkins, Anna Lee and twin brothers, William Harley and Robert Cleveland Bundy. There are five great-grandchildren: Diana, Vincent and twin sisters, Sonya and Tonya Branaman and Abbey Bundy.

Lucille is a member of the Drexel Baptist Church and a charter member of the Lisle Home Extension Club and the Cass County Historical Society. Her hobbies are genealogy and keeping yearly journals.

Sam Dale also has a Clark-Harris heritage. The Clarks and Harrises came to Mo. early from Virginia. Sam's grandfather, D. M. Clark, was a Confederate soldier in the Civil War. While he was away his wife, Mary Ellen (Harris) took her four little boys, her mother and teenage brother in an oxcart when Order No. 11 was given in 1863 and fled to Lexington, Mo., a safe place.

Sam's great, great-grandfather, Reuben Harris, was a Revolutionary War soldier and father of Fleming Harris who was commissioned to sell the first lots in Harrisonville.

MATTHEW DALE, JR.

The earliest authentic Dale history dates back only to April 7, 1793 when Squire Dale was born in Tennessee. He was married to Elizabeth Smith (born 1795) on July 1, 1811 and they were the parents of eight children.

In 1823 he entered a tract of land in Boone County, Indiana on the Eel River, which was an unbroken wilderness. Squire and Elizabeth were charter members of the "Old Union Christian Church" which was organized in 1838.

Matthew Dale, fifth child of Squire and Elizabeth, was born in Lawrence County, Indiana on May 4, 1820. He married Frankey Ann Reese (born July 19, 1823), daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Crook Strange Reese, the Reese family having originated in Wales. The Reeses were very quiet and unassuming and were musically and poetically inclined. John Reese, Frankey's brother, wrote the song, "Nearer Home," which was sung at William Jennings Bryans' funeral.

Matthew and Frankey were the parents of ten children, all reared in Boone County and educated at the old "Dale School." After Squires' death on March 8, 1848, Elizabeth, known as "Granny," made her home with Matthew and his family. This is one of her stories of the family.

"Sir Thomas Dale was the stern, harsh Governor of Virginia from 1611 to 1616. He abolished "Communism," hanged the evil-doers and transformed the country into a thriving and orderly colony. In 1616, he returned to England but later migrated to India where he died."

Matthew Dale, Jr., youngest of ten children born to Matthew, Sr. and Frankey Ann Reese Dale, was born October 19, 1862 in Boone County, Indiana. He was about fifteen months old when his mother died in March of 1864, and about twelve years old when his father died on November 14, 1874. Both parents, as well as Squire and Elizabeth were buried in the old Dale Cemetery in the woods west of their home.

Matthew, Jr. came to Missouri in 1878 when he was sixteen years old and settled in Sherman Township, Cass County, working on the farm of his future father-in-law. He married Matilda Minerva Coe (born April 10, 1871, Cass County), daughter of David P. and Harriet Parsons Coe, on March 1, 1886 when Matilda was a little less than sixteen years of age. On the court records at Harrisonville is the record of Matilda's father giving his consent to the marriage. They established their home on a farm south, and adjoining the Coe farm, about a mile and one-half north of Grand River. Matthew and Matilda both lived their entire married life on their original tract of land.

The Dale two-story home was built in 1892 of brick made on the farm and was patterned after the usual style of Indiana brick homes, with three bedrooms upstairs and a living room, parlor and kitchen downstairs. A fireplace in the living room supplied the heat for that room, a "King Heater" for the parlor and the old wood range, with the reservoir on the back, in the kitchen. The cellar was under the parlor, with a long fruit and vegetable bin along one side. Each fall the bin was filled with apples (mostly Ben Davis and Genetians) and potatoes, and in a good season, turnips and cabbage.

Matthew and Matilda were the parents of eleven children, all native Cass Countians, but only six grew to adulthood. Matilda died on February 20, 1911, leaving her husband and six children. Charles, the oldest son, married Zella Snow March 5, 1911. Mark, the next son, was a street car conductor in Kansas City. The Dale family home was demolished by a devasting tornado on June 15, 1912 but none of the family was seriously injured.

Matthew's second marriage was to Minnie Talbot, of the Dayton community, on December 4, 1914. He died on October 10, 1921 of injuries received when he was thrown by a horse and was buried beside Matilda in the Byler Cemetery in Cass County.

JAMES DAVENPORT

The Davenports were originally English. Two brothers came to America in the early settlement of the colonies, one settled in Washington County, Virginia. Names and dates are not all ascertained until Julias Terry Davenport was born February 15, 1780. He had an older brother, Clayborne Davenport, who wanted to enlist in the Revolutionary War but his parents thought he was too young. He ran away and joined at age 16. He was in the battle of Bunker Hill, later was captured as an English prisoner. He escaped, somehow with his gun, and this gun has been handed down through the family.

November 16, 1809, Julias Terry married Mary Dolan. Children of Julias and Mary Dolan Terry were James, who was born September 19, 1810 and passed away March 30, 1860. Others were David, Garner, Wilson, Mary (Noel), Susannah, Sarah, and Jule. From Virginia they came to Rhea County, Tennessee. In 1833, they must have come by covered wagon to Johnson County, Missouri and settled at Rose Hill near Latour, Mo.

James Davenport married Francis Jane Rader June 9, 1842. Their children were; Mary (Green); Sarah (Musick); Henry Farmer; Mirriam Ann (Hammond); Martha Judson (Zion); Amanda Jane (McKean); James Alice (Davenport). James Davenport had lived in Johnson County, Missouri for five years before the Rader family came in 1838. James brought his young wife to Cass County, Missouri west of Freeman. The story is told, as they came he showed her two blackjack trees in the distance and told her that was where they would make their home. He entered 500 acres of land and built a log cabin on the south breakes of Pony Creek. This writer is in possession of two receipts for land, 80 acres W ½ SE ¼ Township 44 Range 33 Section 15 for $100 and 40 acres SW ¼ of NE ¼ Township 44 Range 33 Section 15 for $50. Indians were here at this time and they would come into the log cabin, sit on the floor, and the squaws would let the papooses out from under the blankets to crawl around.

James died in 1860. His widow and children had to leave during Order No. 11. She came back on horseback from Independence, Missouri, and was relieved to find the homestead still standing even though the doors and windows were missing. They returned to the home after the Civil War. James' widow married William Warriner September 3, 1863. One son, William Clyde, was born.

Henry Farmer married Mary Davidson in 1871. Their children were: James Walter, a Baptist Minister; Ethel May (Williams); William Henry and Hennrietta (Weller) twins; Frank; and Oliver Bertis.

Oliver Bertis married Nellie Estelle Duncan February 27, 1907. They were prominent farmers who lived one mile west of the original homestead. They had been married 57 years when Nellie lost her life burning trash in 1964. Oliver Bertis (Bert) passed away in 1973. They were parents of two children: Dortha Corine, who married William Dewey Crook, and lives south of West Line, Missouri and has three children: Robert Leroy, Barbara Joyce and Linda Kaye; and Lloyal Dean, who married Anna Lee Myers. They farm north of Drexel, Missouri and have three sons, David Dean, Edward Lee and Paul Eugene.

HOGAN M. DAVIS

Hogan Masterson Davis was born March 17, 1854, on a farm four miles north of Holden, Missouri. His parents were Samuel Finley Davis and Leannah Masterson Davis, who moved to Holden, Mo. from Kentucky. Hogan was named in honor of the Rev. David Hogan, a prominent Cumberland Presbyterian minister of that time. Hogan had four brothers and three sisters.

Hogan M. Davis and Miss Loretta Delilah Griffith were united in marriage on December 19, 1883, at the home of her parents, John Wilson Griffith and Catherine Hidy Griffith. Mr. and Mrs. Davis established their home on a farm adjacent to Peculiar on the north. They owned land where Peculiar now stands and also to the east, where in 1901 they built an eleven-room house where they lived forty years. It was named "Maple View Farm."

Mr. Davis worked as a traveling salesman and then as farmer. Early in the 1900's he became a stockholder in the Cass County Bank. He was vice-president until 1934, and then served as president until his retirement in 1943.

JOHN ALEXANDER DAVIS, JR.

John Alexander Davis, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. John A. Davis, was born in Middleton, Kentucky. At the age of three his parents came to eastern Cass County where he grew to manhood and was well known as a young baseball short-stop. He came to Harrisonville in 1886 and met Miss Eva Beattie, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Beattie. They were married Oct. 9, 1890, and built their home on West Wall Street next to Dr. Beattie's home. They had one daughter, Martha Stuart. After seven years they purchased the Mockbee House, which they remodeled, planted many elm trees and registered "Elmhurst" with the County Court.

Mr. Davis was a public spirited citizen and his special dream was a municipal water plant. He felt that a business man needed law knowledge so he entered the office of his brother-in-law, Judge Robert T. Railey, and studied law. He was admitted to the Cass County Bar and was a member at his death. He was local attorney for the Missouri Pacific and M. K. and T. Railroads.

In 1893, Mr. Davis, thinking of municipal water, bought a tract of land to the north of the city from the Bank of Harrisonville. In 1906 Mr. Davis, George Bird, and R. W. Adams formed a company and built a 30 acre lake there, one of the most attractive lakes in the county. Mr. Davis bought out George Bird and obtained controlling interest in the company. The city did not want municipal ownership at this time, so after a popular vote, granted Mr. Davis a 20 year franchise for a water plant. In 1930 the city built a larger lake to the east of Lake Luna, bought the water plant, and in 1938 bought Lake Luna and made it a part of the municipal water system.

Mr. Davis took his family to the State of California, the first vacation in 32 years of working out his dream of a municipal water system. Mrs. Davis sat in the rear seat and "muttered" to herself as she memorized her work as Worthy Matron of Eastern Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis and their daughter, Mrs. Johnson, were all members of St. Peter's Episcopal Church. Mr. Davis was a member of the Vestry. Mrs. Davis played the organ for 50 years and with Mrs. A. S. Deacon organized the first boys' choir.

Mr. Davis became interested in the "new" concrete. He conceived the idea of erecting a business house entirely of concrete. This became the New Method Laundry building and was the only building in the county composed entirely of concrete. He also ran a small concrete plant, making tiles and concrete bricks. The machine that made the bricks is in the possession of Jim Thompson, who bought Elmhurst in 1971.

Mr. Davis had five Jersey cows — really pets. He just called and they came.

He also had developed a fine strain of Single Comb White Leghorn chickens and had taken many prizes at the county shows. When he retired he started a Record of Performance experiment with the University of Missouri. This did well until Mr. Davis' death in 1943. His daughter, Martha Stuart Johnson, felt it should be continued so took it over. With the guidance of Noel Hall of the University of Missouri Poultry Department and four years of very hard study and work this flock made the highest record of performance record in the United States.

Dr. Beattie was one of eight men who formed a company and built the Harrisonville Hotel. He bought out the others and became sole owner. His son-in-law, Mr. Davis, looked after his interests and made improvements in the Hotel. At Dr. Beattie's death Mr. and Mrs. Davis became owners of the Hotel, which has been in continuous operation since 1883.

Mr. Davis died January 7, 1943, and Mrs. Davis died November 22, 1951, both at Elmhurst, and both are buried in Oakland Cemetery, Harrisonville.

They were parents of three children: Dorothy (Mrs. Glenn Holder), Kansas City, Missouri; Carl K. Davis, Springfield, Missouri; Bessie (Mrs. W. R. Chisler), Holden, Missouri. JOHN BEVERLY ROBINSON DEACON

John Beverly Robinson Deacon was born in Picton, Prince Edward's Co., Ontario, Canada, November 26, 1826. He was a son of Andrew Gordon and Amanda (Cory) Deacon. His father, a native of Quebec and his grandfather, Thomas Deacon, was a native of Ireland. Thomas Deacon's wife, a native of England, born at Newcastle on the Tyne, was descended from English ancestry and could trace her ancestry back to King Alfred the Great. She was born in Ballston Spa, New York, March 19, 1800 and moved to Hellier, Ontario with her parents.

Her marriage to Andrew Gordon Deacon occurred at Hillier, Apr. 19, 1820. In 1849 they left Canada and located in Waukegan, Ill., where they remained until 1853. In that year they moved to Fon du Lac, Wisc. and resided there until they moved to Harrisonville, Mo. in the fall of 1869. Mr. Deacon's death occurred there Apr. 19, 1870 in the 75th year of his age and on his 50th wedding anniversary. His wife died in March 1880, aged eighty years.

John B. R. Deacon continued to reside in Canada where his education was obtained in the common (public) schools. He had been engaged in farming, milling and merchandising in Canada, and when, in 1864, he decided to come to the United States, he removed to Harrisonville, Mo. and engaged in business as a general merchant, establishing his location in that town, his parents removed there where they spent the remainder of their lives. At that time, Harrisonville had but 800 inhabitants with no mercantile or banking facilities.

When he reached Pleasant Hill he found he could obtain no horse to carry him to Harrisonville so he was compelled to walk the entire distance of twelve miles fording unbridged streams. For the first four years of his business here, his goods had to be carted from Pleasant Hill, as the railroad was not built until 1869. The post office was located in the upper story of the court house and was accessible only by a ladder. Harrisonville was then a military post and as the town was filled with soldiers, every house was packed to its fullest capacity. In 1865 Mr. Deacon erected a house on W. Wall St., the lumber for which was hauled by ox team from Pleasant Hill. The general merchandising business which he started gradually developed into an extensive hardware and implement house, and was located on the southwest corner of the west side of the square.

Mr. Deacon remained as sole proprietor of the establishment until 1869, when he admitted a brother, Andrew G. Deacon, into partnership. In 1868, another brother, Eliakim C. Deacon, came to Harrisonville and entered the firm. It was known as Deacon Brothers until the retirement of John in 1887. Mr. Deacon was an attendant upon the services and a liberal contributor to the support of St. Peter's Episcopal Church which was organized in the front room of the Deacon home. Always interested in the growth of Harrisonville, he was one of the original stockholders of the Harrisonville Hotel and he built a tile factory and a creamery.

He was married Oct. 26, 1853 at Brighton, Canada to Flavia A. Proctor, daughter of a well-known family there. They were the parents of five children, three of whom died within ten days in Canada in 1863. They were also parents of twins, Allie and John. In 1886, Allie became the wife of Wm. Leonard Burney, an attorney in Harrisonville. Mr. and Mrs. Burney became the parents of three children, Flavia America (married Lt. Col. F. N. Chilton, Harrisonville); Travis Deacon Burney (married Ethel Graham) and Mary Ruth (married Harry Pearson II, Harrisonville).

Mr. Deacon died March 5, 1910 at the home of his daughter, Allie, where he and his wife had lived after he sustained a stroke of paralysis. Mrs. Deacon died in 1914.

In 1917 his wife, Lucy, became ill and died.

GILBERT DEAN

Gilbert Dean was born April 27, 1840 near Lancaster in Fairfield County, Ohio. He was a Union soldier in the Civil War and married Ann Emundson in Huntington County, Indiana on November 8, 1866. He brought his young family to Cass County, Missouri in 1870 in company with the Dean family. They lived in a log cabin for many years. Five small children are buried beside their parents in Sharon Cemetery. Gilbert Dean raised four children near Drexel, Missouri. They were 1. Camellia Dean, who married Henry Scott and lived in Aurora, Missouri. 2. John Dean (1878-1957) who married Viola Irish and lived on the Gilbert Dean family place until his death. 3. Lulu Dean, who married Earl Porter and lived in Tulsa, Oklahoma. 4. Roscoe Dean, who married Jennie Marsh and lived in Louisburg, Kansas.

(See History of Cass County by Allen Glenn, page 480.)

JOHN DEAN SR.

After the Civil War was over, John Dean, of Huntington County, Indiana, made a trip West to look for a place to settle. His children had young families and he wished to provide homes and land for each of them, so he visited a cousin in Kansas City who advised him to purchase land there for $1.25 an acre. Since John Dean was looking for farm land he looked the country over and decided to buy land in Cass County for $1.00 an acre. The year was 1868. He bought land for each of his children and himself, then returned to Indiana to prepare for the move to Missouri, east of the present town of Drexel.

John Dean was born January 18, 1813 in Pennsylvania. He was the son of Richard and Jane Dean and the grandson of James and Sarah Dean who lived in or near Philadelphia during the Revolution. Richard Dean removed to Fairfield County, Ohio about 1816. John Dean married, in Fairfield County, Rachael Hite, daughter of Abraham and Barbara Pugh Hite, on November 29, 1835. They settled near her parents in Richland Township and became prosperous raising black Kentucky race horses.

In 1863 the John Dean family moved to Huntington County, Indiana where they bought land and lived until they moved to Cass County, Missouri. When they came to Missouri, they journeyed to St. Louis by covered wagon where they crossed the Missouri River by flatboat Then they traveled to Booneville where they crossed the Missouri again by flatboat. A final crossing of the Missouri River was made at the ferry crossing at Kansas City. Those who brought wagons loaded with all of their possessions to Missouri were William Harper and his wife, Sarah Dean Harper, along with their six children, Louis Dean and his wife, Lydia, and their four children; Bray Beaty and Abagail Dean Beaty with their newborn child; Jake Berry and Barbara Jane Dean Berry with three small children; Gilbert and Ann Dean with a small child; John and Hannah Dean and a nephew, Frank Hite.

John Dean gave each of his children a deed to 80 acres of land, a team of horses, harness, a cow and a featherbed. They found the country in prairie with very little land in cultivation. Wild life of every kind was plentiful and wild turkeys were caught and put in pens.

Among the experiences remembered by members of the Dean family were the grasshopper plague which came in August of 1874, the man John Dean caught in his bear trap when he came to steal corn from a corncrib, the collection of silver with which to make spoons, the making of hand woven coverlets and the death of Rachael Dean on October 31, 1873.

John Dean married secondly, Marsella Temple, a widow whose husband had been killed during the Civil War. He met Mrs. Temple during a two weeks Baptist camp meeting at Lone Jack. He died at the age of 75 on February 5, 1888 and is buried at Sharon Cemetery near Drexel, Missouri.

Children of John and Rachael Dean: 1. Louis Dean, born Sept. 3, 1836 married Lydia Margaret Berry, daughter of Eli and Betsy Berry. He died at Mulberry, Kansas in 1899. 2. Sarah Dean, born Oct. 13, 1837 married William Harper, died near Drexel, Missouri in 1911. 3. Gilbert Dean, born April 27, 1840 married Ann Emundson, died 1925. He was a Civil War soldier in Indiana. 4. Barbara Jane Dean, born Jan. 18, 1843, married Jake Berry, died in 1934 at Fredonia, Kansas. 5. John Dean, born Feb. 1, 1846, married Hannah Beaty, died 1894. Buried at Sharon, Drexel, Missouri. 6. Abagail Dean, born Aug. 23, 1851, married James Bray Beaty, died near Drexel, Missouri.

JOHN DEAN JR.

John Dean, son of John and Rachael Dean, was born Feb. 1, 1846 near Lancaster, Ohio. When he was about 19 years old he received a spinal injury which crippled him for his entire life. His father guaranteed every horse he sold and only one was ever returned. He gave his sons strict orders that they were not to attempt to ride that one, but his youngest son did ride the horse one day while the family was away from home. All went well until the horse heard the hoofbeats of the returning horses when she threw her rider into a ditch and pinned him beneath her. John Dean, Jr. was near death for several days and never completely recovered. He married Hannah Beaty, sister of James Bray Beaty after the Civil War. Hannah was born Dec. 11, 1847 in Indiana and taught school 19 years before her marriage. In her second year at Bloomington, Indiana University during the Civil War she raised a field of flax from which she made ticking for a straw mattress. It was used for many years and when discarded, her daughter saved a piece of the linen and used it to embroider a cross-stitch sampler. John and Hannah Dean came to Missouri in 1870 but they never lived on their 80 acres of the John Dean, Sr. purchase. They brought their walnut furniture with them from Indiana.

John Dean died Mar. 18, 1894 after a long illness. Hannah died Nov. 16, 1932. Their children were Nelly Dean, born about 1876 married Otis Dorsett Nov. 11, 1893; S. Verne, born Oct. 19, 1894 married Adaline Lyons, of Iola, Kansas and had Elizabeth, born Mar. 26, 1926, who married Howard Hall June 5, 1948.

LOUIS DEAN

Louis Dean was a resident of Cass County, Missouri in 1870. He was born September 3, 1836 in Fairfield County, Ohio, the son of John and Rachael Dean. Since he was the oldest son, he was his father's helper and when he married Lydia Margaret Berry, daughter of Eli and Betsy Berry near Lancaster, Ohio on February 26, 1860, his father built Louis and Lydia a two-room house near his. When the Civil War broke out, Louis paid $50.00 to the government to hire another man to go in his place as he was a married man with a family to support. Louis Dean went to Indiana, locating at the small town of Mayhorn where he worked on the railroad which was being built. In 1870 he removed to Missouri with other members of the Dean family. He improved and lived on his 80 acres of land which his father had given each of his children. Louis Dean was a jolly, good man and had many friends. He ran a huxter wagon into Kansas City every week for years. In later years, Louis Dean moved to Mulberry, Kansas where he died September 3, 1899. Lydia Dean lived to be 93 years old and died in 1929.

The children of Louis and Lydia Berry Dean were 1. Almedia Dean, born Jan. 9, 1861 in Fairfield County, Ohio, married L. Taylor Parrish, son of Larkin and Hannah Parrish, in Cass County, Missouri. 2. Elizabeth Dean, died age 1 year, buried at Everett, Missouri.

RICHARD DEAN

Richard Dean was a native of New York City and of Scotch-Irish descent. Two brothers of Richard Dean, John and Joseph, were soldiers in the Revolutionary War. Richard was a sea captain for thirty years, having begun his seafaring life on the Great Lakes and later became a salt water sailor. According to the Census of 1880, John Dean declared that his father, Richard, was born in Pa. as well as himself.

According to family tradition, "The first known to bear the name of Dean was born in Prinn, Germany after the 16th century. He was Jon Deign. He had two brothers, who with him went to Ireland after their marriage. They were knighted and the spelling was changed to the English "Dean."

John Dean, born Jan. 18, 1813 in or near Pittsburg, Pa. was said to be the 7th generation to bear the name "John". He was the son of Richard Dean and he went to Ohio as a young man. He married Rachael Hite in Ohio Nov. 29, 1835 and settled near Rushville, Ohio. John Dean prospered and although he bred and sold black Kentucky racing horses, he did not believe in betting or racing the horses.

In 1858 John Dean bought a family Bible in which he wrote, "John Deans' Book. October 15, 1858, Baltimore, Md. Price $3.50." It is a large Bible and has the birthdates, marriage dates and death dates of all of his children as well as those of Louis Dean, his eldest child recorded in it.

In 1863 the Dean family moved to within 25 miles of Ft. Wayne, Ind. where they owned land until 1868 when John Dean made a trip west to look for a new place to settle. It was his wish that he might provide land for himself as well as his married children.

The large family left Indiana sometime after Jan. 7, 1870 and arrived in Cass County, Missouri before May. As soon as they were settled near Everett, they began plowing in order to put in a crop that first year. John Dean gave each of his children 80 acres of land, a team of horses, harness, a cow and a featherbed and most of them had built on their land when in 1874 grasshoppers came on an August day, darkening the sky like a storm cloud. They ate every growing thing and all was lost except for small grain already harvested and potatoes in the ground. In the spring of 1875, corn was planted and grasshoppers began hatching from eggs laid the fall before. Beggars were everywhere and people began to leave the country. It was late in June before the grasshoppers flew away. Corn was replanted, a favorable season followed, and a bountiful crop was harvested in the fall of 1875.

At one time the family was so large that there were not enough spoons to go around, so silver from buttons and jewelry was collected and sent to Boston where a silversmith by the name of "H. Sage" minted teaspoons for them. There were six of these spoons in the home of John Dean when his second wife came there and she, having household goods of her own, gave the spoons and glassware to his children.

The first wife of John Dean, and mother of his children, Rachael (Hite) Dean, died Oct. 31, 1873 and on Oct. 24, 1874, he married a widow whose husband had been killed in the Civil War, Marcille Temple, at Lone Jack.

Children were 1. Louis Dean, born Sept. 3, 1836 near Rushville, Ind. (See sketch on Louis Dean). 2. Gilbert Dean, born Apr. 27, 1840 near Lancaster in Fairfield Co., Ohio (See sketch on Gilbert Dean) 3. Barbara Jane Dean, born Jan. 8, 1843 near Lancaster, Ohio, married Jacob Culp Berry Aug. 17, 1862. (See sketch on Barbara Jane (Dean) Berry) 4. John Dean, born Feb. 1, 1846 near Lancaster, Ohio. (See sketch on John Dean, 1846) 5. Abagail Dean, born Aug. 23, 1851, Fairfield Co., Ohio, married James Bray Beaty Sept. 10, 1868. (See sketch on Abagail (Dean) Beaty) 6. Sarah Dean, born Oct. 13, 1837, married William Harper Aug. 15, 1858 in Ohio. (See sketch on Sarah (Dean) Harper).

The following interesting story is told of John Dean, son of Richard. During his early, hard years in Missouri, John Dean suspected a thief had been stealing his corn from a log corncrib. He set a bear trap and the following morning he found a man, shivering from the cold, in the trap. John said, "Good morning, Sir," and set about feeding his livestock. When he had finished with his chores, he returned to the man and told him he would set him free if he would do exactly as he said. The man agreed. Taking the man to the house, he was fed a good breakfast, then made to accompany John to the corn crib where his sack was filled with corn. As a final word the thief was warned never to set foot on Dean land again.

Deane, was a native of the north of Ireland, who, coming to the American colonies in 1774, cast his lot with the patriots and served in the Continental army and came out of the Revolutionary War whole. He lived to reach the extreme old age of 104 years, dying in Maryland, where he is buried. His son, John T. Deane, was born in Virginia, but left that state prior to the outbreak of the War of 1812 and settled in Kentucky, from which state he enlisted and served under the command of Gen. Andrew Jackson, later twice President of the United States. With the return to civilian life he settled in Bracken County, Kentucky, and devoted himself to the work of the Baptist ministry. Three times married, his second wife was the mother of A. H. Deane. In all he had five sons and four daughters who reached maturity, the sons being: Thomas, John, David, Charles and Abner.

Rev. Abner H. Deane, son of John T. Deane, was born in Bracken County, Kentucky, January 27, 1828, and there he spent the first 26 years of his life. He attended the academy at Hardinsburg, Ky., bringing his wife to Missouri and proposing to go into business. They made the trip down the Ohio River to Cairo, Ill., thence up the Mississippi River to St. Louis, and from there to Cass County, Mo. first by boat to Independence in 1856. They moved to Austin where he and his father-in-law established a plow factory in the fall of 1856. Following his ordination as a minister in Independence, Mo., in 1859, Deane felt he needed preparation so he began religious studies, and in the spring of 1861 he completed arrangements to enter William Jewell College in the fall. But the Civil War altered his plans. When the need arose, he organized the First Missouri Cavalry and held a major's commission, serving with it until 1863 on the borders of Missouri and Kansas, when the company was mustered out. Many of his old friends had espoused the Southern cause, had gone South into the Confererate army and their families were left unprotected and in some cases, destitute. He generously aided these unfortunates, and because of this came under suspicion from the Federal Government, and when he declined to take the test oath required by a new law passed by the Missouri Legislature he was arrested in 1866 and imprisoned in the jail at Independence, Mo. His reason for refusing was that he believed that the fact he was a Federal officer in active service was sufficient guarantee of his loyalty, as well as the fact that he was a minister of the Gospel and not liable to perjure himself. It was while he was in jail that Captain George Caleb Bingham visited him and asked the privilege of depicting him in prison. After a trying confinement of several weeks and narrowly escaping from a prison fire, Deane was released and exonerated. Several times Bingham visited him during his stay in jail to bring him books. Once he brought his camera and took Deane's photograph, from which he afterward painted his portrait. It was titled "Major Deane in Jail", an oil portrait on thick layered paper 10″ x 12″. Believed for many years to be an oil portrait on canvas, it was presented in 1940 to William Jewell College by the family of Rev. Robert S. Thomas, the first president of the college. In 1971, close scrutiny of the portrait showed that the painting was not on canvas and also visible on the back of the work are shadowy silhouettes of eight stamps, removed long ago, which were pasted on the back of card photographs, as required by law at the time the portrait was created. Thus "Major Dean in Jail," an oil painting over a photograph, is revealed to be perhaps the rarest and most unusual of Bingham's portraits. Released from jail and mustered out of the service at Paola, Kansas, Rev. Deane lived there until the close of the war. He was urged to become a candidate for the United States Senate, but refused, preferring to continue his ministerial work, which he did in churches of Cass Co.

Twice married, by his first wife, Sarah Manning Deane, he had the following children: Edgar W., who died at Harrisonville; Oscar L., who died at Lewiston, Montana, at the age of thirty years and is buried there. After his wife's death during the Civil War, Reverend Deane married Maria Maxwell, a daughter of Samuel Maxwell, of an old family of Virginia. Two sons were born of the second marriage: John M. and George C., residents of Harrisonville. Rev. Deane died November 18, 1912 after a long ministry during which he baptized 3,282 people and married more than 2000 couples. His wife died in August, 1915 and both are buried in Oakland Cemetery, Harrisonville.

L. O. DENNY

Louis Oscar Denny and Cora Elizabeth Dealy were united in marriage on July 19, 1905 about five miles North of Harrisonville, Cass County, Missouri, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dealy. Cora Elizabeth was the second child of a family of four. Her brothers being Charles and Ivy and sister, Blanche. Mrs. Denny was born on a farm near Tarsney, Jackson County, Missouri on July 21, 1885. Her parents were W. H. Dealy and Lucy Florence Bradley. Her great grandparents were David Dealy and Rebecca Mills Dealy, pioneer settlers of Jackson County, settling there in 1823 near Sibley, Missouri. The great grandparents were parents of 26 children. Louis Oscar Denny was a native of Bronston, Pulaski County, Kentucky and was born February 28, 1873. He left his parents and seven brothers and sisters and came to Caldwell County, Missouri in 1898, living with relatives until he came to Cass County about 1899. Louis Oscar and Cora Elizabeth were parents of four children. The eldest, Charles Denny, born near Bronston, Kentucky in 1907. The Dennys, with their young son, returned to Cass County in 1909 and purchased a part of the father-in-laws farm and there operated the farm until Mr. Dennys death in 1957.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Denny.

In 1911, their second child, Lisle O. Denny, was born on the farm, followed by a daughter, Bernice Louise in 1914 and son, John Ivan in 1919. Mrs. Denny continued to reside on the farm until 1962 when the home was sold and she lived in Harrisonville until her death on March 21, 1972. The children are presently living in the following areas; Charles, at 7714 Snowden, Richmond Heights, Missouri. Lisle O., 4308 W. 66th Street, Prairie Village, Kansas, Bernice Louise Foster, 1203 Edgevale Terrace, Harrisonville and John I. at 613 Wall Street, Wentzville, Missouri.

Some notable events in the life of the Denny family, the first occurring in the summer of 1928, when their large gamble-roof, frame barn was consumed by fire, destroying over 50 tons of clover hay, several hundred bushels of wheat and corn and all the horse harness and small tools. This loss had its telling effects on the welfare of the family over the next few years. In 1930, Mr. Denny had the misfortune to lose an eye in an accident while building fence on his farm. In 1931, one of the main work horses fell in a deep cistern and most of the neighborhood came to offer their help and sympathy. The horse,

"Old Bill," was pulled from the well after son Lisle climbed down in the well and put a cable around the horse. Davis Brothers wrecker then wenched the animal to the surface where he was cleaned and warmed by "gunny" sacks. In a half hour or so he was up and ready for the collar. The Denny family endured the terrible economic depression on the farm. Dry years — 1930, 1931, 1933, 1934, and 1936 were almost disastrous.

In 1932, Mr. Denny and his youngest son, John, had 110 acres of beautiful corn growing, only to see it totally destroyed by a hail and windstorm on August 6, 1932. In 1935, the community was drenched with rain from early spring until July 11th. Wheat harvest was mudded out, the wheat, damaged by too much rain, yielded only 8 to 10 bushels per acre.

In 1936, Mr. Denny sold 84 acres of his land and retained his home and a 31 acre tract. The home and buildings were sold in the 60's and the balance of land is still owned by the four surviving children.

They were the parents of five children; a son, who died in infancy; Lawrence Deshazer of Canoga Park, California; Mrs. Charles (Inez) Hicks, of Dallas, Texas; Donna Fotte, of Kansas City, Missouri and Mrs. Don (Eva) Wilkinson, of Wichita, Kansas.

Lawrence entered the service during his Junior year in high school. The girls were all graduates of Raymore High School. From talk with Celia Wirt, granddaughter of Margaret, she remembers hearing family talk of the long, hard trip and the reason for it. After the war they were unable to keep the farm going. The troops had freed the slaves and burned their fields and orchards. With their family and a few faithful servants they came to find a new place to live. They had heard great stories from two of J. D. 's brothers who had traveled west to the gold fields and to the Missouri River area.

The spelling of the Eavey name has changed so many times that tracing has been difficult, but the original spelling is believed to have been "Eby", and from there twelve other spellings have been found.

From copy of Hight & Associates Land Titles, Inc., Margaret Eavey purchased a lot from Edward Tuwgler in April, 1867. This lot is next to the Christian Church and the original house for many years was the church parsonage. J. D. was a builder by trade.

LOYD ERVIN

Loyd Ervin is the son of Walter Green Ervin, who married Elizabeth Parthena Powell, and they lived in Lee's Summit where his father ran a pool hall. They moved to the Hadsell community and had three sons, Buford, now deceased, Loyd and John. Loyd and his wife have lived 1½ miles northeast of Gunn City for 32 years and celebrated our 50th Wedding Anniversary May 24, 1972, at the Christian Church in Pleasant Hill.

Loyd's wife's parents were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Strack. Her father came to America from Alsace, Lorrain over 75 years ago. His country was taken over by the Germans and in order to avoid the German draft, he swam across the river to get away. Later three of his brothers came over one by one. They were Frank and Martin of Oklahoma, and Ignatz of Kansas City. Loyd's wife was born in 1902 in the east bottoms and old Electric Park was just across from her home. Loyd and his wife were married in 1922 at St. Stephens Catholic Church.

Loyd and his wife have three children: Betty Ervin Constant of Independence, who had two children, Jimmy, 22, who died in a car accident at Warrensburg and Loretta, 12, of the home; Earl, who married Ann Lyness and has a foster son, Alex Lyness; Don married Mary Barnard and they have three children, Timmy, 15, Mary Lynne, 12, and Donna Kaye, 7, and they live in the Hadsell community.

Loyd and his wife have lived in and around this community for the past 50 years. We also went through the depression years and know what that is all about.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Evans.

FRED EVANS

The Evans family has known the settling and development of Cass County, as William Frederick Evans was born in February 29, 1876, the son of William Newman Evans and Mary Elizabeth Yost Evans, pioneers of Cass County. Mr. William N. Evans was born June 7, 1832 in Bowling Green, Kentucky. In 1861, he enlisted in the Union Army and served as a Veterinarian. From then on he was known among his close friends as "Doc" Evans. After the war he settled on the "Old Trail", what is known now as 58 Highway east of Belton. In 1870 he married Mary Elizabeth Yost, daughter of George and Elizabeth Ritter Yost, also natives of Kentucky. The Yost family had settled south of High Grove Road near Grandview, so when the Civil War broke out, the Yost men joined the Confederate army. Under order No. 11, they were driven from their home and it was burned. A young daughter was very ill that night and she died of exposure. They then settled near Freeman. Upon their return they homesteaded land on the Cass-Jackson County Line. Squire Evans, as he was known generally, was prominent in early local history, serving on the Immigrant Committee, Grand Jury, Belton Fair Director, Masons, and church and schools.

Fred was one of seven children, George, Cora, Thomas, Fred, John, Laura Long and Mary McPheeters. Fred was married on October 21, 1903 to Miss Mollie Perkins at the home of Rev. Charles Scarritt in Kansas City. They attended the American Royal while there, as part of their wedding celebration. Mr. Evans being a well known stockman had a record of attending the first American Royal, and every year during the years up until the time of his death, thus the American Royal was always a highlight in their lives. They established their home east of Belton. Mrs. Evans was the daughter of John R. and Melvina Dealy Perkins. Their families came to this area from North Carolina and North Tennessee and settled near Lone Jack long before the Civil War. After their marriage in 1876, they came to the Raymore-Belton area and settled southeast of Belton on what is known as the Pickering Farm and then known as Harrelson Station. Mollie was the third child in this family of fourteen children.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans celebrated their Golden Wedding in October 1953, Mr. Evans was a charter member of the Eastern Star at Raymore and a past president of the Raymore School Board, sixty-one years a Mason and 33 years a farm manager. They were the parents of three daughters, Margaret of Kansas City, who married Robert Ross Clendenen, son of Robert Ross and Josephine Morrow Clendenen, of northeast of Raymore. Elizabeth of Belton, who married John P. Perry, son of John O. and Maude Ragland Perry of Belton, and June Bullock of Raytown, who married William S. Bullock, son of Elphus and Beulah Stewart Bullock of Belton. There are two grandchildren, Rev. Fred W. Hodkins, son of Mrs. Perry by a former marriage, Fred and his wife, Gale reside in Longmont, Colorado, where he is associate minister of the First Congregational Church, and Mrs. Chester Durnal (Betty June Bullock) and her husband are residents of Raytown, where both are teachers at the Longview Community College.

Mr. Evans passed away April 17, 1956 and Mrs. Evans passed away Feb. 12, 1964.

WILLIAM NEWMAN EVANS

William Newman Evans was born near Bowling Green, Warren County, Kentucky June 6, 1832, the son of John P. (born in South Carolina in 1781, served in war of 1812, in battle of New Orleans), and Rebecca (Osborne) Evans. In 1835, he came with his sister, Unity, and her husband, Joseph Gilmore, to Missouri and settled in Lafayette County near Lexington. He grew up and was educated here. When 18, he joined Russell, Waddell, Majors and with Martin, Pomeroy and others went overland to California in 1849, where he stayed three years. He came back to St. Louis and Madison County, Ill. and was married to Miss Nancy Ellen Hayes in 1860. They were parents of Margaret (Manary) and Anna (Crawford). After serving in the Union Army, he returned to Raymore communty, then called Quick Hill, where the only resident was his sister, Unity Gilmore and family. Nancy Ellen died in 1868 and is buried in Blue Ridge Cemetery on Truman farm in Grandview. In 1870, he married Mary Elizabeth Yost, born near Lexington, Kentucky, daughter of William and Elizabeth Ritter Yost. To them were born: George (married Sonotra Brown), Thomas, Cora, William Fredrick (married Mollie Perkins), John Osborne (married Lillian Wilkinson), Laura Ellen (married Will Long), Mary Elizabeth (married J. L. McPheeters). The Gilmores were well known for Gilmore School, as good an educational facility as could be found in the area. The only road at this time was the Old Trail, known today as Hi-way 58, running from Kansas State line to Pleasant Hill. When Fred was overseer, all roads were laid out from this point.

The W. N. Evans Family in 1905.

William Newman was active in bringing the railroad and mail service to the area, having made connections with prominent people in St. Louis. He served on the Emigrant Committee which brought permanent and substantial citizens into the county. He was president of the Belton Fair Assoc., the Farmers Bank of Belton, active in Masonic and Republican in politics. George lived his life time on the family farm and was well known throughout the area as a prominent Hereford breeder. This farm is known as Silver Lake.

(See Fred Evans history)

John married Lillian Wilkinson, both graduates of Ottawa University, candidate for nomination for Governor of Kansas at time of his death in 1924. They had five children: Jack Jr., Frank Newman, Bernard, William and Josephine. All moved to California in 1925. All became prominent in community affairs in their areas.

Laura married William Long. They had two sons, Mack, Mayor of Pleasant Hill many years, and Charles Newman.

Mary married J. L. McPheeters. They had five children: Newman, Truman, Fred, Mary, all living in California and Rose Oneita, deceased.

This family covers life of one pioneer family in this area in the last 100 years, and is written by one who remembers many stories and yarns as told by her grandfather. She remembers his adoration of the Hermitage, home of Andrew Jackson, and how he wanted to copy it. She tells of ice cream cones being made and sold at Belton Fair in 1904 by Aunt Maggie Manary, who got the recipe at the St. Louis World's Fair. The Manarys had a bakery and restaurant on Main Street in Belton, selling bread at 5¢ per loaf and a full four course dinner for 80¢.

Judge Evans claimed President Lincoln as a friend and early pictures and clippings bear this out. He died in 1908 and is buried beside Mary Elizabeth in Raymore Cemetery. Thus ends my saga of life in Raymore area following the Civil War, the Spanish American War, and the First World War, where my husband Ross Clendenen was a radio technician. We did not have radios until after this last war. This was the day of fine livestock and fairs, trotting horses, sleigh rides and hay rides, bands, singing around the organ and guitar and later the piano, china painting, spelling bees and pie suppers, and quilting bees and church for the older women. For the older men reminiscing on the wars past and dreaming visions of the area. Perhaps Kansas City would even come that far south.

RUTH AND LEOTA EWING

Ruth and Leota Ewing, long time residents of Creighton, Mo., are the daughters of James Willis and Frances Elizabeth Daugherty Ewing. The father was a farmer who was born Nov. 27, 1856, in Findley, Ohio, a son of John and Orpha Carr Ewing. The mother Frances Elizabeth Daugherty, was born Sept. 23, 1857 in Union, Mo.

James Ewing was 12 years old when he came from Ohio with his parents to Missouri, and they located in a farm three miles south of Warrensburg. He attended the district school along with his brothers and sisters, Jimmie Hall, James and Fannie Daugherty, Billy and Sarah Smith, the Lewis children and many others. These children also attended singing school at night, where James was an apt pupil.

James Ewing and Billy Smith made sleighs, and soon James was taking Fannie Daugherty out sleigh riding. The friendship developed into courtship, and they were married one Sunday night, Oct. 8, 1879, in the rural church they attended regularly. James found a small farm in Bates County, and that was their first home. Later he farmed in Johnson County, then came to Creighton when that town was in its infancy — 1886. He built a meat shop with two rooms and living quarters were in the rear. Later Mr. Ewing built a home with two rooms and added more as the family grew.

Ruth Ewing has written a wonderful account of her memories of her family, businesses and many early citizens of Creighton. It is too long for this book, but is on file at the Cass County Historical Society.

Eight children were born to James and Fannie Ewing. Carl was born in 1880, and lived only three months. Maude was born June 20, 1881, married John Hanley Jones June 10, 1901, and died April 19, 1919. Lula was born Dec. 19, 1884, married Cleveland F. Price Jan. 10, 1904, and died July 19, 1967 in St. Joseph, Mo. Leota was born March 27, 1887. James Upton was born Feb. 1, 1889, and married Ora Mae Kepner Sept. 2, 1917. Nona Mildred was born July 18, 1892, married Ralph H. Evarts on July 10, 1918, died May 4, 1927 in St. Joseph. Lee Hall was born April 8, 1894 and died Feb. 17, 1910. Ruth was born May 7, 1896.

James Ewing died Oct. 20, 1918 at the age of 62, and his wife died Oct. 29, 1933. Leota taught the primary room at Creighton school from 1931 to 1942. In March 1938 Ruth and Leota moved to the farm. In 1953 Leota retired from teaching. The last 8½ years had been spent teaching in county rural schools. Ruth was, by her own description, a farmerette until her retirement in 1961.

The influence of this family in the Creighton community will be felt for many years, for Mr. and Mrs. Ewing and their children, Upton, Leota and Ruth, helped with so many good things. In this year of the Creighton Centennial, this family name will be heard many times.

SHIELDS W. FAIR, M.D.

Dr. S. W. Fair, who was born in 1873, came to Raymore in 1899 to begin his practice of medicine. He came directly from medical school. His first patient was W. H. Barron, who was ill with pneumonia and Dr. Fair successfully treated and cared for him, in the days when antibiotics were unknown. This started him on a long successful career in medicine.

Dr. Fair later moved to Belton where he practiced for a number of years, later moving to 75th and Waldo in Kansas City for another long practice at that location. He died there in January 1950.

While living in Belton, Dr. and Mrs. Fair became the parents of twin girls, who died later. They had no other children. Mrs. Fair died some years after the doctor.

Dr. Fair typified the old time country doctor who made house calls and often forgot about charges when he knew the family was in dire straits. One particular time he had a patient in the hospital who needed blood desperately. No money was available for this, so Dr. Fair became the donor for his patient. It was quite by accident that this event became known, for he was an humble and dedicated physician. Many Cass County residents held him in high esteem.

CHANCEY E. FAMULINER

Chancey E. Famuliner was born August 6, 1898. He and his wife, Lula, live in Garden City vicinity on the home place of Charles E. Famuliner which he bought in 1872. He was married to Miss Mary Alice Blaine in 1876. Both are now deceased. They were the parents of the following children: George W. and Arthur C., both deceased; Lula (Mrs. A. L. Burch) and Chancey. They left each of their children a well improved farm.

Chancey and Lula have one son, Cleo, born November 6, 1917. Cleo's wife, Opal, died December 10, 1975. Cleo has two children, Charles C. and Emma Lou.

Charles lives in Wilmington, N.C., and is employed with the Wachovia Mortgage Co. He and his wife, Linda, have two small children, Chancey C. and Anna Beth. Emma Lou married William F. Hall, an accountant in various firms in Kansas City, Missouri. They have two small children, Michael and Danny.

Chancey's grain and livestock farm is located two and one-half miles west of Garden City, Missouri and one-half mile south of Highway 7.

Cleo's farm joins his father's on the west. They farm together on several hundred acres. The land is kept in good condition, well fenced and cross-fenced, with soil tests and rotated crops — in corn not more than three years followed by oats and soybeans, red clover and timothy for hay. An ample supply of water is available from wells, ponds and dams. This farm has a 2200 foot landing strip. Their plane, a Cessna 172, is housed in a hangar at the back of the home and is used mostly when a breakdown occurs in the machinery, and occasionally for pleasure trips.

FRANK FAMULINER

Frank Famuliner was born Feb. 10, 1917, son of Arthur C. and Irma (Gross) Famuliner, who were married in the home of her parents Nov. 30, 1910 by the Rev. D. W. Britton. Both are now deceased. Their children were: Erwin, deceased; Frank; Arlie, who lived on the homeplace; Jack, who lives in South Carolina; Blaine, who lives on the Gross farm inherited by their mother from her parents.

Frank Famuliner and Helen Sisk were married Aug. 23, 1956, and live on a farm located next to the home where Frank was born, part of the property of his father, 2 miles west of Garden City, Mo.

Helen Famuliner is the daughter of Buford and Blanche Sisk who now live in Garden City after retiring from a lifetime of farming. Helen was formerly married to Ralph Keith King, June 16, 1946. He lost his life in the Korean conflict, missing in action Aug. 6, 1952 and declared dead by the U.S. Government Feb. 11, 1953. Helen has an only brother, Darrell Sisk, also a farmer.

Frank Famuliner was associated in farming and stockraising with his father until the latter's death in 1967. Frank and his brother Blaine are now engaged in farming on a vast number of acres in grain and livestock.

JAMES B. FAMULINER, JR.

James B. Famuliner, Jr., whose father, James B. Famuliner, Sr. and grandfather, George W. Famuliner biographies appeared in Glenn's History of Cass County, was born on April 14, 1921 at the farm where he now lives. The home is located 5 miles South West of Harrisonville on 280 acres which George W. acquired soon after settling in Missouri in 1875. He subsequently passed these acres on to his son James, Sr. who farmed there all of his life. At his death in November 1951, the farm became James'. James' Mother was the late Martha Shumate Famuliner.

James was married to Mamie C. Brewington of Tulsa, Oklahoma April 26, 1942 and they are the parents of two daughters, Sharon K. Famuliner de Deleo'n of Guatemala, and Dorthy J. Jungmeyer of Peculiar, Missouri.

James served his country during World War II as an aviation radar technician in the Navy. After the war he returned to the trade of electrician which he still "sandwiches" in between his farming duties.

Since acquiring the farm, James has built terraces, waterways and seeded approximately 200 acres of improved pasture from which he harvests seed and hay as well as haylage. He stores the haylage in one of two silos. He raises 55 acres of corn each year which he cuts as silage to be stored in a silo also. He has a beef cow herd which he raises, feeds, and sells direct from the farm. He also owns 80 acres near Garden City which is in fescue pasture.

James has been a delegate to the Cass County Soils and Crops conference, each year, since he started farming. He was a member of Balanced Farming Ass'n which has been his mainstay in his progressive farming. He and his family received the County Farm Management Award in 1958 and the State Farm Management Award for Cass County in 1975. He is a member of the Christian Church in Harrisonville.

He feels very fortunate in having the opportunity to be a steward of the soil and his ultimate goal is to pass this same opportunity on to his grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Farmer and family.

FRED LESTER FARMER

The original land grant made to William Farmer in 1848 is a prized possession of the present owner of the farm, Margaret Farmer. This document was signed by the secretary of President James K. Polk on March 1, 1848.

William Farmer came to Missouri in 1844 and settled on 160 acres near Pleasant Hill. In the early 1830's Frederick and Margaret (Dame) Farmer moved to Missouri from Tennesee and David Dame Farmer was born to them in March, 1838. Frederick was born in Knox County, Tennessee in 1803 to John and Sarah Farmer. He and William were brothers.

Upon the death of William, David Dame Farmer inherited the farm and he and his wife Clara Cline, whom he married March 8, 1883, lived on it until his death March 11, 1903. David and Clara were the parents of two children, Cora Farmer Tallman and Fred Lester Farmer.

Fred Lester Farmer inherited a portion of the original farm and he and wife Margaret (Hilderbrand) Farmer lived there until his death July 1, 1973. Fred and Margaret were married on April 10, 1918 at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hilderbrand of Peculiar by the Reverend George C. Monroe.

Fred entered the army April 28, 1918 and served with the H.Q. Co. 356th Inf., 89th Division. After his return, he and Margaret moved to the farm on November 6, 1919. Their only child Freda Lee was born here.

Freda Lee Farmer and Dean W. Browning were married May 25, 1941 and their wedding reception was held in the old farm house. Dean and Freda had two children Judy and James. Several years after the death of her husband Dean, and the death of her father, Freda built a new home on a portion of the farm.

Three generations are still living on the farm; Mrs. Margaret Farmer, her daughter, Freda Lee Farmer Browning and her son James Browning who farms the ground and raises cattle. Freda also has a daughter, Judy Browning Long and she and her husband, J. C. and their daughter, Lana reside in Knob Noster, Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. Lavale Ferguson.

He was a horticulturist and designer of flowers. Worked at Kellogg Greenhouse 1910-1915, Longview Farms 1917-1924, Swope Park Greenhouse 1916-1917, Truck gardener 1924, raising tomato plants in hot beds 1924-1934, Ford Motor Co. 1934-1945.

He lived in Old Town on Highway 7 in Pleasant Hill, buying the Bush Estate in 1941, one of the oldest homes in Pleasant Hill. In 1944, built a greenhouse, operating it until his death.

Working at Kellogg's, he made floral designs to be shipped over the midwest, designing and planting flower beds on Longview Farm, Swope Park and Penn Valley, in Kansas City, some designs still in use today. He had no formal training. He handed this down to his son Lavale, three grandsons, Gene Ferguson, Bicky Danforth, and Mike Hamilton.

Active as Democratic Committeeman for 25 years. A proud moment when a grandson, Joseph Hamilton became Prosecuting Attorney of Cass County. A member of the Pleasant Hill Christian Church and American War Dads.

Not knowing the word defeat, in 1962, his greenhouse was destroyed by fire. He rebuilt. In 1964 a tornado destroyed his greenhouse and home. His family said retire, but he rebuilt. A man is no bigger than the woman who stands behind him. In Jan. 1976, fire again took part of the greenhouse. Blanche, his wife, rebuilt again.

His death deprived us of another of our community's "Pioneers". Lavale lived on a moral "Frontier" where a man's word is his bond. He maintained that rare and sensitive balance between love and respect; a balance that seems so difficult for families to achieve in this day.

No member in his family questioned his parental authority, but more importantly, no member felt a lack of his genuine, heartfelt love. This extended to countless others who have known his helpful council and true concern.

He was truly appreciative of God's wonderful creation and worked lovingly and creatively with his plants and flowers. It is a rare human gift to be able to grow things in the "Plant World," but it is an even greater and God-given talent to help persons grow in the "eternal world".

Mr. and Mrs. Paris C. Flanary in 1899.

PARIS CLINGMAN FLANARY

At age 19, Paris Clingman Flanary came to near Freeman, Cass County, to live with his mother's half-sister, Rebecca (France) Maloney, and her husband Richard and family.

Paris was born in Lee County, Virginia, near the present village of Dryden, on December 3, 1865 to David Crockett Flanary and his first of 3 wives, Louisa Bailey. Grandparents were Silas Flanary (1812-1898) and his wife, Martha Horton. Parents of Silas were Thomas Flanary (born about 1782) and his first of 2 wives, Mary Bluebaugh. Thomas' father was John Flanary, Primitive Baptist minister who came from North Carolina to Lee County and died there about 1840.

Flanary kin preceded Paris to Missouri from Lee County, Virginia. By 1830, a Silas Flanary's widow Nancy and a John B. Flanary were in Jackson County. John and Zion, sons of Thomas, were in Jackson County by 1834 (some of Zion's descendants using the spelling Flanery now live in Cass County). An Elijah Flanary was there by 1840. North of the Missouri River, James Flanary, brother of Thomas, settled in Platte County in 1837. Paris, the late-comer to western Missouri, has over 60 descendants — almost all in Cass County. Morgan and Mack Flanary who lived near West Line and never married were sons of Travis Flanary, uncle of Paris.

Paris bought land in Everett Township and on March 9, 1898, at Harrisonville, married Bertha Ann Poland, daughter of Jacob and Lydia Ann (Baker) Poland of near Everett. Paris and Bertha farmed northwest of Everett, built a 3-room house where they raised their family, and had 9 children. Mabel Louise (1899-1901) and Willie C. (1916-1916) died young. Elbert Carr (1901-1957) married Amanda Marie Jones (9 children: Dollie, Elberta, Elmer, Lois, Melvin, Lyle, Hazel, Earl, and Shirley). Elsie Lydia (1903-1949) married Frank Lewis Osborn (2 children: Donald and Lester). Charles Crockett (born 1904), living near Archie, Mo., married Veneta Lucile Lucus (2 children: Raymond and Ruby). Vesta Lea (1908-1972) married Leroy Gordon Mosby (2 children: Evelyn and Hazel). Vena Lettie (1910-1956) married Chester Raymond Shipley (4 children: Norris, Arlene, Larie, and Joyce). Lee Clingman (1913-1965) married Virginia Jane Poindexter (2 children: Mildred and Thurman). Edna Lois (born 1918), living in Archie, married Winfred Russell Cantrell (3 children: Jean, Russell, and Larry).

Paris died March 31, 1949 in Everett Township. His wife, Bertha, had died almost 20 years before, on September 30, 1929 at a hospital in Kansas City, Missouri. Both are buried in the Everett Cemetery.

GEORGE FOWLER

George Fowler lived near Peculiar, Cass Co., Mo. from January, 1919 until 1940.

Mr. Fowler was born November 6, 1865, in Inverness, Scotland. His parents were George and Isabelle (McKenzie) Fowler. The father, a stone mason, came to America in 1870 to establish a home for his family. After one year he sent for his wife and three sons, establishing his home in Sweet Springs, Missouri.

This was the first trip out of their native land. Needless to say, it was very disturbing to Mrs. Fowler since her parents were very apprehensive about her coming to America. They were sure "the cannibals would eat her children." She never saw her parents again. In 1893 a fourth son was born.

George II was the oldest of the four sons. He was six years old when he came to America. He grew to manhood at Sweet Springs, Missouri.

On May 11, 1893, he was married to Miss Jennie Morris and they began their life together on a farm near Sweet Springs. Four children were born to them — Mrs. Norman (Katherine) Dowdy, deceased; Mrs. Forrest (Nannie Belle) Bremer, Peculiar, Missouri; Mrs. Frank R. (Jennie) Davis, Peculiar, Missouri; George Wesley Fowler, Rupert, Idaho.

In 1900 Mr. Fowler, with his wife and three girls, joined an immigration party who were going to North Dakota to file claims in what was then cattle country. He staked out 160 acres and put up a tent for the family. Within a short time the tent was replaced with a sod house. It was in the sod house the son, George Wesley, was born.

In 1919 Mr. Fowler came to Peculiar, having purchased a 157-acre farm from Mr. Albert J. Phillips, south of Peculiar. He was engaged in general farming and livestock raising. When his wife's health failed, he retired from active farming and rented the farm to his son-in-law and daughter, Frank and Jen Davis. After a few years' renting, Mr. Fowler sold the farm to his son, George W., who farmed it two years and then sold to Robert and Mildred Dobson, who lived there several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler joined the Cumberland Presbyterian Church at Bates City, where they moved. Mr. Fowler passed away in 1940 and was preceded by his wife in 1934.

The Clifton Frank home, dates back to 1848, survived Order No. 11 and was once the home of President Truman's family.

CLIFTON FRANK

Clifton Frank was born Dec. 19, 1908 in Kansas City, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Dean Frank, his parents came from Trivoli and Peoria, Illinois. In May of 1940, the Franks, with their young son, moved to Napa, California, where Clifton worked for the Mare Island Navy Yard as machinist for 6½ years. Their second son, Clayton Leroy, and daughter, Suzanne, were born in Napa, Calif.

In Oct. 1946 after World War II, they moved back to Mo. and settled 4½ miles southeast of Belton, Mo. on what was known at that time as the Sears farm. Clifton went back to work for Mo. Pacific R.R. as federal locomotive inspector and retired in 1973.

On June 8, 1963 Suzanne Frank was married to Kenneth Lynn, of Hickman Mills, Mo. They moved to Overland Park, Kansas. He is a methods engineer for the I.M.C.O. Container Co. in Kansas City. They have a daughter, Tammie Sue, and a son, Daniel Keith.

On June 2, 1968, Clayton Frank was married to Gladys Hader, whose home was Slater, Mo. She was teaching at that time at the Cambridge school in Belton, Missouri. They moved to Lee's Summit, Missouri. Clayton works for the Summit Engineering Company as a machinist. They have a daughter, Carla Kay.

In the year 1971, the Cass County Historical Society informed the Franks that their home was a childhood home of President Harry S. Truman. The society erected a marker and held dedication ceremonies on June 13, 1971.

LELA HALL FRANK

Lela Hall Frank is one of the Missouri sporting greats who made Cass County famous in the 1930s and 1940s.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Had Ammons of East Lynne, Lela has told of learning to shoot while hunting squirrels with her father. She started hunting when she was 16 years old and later joined the Blue River Shooting Club, which later became the Elliott Shooting Park, where she learned to shoot competitively.

In 1935 at the Elliott Club, Mrs. Frank broke her first 100 out of 100 clay targets. In trapshooting, a shooter gets 25 shots, five each from five different positions on a paved walkway. A clay target is thrown from electrically operated traps across the field.

Mrs. Frank set a women's world record in 1937 that still stands for the most number of clay targets broken in succession, 359. She was named to the men's all-American trapshoot team 13 times, and was four times the women's trapshooting champion of champions. In addition she was Missouri state women's trapshooting winner 13 times, and six times the California state champion.

She also placed third in the open division one year at the Grand Nationals Trapshooting meet, the world series of trapshooting, competing against both men and women. After moving to California several years ago, Mrs. Frank and her husband won the husband-wife state championship.

Lela Hall Frank was inducted into the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame in 1969. She was eight times women's clay target champion of North America, and along with Annie Oakley and Mrs. Ad (Plinky) Topperwein, is a female member of the Trapshooting Hall of Fame in Dayton, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirtley Elijah Franse.

KIRTLEY ELIJAH FRANSE

Kirtley Franse, better known as "Kirt", son of Peter and Celia Ward Franse was born in 1854 on their farm three miles south of Freeman. January 12, 1880 Kirt married Susan Virginia Harrison. "Aunt Jennie", as she was fondly known by all who knew her, came to Missouri from Rumble, Virginia in 1860 in a covered wagon when she was two years old. They were married in the Methodist Church in Harrisonville. She was the daughter of John L. and Sarah Bane Harrison. To this union eight children were born; Peter Ward died at 2 months; Perl married Claude A. Majors, Kansas City; Maude married Roy W. Dudley, deceased; Emma married Henry Miller, deceased; Ollie married George L. Thomas, deceased; Herman married Lessie Britton, Cleveland; Rebecca died at age 21; Edgar married Helen Cummings, Harrisonville.

Peter Franse gave Kirt and "Aunt Jennie" eighty acres of wilderness and swampland he had homesteaded, as a wedding gift. This wilderness has never been out of the Franse family. One year later, 1881, Kirt had purchased six more acres, the house was built on this hill 2½ miles southeast of Freeman. They had to use teams of oxen to clear trees to get to the hill to build their first home. The sills were hewn out of logs with a broad ax. This house had two rooms upstairs and two rooms downstairs. "Aunt Jennie" drove a team of oxen when they moved into their new home and all she had was a bullwhip and to remember to say Gee and Haw, for they had no lines. In May, 1892, their house burned. Three daughters were at school, they grabbed Ollie, the baby, out of the hi-chair and left the hi-chair to burn. They cooked in the smokehouse, slept in the grainery and barn. July that same year they had built two new rooms. Their second son, Herman was born July 23, 1892. By November four more rooms were built, two upstairs and two downstairs. Three years later, in May, 1895, the barn burned. At one time Kirt had six houses on his farm, but he did not rent for these people helped on the farm.

Kirt and "Aunt Jennie" have three children still living. Perl Majors is 93 years old and lives in Kansas City, Missouri; Herman, 83, lives in Cleveland, Missouri; Edgar, age 77, in Harrisonville and has lived all his life in Cass County. Aliene Franse Brelsford, granddaughter of Kirt and daughter of Edgar Franse, compiled this research.

The Grand River Baptist Church held their 50th year celebration in Kirt's yard to honor Peter Franse.

Celia Franse, Kirt's mother, broke her hip in April, 1891 and lived to October, which was a long time for a broken hip in those days. She died in Kirt's home. "Aunt Jennie" was a charter member of the Shiloh Methodist Church, south of Freeman.

Besides rearing their own seven children, Kirt and "Aunt Jennie" found time to be parents to the children of her sisters children; Marvin Maloney, Carrie Lee and Urless Beck and also Lloyd Cook, who were orphaned in early childhood. "Aunt Jennie" was still riding horseback when she was 75 years old.

Kirtley E. Franse died in May, 1911, age 56 years. Susan Virginia Franse died June 25, 1954; 15 days before her 96th birthday. After her death the 297 acre farm was sold to E. L. Franse, grandson. After E. L.'s death the farm was sold to Gene Franse, youngest grandson of Kirt and "Aunt Jennie," keeping the farm in the Franse family.

PETER FRANSE

Peter Franse, a prominent pioneer farmer and stockman, was born August 10, 1815 in Virginia. Peter's father John Franz came from Germany, he had his name changed to Franse when he obtained his American Citizenship. At that time no one else had the name of Franse. In 1973 there were less than 300 households in the United States with the old and distinguished Franse name.

When Peter was 18 years old he wanted to "go west" so he left Virginia and came to Missouri. He was among the very first settlers in Grand River township. In Peter's prowling around he found Jerusha Jackson, a native of Grand River community, daughter of Elijah Jackson. They were married in Jerusha's home. Peter and Jerusha settled on a farm three miles south of Freeman. Two children were born to this union, Jackson Winfield and Fannie E. The Grand River Baptist Church, southwest of Harrisonville, was organized in Peter Franse's home April 4, 1844; VanBuren County. Jerusha died at a very early age, 28 years early in 1850.

May 5, 1850, Peter joined a company and went west to California's Gold Rush. A long, hard two thousand mile trip, with 5 yoke of oxen to the wagon. Several died from cholera in "old Fort Laramie", Wyoming. December, 1851, he started home from San Francisco by sailboat and had to go around South America, Cape Horn. Some days they had enough wind to sail fast and then again, they hardly moved. One day they stood still and the men decided to take a swim, so overboard they went. When the crew spied a stream of water "going up" in the ocean, they knew a whale was near and you never saw so many naked men hurrying aboard. Took a steamship from Graytown to New Orleans, then a steamer from New Orleans up the Mississippi but could get no further than Cape Girardeau; took sleighs to Boonville and a stagecoach to Lexington. From Lexington he walked home, reaching Cass County February, 1852.

Peter married Celia Ward. To this union two children were born, Kirtley E. and Cinda. When Cindy was 4 years old the Civil War came, Peter joined and served under Gen. Sterling Price; he was captured at "Glorieta". While Peter was gone to war the Jayhawkers ran Celia Franse and a cousin, Nancy Zion off Peter's farm. The women were allowed to take an old wagon with hayframe, feather-bed for the four children, 1 mule and 1 cow to pull the wagon. The Jayhawkers took all the cattle, horses and burned the house. Celia Franse and Nancy Zion walked ¾ the way to Boone County. When Peter came home his hair was white. Had to re-establish his home for all the buildings had been burned and there was nothing left.

Peter and Celia Franse were charter members of the Freeman Baptist Church. Peter was one of the first deacons of the Church, continued his membership until his death. Peter Franse attended the "1879 Old Settlers" meeting for settlers in Cass County early in 1840's. A member of Cass County Association, Cass County Agricultural and Mechanical association.

Nine grandchildren are still living, three in their 90's. Perl Franse Majors, Kansas City, is 93; Rusha Franse Smith, New Mexico, also 93 and Homer Dolan, Oregon, almost 100 years old. This research was compiled by Aliene Franse Brelsford, great granddaughter of Peter Franse. Descendants still living in Cass County: two grandsons, Herman Franse, of Cleveland, and Edgar Franse, of Harrisonville. Edgar has lived all his life in Cass County.

The Grand River Baptist Church's 50th year celebration was held at Kirtley's farm to honor Peter Franse. One hundred or more families had a basket dinner in the yard. At this time Peter was very deaf so the church members gave him an ear trumpet and a gold cane. Peter Franse died November 15, 1897, in Winfield's home.

PHILLIP FULKERSON

The Fulkerson family in southern Cass County was started before the Civil War when Phillip Fulkerson and his wife Mary Jane came from Central Kentucky with one of her brothers. Their house was burned by Bushwhackers with about 5 minutes notice and they went back to Kentucky due to Order #11, to return in a few years when the war was over.

At least one of the three trips was made on foot with her carrying a small child and him carrying everything they owned on his back.

They were part of a family of Dutch (not German) people in New York City, who moved to New Jersey, then to Kentucky. Others went to Virginia and at present (1975) there is an enormous number of descendants all over the United States.

Phillip and Mary Jane eventually moved to a rather poor farm near Sugar Creek, south of Dayton. Their children tended to move south to the Ozarks. Their daughter, Margaret Adeline, married Ambus Morriss, after her first husband (Hubble) died, and lived south of Connelly School. Her only surviving child — Margaret Morriss — will be 100 years old if living in June 1976. William J. Fulkerson stayed on the family farm and of his children, Mary died of the Flu during World War I and his son, Ralph lived east of Connelly School for several years, then moved to Idaho and his father, William J., soon followed. Other descendants in Cass County, none by the name Fulkerson, are — Marjorie and Wendell Patterson, Harriet, Urson Charles, Jr., and Jason Logue, Linda, Anna and Lee Zellmer, and Elizabeth Driver.

JOHN FUNK

John Funk, farmer and stock dealer, was born in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, December 16, 1817. Daniel Funk, his father, was a native of Pennsylvania. Christian Funk, his grandfather, served in Washington's Army during the Revolutionary War. John's mother, whose maiden name was Julia Ann Schrader, was also a Pennsylvanian by birth. Young Funk spent his youth on his father's farm with but little opportunity for receiving an education, his schooling consisting of about three months attendance at a subscription school during the winter season; however, he was a man well posted on the general issues of the day and a successful farmer and stockdealer. He was married in his native county January 31, 1837, to Elizabeth Zumbro (born Aug. 12, 1818), a daughter of the Rev. Joseph Zumbro. She died June 28, 1854, in Westmoreland County. Their six children were: Susanna, born Feb. 21, 1840, married James Tarr; Daniel J., born June 27, 1943, married Elizabeth Clendenen; Mary A., born May 7, 1845, married John Clendenen; John Schrader, born Oct. 25, 1847, married Nancy Realura Clendenen January 14, 1869; Abraham J., born Feb. 14, 1851; Henry Zumbro, born June 25, 1854.

The John S. Funk Family

Mr. Funk was married again September 20, 1855 to Anna Monroe, daughter of Joseph Monroe of Westmoreland County, who died Oct. 13, 1863. There were four children by this union: Nancy E., born June 28, 1856, married David Clendenen; James Franklin, born May 6, 1859; Florence, born March 16, 1861, married Alex Lightcap; and Margaret, born March 22, 1863, married Simerall. Of interest is the fact that four Funks married four Clendenens. Mr. Funk was married the third time on Nov. 5, 1865, to Mrs. Sarah Woods.

In 1870 John Funk sold his property in Pennsylvania and in the spring of 1871 moved to Missouri and located in Cass County, where he purchased land. His farm consisted of four hundred acres in cultivation, fenced mostly with hedge. He had a large residence in a beautiful location overlooking the surrounding country and his yard was ornamented with evergreen and forest trees, shrubs and flowers. There was a large orchard of apples, peaches, pears and plums and an abundance of small fruits. He also had a good bank barn. He was a Republican in politics and was twice elected assessor of his township. He was also elected collector for one year. John and his wife were members of the United Brethren Church. Although he had little education, Mr. Funk built a school on his property. The pupils in this school were all related. The Funk school was destroyed by the tornado of 1893.

At one time nearly all the farms on the first road east of Raymore and north of Highway 58 were owned by Clendenens, Funks and Lightcaps. The only one occupied at present by one of the family is owned by Helen, granddaughter of John S. Funk, and her husband, Frank Barr. This farm was formerly owned by Florence and Alex Lightcap. The Lightcap children were Rhey, Lois, DeEtta, Grace, Mary and Samuel.

John Schrader and Nancy Realura Funk had six children: Robert Franklin, born Oct. 15, 1869, married Estelle May Remsburg Jan. 7, 1897; Martha Elizabeth, born March 16, 1871, married Daniel A. McGillwray May 29, 1890, after his death married Rev. George Clay Aug. 17, 1897; Nancy Clendenen, born Feb. 19, 1873, married James Albright Nov. 1, 1894; David Alexander, born Dec. 25, 1877, married Edith Estelle Hines April 16, 1901; John Walter, born March 1, 1882, married Maude Loraine Haworth Aug. 28, 1906; and Sarah Luella, born Dec. 29, 1885, married Amos Van Huber March 16, 1906.

John S. and "Lura" remained in Raymore, except for a few years in Kansas City, Missouri. Lura had been raised in the United Presbyterian Church, but she and John were charter members of the United Brethren Church of Raymore. John died Dec. 19, 1926. Lura died Feb. 26, 1936, the last of the family of nine children, and the last charter member of the United Brethren Church of Raymore.

Several trips were made before The Georges decided to return to Missouri, which they did in the fall of 1866, settling on the two hundred four acre farm in Everett township that had been bought sight-unseen.

The four families lived close together, each homesteading a quarter section of land on which each built a sod house. Hard winters and hot dry summers brought discouragement so in the fall of 1895 they left that area, Frank George moving his family to Ark. where, the following spring, his wife and little daughter Leona died of malaria fever. A sister of Sarah George had married Lewis Garland and was living in Archie, Mo. They brought the bereaved family, Frank George, his son Harvey and daughter Laura, to live with them for a while. He was taken to Kansas City where doctors were able to save the eye but not the sight. GEVIK — KLASING

Mrs. George-Anne Klasing Gevik came to Richards-Gebaur AFB, in 1960, with her husband and baby Jonathan. Her husband, at that time, was Sgt. Charles Miller, a career man in the USAF, enlisted during WWII. Miller was the son of Bertha (Westbrook) and Ernest J. Miller originally from Ohio. They bought a home in Grandview.

In 1964, Miller was retired; moved to Harrisonville in 1968; became manager of Twin Pines Golf Course, supervising its construction and early development. The dilapidated farm home adjacent to the golf course was rebuilt and refurbished for the Miller family.

Miller died shortly thereafter; his widow, George-Anne moved to Belton, rented a small house at 516 Fourth St. It had been formerly located at No. Scott and North Ave., and was moved to the Fourth St. site in the 1960's. An inscription written on the stringers under the house reads, "Fred Middleton, Aug. 22, 1919 helped build this house for Roy Johnson."

Mrs. Miller married Jerome A. Gevik in 1971, a WWII Army veteran, a member of Belton VFW Post 8220 and the American Legion. They bought the house on Fourth St., enlarged it and did considerable restoration work on the premises. Jerry has a son, Robert who is 14, and he and Jonathan, 16 attend the Belton public schools. Jerry is employed by the City Street Department and George-Anne works in the Belton Star-Herald news office.

Jerome, George-Anne, Robert and Jonathan Gevik.

Mrs. Gevik boasts of her family heritage and its impressive record of public service.

On the paternal side, one great-grandfather, Charles M. Guehne, was a veteran of the Civil War Union Army; her grandfather, George H. Klasing, was a St. Louis brick mason. Her father, Lester John Klasing, a First Sergeant in the USMC, a veteran of both World Wars, a St. Louis Police veteran, and in later years became a retiree of the St. Louis Public School System. He died April 12, 1976. His only brother, Matthew Charles Klasing, was killed in action in WWI.

On the maternal side one grandfather, Jonathan W. Maddox, was a Cavalryman in the Union Army and later became a high school teacher and a Baptist minister. Two uncles served in WWI and one uncle served in WWII. Her mother, Sarah Edith Maddox Klasing, started her career as a southeast Missouri rural school teacher; later became a Registered Nurse in St. Louis retiring at age 70.

George-Anne has one brother, Lester Klasing, Jr., a former Marine, and one sister, Joyce Palazzolo who is married to a WWII veteran. Both girls were originally Service Representatives for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in St. Louis. Her mother, Sarah, is well and active, still living in the home in St. Louis where George-Anne was born and reared. She is nearing her 75th birthday and would have been married 50 years in July, 1976.

Jerome A. Gevik was born on the family farm in Lesterville, South Dakota. His father, Iver Gevik, was a WWI Army veteran born in Irene, South Dakota. His mother, Alma Einerson Gevik, was born in Lesterville. Jerry had a sister, Lorraine Gunnerson, and has a brother, Dewey C. Gevik, a WWII Navy veteran who lives in Sioux Falls, South Dakota. The family was active in the Our Saviour Lutheran Church in Menno, South Dakota, and his father helped build the church from native rock. His mother was noted for her prowess as a seamstress and made not only all of her childrens clothes but sewed for neighbors as well. His maternal grandfather, Adolph Einerson, was a carpenter-cabinet maker and the paternal grandfather, John Gevik, was a farmer. Both grandparent families were immigrants from Trondheim and Oslo, Norway. It is believed the name was originally spelled Gevikson.

The Gevik family are members of First Baptist Church and are proud to be residential property owners and active participants in the civic life of the City of Belton.

JOSEPH GILMORE

Joseph Gilmore, his wife Mary, daughters Elizabeth and Belle and some 20 slaves migrated from near Lexington, Ky. to Cass County, Mo. in 1848. They located on 200 acres of land three miles east of where Belton was later founded. He built a home on a high knoll which became a stopping place for travelers going west.

In 1855 Elizabeth Gilmore married Simeon V. Dehoney, who had migrated from Kentucky to Raytown, Mo. in 1848. Joseph Gilmore built a home for them a quarter of a mile east of the family home and gave them a household slave as a wedding present. When the Civil War started, Gilmore took all his slaves except for household servants to New Orleans and leased them out. They were lost when the Emancipation Proclamation was issued. During the war the Gilmore home was burned either by Federal troops or Jayhawkers, but the Dehoney house was not touched. The Gilmore and Dehoney families, being Southern sympathizers, were forced to leave Cass County under Order No. 11, and spent the last year of the war in Clay County. Both families returned after the war and the Gilmore home was rebuilt.

After Joseph Gilmore died in 1876, Simeon and Elizabeth Dehoney left the home place and moved to Belton, building a home on the east end of Main Street. Simeon opened a grocery store in the building now occupied by the Dryden Drug Co. and operated it until 1900. Simeon and Elizabeth had eight children, one of whom was Sallie E. who married William J. Bradford.

THE GRAY FAMILY

L. F. Gray, M.D., the first Doctor in Raymore, was the son of Ogden Gray and Mary Ann (Lapin) Gray, the father being a native of New York and the mother of Pennsylvanian birth. L. F. Gray spent his youth on his father's farm, attending the public school during the winter months.

In his twentieth year, he was a student at Sharon College in Noble County, Ohio. After leaving there, he was engaged in teaching school. In 1854, he went to Illinois where he taught one term. He commenced the study of medicine at Fulton County, Cuba, Illinois, in the spring of 1857. After finishing his studies at college, the doctor began the practice of his profession at Cuba, Ill., where he remained some two years. In 1860, he moved to Limerick, Ill. In 1869, he came, with his family, to Missouri and located in Raymore township, locating in Raymore in the fall of 1871, and erected one of the first business houses in the town, residing in this building until moving into his residence in the north part of town.

He was married in Lafayette, Stark County, Illinois, December 25, 1857, to Miss Lydia Morey, a daughter of Rev. Amos Morey, and a native of Ohio. To them were born two sons, Horace and Milton A. Horace Gray, once a prominent citizen of this city, was born in Ill. in 1862. In early life, he learned the trade of painter and paper hanger, and probably until the time of his death in 1936, he had done more work of this kind than any man in Raymore. Mr. Gray was interested in various other enterprises in addition to his trade. He was a successful breeder of standard bred trotting horses and was the owner of "Highest Ideal," No. 42329, which was one of the valuable horses of Western Missouri in that day. Mr. Gray also operated a well equipped slaughter house. He was also extensively engaged in fruit growing.

Mr. Gray was united in marriage in 1885 to Miss Addie Fairley, a daughter of O. P. Fairley and Herpalice (Horridge) Fairley, the former native of Pennsylvania, and the latter of England. The Fairley family came to Raymore in 1870. Here, the father was engaged in farming until his death in 1900.

To Mr. and Mrs. Gray were born eight children, three died in infancy. Those growing to adulthood were Lela Freeland (deceased), Lafayette (deceased), Eleanor Jeter (deceased), Herpalice Taylor of Independence, Kansas, and Bessie Gray of Harrisonville, Mo.

ALEXANDER BLAIR GRIFFITH

Alexander Blair Griffith, son of Robert and Sarah Blair Griffith, was born Sept. 8, 1819 in Alleghany Co., Virginia and died in Clinton, Henry Co., Missouri, Oct. 22, 1902. Interred at Drake's Chapel, Henry Co., Mo. At the age of twenty (1839) he arrived in Cass County. In 1848 he and Joe Kimberlin, his brother-in-law, (m. Hannah Griffith) took up homesteads where the town of Dayton, Cass Co. now stands. The two young men were responsible for founding the community which included an academy and their mercantile business. History records that Alexander would drive a team of oxen, with a load of bacon, to Lexington, Missouri, the nearest trading point, where he sold the bacon for one dollar per hundred pounds. He would return to Dayton with merchandise for the store.

Mrs. Elsie Walker Windsor of Creighton, Mo. recalls this story told to her by her grandfather. Prior to the Civil War, her great-grandfather Walker, who resided on a farm near the present community of Creighton, heard that the Kimberlin-Griffith store owners had returned from Lexington with an iron cookstove. The price was very high, but they determined to buy it. They put the whole family in a wagon and drove their oxen; to Dayton to make the purchase. Mr. Walker went into the store and immediately returned to the wagon telling his wife that Mr. Griffith and Mr. Kimberlin were dangerous rebels. They returned to the farm, buried the silver and moved to Sedalia, Mo. until after the war.

Wadesburg and Grant were the only existing towns in south-west Cass Co. at this time, both disappearing with the coming of the Kansas City, Clinton and Springfield railroad in 1885. The town of Garden City and Creighton were built along the railroad line. (1)

Although a prosperous merchant and land owner, Alexander was consumed with "gold fever" and joined a party from Henry Co. to make the trip to California during the Gold Rush of 1849. He was quite successful in this venture and very fortunate to be the only member of the party to return home, three years later, alive. With his "gold findings" he purchased 1000 acres of land at Lewis Station, Henry Co., Mo.

Upon his return home he married a sister of two of the young men who had accompanied him on the trip to California, Margaret Drake (Howard Co., Mo. June 2, 1831 — Randlett, Okla., Oct. 3, 1909) of Lewis Station, Henry County, Missouri, the daughter of David Rose and Mrs. Catherine (Burkhart) Hough Drake. The wedding occurred at the home of the bride's father, Judge David Rose Drake at Drake's Chapel, Henry Co., Mo. on Dec. 5, 1852. Margaret was the grand-daughter of Christopher Frederick Burkhart (1756-1828) who served as a 1st Lt. in the militia of 1776 of Frederick Co., Maryland as an interpreter for Washington's army and served with him in the Battle of Trenton. She was the niece of George Frederich Burkhart (1782-1864) who was the designer of the seal of the State of Missouri and a member of the Missouri General Assembly of 1822-28. He also served with the Kentucky Militia and took part in the Battle of Tippecanoe in the War of 1812. (2)

Alexander and Margaret Griffith resided in Dayton, Cass Co., Missouri and at the outbreak of the Civil War, he joined the "boys in gray" serving as a quartermaster under General Rains. During the Order No. 11, Quantrill's Raiders burned the store and the home. Having been reared in luxury and unused to hardships, Margaret Drake Griffith saw everything torn from her grasp. (3) On April 11, 1865, a pass was issued to Mrs. Margaret Griffith and four children and Mrs. Hanna Thornton and five children to "pass thru the lines of the Union Forces and not to return to same during the war on penalty of being treated as spies." (Signed Baker Co. Provost Marshall Gen.) (4) Mrs. Griffith and Mrs. Thornton joined their husbands in the swamps of Arkansas. There they suffered malaria and fever, nothing but snakes and crocodiles. They were returning home to Missouri on a gun-boat on the Mississippi River the night President Lincoln was assassinated. (5)

In 1854 Margaret Drake Griffith inherited land adjoining her husband's at Lewis Station, Henry County, and in 1868 they erected one of the first permanent homes in the area (still standing). The pine trees lining the driveway were brought there when Alexander returned from a cattle drive to Texas. He had traveled to every state in the Union and served in the Mexican War. He was postmaster of Creighton during President Cleveland's administration. A member of the Tebo Lodge of Clinton, which was to become the Masonic Lodge. (6)

The Alexander Griffiths were parents of six children, five of whom were living at the time of his death. Margaret (Griffith) Berry, Dr. David Robert Griffith, (Creighton), Dr. Charles Edgar Griffith (Windsor) and Dr. Joseph Kimberlin Griffith (Randlett, Okla.), and Sallie Kate (Griffith) Davidson. Jemima Hobbs (Griffith) Bates predeceased him.

DR. DAVID ROBERT GRIFFITH

David Robert Griffith, first child of Alexander Blair and Margaret Drake Griffith, was born March 7, 1854 at Young Chapel, Jackson Co., Missouri and died March 22, 1933 in Creighton, Mo. and interred at Grant Cemetery, Creighton, Mo. He came to Dayton, Mo. in 1869 with his parents, his father having gone there in 1839. He resided in Dayton until the Order No. 11, when he went with his mother to Chico County, Arkansas to be with his father who was stationed there with the Southern forces, returning to Henry County at the close of the Civil War, where he grew to manhood.

David "read" medicine with Dr. Thornton, Rose Hill, Johnson County and in 1882 graduated from the Kansas City Medical College (later consolidated with the Kansas University). Except for practicing seven years in Clinton, Mo., one year in Manila, Ark. and a nine year residence in Bates City, Mo., he was a resident of Creighton, Cass County since 1883. (7)

Dr. and Mrs. David Robert Griffith and family.

On May 23, 1883, David Robert Griffith and Virginia Eureka Bates (Oct. 24, 1863-June 27, 1938) were united in marriage at the home of the bride's father in Bates City, Missouri. They became the parents of seven children. Edgar McDonnell Griffith (m. Georgia Cowan), Bates Alexander (m. Josephine Miles — no issue), Paul David (m. Frances Tandy — no issue), Joseph Marvin (m. Mabel Lumery), Ruth Elizabeth (m. Fred Lumery), George Washington (m. Virginia . . .) and Leslie Ellis (m. Mary Bender — no issue).

"Ricky" Bates Griffith was the daughter of Theodore and Nancy (Ellis) Bates. Theodore being the founder of Bates City, Lafayette Co., Mo. A German immigrant with a laudable ambition, strong constitution and business acumen, he soon prospered in the New World, arriving in this country on July 9, 1836, his twenty-second birthday. Although Mr. Bates deprecated secession as a means of redress, his sympathies were with the Southern people. (In later years "Ricky" told the story that Jesse James and his group were welcomed in their home until this group became infamous renegades. Ricky had both ridden Jesse's horse and practiced target shooting with his gun.) At the time of Theodore's death he owned eleven hundred acres of land, all under a fine state of cultivation, including a commodious dwelling and the finest stock barns in the country. In addition to the land he has given and has in reserve, a farm of 240 acres to each of his seven children. (8) "Ricky" attended a seminary for young ladies in California, Missouri prior to her marriage.

Dr. and Mrs. David Griffith were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church (South) in Bates City, Missouri. A half century of service as a country doctor is within itself a just tribute to this man of the old school. No paved roads or automobiles, but country lanes sometimes packed with mud and snow and either on horseback or in a buggy, were his mode and method of travel. Through rain and sleet and wintry winds he hurried his medicine and what was often better, a geniality of spirit that was as effective as his medicine was curative. It was not the lure of gold but more the love of people, regardless of creed or name that kept him true to the unswerving principle of his high duty. (7)

"Doc Dave" (David Robert) died at his residence at Creighton, Mo. under the care of two of his sons, Dr. Edgar M. Griffith and Dr. George W. Griffith.

DR. EDGAR McDONNELL GRIFFITH

Edgar McDonnell Griffith was the eldest child of David Robert and Virgina E. (Bates) Griffith. He was born Aug. 12, 1884 in Creighton, Missouri. Two years later, the family moved to Clinton, Missouri, returning to Creighton in 1896. Edgar graduated from Clinton, Mo. High School in 1903, Warrensburg Normal School in 1907 and the Kansas City Medical College in 1911. Two days before he was graduated, May 9, 1911, he was married to Georgia Beatrice Cowan of Manila, Ark., whom he had met and become engaged to while spending summers and studying medicine with his uncle, Dr. Joseph K. Griffith of that community. The young couple returned to Missouri by train to attend the groom's graduation exercises.

"Doc Dave" and "Doc Ed" practiced medicine in Creighton, Missouri. Later "Doc George" was also to become a practicing Cass County Physician in Garden City, Mo.

Georgia B. (Cowan) Griffith (Apr. 21, 1889 Blandville, West Va. — March 1, 1937 Harrisonville, Mo.) was the second of three daughters, Bessie, Georgia and Berta and one son, Harry W. born to Benjamin W. and Annie M. (Falconer) Cowan. Charles, being a son of B. W. Cowan from a former marriage. The parents were married on Sept. 1, 1881 and they resided in Blandeville, West Va. until coming to Arkansas when that state was opened to homesteading in 1902. Georgia attended a seminary for young women in Conway, Ark. and was an elementary teacher before her marriage. "Miss Georgia" as well as "Ricky" became quickly acclimated to the life of a country doctor's wife. Both became capable practical nurses and each was proud to admit that they had delivered a baby for a patient, in the absence of the doctor. She was very interested in education, being instrumental in raising the money to make the Creighton High School a four year, accredited school. She served as the only woman school board member of that community from 1923 until twelve years later, she asked to resign because of ill health. She was responsible for the hiring and interviewing of the prospective teachers. (10)

The young "Doc Eds" became the parents of two daughters, Dixie Fay (Oct. 17, 1912-Nov. 6, 1960) and Barbara Ann, (Nov. 7, 1917), Barbara being born at the home of her maternal grandparents in Manila, Ark. two weeks before Edgar left for "overseas duty" in World War I, serving as a Captain in the Medical Corps. He was discharged March 13, 1917. The family again moved back to Creighton where they resided until 1935, at that time moving to Harrisonville, Missouri. Edgar became Cass County physician in 1934 and in 1937 was director of the Cass County Health Unit when it came into existence. (In Jan. and Feb. of 1937 records show that he made 1180 visits in Cass Co. where people were unable financially to employ a doctor.) (9)

Dixie and Barbara, daughters of Doc Ed and Georgia.

On March 1st, 1937, Georgia B. Griffith passed away following a terminal illness. In 1938 Edgar and Mrs. Ethel (Lord) Warner of Harrisonville were married. (11)

Dr. Edgar Griffith served as coroner of Cass Co. from Nov. 1936-1940. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church of Creighton, Mo., American Legion, 32nd Degree Mason and Shriner and the Harrisonville Kiwanis Club. "Dr. Ed Griffith possessed many splendid traits of his father and upon many occasions acted as both doctor and nurse when the need arose, and many times seeing the need of food in homes would provide that necessity. The Griffith family was a large and happy one and he enjoyed life to the last with loved ones and friends. He particularly loved his fishing jaunts and was a desired member of any party. During World War I, his hearing became impaired which bothered him greatly, but at home he found it convenient when, with a chuckle, he would turn off his hearing aid and thoroughly enjoy himself." (9)

Doc Ed died in his sleep, following a serious heart attack, at his home in Harrisonville Feb. 21, 1948. The State Patrol and Harrisonville residents remarked that there was the largest attendance that had ever been known in Cass Co. at the services which were held at the Methodist Church, since it was the largest building at that time. Services conducted by the Rev. Howard Lane Foland, priest in charge of the Episcopal Church of Nevada. His grandson, Leslie M. Crouch III, served as crucifer. He was buried in the East Cemetery, Harrisonville, Mo.

BETSY (RAWLINGS) HART GUNTERMAN

Jacob Van Meter (born 1703, died November 16, 1798) was the father of Rebecca, who married (?) Rawlings. The daughter Betsy married Miles Hart. One winter morning two bands of Indians came to the Hart home, killed Mr. Hart and kidnapped the 16 year old son. Mrs. Hart started running with a small child under one arm. She dropped it as she was climbing over a rail fence and did not take time to pick it up again. When the Indians came upon the child, they split its head open with a tomahawk and captured Mrs. Hart. She became their slave. She had to clear away snow and build fires for them and then off to one side, build one for herself. It is said she tore white pieces of cloth from her clothing to scatter along the trail in hopes some white people would rescue her. She broke ice in a stream one time to drown herself but changed her mind. Mrs. Hart said she would have frozen except for a big dog, which slept at her back. A baby boy was born to her, sired by one of the Indians. The Indian women gave her some bark to put around the baby and the men cut a slab from a tree and strapped the baby to it, then strapped it to Mrs. Hart's back. She also had to carry pots and pans and other equipment. The baby lived only six months.

Later a French trader, Peter Gunterman, bought her from the Indians with wine and married her. They were parents of Sallie Gunterman, who married Bailey Seaton Tabb. Sallie (Gunterman) and Bailey Seaton Tabb's daughter, Lavinia, married Elem Morrison. The Morrisons came to Cass County in 1869 and had three daughters: America Belle Morrison, who married Napoleon B. Bybee; Sarah Adaline Morrison, who married Lewis McGill; and Elizabeth Morrison, who married Elijah Stark.

William Thomas Bybee, son of America Belle and Napoleon B. Bybee, has heard the story of Betsy Rawlings Hart Gunterman from his mother and other members of her family. The 16 year old son of Betsy and Miles Hart escaped from the Indians and came to Missouri and lived many years.

HAROLD E. GWINNER

It was on a warm day in August, 1924 at the Urich Reunion in Urich, Mo., that Harold Gwinner and Dottie Sisk fell into one another's company in an unexpected way. They attended the "Tent Show" together that evening and the stage was set for a romance that was to culminate in marriage a few years later. During the romance period Dottie taught school and Harold was engaged in farming. On the day set for the wedding, February 23, 1928, an old fashioned blizzard struck the area blocking roads to auto travel. Transportation to the Christian Church Parsonage at Garden City, five miles away, where the wedding ceremony was to take place was provided by Buford Sisk in the form of a team of mules and a lumber wagon. The accompanying group consisted of Dottie's brother, Buford and his wife Blanch, Harold's sisters, Lydia and Elsie and his brother, Leonard and of course the bride and groom. The wedding ceremony was performed by Howard Leslie, pastor of the Christian Church, in Garden City at about four o'clock.

The first four years of married life were spent on the Ida Hisey farm, five miles east of Garden City. Here, two daughters were born — Shirley Lucille, January, 1930, and Dorothy Marie in July 1931.

March 1, 1932, Harold, Dottie and two daughters moved to a farm one mile north of Index school but the stay there was short. The place belonged to Jess Elliot, who gave the farm to a nephew, Frank Elliot and a move was necessitated. March 1, 1933 a move was made to the Sam Hartzler farm west of Garden City where they resided 18 years, it was while living here their third daughter was born, Donna Louise, April, 1934. Here they went through the depression and drouth of the 30's, here all three girls started to school at Houston country school, here all three graduated from grade school. Here also they witnessed graduation of Shirley and Dorothy from High School and the marriage of two daughters — Dorothy to Bob Gough in June 1949 and Shirley to Robert Dean Surber the same year.

Early in 1951 Harold and Dottie moved to the first home of their own — the Kanzler eighty, located one mile south and one mile east of Daugherty. Run-down and shabby looking they set themselves to the task of shaping it up and after a few years heard considerable comment on "how nice it looks". While here Donna graduated from High School and was married in 1953. During the 23 years' stay here Harold and Dottie bought their first new car and started taking an annual vacation.

After almost 23 years on this farm Harold and Dottie sold it, had a public sale disposing of cattle and other personal property and built a new home on the 170 acres they own 3 miles west of Garden City on #7 Highway.

Their daughters are not far away — Shirley, only a couple of miles from them, Dorothy in Peculiar, Mo. and Donna in Overland Park, Kansas.

Dottie is a native of Cass County being born only a few miles from where she now lives. Harold was born in Nebraska and came to Cass County in 1921.

Dottie belongs to The What-Not Club and Harold is a member of The Cass County Zoning and Planning Commission. They are active in the work of the Christian Church at Garden City.

E. C. GWINNER

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gwinner came to Cass County in April, 1921 and resided on a farm five miles east of Garden City the remainder of their life. Mr. Gwinner was born in Minnesota, came with his parents to Illinois at the age of one year. In 1884 his father homesteaded in Southwest Nebraska and in 1898 E. C. was married to Abbie Christina Hesselein of Spring Bay, Illinois. The couple made their home in Nebraska until 1908, then moving to Oklahoma and in 1921 came to Cass County, Mo.

Mr. Gwinner specialized in the production of fruit, satisfying an early life desire. Although much of his life was spent outside the state, for some years he had a desire to come to Missouri and that reached its fulfillment when he landed in Cass County.

Mr. and Mrs. Gwinner were the parents of four children. Leonard passed away June, 1973; Lydia resides in Garden City, Mo.; Elsie (Mrs. Leonard Wood) lives on a farm west of Dayton and Harold and wife — the former Dottie Sisk live three miles west of Garden City.

E. C. Gwinner died in 1950 at the age of 84 years; his wife died in 1957 at the age of 85 years.

They are laid to rest in the Garden City Cemetery.

EMILY LAND HAIR

Emily Land was the only daughter of an early settler in Virginia. She attended a finishing school for young ladies and met there a French teacher, David Dutro. They were married and David taught in the girls' school. They had four children, David, Jr., Daniel, Lucetta and Louise. David died and later Thomas Hair became her husband.

Mr. Hair was a widower with two grown sons who were married and had moved away. Mr. Hair was a slave owner and trader. Emily and Thomas had one child, George.

Because of the growing anti-slavery feeling Mr. Hair had an auction, sold his slaves and farms and moved his family to Springfield, Illinois, where they lived during the Civil War. David Dutro, Jr., was old enough to enlist in the Army but Dan was underage. He was accepted as a drummer boy. Neither was injured and after the war the family moved in a covered wagon to Pleasant Hill. They purchased a farm six miles north of town and soon David and Dan went West — David to California and Dan to Montana. Thomas Hair (December 19, 1811-February 22, 1894) and Emily Hair (November 20, 1828-March 12, 1912) are buried in the Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

Louise Dutro was the mother of Lee and Clare Phillips and Lucetta Dutro was the mother of Sallie and George Rheem.

HIRAM HALCOMB, JR., OR II

The Halcomb family has had a somewhat illustrious history from the time an Andrew or William, came from England or Wales to settle in Virginia in 1685. In time there came to be two branches; the southern branch and the northern. Fragments of records show land transfer as early as 1654. This treatise will deal with the southern branch of which the writer is a descendant.

A George Harcum (note the spelling has gone through many changes) is named in family records. From all evidence that can be obtained he was a grandson of the earlier mentioned William Harcum. He was married to Sarah Herndon. They became the parents of 15 children, one of whom was Hiram Halcomb, born September 21, 1789 in Caswell County, North Carolina. After having enlisted in the War of 1812 in Robertson County, Tennessee, he later was given an honorable discharge. In 1856 he was granted a patent on 160 acres of land as payment for his services in the war.

While living in Kentucky he bought and sold several farms. He died in 1869.

Hiram Halcomb, Jr. or II was born the son of Hiram Holcom, Sr. and Isabella West on July 21, 1826 in Kentucky. After reaching manhood he along with four brothers and a sister or two moved to Missouri and settled near old Index in Cass County. They settled there because they thought the Kansas City-Clinton-Springfield railroad would be going near there, but instead it went through Garden City.

Previous to coming to Missouri he had married Miss Caroline Newland on February 15, 1859. When they came to Missouri, someone, presumably her parents sent a slave maid with her. Farming was the usual occupation, but Civil War clouds began to darken. War finally broke out. One of their children, Mrs. Nancy Payne, later said her father, and others, had guarded a bridge in Kansas City.

During the war slaves in Cass County would sometimes slip over the border into Kansas. This occasioned reprisals later called Border Warfare. On one occasion, the Halcombs heard that the Bushwhackers (or guerrillas) were coming. Mrs. Halcomb and her sister, who lived with them, hid some newly made quilts out under some gooseberry bushes. However, the guerrillas never came. One of their band, who knew of the Halcombs, told the group to let the "Halcomb family alone." These quilts are still in the possession of some of the grandchildren.

Then came the famous Order No. 11. Two of the Halcomb brothers went into Harrisonville, but Hiram II and his family went back to Kentucky until the war was over. When they came back to Missouri, the slave maid wanted to return with them, but because of the Emancipation Proclamation, they could not let her come.

Two sons and three daughters comprised the Halcomb children. (1) Thomas Benjamin who married Nellie Parker. They were the parents of two sons, Dyas and William; grandparents of 6 children and great grandparents of 2 children; (2) George William married Addie Lusby. They had no children. (3) Nancy Isabella married Howard Payne. They were the parents of 3 sons, Walter Rowland who married Mary Hoover; Elmer Clifford who married Nadine Merchant; Robert Deane who married Anna May Suffecool; and 1 daughter Ethel Magdalene, who married Edward J. Moretine. There are 6 grandchildren, 16 great grandchildren and 1 great, great grandchild in this family. (4) Rilla Irene married Omar Ludwig. To this union were born 2 sons and 1 daughter. Carrol, who married Zora Duck. They were the parents of 3 boys and 1 girl and grandparents of 7 boys and girls; Cecil who was married to Lula Pierce, deceased, and Velma Ludlow; and Mildred Elizabeth who married Robert Barrows. Cecil and Mildred have no children. (5) Mary Jane who married Charles Scott, leaving no children.

Due to lack of space, many facts have had to be omitted, but it is interesting to note the various occupations of members of the Halcomb family. There were doctors, ministers, missionaries, farmers, musicians, college founders, teachers and others.

All of the above statements are documented or handed down from generation to generation.

Church called Hopewell" Lot #214 in Harrisonville, where the first church house built in Harrisonville was erected. There have been rebuildings and remodelings but the Harrisonville Baptist Church still stands on the same site.

In the long journey by covered wagon from Patrick Co., Va. to Mo. in 1830-1835 they endured many hardships. They were early settlers in Jackson Co., Mo. and there was much work, clearing the land and building log houses. William engaged in farming, was an industrious man, fond of hunting and fitted for pioneer life. In later years he became a preacher and the family all became members of the Baptist Church. He died at the age of 50 years, 11 months and 14 days. Rhoda (Burnett) Harris was a pioneer woman who always answered the call for a practical nurse, assisting with illnesses and childbirths. After the death of her husband she managed the farm and cultivated an herb garden which took the place of a drug store in her community. In 1840 she made the long trip back to Patrick Co., Va. to bring her father, Jeremiah Burnett, then 90 years old, back to Mo. He died 1848 at age 99.

Son of William and Rhoda Harris was Fleming Saunders Harris (1822-1885) who married Mary Jane Slaughter in 1844. They had 12 children. An uncle of Fleming S. Harris was Fleming Harris of Cass Co., Mo. who was the county seat commissioner for the sale of lots when Harrisonville was located in 1837.

GLENN EGBERT HARRISON

Glenn Egbert Harrison was born Sept. 9, 1888, in Johnson County, Kansas, near 192nd and State Line on his grandfather's farm. A major portion of his life has been spent in residence in Cass County, Missouri, as were his ancestors. Harrison's maternal grandparents were William Downing and Abrigal (Campbell) Downing. The Downings were originally from Lake County, Ohio, near Cleveland. The family farm was on the shores of Lake Erie. The acreage had been a land grant from the State of Connecticut for services rendered during the Revolution. This was part of the Connecticut Western Reserve Lands.

In 1866, the Downings traveled from Ohio to Missouri, settling near Greenwood. Downing purchased 160 acres 2½ miles west and 2½ miles south of the present town of Belton in 1868. He operated a wayside tavern on the acreage where the stage roads intersected. The tavern had 27 rooms and originally was constructed by Clayton Bane in 1850. Along with his farming interests, the tavern provided Downing with an extra source of income for several years. In 1870 the stage roads were relocated to the section lines and Downing was forced to purchase more land to have access to the county roads.

Glenn Harrison and grandson, Paul Harrison.

Glenn Harrison's paternal grandparents, John T. H. Harrison and Sarah Robbins came to Johnson County, Kansas, in 1866. Along with two brothers, Thomas and James, John settled on a section of land bordering State Line, 190th to 199th Street. John's parents, William Vance Harrison and Sarah Endicott, came to Weston, Missouri, from Harrison County, Kentucky in 1851. Both died shortly after arrival, leaving three sons and one daughter. Samuel Harrison, father of William Vance, came to Fleming County, Kentucky, in 1801. He married Elizabeth Brown. They were the parents of eleven children. Samuel came from Berkeley County, Virginia, to oversee lands his father had obtained from the Governor Dunmore of Virginia. The Harrisons of Berkeley County were one of the original patentees of Lord Fairfax grants in the Northern Neck of Virginia early in the 18th Century.

Glen Harrison's father, Egbert S. (son of John T. H.) married Sarah Eleanor Downing. They had two sons, William Downing, deceased, and Glenn E. Downing. Glenn Harrison married Myrtie L. Mosby Sept. 2, 1909, in Kansas City, Missouri. They were the parents of three children, Robert William, Chester I., and G. Eugene. Robert William died in infancy. CLARENCE V. HARTZLER

Clarence V. Hartzler was born in Garden City, Missouri, September 6, 1890, to Joseph G. Hartzler, born January 15, 1857, died February 2, 1897, and Susan (Hooley) Hartzler, born March 30, 1867, died January 29, 1930. He grew up on the Issac King farm east of Harrisonville. He had two brothers and two sisters, Ora J., deceased; Marvin, deceased; Mrs. Henry (Anna) King; Mrs. Dan (Sylvia) King.

Clarence was baptized with a group of thirty, November 22, 1908 in the Clearfork stream, near Sycamore Mennonite Church by Bishop John Hartzler.

Clarence enjoyed singing. He often sang in a quartette at churches or funeral homes, where they were called to serve. He was also song leader in Sunday School at Sycamore Grove Mennonite Church.

On November 12, 1922, he married Nellie Yoder, born January 12, 1898, and began house-keeping and farming on the Issac King eighty acres. He had no tractor at this time, but used horses and mules. He milked cows, raised some hogs and chickens like most beginning farmers. He also farmed the Dr. Arthur Graves eighty acres, as well as the Issac King land, where he grew up with his widowed mother.

Clarence and Nellie had six children: J. T., born February 6, 1925; Mrs. Lester (Mary Kathryn) Yoder, born June 27, 1926, mother of two children, Doyle and Reita; Ethel, nurse, born April 12, 1929; Mrs. Maurice (Evelyn) Smith, born May 24, 1932, mother of three children, Gail, Stanley and Susan; Ester, Registered Nurse, born October 6, 1933; Mrs. Marvin (Helen) Kenagy, December 28, 1939, mother of four children, Beckey, Wayne, Brenda, and Karla.

In the 1920's Highway 2 was not surfaced, so it was a common thing for farmers to drag the roads to smooth out the ruts after wet weather. Four mules hitched to the drag, in a round trip, made a very nice road.

C. V. Hartzler and his team of four mules.

C. V., as he was usually called, rented the Sullivan two-hundred forty acres in 1935 and moved there. Here there were more acres to farm and more room for hogs. In 1945 C. V.'s moved to the Nailer farm, or Elmwood, between Gunn City and East Lynne. This was one-hundred fifty acres acquired by Nellie's father before 1888. Here C. V. built a dairy, put down a deep well and made other improvements. He took up turkey growing and raised 2,500 a year for about 12 years.

C. V. was interested in rural school problems and served conscientiously as a member of the school boards of Lone Elm and Gunn City districts, as well as a member of the Cass County Board of Education for nine years.

On August 2, 1956, J. T. was married to Martha Reesor of Ontario, Canada and took over the farm. C. V. moved to a seventy-seven acre farm just north of Sycamore Church and J. T. farmed this, also. They now have a seven thousand bird laying house. J. T. and Martha are the parents of four children: John, born June 13, 1957; Charles, born January 14, 1959; Harold, born March 20, 1962; Marilyn, born April 7, 1965.

C. V. passed away April 2, 1957, after a five day illness with a heart condition, at the age of sixty years.

Nellie married Frank Roth, December 15, 1962 and is living on the Frank Roth farm on Highway 2 east of Harrisonville.

THE HARWOOD FAMILY

Nancy Hodges Harwood and James Madison Harwood came to Missouri in 1883 from Eastern Tennessee and settled in Cass County near Harrisonville. They had two little daughters with them, Corna Harwood Washington and Ella Harwood Taylor.

Mr. Harwood was a farmer and in 1885 bought a farm one mile south of Raymore. At this farm home, eight more children were born, Roy, Bertha, Ollie, Clyde, Leta, Rena, Will and Sally.

The family soon affiliated with the Methodist Church in Raymore, furnishing enough children to represent each class in Sunday School. Raymore at this time was a flourishing little village with four passenger trains daily, as well as many freight carrying trains. Many carloads of wheat, corn and livestock were shipped out of this station. Mr. Harwood was a big shipper of corn, wheat and livestock.

Raymore, at this time, had a lumber yard, two grocery stores, two blacksmith shops, a millinery shop, a drug store, a drygoods store, post office, Woodman hall, Masonic hall, an ice cream parlor, two hardware stores, four churches and boasted one doctor. A one-room school house had been established which was later enlarged to three rooms.

The Jim Harwood Family in 1925.

In 1898, the Harwood family moved into Raymore, having bought the house that is located at Madison and Olive streets. Here, three more children were born, Jamie, who died in infancy, Hodge Harwood and Nannie. In 1903, Mr. Harwood bought twelve acres just north of Raymore and built a nine-room house and a barn. The house still stands, a very grand landmark in the community. It holds many memories of a very happy family of fourteen, always with many friends and playmates coming and going. Mr. Harwood was farming more extensively. At one time, he was producing wheat from six hundred acres of land. Also, he bought and sold mules, annually shipping out six or eight carloads of mules to the Kansas City market.

In the early 1900's a new school house was built with provisions for three years of high school, together with the eight grades of elementary.

Mr. Harwood and his son, Clyde, hauled brick and masonry materials to build the school.

In World War I, two sons, Clyde and Will, entered the service. Clyde was a victim of the flu epidemic and did not get overseas. Will was in active service in France for eighteen months. Later, in World War II, another son, Hodge, was in the service for many months. Five of the Harwood daughters were school teachers, one a legal secretary, and two were music teachers of the piano. One son was a skilled auto mechanic, three sons were successful farmers for several years. Later, Will Harwood owned and operated a feed and coal supply store in Raymore during the 1940's and Hodge owned and operated the drug and sundry store for thirty-five years in the brick buildings, which he owned and which still stand on Washington Street.

Mr. Harwood passed away in 1934 and Mrs. Harwood in 1938, having lived a most fulfilling wedded life of fifty-six years. Eight of their children have passed away since their demise. There are now three sisters living out of a family of thirteen children. Mrs. Rena Harwood Kite lives in Raymore, the only Harwood still a resident here. Joe Harwood Lasley, son of Leta Harwood Lasley and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harwood, lives on his farm east of Raymore.

While there are no male descendants with the Harwood name, there are seven grandchildren and twenty-one great-grandchildren living as descendants of this pioneer couple, James and Nancy Harwood.

Hasek and they have five children — David Carlton, Charles Nathan, Laura Jane, Sarah Beth and Brian Scott.

Mrs. Haynes' grandfather, James Bridges, was one of six children of John Bridges, whose will is filed in Mercer County, Kentucky in 1837. John Bridges served under General Washington. Lucy Lowery's mother was a Perry, cousin of Oliver Howard Perry.

Mr. Haynes was admitted to the bar in 1885 and was elected clerk of the Circuit Court, serving until Jan. 1, 1895. He then began the practice of law in Harrisonville and in 1912 was elected prosecuting attorney of Cass County in 1914 serving until 1917, when he resumed his private practice.

Thomas N. died in 1937 and his wife, Lucy Lee passed away in 1950. Both are buried in Orient Cemetery, Harrisonville.

AUBRY PEYTON HAYS

Aubry Peyton Hays, of Fortuna, Mo., came to Raymore in response to an advertisement by barber, Arthur E. Turner. "A. P." had his own small shop in Grain Valley, Mo. but Turner had a two-chair shop which meant greater opportunity at $5.00 a week. Although A. P. received many good offers to work in Kansas City, he fell in love with the Raymore community and refused to leave it, preferring the advantages of Raymore to those of any other community. Hays barbered in Raymore for thirty-five years, retiring one year before his death in 1962. He was well known throughout the county for his fair prices and short haircuts. He firmly believed that any family that had little boys in it could not afford the twenty-five cents for a haircut, so he made up for it by cutting their hair as short as possible. At Mr. Turner's death, Hays became the sole proprietor of the shop which was located first at 204 Washington and later at 106 West Olive.

In 1926, A. P. married Madge C. Hutchison, of Latham, Mo., an elementary teacher then in her second year at State Teachers College, Warrensburg. The young couple were the only outsiders residing in the town, which was composed of the descendants of eight families who had intermarried. The new bride created a bit of a stir when she arrived with her dresses way above her knees and wearing her hair like a boy, shingled in back, but short over her ears and sideburns in front of each ear. She also did not know how to cook, for she had boarded away from home since she was thirteen in order to go to high school and college. Their first home was in furnished rooms over the telephone office and later they had rooms with the Eph Barrs. It was here their daughter, Charlene was born. The family was living in the former Mennonite church building when their second daughter, Yosene, was born.

A. P., coming from three generations of Baptist ministers became very active in the Raymore Methodist Church, serving as trustee for many years. He was active in Democratic politics, serving as Township committeeman for twenty-five years. During the war years he was in charge of the ration program in the Raymore community. He also served on many Relief committees and on an early Raymore Library Board.

Mr. Hays served 20 years as a member of the Raymore Board of Education and of the Raymore-Peculiar Reorganized School District. He was one of the prime movers in the reorganization. A. P. served several terms as president of the Raymore board. Early records of the City of Raymore show that he consistently refused to serve as Mayor but did serve several terms as Alderman. He was a member of the early volunteer fire department. For fifteen years, A. P. was co-manager of the local town baseball team, which was very active during the thirties and early forties and was well known in the Kansas City area for its courtesy and competition.

Raising registered Angus cattle and prize winning roses were A. P.'s hobbies.

Madge (Hutchison) Hays, equally active, became teacher of the new Pro & Con Young Marrieds Class, which she taught for 20 years. She served as president of the P.T.A. and in 1936 became Postmaster of Raymore.

When the Post Office building, then located on Short Street, was torn down, the front room of the Hays home became the Post Office. In addition, Madge acted as volunteer librarian. One corner of the room housing the Post Office had book shelves and children and adults would check out and read books on the steps while they were waiting for the mail to arrive and be put up. At one time the office served as a Greyhound bus stop and Postmaster Hays acted as ticket agent. Madge's daughter, Charlene, first started working in the Post Office when she was twelve, keeping it for two days by herself while the family attended the funeral of A. P.'s father.

A charter member of the Raymore Garden Club and the Raymore Betterment Association, Postmaster Hays received the Postmaster of the year award for Missouri in 1967 and in 1970 she was a Merit Mother of Missouri. In 1964 she took a trip around the world with most of the time spent in the Middle East and Oriental countries.

Charlene (Hays) Hubach and her family still live in Raymore. Charlene is one of the few residents of the city who is actually a native. Many other long time families have been township residents but not of the city itself.

Yosene (Hays) Hammond and her husband, Dan E. Hammond, live in Tightwad, Missouri. Yosene is a real estate broker and tax collector for her township. She and Dan are owners of the Golden Valley Hardware Store in Clinton, Mo. They are the parents of four children, Dannye Dale, Chris Irwin, Barre Hays and Sydnee Yosene. Dannye Dale is in the U.S. Army.

J. D. Cooley, father of Lulu Cooley Headen, was the son of Wm. D. and Parthena (Cox) Cooley and was born in Jackson County, Mo., May 19, 1845. On Oct. 7, 1874 he married Laura Dawson, born in Carthage, Mo., January 18, 1854 to A. M. and Mary (Hocker) Dawson, both natives of Kentucky. Mr. Cooley owned and operated a grocery store, and livery stable in Pleasant Hill for many years. In 1900, with their eight children, Mr. and Mrs. Cooley left Pleasant Hill to take up cattle ranching in Eastern New Mexico. Mr. Cooley died in 1921 and Mrs. Cooley in 1930. Their eldest daughter, Lulu, a teacher in Roswell, returned to Pleasant Hill after her marriage to Claude Headen.

Joseph Vernon Headen, born Aug. 16, 1817, Loudoun Co., Va., the son of Joseph and Sarah (Booth) Headen was married to Eliza Toombs of Kentucky. Their son, John Samuel Headen, born July 19, 1844 in Shelbyville, Kentucky, was married Feb. 12, 1868 to Frances Margaret Farmer, born March 8, 1847 in Story's Hall, Pleasant Hill, to Jeremiah and Eliza (Bailey) Farmer. Mrs. Headen died April 18, 1927 in Springfield, Mo. and Mr. Headen June 4, 1932 in Purcel, Oklahoma. Mr. Headen was a barber.

Jeremiah Farmer, father of Frances Farmer Headen and the son of John Farmer and Abigail Read, was born March 26, 1810 in Anderson Co., Tenn. and died Oct. 27, 1881. He was married Jan. 1, 1833 in Knox Co., Tenn. to Eliza Bailey, born Jan. 6, 1813 to James and Mary (Rector) Bailey. John Farmer was the son of Henry and Sarah (Echols) Farmer and the grandson of Henry and Agnes (Burton) Farmer.

In June, 1837, Jeremiah Farmer brought his family to Cass Co. He was a prominent Baptist preacher, instrumental in organizing the Baptist Church in Pleasant Hill in 1867. For 30 years he supplied four churches, each once per month. The distance between the churches was often 30 to 40 miles. The country was new, the congregations poor, and most of the labor was performed without compensation, and Rev. Farmer, in order to support his family, also became a banker and a lumberman.

His youngest daughter wrote the following about her father:

"My first recollection was when he came home from his long trips in the winter with icicles frozen to his whiskers, and his bearskin overshoes, with hair inside, covered with mud, as were his leggins, made of yards of flannel wrapped and fastened with pins."

GEORGE KONRAD HEID

In May of 1870 two Heid brothers left their home in Mauer, Germany, near Heidelberg, for the United States of America. They were George Konrad (4 Apr. 1845-26 Dec. 1928) and Johann George Kasper (24 Dec. 1849-). Konrad, the older, at the age of 14, began the trade of cabinetmaker. He worked in this business until he was 26 years old. Konrad and his brother saved their money for the trip to America. They sailed from Braman, Germany to Hoboken, N.Y., took a train to St. Louis where they worked in a garden for a month, then came to Pleasant Hill, Mo. as they had friends living here. Later, they were joined by a brother, Johann George (21 Mar. 1858-). George and John migrated farther west to the state of Washington where they resided until their death. Konrad remained in Cass County. He lived in the Eight Mile community for eight years and then purchased a farm in the Plum Grove community, south of Pleasant Hill. Upon retirement, he moved into Pleasant Hill where he lived until his death.

In the Plum Grove community were many Germans who had settled there. They all spoke the German language in their homes and "get-togethers", but could also speak and understand English.

Konrad Heid married Nancy Ewalt (Specht, Kagarice — twice married before with three sons, Joe Specht, William and John Kagarice.) Mr. Heid helped to raise her sons. Konrad and Nancy (11 Sept. 1839-9 Feb. 1906) were married 8 June 1878 and had three children: George Otis (20 Dec. 1879-5 Jan. 1956); Conrad (18 Feb. 1881-3 Mar. 1967) and Susan Elizabeth (28 May 1882-30 Aug. 1956).

George Otis Heid married Lydia Ann Lindsay (2 Sept. 1877-20 May 1945) on Nov. 21, 1900 at Harrisonville, Missouri. She was the daughter of William Lindsay (2 Apr. 1831-31 Jan. 1913) and Rachael Ann Williams (13 Apr. 1855-21 June 1939) who lived on a farm a few miles north of Harrisonville. William Lindsay had come from Ireland to the United States. George farmed his father's farm for several years and then purchased a farm two miles north, still in the Plum Grove community. They resided here until Lydia's death.

George and Lydia were members of the Pleasant Hill Presbyterian Church. He belonged to the C.P.A. Lodge. They had two children, Buelah Elizabeth (28 Aug. 1902-23 June 1922) and Walter George (15 Jan. 1908-19 June 1972). Buelah passed away at the age of eighteen. Walter attended Plum Grove school where he had excellent teachers, Miss Nancy Cox and Mrs. Fred Seavers.

George Heid farmed at a time when many horses and mules were used. He was among the first in the community to purchase a tractor and a car, thus was considered a progressive farmer, as was his son, Walter, who farmed with his Dad for several years.

Walter George Heid married Alice Elizabeth Lewis (27 Jan. 1909-) on June 25, 1931 at the home of her parents near Harrisonville. Her parents were James Linton Lewis (8 June 1871-26 Jan. 1956) and Anna Dell Frazier 19 Aug. 1880-5 Oct. 1952). Alice was born in Meridian, Idaho where her parents were living. They moved to Cambridge, Idaho in 1910 and to Missouri in 1919. Farm life in Idaho was different from that in Missouri. Every farmer had to irrigate his crops, which was all done by hand. Little ditches carried the water to each field and gates turned the water from one field to another.

There was a hot springs near the home of Linton Lewis and he took his hogs there to scald at butchering time, as others did, also.

In 1919 Linton and Anna Lewis sold their farm in preparation for the move to Missouri to make their home. The Lewis family arrived in Harrisonville on Oct. 11, 1919. There were two little girls, Alice, as mentioned before, and Emma Jean (13 Mar. 1907-31 Aug. 1928), who passed away from pneumonia menengitis, contracted while she was in College at Warrensburg. Alice and her sister took teachers training in high school so were able to teach in rural schools immediately after graduation. Alice taught the Rock Ford school in 1926-27 and at Bills school in 1927-29. The girls attended high school by driving old "Nellie" to a buggy. They each had many interests and activities.

Walter and Alice Lewis Heid were the parents of two sons, Walter George, Jr. and Konrad Lewis. (See sketch on Walter G. Heid Family)

BARTLES HENDERSON

Bartles Henderson was born July 11, 1894 in Caney, Kansas being the son of John Andrew Henderson and Clara (Estes) Henderson. He spent the early years of his life there before moving to Kansas City, Missouri. He served in the U.S. Navy in World War I and saw overseas duty. After being discharged from the Navy he went to work at the Ford Motor Company assembly plant in Kansas City where he reached the position of foreman before he resigned to buy the Ford Dealership in Garden City, Missouri.

In 1925 he and Miss Teresa Mangan were married. She died in March, 1962.

In 1930 Henderson moved to Harrisonville where he purchased the local Ford Dealership and he became one of the district's outstanding dealers. Henderson operated the Henderson Motor Company under a sole ownership for many years. In May, 1952 he employed a young Ford Motor Company employee in his business. He was O. Marvin Burris who was taken in as a partner a year later. On Jan. 1, 1961, Henderson sold his interest to Burris. However, he and Burris continued to buy and sell real estate together including the subdivision of a large tract of land owned by Henderson in northeast Harrisonville. The operation was conducted under the name of Thunderbird Investment Company with Burris as president, Henderson as vice-president and William E. Fowler as secretary and treasurer. He became one of Cass County's substantial citizens and being childless, he devoted a lot of his time and money to helping others, for the most part anonymously. For years he had a standing order at local restaurants to feed the less fortunate at Christmas and Thanksgiving. He also headed many drives to obtain money for people needing hospitalization or treatment. Usually he furnished the major portion of the money raised. He had many individual charitable projects and frequently the recipient never knew where the help came from.

He loved to work with livestock and shipped thousands of pounds of beef and pork to market from his several farms. He was also widely known for his work with homeless cats and dogs. He fed, housed and hospitalized untold numbers of dogs and cats through the years and found homes for hundreds. Only 7 hours before his death he was formulating plans to try to improve on a new Harrisonville City Ordinance which he felt would be harmful to dogs which he loved so well.

He was a lifelong Democrat and took an active interest in city, county, state and national politics.

In March, 1963 Henderson and Mrs. Lucille Famuliner were married. She being the daughter of Joseph Cyrus Lapsley and Elizabeth (Stair) Lapsley.

Bart was raised in the Methodist Church, and he regularly financially supported his and other churches in which he and his wife were interested.

THE HENDERSON FAMILY

The Henderson Family came to Cass Co. in 1907 when Henry Clay Henderson of Nodaway Co. purchased a 280 acre farm south of Belton, in Mt. Pleasant Twp. Henry was a successful stockman and farmer until his death, December, 1929 at his home in Belton where he was overcome by gas fumes. Henry was born February 21, 1853, Morgan Co., Ill., son of Silas and Sarah (Gorham) Henderson, a prosperous family. Silas was born 1811, Hampshire Co., West Virginia to David E. and Elizabeth (Gano) Henderson. David E. was born 1770, Bethlehem Twp., Hunterdon Co., N.J. to Edward and Rachel Henderson. Edward was born 1735 by tradition either of Scotch or Scotch-Irish ancestry and died 1819, Bethlehem Twp., Hunterdon Co., N.J.

Fielding Belt Henley was the oldest son of Joseph B. and Mary Ann Belt Henley. He was born in 1837 and a resident of Pleasant Hill, Mo. since childhood. He worked in the harness and saddlery shop with his father, and later operated the business himself — they enjoyed a following that came great distances to purchase their handiwork, which displayed excellent workmanship.

In 1861 he was married to Miss Mary Elizabeth Underwood of Pleasant Hill, and they lived their entire married life in this area. To this union three children were born: Martha, Josephine and Fielding, Jr. Fielding, Jr., a small child, was accidentally shot while playing with a revolver in the absence of the family. He started to run home, but dropped dead in the front yard of the grandparents' home.

Mr. F. B. Henley was elected mayor of Pleasant Hill, Mo. three times. He was finishing his third term at the time of his death, Feb. 15, 1890. He was a member of the Christian Church. He was a member of Argus Lodge No. 132, A.O.U.W. and Cass Lodge, No. 2325 K. of H.

JAMES A. HENLEY

James Atkinson Henley was a well-known business man and a native of Pleasant Hill. He was born in 1851, the son of Joseph B. and Mary Anne (Belt) Henley.

When James was a boy of 11 years, the battle of Lone Jack was fought only 9 miles from his home. He could hear the cannons roaring and in time he walked to Lone Jack for a look. He was one of the first non-combatants to visit the bloody battlefield. When Order No. 11 was issued, Aug. 25, 1863, James and his family had to leave their home. They went to Dover, Mo., just east of Lexington, to live until the war was over. While the family was there, James' mother died in 1865. Later that year, the family returned to Pleasant Hill to find a family of "squatters" living in their home. The "squatters" soon moved on and James was back home.

James was elected Cass County Sheriff in 1884 on the Democrat ticket and served in this office for 4 years. During this time, he married Ella Kate Collins, daughter of Foster and Lucinda Collins of Pleasant Hill. James and Ella were the parents of 3 children: James A. Jr., Marie Louise and George Vest. Mr. Henley died in 1931 at his home on North Armstrong.

James A. Henley, Jr. (Jim) was born in 1888 at the county jail, while his father was sheriff. He grew up in Pleasant Hill and then attended Wentworth Academy at Lexington. He married Glessie Frances Smith, daughter of Francis Alvin and Nancy Smith. They lived most of their married life in and around Tyler, Texas. Jim died in 1951. Their children are: Helen Ann, born 1914 and married James B. Payne. They live in Enid, Okla. James Frank, born 1918 and died in 1921. Margaret Sue, born 1920, is married to David Kelly and lives in El Paso. Jack Henley married Thelma Marie Murrell and lives in Tyler.

George Vest Henley was a native of Pleasant Hill, born in 1901 and lived there until his death in 1971. When a boy of 7 or 8 years, George's family moved to a yellow brick house on North Armstrong St., which is still the family home. George was an electrician for many years. He later became Supt. of the Municipal Utilities in Pleasant Hill and worked at this job until retirement. George married Gladys Helen Brown in 1931, the daughter of James O. and Alice E. Brown of Passaic in Bates Co., Mo. Gladys was a school teacher for many years in Bates and Cass Counties. She has retired now but still lives in the home place in Pleasant Hill. George and Gladys had 2 children. George Brown works as a park ranger in Glacier National Park. Mary Kathryn taught school several years and married Gerald B. Fitzgerald. They live in Harrisonville and have 2 sons: Patrick Bryan, born in 1959, and Scott Henley, born in 1960.

JOSEPH B. HENLEY

Joseph B. Henley, born in 1812, was a native of Louisa County, Virginia. When ten years old his parents moved to Kentucky, and they lived there until he reached his majority. In 1833 he came to Missouri and was married to Miss Mary Ann Belt of Lafayette County, Missouri — she had previously lived in Kentucky, too.

Mr. Henley was one of the early settlers of this part of Missouri. He was a harness and saddlery maker by trade. His shop was located in Old Town, Pleasant Hill — just south of Cemetery Street. In 1852, he bought and moved to a home and eight acre tract at the north edge of Old Town — in 1854 the balance of the farm was purchased, and this has been the family home, with the exception of time spent at Dover, Mo. during "Order No. 11". This property still remains in the Henley family.

Joseph B. and Mary Ann Belt Henley were the parents of nine children. They were: Sarah E. 1834-1855 (1st wife of James Freeman), Fielding B. 1837-1890, Alonzo F. 1839-1862, Richard W. 1843-1920, Joseph B. Jr., 1846-1853, John W. 1849-1882, James A. 1851-1931, Andrew F. 1855-1855, and Reuben P. 1856-1917.

Mary Ann Belt Henley died in Dover, Mo. in 1865 during the Civil War. After the war was over her husband and sons drove by team and wagon to Dover, and brought their wife and mother back to Pleasant Hill, Mo. for final interment in the Pleasant Hill Cemetery. Joseph B. Henley died October 31, 1886. Mr. Henley had married Mary A. Whitworth in the 70's and she passed away in 1905.

He was always known as a man of exemplary moral worth, an honest man, a true friend to the poor and a kind neighbor. What more can be said to honor the memory of any citizen? (Taken from his obituary in local paper, 1886).

Mr. Henley then returned to Pleasant Hill and married Miss Madora Parker on Nov. 22, 1868. They lived in Pleasant Hill until 1872, then moving to a farm near Strasburg, Missouri. Forty-three years of their married life was spent in Strasburg — thirty-three years he served as assessor of Polk Township. He was a life long Democrat. Mrs. Madora Henley, the mother of twelve children, three dying in infancy, passed away on Nov. 12, 1923. She was a member of the Christian Church — her faith never dimmed

DAVID HILL

Although David Hill lived longer in Cass County than any other place during his lifetime, it was his link with Cass County which was to cost him his life. He was born in Warren County, Tennessee, and there married Martha Boyd in 1830. Around 1837 the family removed to Cass County, Missouri, where the census taker found them at Everett in 1840. After a trip to Texas during the 1840's, they again returned to Cass County, but since David Hill's sentiments were with the free state cause, he moved across the state line to homestead land in Miami County, Kansas in 1860.

During the Border War, David went along with the Union forces at Butler, Missouri in order to see what happened when they met the rebel forces. At the Battle of Parkersville in northern Bates County in 1861, David Hill was shot and killed by an old Missouri enemy who recognized him as a free state man.

The children of David and Martha Hill were: Nancy Ann, who married John N. Osman; John W., who married Elizabeth J. (?); Malinda J., who married Pleasant Roark; Permelia A., who married 1st, Daniel Ream and 2nd, Jesse A. CHARLES MARTIN HOCHMUTH

Charles Martin Hochmuth (Charley), August 6, 1885-August 13, 1964, was a well known farmer and cattleman in Cass County for fifty-one years. He took great pride in the community and worked for its betterment. Served on election and school boards many years, and was a member of the First Baptist Church. He came to Cass County in 1913, purchased land south of Harrisonville, Missouri, which is still farmed by the family. His father, Herman Hochmuth, came to the United States from Hamburg, Germany in the 1870's with his widow mother, Anna Therese SoFleiss Hochmuth, sister Josephine Sophia, and two brothers, Johann and Ernest. They settled in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and later moved to Holton, Kansas.

April 22, 1883, Herman Hochmuth married Katherina Mueller, who came to the United States from Kassell, Germany, age seventeen. She made the voyage with a girl friend and her family, intending to return home. This was not to be. She never saw her parents, brother or four sisters again. They did correspond through her lifetime. They made their home on a farm near Holton, Kansas, and were the parents of seven children, Harry, Charley, Josephine, Anna, Louise, Georgine and Mary.

September 2, 1912, Herman Hochmuth was stricken with a fatal heart attack while returning from town in his spring wagon. The horses made a safe journey home with the wagon and their driver. Holton was seven miles from the farm. Mrs. Hochmuth sold the farm. Her two sons, now in their twenties, wanted to farm in Missouri. They purchased adjoining farms south of Harrisonville. Harry was married to Emily Henkle, Holton, Kansas. Charley was single, so their mother and sister Louise made their home with him from 1913 until he married. They returned to Holton, Kansas, where the rest of the family still lived.

Josephine Hochmuth came to Harrisonville in 1913, after finishing business college at Hill City, Kansas. She was employed as a bookkeeper for the Bank of Harrisonville until it closed in 1919. She then returned to Holton. Later, with her mother and Louise, she purchased the home where she now resides. She is the last living member of the family.

Christmas Eve, 1923, Charley M. Hochmuth and Lillie May Fichter were married in her parents' home near Sedalia, Missouri. Her father, Fredrich Fichter, came to the United States at the age of twenty-one, an only child, with his widowed mother and grandmother Fichter from Alsace Lorraine. They had owned a resort hotel in Strasberg. They purchased land near Sedalia where he lived until his death in 1931. May 1, 1887, he married Hermina Louise Voight (1859-1960), born in Manitowoc, Wisconsin. They later moved to Hughesville, Missouri, and were the parents of nine children. Two live in Cass County, Mrs. Frank Fries (Bertha) and Mrs. Charley Hochmuth (Lillie).

Charley and Lillie Hochmuth were the parents of one child, Katherine Louise, born November 26, 1924. She graduated from Harrisonville High School, attended William Woods College, graduated from Huff's Business College and Fairchild's School of Cosmetology. She is a member of Bayard Chapter #179 O.E.S. State of Missouri and Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs. The Hockaday family first arrived in Jamestown, Virginia in 1647 from England. They were pioneers in Virginia and Kentucky. George Edmond Otey Hockaday (1805-1885) came to Missouri, Calloway County, before 1838, at which time he married Catherine Laura Hart (1817-1892), a native of Albemarle County, Virginia. Laura Hart came to Missouri in a wagon train.

George E. O. Hockaday was engaged in farming and stock raising. He served one term as representative in the state legislature and was, also, county judge and sheriff of Calloway County.

He moved his family to Pleasant Hill in 1872 and, in 1873, bought a farm of 160 acres, three and one-half miles south of Peculiar, Missouri. He helped establish the Peculiar cemetery and his daughter, Eliza (Lydia), was the first person buried there. He was one of the first members of the Presbyterian Church at Peculiar and helped organize the Rock Ford Rural School south of Peculiar.

The George E. O. Hockadays were the parents of Charles Stuart Hockaday (1840-1921), a resident of Cass County;

Martha Dillard Hockaday (1845-1916), who married Moses Henry McCue (1841-1910), whose home was in Audrain County; Frances (Frank) Hart Hockaday (1857-1929) married Mary Welborn and resided south of Peculiar; Henry Abbot Hockaday married Alice Welborn and died in early manhood.

Charles Stuart Hockaday served in the Federal Army during the Civil War, and took part in many important battles. After peace was declared, he served in the Army guarding the Missouri Pacific Railroad across the western plains as it was being built. In 1868, he settled in Cass County where he bought ninety-two acres of land in Union Township, and engaged in general farming and stock raising. In 1870, he married Salena Ellen Young (1853-1919), daughter of Josiah A. and Elizabeth (Ross) Young. The Young family settled in Cass County about the close of the Civil War, coming from North Carolina.

Charles Stuart Hockaday was elected presiding judge in 1878 and served in that office for four years. He was again elected presiding judge of the County Court in 1902 and during the course of his administration many difficult problems were presented for solution. Judge Hockaday's good judgement and keen foresight proved a valuable asset to the County on many occasions. He had many interesting experiences in the final adjustment of the County bonds proposition. He also served as Justice of the Peace of Union Township for many years.

The Charles Stuart Hockadays had four sons. Charles Ernest (1872-1959), Thomas Otey (1875-1967), Leon Melville (1881-1957) and Roy Frances (1888-1958).

FRANCIS H. (FRANK) HOCKADAY

Frank Hockaday came to Peculiar from Callaway County in 1870 with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. O. Hockaday, and his two brothers, Charles S. Hockaday and Henry A. Hockaday. They established their home on a farm south of Peculiar. A part of that farm is still owned by Robert H. Hockaday. Frank's father, who had been presiding judge of Callaway County and had served in the State Legislature while living there, helped organize the Presbyterian Church in Peculiar and helped establish the Peculiar Cemetery, where Frank's sister, Eliza, was the first one buried. Frank's father also helped organize the Rock Ford School south of Peculiar. It was there that Frank attended school, as did his children and grandchildren in later years.

Frank Hockaday married Mary T. Welborn. They, in turn, lived on the farm south of Peculiar where they reared their six children. They were of the Presbyterian faith and attended church regularly. Frank helped organize the Farmers' Mutual Telephone Line and helped build a line from Peculiar to Harrisonville.

Two of Frank's daughters, Martha and Margaret Hockaday, now deceased, were teachers in St. Joseph and Kansas City, Missouri, respectively. His two living daughters are retired from teaching. Mrs. Laura Hockaday Carpenter lives in Omaha, Nebraska, where she is a faithful member of the First Presbyterian Church. This had been the home of Martin Rice, a prominent Cass Countian and historian, and his folks, who had lived there in a two story log cabin on the Indian Trail. On August 17, 1903, Martin Rice visited the Hodges. He was then 89 years old and he gave them, on that day, a copy of his well known book, "Rural Rhymes and Talks and Tales of Olden Times." This inscription was written by him in the front of the book he gave them: "Compliments of the author to his friend Mrs. Ada Hodges of Cass Co., Mo. who occupies the Author's old home on the Indian trail. Martin Rice, aged 89 years"

John and Ada Hodges had a son, Perry; a daughter, Pearl, deceased in 1918, and a son, Jay, who resides in Warrensburg, Missouri and who inherited the home place.

James Richard "Jim" Hocker, the only son and eldest of four children of Benjamin Dunn and Mary (Bentley) Hocker came to Cass County, Missouri with his father and stepmother Julia Ann (Green) (Dunn) Hocker and their children in 1868. They came from Turnersville, Lincoln County, Kentucky. His Uncle Tillman followed in 1869. Their father, Joseph, and grandparents, Samuel and Nancy (Price) Hocker, had migrated to Kentucky from Frederick County, Maryland about 1790. Their mother was Elizabeth (Dunn) Hocker. Jim's sisters were Mary Ann (Bradbury) and Margaret "Maggie" (Arnold); half-sisters were, Lizzie Belle (Stevens), Sara Wood and Alice Green; half-brothers were Joseph Edwin and Benjamin Dunn, Jr.; and stepbrother was Issac "Ide" Dunn. Benjamin and Julia bought a farm near Lisle. There he and his sons farmed. Benjamin and Tillman's brother, James, and his wife, Harriet (Morrison) Hocker, who thought young ladies also should be educated, established the Hocker Female College at Lexington, Kentucky. It was combined, later with Morrison College and Transylvania College, the oldest college west of Alleghenies. The old mansion-academy-home was used as a women's dormitory (Hamilton Hall), renamed for a promising benefactor, until recently.

Ella Farr Holloway was the second child, first daughter, of eight children of Fleming Van Buren and Mary Jane (Cooper) Holloway. Fleming V. was the son of Thomas and Martha (Secrist) Holloway. Ella's sisters, Minnie Leslie (Elder) and Fannie May (King), and brothers, Charles William, Barnes Flavius, Arthur Floyd and Wilbur Gentry, all reached adulthood. Ella refused to go along because she planned to marry Jim Hocker, so her father insisted she should marry before he left. Fleming had been very active all his life in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and Ella had played the organ when they dedicated the Presbyterian Church at Sharon. He was not happy when she decided to accept the faith of her husband, Jim, who she married on October 13, 1885. They settled on the old Hocker homeplace where Jim farmed for his father, who died in 1886. In this area the six children were born. Their children were Ray Fleming, Jesse Benjamin, Mary Lela, Mabel Alice, William David and James Arthur, "Josh".

Jim suffered an accident requiring amputation of a leg just before Alice was born. This was a very difficult time for them. Ella was an excellent cook and was able to supplement the family income by taking in boarders at Lisle. Later Jim ran the huckster wagon and Ray and Jess helped with the farming. The family were always active members of the Christian Church where they lived. Two children still live in Cass County: Lela and "Josh" at or near Drexel and they are active in the Drexel Christian Church there. THOMAS W. HOPPER

Samuel C. Hopper (1880-1954) and brother John T. Hopper (1875-1955) farmed north of Harrisonville, Mo. until their retirement. Their father, Thomas W. Hopper, came to this country in 1856, one of the eleven children of Thomas and Jane Poad Hopper, who were natives of Scarborough, Yorkshire, England. They sailed aboard the "Ellen Austin," one of three boats leaving together that spring. Two boats were lost in a storm at sea and it was many weeks before news was received at Grandmother Poad's that the one they had sailed on was the boat that crossed safely. It was a five week trip from Liverpool to New York City. They traveled by boat, via Great Lakes to Chicago, then by train to Jacksonville, Illinois.

Samuel C. Hopper.

Thomas W. Hopper (1846-1910) joined Illinois Infantry Co. G. 101, which was formed to fight for the Union during the Civil War. He was wounded in the battle on Lookout Mt. in Tennessee and while still only 18 years of age was with Sherman's March to the Sea. This was while still a British subject, for he did not take out United States citizenship papers until he was 21. Thomas W. Hopper married Lucy Davis (1848-1926) on October 29, 1874 and they farmed in Morgan County, Illinois, where their three sons were born. They were: John T., Willis L. and Samuel C. They moved to Cass County, Mo. in 1883 to property they had bought from relatives of Mrs. Hopper. This was the Sharp farm and it was here, in the original log cabin built in 1835, where their youngest child Annie Ruby was born in 1888.

The family moved back to Illinois in 1891, renting the farm to the Matt Sharp family. Mr. Hopper died in Dec. 1910 and daughter Annie Ruby (1888-1943) married Sylvester Joy Carter (1880-1939) and made her home in Jacksonville, Ill. Mrs. Hopper and sons, Sam and John, moved back to the farm in 1911. Each of these moves had been made in train freight cars, taking one more car each move to handle the increase in machinery and livestock. More land had been purchased while they were in Illinois and from 1911 they lived in the larger home on the south side of the road.

Sam Hopper taught school in Ill., having attended college in Valparaiso, Ind. He continued teaching at Walnut Grove school north of Harrisonville after moving to Mo. He quit after a few years to devote full time to farming but later served on the school board there for 25 years. Neither Sam nor John married.

The only descendants from this family are the children of Sylvester and Annie Hopper Carter: Frances Joy, Mildred Louise and Thomas Herbert.

WESLEY DONALD HUBACH, SR.

Wesley Donald Hubach, Sr., and his wife, Charlene (Hays) were married in January of 1947 and live on the farm where Donald was born. Except for two years when he attended Missouri University, and three years overseas with the Air Force in England and France in World War II, Donald has lived on the family farms in the southeast of Raymore.

While in his early teens, Donald took over the operation of the family's 320 acre farm. His father's family were not farmers by profession or inclination and his grandfather Skinner, General Agent of the Aetna Life Company, had almost no experience with farming except for his early years when he had raised cucumbers in Chicago and sold them to the Heinz Pickle Company to be a part of their 57 Varieties.

Even so, Donald and his father raised prize winning registered Herefords for many years. When the children, Jocelyn and Wesley, Jr., entered 4-H Donald switched to registered Angus and the children won several first prizes at the county level for their animals.

Today, Donald is the developer of the Jwedea Subdivision while his cattle operations are carried on at a large ranch in Benton County. Donald is secretary-treasurer and board member of the Raymore Township Fire Protection District, a trustee in St. Paul's United Methodist Church and chairman of the Raymore Board of Adjustments. In addition he has been active in Democratic politics.

Both Donald and Charlene are charter members of the Raymore Betterment Association; Donald serving a term as president. He is also a charter member of the Raymore Lions Club.

In 1961 Charlene returned to the University and in 1971, after ten years of night classes, was graduated from Missouri University at Kansas City with a degree in Urban Affairs with emphasis on city planning. She is a member of the Administrative Board of the Cass County Red Cross, a charter member and past president of the Garden Club, presently a member of the Raymore Park and Recreation Board and, since November of 1971, Postmaster of Raymore. In 1969 Charlene received a Governor's Leadership Award for her civic activities.

The Hubachs are the parents of four children, Jocelyn Hubach Walker, 24, a chemical engineer employed in Kansas City; Wesley, Jr., 22, a graduate of Western Military Academy with a tour in the United States Navy; Dessa Peyton, 20, a student in the School of Agriculture of Missouri University at Columbia and Clay, 14, already an outstanding cook. Wesley, Jr.'s experiences in the Navy have ranged from taking part in underwater atomic blasts, blockading the North Vietnamese coast and picking up the first astronauts to land on the moon to fishing Cambodian dignitarires out of the water when they fell overboard.

"WHAT A MAN DOES FOR HIMSELF DIES WITH HIM.
WHAT HE DOES FOR HIS COMMUNITY LIVES FOREVER."

WESLEY WALTER HUBACH

Early in the year of 1920 Wesley and Florence Hubach came from Kansas City, Missouri to make their home on a 320 acre farm located on the south half of Section 23 in Raymore Township. With them came their daughter, May, who was enrolled in the first grade of the Raymore School.

It would be hard to imagine two people less prepared to begin a life on the farm. Neither Wesley or Florence had the most remote experience with farm life. An avid reader, all Florence knew of "country living" was what she had read in the romantic novels of the day. She was the daughter of a prominent Kansas City insurance company executive, Dessa Moses Skinner and his wife, Mary Clark Skinner, who traced her ancestry back to the American Revolutionary War years. A gentle person, Florence was accustomed to servants most of her life and was the product of the Monticello College Finishing School in Alton, Illinois.

Wesley, one of nine children, made his living as a musician as did two of his brothers. Their parents, Frederick and Katherine Hubach, had come from Germany, settled first in West Virginia and finally in Kansas City. Frederick owned the Hubach Cabinet Company, a firm engaged in furniture and fixture making. Fixtures in the old Harvey House and Wolferman store in Kansas City were from his shop. Also, many articles of fine furniture treasured by Kansas City families and by his great grandchildren were crafted by Frederick Hubach.

Early in 1921 a son was born to Wesley and Florence, and this son, Wesley Donald, was, in time, to bring his wife Charlene (Hays) and their four children to a new home built close to where the original farm home once stood. In the summer of 1921 Wesley's father died and he took his family back to Kansas City for a year to help with the family business. But the young people loved the farm, so the business was sold and back they came to the farm.

Wesley Hubach's farm home was a composite of three houses that had been joined together. The home had been occupied by Fred and Verda Lawrence prior to the Hubachs' coming. Wesley used to say that all he knew about farming was taught him by Fred Lawrence. The farm had some excellent farm buildings and each of the three main barns had running water throughout. However, the house did not have running water until many years later because it was the early wish of Florence to "rough it" as early settlers had done. So it was a time of coal oil lamps, outdoor plumbing, coal and wood stoves and square dances in the loft of the cattle barn.

Visiting relatives came by train and were met at Raymore's depot with the surrey, or if the roads were bad, a wagon. And those roads were incredible. May remembers how she usually rode to school on horseback with little brother seated behind her. On one particularly cold day, "little Donny," naturally chubby, was almost immobilized by the many layers of clothing his mother had put on him. While riding behind his sister, he fell off and neither May or the accompanying neighbor boy were able to hoist him back on. He ended up walking while they rode on. Hoboes used to follow the railroad track which ran diagonally through the farm, stopping by the house where Florence always fed them.

Wesley had studied voice and sang professionally in Kansas City and in Chicago with the Chicago Metropolitan Opera. Although he farmed the home place and managed an additional 320 acres owned by his father-in-law, his first love remained music. His beautiful and powerful baritone voice was well known over Cass County. Neighbors who used to trade farm help with him remember how he would drop his work, whether he was working for himself or his neighbors, harvest time or not, when asked to sing. He never asked for or accepted fees for sharing his talent.

Florence's hospitality was well known, for she felt any visitor to the home was hungry and must be fed before going on his way. After Wesley's death she moved to a home on Adams Street in Raymore where she lived until her death in 1958.

May Hubach married Nolan Fielding Davis, of Boaz, Alabama. They had two children, Wesley Jay and Elizabeth Ann. The latter, now Mrs. Larry Brandenburg, lives with her husband and daughter, Kristy Elizabeth, in Plymouth, Michigan. May, now a widow, lives in Mission, Kansas.

Jay, who, with his father, started a chain of auto parts stores, lives with, wife, Nancy and four daughters in Overland Park, Kansas.

Frank Huber, born at Lancaster, Penn. in 1847, came to Missouri in 1870 and settled at Lee's Summit. In 1872 he purchased 153 acres one mile north of Belton. He followed farming and general stock raising, increasing his acreage. At his death in 1931, the farm totaled four hundred acres. The original farm is still in the family today, with the exception of the acreage taken for the four lane 71 Highway.

Frank Huber married Catherine Barr in 1875. They had four children; Bertha (d.), Benjamin (d.), Mary Yocom and Mattie Sams.

Huber was one of ten early Belton settlers who borrowed eleven thousand dollars to buy the 1870 township railroad bonds. He contributed $1,000 toward the construction of the first rock road from Belton to Kansas City. He was also president of the Bank of Belton from 1914 to 1926.

LEWIS B. HUFF

Lewis B. (Berdine) Huff, born between 1814 and 1815 in New York, married Lucinda Nugent/Newgent, who was born about 1813 in Indiana, daughter of Benedict and Lucinda Nugent/Newgent. Three of his daughters were widowed during the war, Sarah, Jane and Rebecca, and they returned with their children to live with him. In 1865 he was running the Farmers Hotel and his daughters had remarried by this time, and all the relatives were returning to Cass County, in the neighborhood of Harrisonville and Austin. Lewis B. returned to his home in Austin. After the war the Baptist Church was reorganized and some of the first names were L. B. and Lucinda Huff. Lucinda's brother was a Baptist minister and circuit rider.

Lewis B. Huff was a very fine man and reported to have been the wealthiest man in Cass County. L. B. contracted for and laid the turnpike road from Philadelphia to New York City, it was a plank road. That is where he got his start financially. L. B. paid the highest taxes in Cass County. He had an estate left him in France which he wanted badly to go and get settled, but "grandmother Huff (his wife) whimpered and just refused to let him go" so he let it drift and never did anything about it. L. B. owned land in Kansas City where the old Convention Hall was.

Lewis B. and Lucinda's names were on the Baptist Church roll through 1872 and they were deceased by letter 1873. L. B. is buried in a grove on one of his farms near Austin. Some of his descendants stayed in Austin.

When he was a small boy his family was forced to leave their home during the war between the states because of Order No. 11. They went to Richmond, Missouri where his sister, Betty (Hunt) Trundle, was born. When the family returned to Lone Jack, he finished his schooling there. In February, 1880 he married Bertha Williams, who had moved from Ohio with her father, Thomas Williams and three sisters, to the High Point District, south of Lone Jack. Marion worked for his father, Noah Hunt, as a miller in Lone Jack and for Charles Schrock of Oak Grove.

NOAH HUNT

J. Marion Hunt, Ben B. Hunt and Robert T. Hunt were the sons of Noah and Nancy (Cave) Hunt, of Lone Jack, Missouri. Their grandfather, Nathan Hunt, was born in North Carolina and brought his family to Missouri from Davey County in 1835. They settled five miles north of Lone Jack at Sni Mills. He was a miller and built a mill on his place. It was a horse tread mill, one of the first grist mills in this section. Pioneers brought their corn and wheat to be made into flour and meal. He died about 1875.

Noah Hunt, son of Nathan Hunt, began to operate his father's mill at 18 years of age. He married Nancy Cave, daughter of Galen Cave, pioneer settler of Lone Jack. They were the parents of twelve children, five girls and seven boys. Noah bought a carding mill from Miller Easley and built a grist mill in connection with the carding machine. This was a horse tread mill and was destroyed in the war between the states. In 1870 he moved east of Lone Jack and built a new grist mill and installed a carding machine. In the 1880s it was remodeled as a roller steam mill to make soft wheat flour which sold for $1.25 per 100 pounds weight. In 1897 Noah Hunt moved his operation to Pleasant Hill to be near the railroad. Three of his sons, Marion, Ben and Bob came to Pleasant Hill to manage the mill. Noah's wife, Nancy Cave Hunt, died March 17, 1879 and is buried in the Lone Jack Cemetery. He married Mrs. Mary E. Travis on September 13, 1880. She was the widow of R. Travis and was a devoted wife and mother to Noah and his large family. Noah was a faithful member of the Lone Jack Baptist Church and served as moderator for thirty years, and as trustee for fifty-six years. He died November 22, 1908 and is buried in the Lone Jack Cemetery on a lot that is located on the land he gave to the cemetery. The three Hunt brothers, Marion, Ben and Robert purchased the mill from their father in 1906, giving it the name of Hunt Brothers' Milling Company. Modern machinery was installed and Marion made the flour, Ben managed the office and Bob managed the grain elevator. This mill was in operation until it was sold to Moundridge Milling Company in 1934.

ROBERT TROY HUNT

Robert Troy Hunt, son of Noah Hunt, was born in Lone Jack, Missouri on January 11, 1874. He was the youngest son of the twelve children of Noah and Nancy (Cave) Hunt. He attended grammar school at Lone Jack and Normal School at Warrensburg, Missouri where he studied voice under Prof. Wadell. From the days when he was a member of the string band in Lone Jack, he loved music and had a talent for it. He formed orchestras and played in bands and for silent movies and sang for many community events. Robert Hunt came to Pleasant Hill in 1897 to help operate his father's mill. June 22, 1909 Robert Hunt and Alice McCalley of Corning, Iowa were married. Her parents came from Indiana to Corning where she spent her childhood and received her education. Her father, James P. McCalley, served three years in the cavalry of the Union Army during the Civil War. Mrs. Hunt came to Pleasant Hill as a milliner for the new ladies' millinery department at the Oppenheimer Department Store.

After the Hunt Brothers sold their mill in 1934, Robert and Ben Hunt built and operated a grain elevator in Harrisonville. In 1946 they sold the elevator to Lawrence Armstrong. Desiring to remain active, Mr. Hunt stayed as an employee of the new owner for about ten years. Mr. Hunt was a member and deacon of the First Presbyterian Church in Pleasant Hill. He took an active part in civic affairs and served on the Pleasant Hill school board.

DANIEL C. IDOL

Daniel Christian Idol was born in Guilford County, N.C., December 23, 1851, in a colonial cabin on the Guilford Court House battle grounds near Greensboro, N.C. He was the son of John and Charity Ann Huff Idol. John was a minister and later served as a captain in the Confederate Army.

The originator of the Idol family in the United States, according to traditional records, was Johan Eytle or Barnett Idol, as the name later became, who landed at Philadelphia, Penn., from the German ship "St. Andrew", which sailed from Rottersdam via Portsmouth, England, Sept. 23, 1752. He settled in Buck County, Pa., where he and Elizabeth Meier (Myer) were married. The family moved to North Carolina in 1776. The Salem, Pa., early records spell the name as Eitel, and the 1790 census spells it Idle. The name was spelled phonetically, and several years later the spelling became Idol, which it has remained.

The marriage of Dan Idol and Miss Nancy Caroline Ross, daughter of Wilborn and Adah (Perkins) Ross, took place Feb. 15, 1874 at Mouth of Wilson, Va. Idol was a carpenter and cabinet maker and built a home on the bank of Wilson Creek where it enters New River. The house still stands. It is octagon shape, the lower floor built on a huge rock foundation at the base of the hill and the upper floor built into the hill top. Five of the Idols' seven children were born in this house.

Times were lean in 1882, and leaving his family in Virginia, Idol and four other men went to Ruby Hill, Nev., where they did carpenter work for a mine for a year. When the mine went bankrupt, they went to Salt Lake City where there was plenty of work, and Dan stayed there until 1884.

Visiting relatives in Belton in 1884, Dan thought that town a pleasant place and sent for his family. A contractor and builder, Idol followed this business for six years, and then purchased The Cass County Leader, a newspaper in Belton which he published a number of years. Disposing of it, he later purchased The Belton Herald, and from that time until 1924 the name Idol was synonymous with newspaper in Belton.

As a contractor-carpenter, Dan C. Idol ranked with the best, and for many years enjoyed a business partnership with George W. Ferrell. Several schools and many homes were built by these men and are monumental to their efforts. His later years were spent refinishing antique furniture and making new pieces by hand. Many homes in Cass County have footstools and tables of intricate inlay work, products of his talent. Several of his pieces were shown in the Missouri display at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1933.

Four of the Idol children grew to adulthood. Three sons, Edgar Ross, Sidney Clyde and Roy Clarence, all assisted their father in the newspaper and followed that profession later. One daughter, Nancy Ruth, married James R. Campbell in Belton, and they made a home for her father in his late years. Nancy (Ross) Idol died May 24, 1926, and Dan Idol died Sept. 8, 1941.

Dan C. Idol is remembered in the newspaper profession as an editorialist who ranked high with the best of his time. He constructed his editorials as he did his best buildings, for the foundation principal is the same.

EDGAR R. IDOL

Edgar Ross Idol, many years a newspaperman in Belton, Pleasant Hill and Harrisonville, was born April 25, 1875 at Mouth of Wilson, Grayson County, Va. His parents were Daniel C. and Nancy Idol. The mother, Nancy Caroline Ross, was born, reared and married at Mouth of Wilson, and was the sixth of eight daughters and three sons born to Wilborn and Adah (Perkins) Ross. Wilburn Ross's grandfather, Reuben Ross, was of the Ross Clan of Scotland, and came to America soon after the battle of Culloden.

Barnett Idol, the root of the American family by that name, came on an immigrant ship to Philadelphia. Like many, he was unable to pay his passage over the ocean and was sold "over the block" to pay for that service. William Myers, a Pennsylvania farmer, bought him and took him down to a Moravian settlement. At the end of a year he had paid his debt and married the farmer's daughter, Elizabeth. Two of his sons, Jacob and Matthias, were in the Continental Army and marched with Greene from Guilford Courthouse to Yorktown. Edgar R. Idol was of the sixth generation descending from Barnett.

Daniel C. Idol and his wife, Nancy, brought their family from Virginia to Belton, Mo., in 1884 when Edgar was eight years old. When he was 12 years old his father bought the town paper, The Cass County Leader, and that ended Edgar's formal schooling. He and his two younger brothers did practically all the mechanical and much of the editorial work on that paper until he was 25 years old.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Shouse and Edgar R. Idol were married June 26, 1900. She was the oldest daughter of James M. and Harriett (Lamar) Shouse. Mr. Shouse was a farmer and banker, serving as president of the Citizen's Bank in Belton. Mrs. Idol was educated at Liberty Ladies' College in Liberty, Mo., and the Normal School at Warrensburg. She had just completed teaching a term at Belton when they were married.

Mr. Idol bought a half interest in the Cass County Leader at Harrisonville, and they set up housekeeping in that town. After six months with the Leader, Idol sold his interest to his partner, Hal C. Daniel. Soon afterwards, Idol bought the Cass County Democrat from Marens and Shepherd and issued it from the fall of 1901 to 1905, when he sold the plant to Homer J. Clark and moved to Pleasant Hill. There he published the Local until he was appointed postmaster by President Woodrow Wilson in February, 1913, an office he filled for nine years.

Upon relinquishing the postmastership, Idol immediately purchased the old paper, the Cass County Democrat, and the paper was published by Mr. and Mrs. Idol and members of their family until its sale in 1954.

Mr. and Mrs. Idol were the parents of six children: Harriett Ruth married Victor Young, and they now live in Leitchfield, Ky.; Edgar Shouse married Katherine Grubb of Birmingham, Ala., and they live in Scottsdale, Ariz.; they have a son, William Ross, and a daughter, Jane Lamar Stapleton, and four grandchildren. James Daniel married Gladys Lile; they had a son, James D., Jr., of Cleveland, Ohio, and a daughter, Carol, who married Hale Montgomery, and they live in Arlington, Va., with their daughters, Anne and Patricia. James D. Idol now lives in Jefferson City with his wife, Sue. Elizabeth Ross married Walter W. Yoss, and she lives in Appleton City, Mo., which was their home before his death. Twin daughters, Margaret B. and Frances Lee were the youngest members of this family. Margaret married Everett E. Wade and they live in Harrisonville. Frances married Thomas W. Chamberlain and they lived in Bethesda, Md., being the parents of four children: Thomas W., Jr., Martin Ross, Peter and Margaret. Frances (Idol) Chamberlain died April 3, 1972. Edgar R. Idol died May 7, 1944, and Elizabeth (Shouse) Idol died July 11, 1950.

Harold Jeter lives in Kansas City, Mo. where he owns a grocery store.

JESSE JETER

Tradition has it that the Jeters were Huguenots, who found refuge in England for many years, and came to Virginia in the early 18th century. The emigrant was John Jeter, who settled about eight miles from Port Royal, Virginia. Through the generations, their occupation leaned toward farming, and they moved from Virginia to Woodford Co., Illinois.

The boy in the family at this time was James M. Jeter. They lived in Illinois, and James grew to manhood and married Mary Peterson. They became parents of ten children. Of these children, four sons moved to Raymore in 1907 and 1908, followed by their parents in 1909. These sons were: George, Orville, John and Jesse.

After coming to Raymore, Jesse met and married Eleanor Gray in 1913. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Gray, who were early Raymore settlers. They started housekeeping on the east side of town, and he followed the carpenter trade. They became the parents of four children: Wendell Gray, Paul E., Lotus H. and Harold E. In 1919 they purchased a 140 acre farm on the west side of town, what is now known as Lakeview and Rolling Hills, where he raised registered Hereford cattle and registered Poland China hogs. Later he included dairy cattle. He continued here until 1932, when he sold the farm to E. B. Thomson, Sr. They moved at this time to the east side of town, where Wendell and Lotus now live.

The wife and mother passed away in 1935 after a short illness.

In February of 1937 the family started The Jeter Grocery. A brother-in-law, John Houtz of Archie, who had a grocery, was instrumental in helping them get started. Their original order was invoiced at approximately $600. They had many struggles making ends meet as the business progressed. In 1939 they operated a grocery store on wheels and traveled the country roads for about two years, when Paul and Harold both joined the Navy to serve in World War II. As well as selling groceries, they bought chickens and eggs and hauled them to Kansas City, by pulling a two-wheeled trailer behind their car.

While Harold was in the service, he was married to Beatrice Long, who was teaching school in Raymore. Upon his discharge from the service, they settled in Kansas City. Harold worked in a grocery store for a number of years until they bought one of their own, at 402 E. Gregory in Kansas City, Mo., which they still operate. They have three children, David, Dwight and Nancy. David and Dwight are both married and live in Blue Springs and Nancy is a student at Southwest Missouri College in Springfield.

After Paul was out of the service the locker plant was built onto the south side of the store in 1947, and Paul started cutting the meat for this part of the business. In 1948, he and Hazel Smalley were married. Hazel lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smalley, north of Raymore, and was teaching at Raymore. They have two children, Eleanor and Dennis. Eleanor was married in May of 1975 to Mr. James Kopetsky, and is now living in Virginia, where her husband is stationed at the Quantico Marine Base. Dennis was married in June of 1975 to Miss Anne Steinbrueck of Belton. They now live in Peculiar, where Dennis is teaching school in the Raymore-Peculiar School system.

In 1965, Mr. Jeter passed away and the rest of the family has carried on.

Through the almost 40 years, many changes have been made in the appearance of the store, with the addition of new freezers and meat cases, along with metal shelving throughout the store.

JOHN FRANCIS JOHNSON

The Johnson family were early pioneer settlers of Cass (Van Buren) County, Mo. The family migrated westward by wagon train from Kentucky in 1825 and settled in Westport, Kansas City, Mo. John Johnson, Jr., son of Alexander Johnston and Mary Christian, was born 1750 and died sometime during the Revolutionary War. He is a descendant of the Scotch Johnson Family of Annandale, Scotland. John Johnson with his wife and six grown sons and one daughter on October 12, 1825 crossed the "Blue River" westward to the State Line, with five wagons, twenty horses, thirteen cows and fifty head of cattle, a flock of sheep and some poultry. Here in 1826 they built a log cabin at what is now Fourteenth St. and Benton Boulevard. With fifty other families the Johnsons had been at the government post at Fort Osage (now Sibley), awaiting the signing of a treaty that gave white settlers the right to locate in "The Big Blue Country." It was a strip of land twenty-four miles wide upon Missouri's western border.

John Francis Johnson, son of John Johnson, married Annie Adelia Easley on Nov. 20, 1876. The John Johnson family first settled in Belton in 1870 on the land where the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. is now located. Johnson helped in platting the town, was active during the early growth of Belton and was a member of the first town board. He was in the hardware and general merchandising business before the family purchased land south of Belton on what is now known as YY Highway. John Johnson and his wife Annie Adelia Johnson had seven children, Nellie M. (1877-1975); Kirby E. (1879-1970); Jennie Catherine (1880-1858); Francis (Frank) Arthur (1884-1937); Susie (1886-1888); Alberta Lane (1888-); and Manor Schooley (1892-1972).

Francis (Frank) Arthur remained on the farm and he married El Nora M. Tribby Feb. 20, 1910. They had three children, Leonard F., Dorothy and Marguerite and all graduated from the Belton Public Schools. Leonard F. Johnson remained on the farm after his father's death. He bought the farm and it has remained in the Johnson family for 99½ years. The house was rebuilt in 1923, but still on the original site of the original homestead. Leonard Francis Johnson married Lola Maxine Faust and they had two children, Gerald Francis Johnson and Judith Lynn Johnson. Gerald married Nancy Ruhl and they had three children, Michael Francis, Jeffery Dale and Stephanie Diane Johnson. Gerald is president of the Young Farmers Association of Cass County. He is engaged in farming and livestock raising. Judith Lynn (Johnson) Waters graduated from Central Missouri State University. When she was teaching in Northern Missouri she met and married James A. Waters. They have two children, Glenn Alan and Susan Lyn.

Dorothy Johnson married Gordon E. Jeter and their daughter, Sandra Sue married Dr. Norman Stephenson and they have a son, Brian Glen.

Marguerite Johnson married Wayne A. Harris and they have two children, Ronald Wayne Harris and Donna Cheryl Harris. Ronald enlisted in the U.S. Navy after graduating from Belton High School. After his service career he has engaged in building. He and his wife, Geneva, have two daughters, Kari Louise and Brandy Sue. Donna attended Belton Public Schools twelve years. She attended Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg, Mo. and graduated with a bachelor of science degree with a major in education. After teaching a few years she married Jerald W. Gilkeson, son of George B. and Doris Gilkeson. Jerald graduated from Central Missouri State University, with a degree in Industrial Technology. He served six years in the U.S. Army Air Force with the reserve unit of the medical corps, and presently farms south of Harrisonville, Mo. Jerald and Donna have two sons, Seth Wayne and Laith Burns Gilkeson.

OSCAR N. JOHNSON

Oscar Napoleon Johnson, son of Alfred (son of Thomas Johnson who was a cousin of President Andrew Johnson) and Elizabeth Lankford Johnson was born December 7, 1857 near Mossy Creek, Tennessee. Rebecca Jane Newman, daughter of Aaron and Katie Tillett Newman, was born January 20, 1855 near Mossy Creek, Tennessee. On December 14, 1876 Oscar and Rebecca Jane were united in marriage and for five years made their home near Mossy Creek where a son, Lee, was born in 1882.

In 1882 the little family started a long journey to Freeman, Missouri having been encouraged to do so by a friend and Baptist minister, Parson Lacy, who was visiting relatives and friends in Tennessee. During this journey the rivers were at flood stage but the Johnsons were fortunate. When the train left the bridge near St. Louis, the bridge collapsed and floated away. Continuing on, Oscar and his family arrived in Freeman, rented some rooms over Dr. Colburn's Drug store and became citizens of that growing community.

Mr. Johnson worked for the town a while on the streets at one dollar per day, but soon became the hired hand for a farmer, Mr. Adams, east of Freeman where he and his family made their home in a buggy shed. The following year Oscar rented a farm and went into farming for himself. Not having money enough to own a timepiece, he worked the fields from daylight until dark. By the next year having prospered enough to purchase a clock, he paid $4.50 for a Seth Thomas clock which is still owned by a daughter, Josie Johnson. A second child was born March 27, 1884 and was named Katie. She became the wife of Albert Rutt, October 17, 1917 and the mother of two children, Marion Rutt of Drexel and Alberta Marie Rutt Mickelson, Freeman, Missouri.

In 1886 the Johnsons moved to Polk County near Dunnegan Spring to a farm known as the ranch and there on October 6, 1886 another daughter, Josie, was born. She now lives in Paola, Kansas and recalls her life in the three room log cabin with the loft in Polk county, their enjoyable trip to Humansville one Fourth of July and their return to their home to find some one or ones had stolen a horse, her father's best suit of clothes, money and had even eaten some of their food. This may not have been the main reason, but they did decide to move to a farm near Lamar, Barton County where they remained for four years. This journey, made in covered wagons, was made unpleasant by constant November rains.

By 1899 it was decided that Cass County was the place to live so the Johnsons returned to live on the McCoy farm about one and one half miles east of Drexel where they lived during the "Dry Year" of 1901. On March 12, 1902, the son, Lee, married Lorinda A. Williams. Lorinda died on May 28, 1903 and was buried in the Sharon Cemetery which is the burial place of nearly all of the deceased members of the Oscar Johnson family.

In 1903 Mr. Johnson bought a farm five miles west of Drexel and moved to Miami County, Kansas, where he lived until 1910. During that time he acquired his first telephone which was considered quite a luxury. In April, 1919 the Johnson family moved into Drexel where they remained until 1923 when they purchased a home in Paola, Kansas, and moved there on September 4 of that year.

Oscar died on January 22, 1943 and his wife passed away May 24, 1949.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Napoleon Johnson and Lee.

Robert Vernon Johnson was born Aug. 4, 1926 in Aaron, Mo. His parents, Albert and Viola (Swaar) Johnson moved to Harrisonville in 1930. His mother's family came to Missouri in March, 1910 from Illinois. Her parents were George Hiram and Lillie Mae (Sapp) Swaar, and one brother Henry Hiram Swaar still lives in Harrisonville. Bob's father's parents, Albert and Elizabeth (Egy) Johnson lived in and around Osceola, Mo. and died when the son was just a small boy. Bob's father worked as a farm hand in Aaron and Greenwood areas. The family moved to 400 E. Washington in 1936 when Albert was employed on the railroad. A brother, Harold L. Johnson, was born Jan. 20, 1929, served in the Navy during the Korean War and died Jan. 20, 1972.

As a little boy, Bob delivered papers, had a bakery route, cleaned sidewalks and did many other jobs to earn money. His last years of high school he worked for J. C. Polson in his dry goods store on the south side of the square.

Graduating from Harrisonville High School in May of 1944, he joined the U.S. Infantry, serving in the South Pacific area until 1946. On Oct. 11, 1946, he married Patty Jeane Current, daughter of Wm. and Bertha (Pyle) Current. Patty's family moved to Harrisonville in 1936. Her father was a painter, working for George Brinley until about 1940 when he went to work for TWA at the overhaul base in Fairfax, North Kansas City. He worked there until the time of his retirement a few years ago.

Bob and Patty have three children: Jeanne Ann, who lives in North Kansas City and has two children: Timothy Wayne Miller and Tammy Jeanne Miller. Vicki Jane, who lives in Grandview and has three children: Tina Tinara Johnson, Anthoni David Johnson and Veronica Jeane Dennis. Robert Paul Johnson and his wife Kathy (Gray), live in Sedalia, Mo.

Electric Co., and worked there until 1950, when he went into business with Oscar Miller, forming the Miller-Johnson Appliance Center. They operated out of the small store at 206 S. Independence for several years, later moving into the corner building, 101 West Wall. From there they moved into the present location, 201 S. Independence, formerly the Davis Bros. Garage.

In 1960 Bob bought Oscar Miller's share and the same year he opened a second store in Clinton, Mo. In 1973 he opened a third store in Sedalia.

In April, 1975, he was elected mayor of Harrisonville, by an overwhelming majority. This could only happen in America!

ROY G. JOHNSTON

Roy G. Johnston was born in Monroe County, Missouri, June 20, 1898. He began his auctioneering career in Macon County selling farm sales. In the years intervening he was learning and developing the voice and "know-how" that was to make him famous. He moved to Belton in 1929. During this period he was selling for Owen Brothers Horse and Mule Company in Kansas City, Springfield, and for 13 years in Memphis, Tennessee. When the mule business was on its way out, Roy began to concentrate on cattle, primarily Angus. A report in the Angus Journal in 1958 mentions that a new auctioneer had joined the Angus sales force; Col. Roy G. Johnston of Belton, Mo.

He continued to be the top Angus auctioneer for 32 years. A Chicago newspaper of December, 1969 states that "when Roy G. Johnston stepped before the microphone last night to auction the Grand Champion steer at the International Livestock Exposition, the action marked the 35th and final year of selling the champion." Referring to his years of selling the International Grand Champion, Roy said, "I think this sale has been the highlight of my career. This is the grand-daddy of all the finished product shows."

He has won several blue ribbons in car lot cattle competition, both in Chicago and the Kansas City American Royal. His Silvertop Angus yearlings have always been tough competition and will continue to be for a long time to come.

In 1961 Roy built the 80 acre lake on his Silver Top Farm, which was to supply the water for the new Raymore water system. In the late 1960's, he began selling acreage for development. It is now the site of "Silver Lake", one of the most attractive housing areas in the community.

Roy retired from his full time auctioneering career on June 20, 1970, when he celebrated his 72nd birthday, with this statement, "When I retire I want to quit on top."

Of course, we do think that Roy and wife, Jeanie, are going to "settle down to retirement" in their lovely Cass County Ranch home on the lake. He has too many interests in Silver Top development and the Angus world. So we join the Angus Journal in saying, "Good Luck, Roy, you deserve it."

NICHOLAS KAUFFMAN

Nicholas, son of Jacob and Barbara Kauffman, was born in Alsace Lorraine, France, in 1837. At the age of two, he came with his parents to the United States. They settled in the state of Ohio. After he grew to manhood he met a young lady by the name of Mary Yoder. Mary also emigrated from Alsace Lorraine, where she was born in 1849. At the age of 16, she and her sister, Barbara, and her brother, Jake, came to the United States.

Nicholas and Mary Yoder were married March 30, 1870. They moved to a farm near a small town, Ronda, in Polk County, Missouri. Here their seven children were born. They were Barbara, Mary, Minnie, Lydia, Elizabeth, Anna and John.

In 1891, the family came to Cass County, Missouri and purchased an 80 acre farm two and one half miles southeast of Garden City. They had chosen a good location for their home as they were close to town, the railroad and the Wallace school. The family attended the Sycamore Grove Mennonite Church.

Nicholas thought that his daughters should keep busy so he bought beautiful materials for them to use in making quilts. This became a favorite pastime in the Kauffman Home.

In 1897, the oldest daughter, Barbara, married David S. King from Kansas. They were married by Daniel Kauffman, a Mennonite minister.

After living in Kansas and Texas for about 20 years, Barbara and David, with their eight children, Dan, Sam, Ella, Emery, Mary, Roy, May and Ruth, moved back to Cass County in 1917. From 1936-1970, Dan, Roy, Emery and Mary owned and operated King Brother's Cabinet Co. in Kansas City, Kansas.

Lydia Kauffman worked as a housekeeper in Kansas City until her health failed.

Elizabeth graduated from both the Schools of Osteopathy and of Optometry. Dr. Kauffman practiced in Kansas City until her death in 1963.

Anna, the youngest daughter, died in infancy.

Nicholas passed away in 1920 and his wife died in 1928. Two daughters, Mary and Minnie, stayed on the farm caring for the crops, cattle, hogs and chickens. They always had a large vegetable garden as well as many lovely flowers.

In 1912, the only son, John, married Effie Winders. They lived on a farm near Creighton and later in Kansas City. Their children are Erma Ruth, who lives in California, and Ewing, who resides in Kansas City. Ewing is the founder and owner of Marion Laboratories. He is also owner of the Kansas City Royals' Baseball Team. Of the immediate Nicholas Kauffman family, John is the only living child. At eighty-six years of age, he enjoys attending Royals games and likes to have his old friends and relatives come and watch with him.

The farm home looks much as it did in 1891. Until recently it was owned by the heirs of Mr. and Mrs. Kauffman. Nicholas and Mary Kauffman and five of their daughters are buried at the Clearfork Cemetery just seven miles from the farm where they lived.

Five of the eight living grandchildren reside in Cass County. They are Dan, Ella and Mary King, Mrs. Rolla (May) Rushly and Mrs. Lawrence (Ruth) Rushly. Among the family heirlooms, the quilts made by Mary Kauffman and her daughters are the favorites. The art of quiltmaking has been passed on to the granddaughters. You can usually find a quilt or two being made at the homes of Mary, Ella, Ruth or May.

TIMOTHY KELLEY

Timothy Kelley was born in Portsmouth, Ohio, January 2, 1864. In 1881 he was sent to Cass County to look after a ranch which his father had acquired the year before as partial payment of a debt owed him by the railroad. (1880 was the year the Missouri Pacific Railroad was built south through Cass County). The land was located seven miles south of Harrisonville and a little west.

Tim was seventeen at the time and had spent his early years in Portsmouth. Before coming to Missouri, he had spent three years with an uncle in Iowa, which is where he learned to farm. The land was a veritable wilderness at the time. Indian Maize was still growing on some parts of the ranch.

Tim boarded with the Ed Summers family who lived near until he built a cabin and got established. A portion of the land was later taken over by his brother, Joe Kelley, who later sold it and established a harness business in Harrisonville.

Hannah Norton was born in Bloomington, Illinois on October 1, 1876. The Norton family moved to Kansas City in 1879, where Mr. Norton worked in a brick yard. City life did not appeal to the family and in 1889 they acquired a farm in Cass County. It was located south of Harrisonville in the Lone Tree community. Hannah attended parochial school in Kansas City and later, the Lone Tree school. In 1896 the Nortons moved to Butler, in Bates County. Their Cass County farm was near the one operated by Tim Kelley and on January 27, 1897 Hannah Norton and Tim Kelley were married in the St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Butler, Missouri.

The Kelleys made their home on the farm that Tim was operating. They were the parents of two sons, Phillip H. and John Norton. Their sons attended the Elm Branch school and learned farming from their father. After graduating from the Harrisonville high school, John moved to Kansas City, where he lived for the rest of his life.

Tim was a successful farmer and stockman. He kept in close touch with agricultural developments and put these into practical use on his farm. The Kelleys were active members of the Farm Bureau. Hannah served as the second president of the Cass County Extention Council, 1931-1933.

Tim passed away October 5, 1941, after a long illness. He had spent sixty years on the land his father had sent him to settle. Hannah remained on the farm until October, 1943. She continued the operation of the farm and successfully raised chickens and turkeys on a large scale, which was an aspect of farming that they had not tried before. World War II, however, made it difficult to keep help and forced her retirement.

She moved to Harrisonville and became active in Civic affairs. She was instrumental in the organization of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church. She was also an active member of the Cass County Democratic Women's Club. She remained alert and interested in things around her until her death on April 24, 1968, at the age of 91 years.

There are over 30 different spellings of the family name, oftentimes 2 or 3 ways being used within the same set of brothers and sisters. The Swiss spelling is Gnaegi. EDWARD F. KENNEDY

Edward F. Kennedy, the son of William and Nancy Lowry Kennedy, was born in Harrisonville 17 December 1875. In 1896 he started the New Method Steam Laundry, the first in the county. He married Ethel Harriet Woods, daughter of John and Elizabeth Keith Woods, on 19 January, 1903. Born of this union were Edward Lyle, 31 December, 1903; Don Woods 5 November, 1907; and Claude Eldred in 1909. Ed and Ethel were active in the Christian Church, and Ed served several terms on the Harrisonville City Council. He was Chief of the city's volunteer fire department for many years before it was taken over by the American Legion. The fourth location of the laundry, at 200 W. Wall Street, was almost completed at the time of his untimely death on 29 November, 1929.

Lyle, working and attending college in Kansas City, returned to Harrisonville to aid in moving the plant and management of the laundry. He was elected to the city council and later was Superintendent of construction of the East Pearl and West Washington paving projects; designing and building the pavement on North Independence. In 1942 he went to Springfield on a construction project, then returned to Kansas City. He is now retired from the University of Missouri at Kansas City after 26 years as an administrator and counselor.

Don and Eldred assisted their mother in the laundry until Eldred was drafted and served in the Navy in World War II. The business was then sold. After the war, Ethel Kennedy and Eldred bought interest in a Parsons, Kans. laundry, which was soon sold, and Eldred moved to Kansas City. He is now retired.

Don and his mother returned to Harrisonville. Ethel Kennedy died 24 December, 1969 and Don, unmarried, died 13 August, 1975. They, along with Ed. F., are buried in the Oakland Cemetery, Harrisonville.

Their sons, William, David, Robert and Paul, although not bearing the Kennedy name, are the sixth generation of the blood of Zadok and Cynthia Collins Kennedy.

ETHEL WOODS KENNEDY

Joseph and Rachel Skidmore moved, before the Revolution, from Norfolk Virginia and settled in either Bath or Pendleton Co., Virginia (now West Virginia). They were the parents of at least three children, John, Andrew and Elizabeth.

John was born in Pendleton Co. in 1725. He married Mary Hinkle and a daughter, Phebe, was born to them on 22 October, 1765. Captain Skidmore commanded the Greenbriar Militia at the Battle of Point Pleasant 10 Oct., 1774 and was badly wounded in the hip.

Phebe Skidmore became the wife of Alexander Taylor who was born 6 Jan., 1762 in Glasgow, Scotland. Sometime after their marriage the couple moved to Champaign, Ohio. Their third child and first son, Archibald, was born there on 27 October, 1795. The names of their children were: Nancy, Margaret, Archibald, Florence, Rachel, Phebe, Susannah, and John. Alexander Taylor died 5 September, 1834 and his wife, Phebe, died in September, 1824.

In 1812 Archibald Taylor was a member of a rifle company that assembled at Warm Springs, Virginia in the war of that year. He saw no action as the war ended without the company being called into action.

It was while in this service in Virginia that he met and married Elizabeth Friend. She was born 5 November, 1800 in Pendleton Co., the daughter of Thomas Friend, who was the son of Jacob and Elizabeth Skidmore Friend, making the couple second cousins. They were married 15 September, 1824.

Archibald and Elizabeth Friend Taylor were the parents of seven children: Harriet N., 15 August, 1825; Rachel, 20 January, 1827; Susannah A., 19 June, 1829; Douglass, 10 November, 1831; Gustavus, 27 June, 1834; John S., 4 January, 1837; Alexander T., 22 November, 1842. Harriet N. Taylor became the wife of Albert G. Keith, a carpenter from Lewis Co., in 1851. In the spring of 1856 the family migrated to Cass County, Missouri and settled on a farm near Garden City. They were the parents of five children: Dora, Elizabeth Taylor, Archibald Alexander, Susan Virginia and Harriet Taylor.

Elizabeth Taylor Keith was born in Braxton County, West Virginia on 25 September, 1854. She was married to John J. Woods on 20 November, 1874 in Cass Co. He was the son of Granville P. and Deniza Hubble Woods. (See Edward F. Kennedy)

ZADOK S. KENNEDY

Zadok S. Kennedy was born in North Ireland 13 December, 1819. Sometime in the 18th Century his ancestors had crossed the narrow North Channel from the home of the Kennedy clan in Ayrshire, as did many other Scots, to locate in the sparsely settled land there.

When he was about 21 years of age Zadok migrated to Bourbon County, Kentucky, and there met the Collins family who had settled there in Daniel Boone's time. A daughter, Cynthia America, so named as she was their first child born in the United States on 4 June, 1818, became his wife on 18 December, 1844.

In 1853 they and their four children, Mary, Taylor, William and Edgar left Kentucky and settled on a farm about 5 miles North of Harrisonville, Mo. The next year Madora was born and their first-born, Mary, died. Later, Walter, Thomas, Lou and Mollie were born there. Mollie died at age 12 and Thomas at age 19.

Zadok was a prosperous farmer, and although he never sought office, he was active in county and community affairs, and a friend of Joseph A. Easley, deputy sheriff. It was through this friendship that Zadok was involved in the so-called "Gunn City Massacre".

Of the four sons of Zadok and Cynthia, only Edgar never married and remained on the home farm. After Zadok died 30 April, 1893, Edgar continued to operate the farm until his mother's health failed and they moved to Harrisonville. There he cared for her until her death 5 March, 1915. Edgar died in 1932.

Taylor owned a farm in the Ore community near Pleasant Hill. Two of his grandsons, Terry Kennedy and Delmer now live in Holden, Mo. Madora Kennedy Bailey lived in Eldorado Springs, Mo. Lou Kennedy Winn died in 1913.

William married Nancy Lowry, daughter of Olaner and Mary Belcher Lowry of Coatville County, Illinois. They were the parents of four children: Edward F., Zaddock Larkin, Minnie and John Wesley (called Don).

William was a "steam engine" man, ran a threshing crew, worked in the mill and operated the Harrisonville light plant until about 1915 when the plant was sold and the franchise awarded to the Green interests in Pleasant Hill. (Now the Missouri Public Service Co.) He lost his right arm just below the elbow when just a young man in a mill accident, but it was said he could do more work with one arm than most men could with two.

William was past 65 when the light plant was sold, but not ready for a life of retirement, so they sold their home and moved to the "four corner" section of Colorado and homesteaded. Don, who had not married and worked for the Hurley Lumber Yard, went with them. In 1918 he married Emma Gilliland and they were the parents of five children, including two sets of twins. Zaddock (Zed) had married Zadah Irvin and lived in Kansas City. They soon moved, with their four daughters, to Colorado. Minnie married Claude Plain, Missouri Pacific Agent at Butler.

Nancy Lowry Kennedy died and was buried in Yellow Jacket, Colo., 16 April, 1925. After her death William came back to Missouri and made his home with Minnie in Butler. He died in 1934 and is buried in the Orient Cemetery in Harrisonville.

John and George had another brother, Caleb D., and a sister, Lizzie, who moved to Cass County in the 1870's. Lizzie married James Cassell and they raised their family, two sons and three girls, in the Belton area. Caleb married Pauline Kidwell of Estill County, Kentucky, and they had six children, Nannie Brown, who married Sid J. Hamilton, Brutus, who lost his life in the Klondike, Virgil C., G. Kirby, Daniel and Mayme who married Walter LaMar.

Maude was a talented musician and attended the Conservatory of Music in Kansas City for many years. She gave piano lessons. In 1910, she was married to Charley Ketteman, of the Bethany Church vicinity. They were the parents of Charley Gilbert, of Belton; Margaret, Mrs. John Schwab of Whittier, California and Jaunita, Mrs. Tracy DeLozier, of Warrensburg, Missouri. Maude passed away in 1927.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN KEYTON

Benjamin Franklin Keyton was born the second son of James Franklin and Pamelia Powell Keyton, on March 22, 1847 in Albermarle County, Charlottesville, Old Virginia.

Benjamin's mother died when he was less than a year old and his father died when he was seven. He lived with a step sister for one year after the death of his father and then was "farmed out" to an Abe Smith.

Life with Mr. Smith wasn't always pleasant and at fifteen years of age he ran away from him and joined the Confederate Army, where first he served as a "drummer-boy" and later under General Pickett.

The Civil War over, Benjamin moved west-ward, coming to Marshall, Missouri in Saline County in the year of 1867. With the itch to keep pressing on he moved to Old Westport (now Kansas City) in 1872.

It was in Old Westport that he met and married Lottie A. Singleton on November 10, 1874. Being a religious man, the Keytons united with the Westport Christian Church on August 26, 1876.

Having a family in mind and knowing a city was no place to raise his family, and always having been interested in farming and livestock, he purchased and moved to a farm southwest of Strasburg, Cass County, in 1877.

It was here in this farm house that seven of nine children were born to this couple and they were blessed by seeing six grow to adult men and women: Manoah C., 5-5-1877 to 1-8-1957; Cora (Mrs. Carl Schafer), 9-22-1879; Lena (Mrs. Tom Ketteman), 6-23-1884 to 10-10-1965; Amy (Mrs. Everett Dillon), 2-28-1887; Proctor, 1-19-1892 to 9-28-1954; and Russell, 11-9-1895 to 8-18-1972.

It was here in this house, as Benjamin lay sleeping by the side of his life companion, that she was taken from him by heart failure during the morning hours of December 22, 1924.

Benjamin lived alone until April 25, 1925, when he met a tragic and untimely death as he attempted to drive his horse and buggy through the rain swollen waters of Big Creek just north of the farm home — horse, buggy and Benjamin were swept away by the current!

Benjamin and Lottie are buried in the Strasburg cemetery just south of Strasburg, Missouri.

There Jacob met and married Miss Lucinda May Cordell on Jan. 1, 1889. She was born Feb. 2, 1869 in Bedford County, Pa. To this union eight children were born: Oscar, Nellie, John, Earl, Elizabeth, Cora, Earnest and a son dying in infancy.

Jacob and Lucinda (Cordell) Kincade spent their entire married life in the Harrisonville and Freeman community, farming and raising livestock.

CHRISTIAN K. KING

Christian K. King was the fifth child of eight children born to Christian S. King and Lytha Kauffman King. Christian was born Feb. 10, 1830 and died Aug. 26, 1872. Lytha was born in Pennsylvania April 13, 1833, and died Aug. 7, 1868. Tradition says the ancestors go back to three brothers: Jacob, Christian and Samuel Koenig, who came to Pennsylvania from Rotterdam, Holland. Christian S. King, a minister, lived in the Logan-Champaign area in Ohio, where all the children were born:

Samuel, born August, 1854, never married; Jonathan, born July 3, 1857, married, four children not living; David, born March 1, 1859, never married; Solomon, born August 25, 1860, married, five children, first wife died in 1903, married again in 1910; Christian K., born Feb. 22, 1862, died April 22, 1939; Anna L., born Jan. 14, 1864, died Oct. 24, 1871; Fannie, born Oct. 2, 1865, died May 20, 1958, married to Noah J. Yoder Feb. 5, 1891, four children; Jacob, born May 7, 1867, never married. After Lytha died in 1868, Christian S. married a second time to Nancy _____. To them a son, Jeremiah, was born Aug. 2, 1872. He died in 1879.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian K. King were married Dec. 23, 1890, by Bishop J. C. Kenagy, and they lived about three miles northeast of East Lynne, later moving to Garden City. Their nine children: Henry K., born Oct. 9, 1891, married to Anna L. Hartzler on Oct. 19, 1913, six children; Elba, born Feb. 25, 1893, died Sept. 5, 1898; Viola, born April 9, 1895, married Levi Troyer on Feb. 28, 1926, two children, Viola died Oct. 24, 1953, Levi was accidentally killed Dec. 10, 1953; Marvin H., born June 5, 1897, married Jan. 11, 1925 to Florence Baker, two children; Clara, born April 23, 1899, married Sept. 10, 1922 to Joseph Zimmerman who was killed accidentally Oct. 17, 1932, two children; Adelia, born July 21, 1902, never married; Arami R., born June 21, 1904, married May 4, 1930 to Bertha Detweiler, six children; Hubert, born April 16, 1908, married Dec. 27, 1936 to Alice Heiser, two children; Clarence, born Jan. 12, 1911, never married.

A carpenter and contractor, Christian K. King was a hard working man, whose days began before breakfast and ended after supper by working in his shop. Henry remembers his first lessons in using a saw, plane and sandpaper, and the first job he helped with was putting a new roof on a large barn in the country. Henry was 10 years old, and he placed the shingles ahead of his father. One of Henry's chores was to care for the team of bronco horses that the father used to go to work. Two men who helped carpenter King were Sol Kenagy and Dan West. They usually worked ten hours a day, six days a week, and at a nominal wage.

Christian K. King was a Mennonite. He built many houses and two churches in the Garden City area. After the family home was destroyed by fire, the family moved to Harper, Kans., in 1917, where there was plenty of work, and where Mr. and Mrs. King lived the rest of their days.

ISAAC KING

Isaac King, an early settler of Cass Co., Missouri, was born July 8, 1821, in Mifflin Co., Pennsylvania. He moved with his family to Fairfield Co., Ohio, at the age of twelve, where he long engaged in farming. In 1850 he moved to Logan Co., Ohio, where he continued to farm. He came to Cass Co., Missouri, during 1867, locating six miles east of Harrisonville, where by 1880 he had acquired 320 acres of good land. Soon after he built or had built a fine two-story Colonial style house, with elaborate wainscoting and molded plaster ceiling, on one part of his farm, which is still standing today. Here he continued to farm, making his farm to compare favorably with any in the community. Mr. King was married to Miss Rebecca Yoder, who also was from Ohio, and was a sister of Solomon Yoder, who was the first of the Mennonite faith to settle here in 1860. Mr. and Mrs. King were the parents of eight children; Elizabeth, Miriam, Emma, Charity, Isaiah, John, Amandus and Amos, who died at the age of seventeen. Mrs. King's death occurred in September of 1869, only two years after coming to Cass Co. They were charter members of the Mennonite church here. He married again in December of the same year, to Mrs. Lydia Miller, a widow with three children from a previous marriage; Peter, John and David Klopfenstin. Isaac King passed away July 28, 1897. His son, John, continued to farm 80 acres of the original 320 acres. John was married June 2, 1901 to Mrs. Susan Hartzler, a widow with three children, from her former marriage; Anna, Ora and Clarence. To this union, a daughter, Sylva, was born. But not too long after, his health began to fail, and twenty months later, he passed away on February 26, 1903. Mrs. King continued to live on the farm, her sons taking over the farming as soon as they were old enough, keeping the 80 acres all tillable and free of ditches. Mrs. King passed away on January 29, 1930. Today, one of Isaac King's step-great-grandsons, is still farming a large part of the original 320 acres, in addition to a dairy and hog raising enterprise. 80 acres of the original 320 acres of land, being in the family more than a hundred years.

Two children were born to this union, Irena and Peter. The mother died, and in 1883, Mr. King married Augusta Coughenour. On February 23, 1885, their son, Earle, was born. He lived his entire sixty years on this farm. He attended the rural school of Greelee, high school at Belton and one year of normal school at Merwin, south of Drexel. Small towns in the 1880s and 1890s had normal schools.

Earle King married Olive Smith, of Lee's Summit, November 10, 1909. Four children were born to this union; Ilene (Mrs. Tieck, of Norwalk, Calif.); Mildred Louise; Florice and Lowell, all living now at Peculiar. Earle spent most of his life farming and the farm was known as the Kingsdale Oxford farm, as he raised many sheep. He was elected Judge of the County Court in August of 1942 and served until his death on May 18, 1945.

Lowell remained on the family farm with his mother doing the farming until 1953, the year the farm was sold to Ben Benjamin of Kansas City, Missouri. Lowell was married to Le Orra Glover of Harrisonville on June 25th, 1950. Le Orra was the daughter of J. D. Glover of Harrisonville. Mr. Glover was a native of Kingsville in Cass County.

In 1949 the Harpers purchased the Methodist church building at Raymore and used the materials to build a home on the farm. Mr. and Mrs. Kintigh moved to their own farm east of Raymore in 1889. They sold the farm in 1901, entering the drug store business for four years in Raymore, then purchased the Andy Allen Hardware business in 1905, in which he remained until retirement.

The Kintigh family belonged to the United Brethren Church and took active part in church services, he having taught Men's Bible Class fifty years.

Mr. and Mrs. Kintigh had seven children, four of whom are deceased: Stanley, Elva, Roy and Emerson. The remaining children are Wilfred B., of Newark, Delaware; Mary E. JACOB KIRCHER

Jacob Kircher, born in Wurtenburg, Germany May 31, 1837, immigrated to America in 1854 and married in Logan County, Ohio in 1861, Magalin Keller. After six years they moved to Cass County, Missouri, settling on a farm on the west side of Kohler Hill in 1866. The reason they settled here was that there was a spring of water on the south side of the hill and some timber for firewood. The country east was a prairie. There was another house close to where Sycamore Mennonite Church now stands. Also, another about one-half mile east of where East Lynne now stands, one on Cree Farm, which is owned by Mrs. Jack Hinote and a house where Eight Mile now stands. The settlements were where there was a creek and some trees for water and firewood (a necessity). Mr. Kircher took a scythe and wagon and mowed Prairie hay and hauled it to Harrisonville and sold it to the people in Harrisonville, for everyone owned a cow and a horse for food and transportation. Mr. Kircher borrowed $100.00 to get started and gave 15 cents interest. Most everyone had to raise most everything they ate and wore.

Mrs. Kircher was what they called then, a "midwife", as she brought a lot of children into this world. Her services were in demand all over the country. After several years, the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad built a railroad from Sedalia (Missouri) to Paola (Kansas) to connect two of their railroad systems from St. Louis and Kansas City, the two largest cities in Missouri at that time.

In the house one-half mile east of where East Lynne now stands, a family lived who milked several cows and churned butter. Men who worked for the contractor who built the railroad bought butter and buttermilk from this family and they named East Lynne: "Buttermilk Station". It went by this name for several years. When a medicine show came to town and put on a play called East Lynne, people liked the play so good they changed the name of the town to East Lynne. A thriving town, East Lynne grew on account of the railroad.

One of the first businesses constructed was a flour mill. Then came a flax seed mill that extracted oil from flax seed and flax cake was ground into meal (a good livestock feed). Jacob hauled milk to the creamery when he as twelve years old and I also hauled milk to this creamery. Also, there were two machinery dealers and two harness shops. My father ran one of these shops, where he cut leather and sewed it together to make a set of harness. He said the best time it took him to make a set of harness was three and one-half days. There was a drug store, three grocery stores, a butcher shop and an ice house (I have helped put ice in the house). There were two banks, two hotels and a lumber yard; one livery stable and drummers and grocery. Dry goods and notion salesmen would arrive on passenger trains and put up at one of the hotels, rent a team and buggy at the livery stable and drive to towns and stores southeast of East Lynne to sell their goods. The goods would be shipped to East Lynne and delivered by different people who ran delivery wagons.

Jacob Kircher had a part in building the community; he hauled rocks and lumber to build the different buildings that made up the community of East Lynne. Camp Branch Creek had a large part in making East Lynne a thriving community.

They went to housekeeping on the old George Deckins farm 5½ miles southeast of Harrisonville. Here they resided 39 years, becoming the parents of 12 children, 7 girls and 5 boys. JOHN C. KNORPP

In 1858 there were rumors of gold in Colorado. A movement to the West began that was known as the "Pike's Peak Gold Rush."

In St. Louis a seventeen year old boy named John Christian Knorpp convinced his mother to outfit him to join a wagon train to go look for gold. On the way they passed through Pleasant Hill, Missouri, and continued to Colorado. Disappointed in what he found, young John sold his outfit, bought a buckskin pony, and started back home to St. Louis, again passing through Pleasant Hill.

The railroad was building at that time, but the town was north of the tracks. Realizing that, to exist, the town had to move to the railroad, John bought two lots near it, then continued to St. Louis.

Back home, he married Anna Pepper, who had come to the United States from England with her widowed mother and five brothers and sisters. In October, 1864, they established their home in Pleasant Hill, bringing their first child, Lawrence, who had been born in 1861.

They later had four more sons — Walter (1867), William (1869), Morris (1871) and Wesley (1877) — and a daughter, Mary Anna, who lived only five days.

In March of the following year, John sent for his brother, James Conrad Knorpp, who also moved to Pleasant Hill.

John C. Knorpp was active in a number of enterprises in his lifetime. He had a trading company in Pleasant Hill in the late 1860's which supplied wagon trains on their way westward; established banks — one in Pleasant Hill, which was operated by his son Morris with William as stockholder, one in Clarendon, Texas, where Wesley was president, and one in Groom, Texas, run by Walter. He sent his oldest son, Lawrence, to manage his ranching and farming interests in Texas. Mr. Knorpp and partners had founded the Cass Land and Cattle Company, which had operations in New Mexico and Texas, but was named for Cass County, Missouri. He was also active in Kansas City banking until his death in April, 1925.

Lawrence married Ida Sebree in Pleasant Hill in 1884. They had ten children, of whom nine lived to maturity. When their youngest child was two years old, they moved to Texas. Lawrence lived until 1949.

Walter married Edie Young. They had a baby boy who died and a son, Wesley, who was a TV, radio and newspaper executive until his death in 1975. Walter died in 1952.

William married Ida Ison in 1891 and died in 1954. They had no children.

Morris Milton married Mary (Mayme) Henderson in 1892. They had one daughter, Anna (Mrs. James) Rowe, who has lived in Pleasant Hill all her life, and has been active in charitable work. Morris died in 1927.

Wesley married Bliss Bugbee in Texas in 1902. They had three sons who are currently engaged in ranching and banking in Clarendon, Texas. Wesley died in 1953.

John C. Knorpp had over one hundred direct descendants, among whom are medical workers, merchants, attorneys, ranchers, bankers, and community-spirited people in almost every field of endeavor. There were Knorpps on the Board of the Methodist Church in Pleasant Hill for 96 years.

Only five of his descendants now live in Cass County — all in Pleasant Hill. Anna Knorpp Rowe is a granddaughter of John C. and daughter of Morris M. Laurel Knorpp Chucovich (Mrs. Cyril J.) came to Pleasant Hill in 1968. She is a granddaughter of Lawrence and daughter of his eighth child, Morris. She is married to an advertising executive and has three children, John Steven Morris (1956), an architecture student at the University of Kansas, Richard Knorpp (1958), graduating in the Class of 1976 from Pleasant Hill High School, and Stana Lee Elizabeth (1962).

ISAAC MORGON KOHLER

Isaac (Ike) Morgon Kohler was the seventh child of John and Margaret Kohler and was born on a farm 3½ miles east of Harrisonville, August 23, 1876. He attended the Mt. Zion rural school and the Harrisonville high school. He, with his brothers, spent his early years working with their father on the family farm.

Hiram Graham was born August 23, 1841 at Van Buren, Arkansas. The family remained in Arkansas only a short time and while Hiram was a small child they moved to Cass County and entered a tract of land a few miles south of Pleasant Hill. Hiram grew to manhood on this farm. However, during the Civil War, while "Order No. 11" was in effect, the widowed mother took her family to Howard County, returning to the home in Cass County after all danger had passed.

Mary Margaret Bouse was born December 7, 1850 on a farm in the Daughtry community, the daughter of Jacob and Susan (Adams) Bouse. Her father died when she was nine years old. A short time later "Order No. 11" forced the family to leave their home and take refuge in Johnson County. They returned to their farm in Cass County at the close of the conflict. During the period they were in Johnson County, Mary was stricken with paralysis, which left her a cripple the rest of her life.

On June 16, 1874, Mary Margaret Bouse and Hiram Graham were married in the home of the bride's mother and they made their home with her during her lifetime. To this union five children were born, Walter, Samantha, Maude (Kohler), Susan (Craig) and Hazel (White).

In 1893 the family moved from Eight Mile to Harrisonville. A year later they purchased a farm 2½ miles southeast of the county seat where they lived until Hiram's death on April 2, 1931. Mary made her home with her children until she passed away November 15, 1940.

On February 17, 1901, Ike Kohler and Maude Graham were married in Harrisonville. They established their home on a farm four miles east of Harrisonville. They were the parents of three children, a daughter, who died in infancy; a son, Walter, who died in childhood and a daughter, Velma. Maude was stricken with typhoid fever and after a short illness, passed away on May 2, 1915. Ike and Velma remained on the farm. She attended the Lone Elm school.

Ike married, secondly, Margaret Hathway Ritchie in May of 1916. They, with her son, Clark, and his daughter, Velma, made their home on the farm east of Harrisonville. In 1917 they bought a farm south of Harrisonville, in the Lone Tree community. They lived there until 1922, when they moved to 702 East Mechanic in Harrisonville. Ike continued his interest in farming and commuted almost daily, as long as his health permitted, to another of his farms west of Harrisonville.

Clark and Velma attended the Harrisonville high school. The family were all active members of the Harrisonville Christian Church. Ike was for many years a deacon and trustee and Margaret was active in the woman's work, Sunday School and the choir.

They lived at the Harrisonville address for forty-two years. In 1963 Margaret fell and broke her hip and, though never able to walk again, she remained interested in her church, family and friends. During this time, Ike became ill and suffered a long illness. He passed away January 2, 1964. Margaret continued living in the family home until her death March 24, 1966.

On August 19, 1925, Velma Kohler and Phil Kelley, son of Timothy and Hannah (Norton) Kelley, were married. They established their home on the Kohler farm south of Harrisonville. They farmed there thirteen years, during which time their twin children, Phillip Kohler and Margaret Cecelia, were born on September 14, 1931.

On February 14, 1938, they moved to their farm 3½ miles east of Harrisonville, which joined the original Kohler land where Velma's father was born. They have continued their farming operation there ever since and still maintain their home on the farm. Their children attended the Lone Elm and Mt. Zion rural schools and the Harrisonville high school.

Margaret Cecelia Kelley and Dennis Fox were married on September 7, 1952. They have one son, Timothy, who was born in Harrisonville September 17, 1954. They moved away from Cass County in 1957.

Phillip Kohler Kelley and Velda Lee Kircher were married on March 28, 1954. They established their home on the Kelley farm south of Harrisonville, where they lived until 1968. Phillip still operates the farm which has been in the Kelley family for 91 years, however, they make their home in Archie.

JOHN KOHLER JR.

John Kohler, Jr. was born January 23, 1840 in Wurttemberg, Germany. He was the eldest son of nine children born to Mary Barbara von Maroff and John Kohler, Sr. Required military conscription of all young men between the ages of 16 and 24 initially prompted the senior Kohlers to emigrate. They left behind John Kohler, Sr.'s parents, Andrew and Dorothea Michael Kohler. Arriving in the United States in 1854, the family settled in Logan County, Ohio and later moved to Shelby County, Ohio.

At the outbreak of the Civil War the younger John enlisted in the Eighty-Seventh Ohio Infantry. His regiment surrendered to Stonewall Jackson at Harper's Ferry in October, 1862. He was exchanged and when his term of enlistment expired he re-enlisted with the 128th Ohio Infantry and served until the close of the war.

On a clear, crisp day in October, 1866, John Kohler brought his new bride to the foot of a hill in Cass County, Missouri.

Margaret Mary Watkins was born January 24, 1839 near Maplewood, Shelby County, Ohio. She was the second youngest of nine children born to Sarah David and Joseph Watkins. Her great-great-grandfather, Owen David, had come from Wales prior to 1708 and settled near Dover, Delaware. His 500 acre farm was known as The Fox Hall Farm, as it is known today. Owen David's son, the Reverend Enoch David of Philadelphia was a patriot in the Revolution. Another son, Owen David, the younger, was the father of Sarah and grandfather of Margaret Mary Watkins Kohler.

Margaret and John were married in Sydney, Shelby County, Ohio, August 23, 1866.

The trip was made with another couple, Jacob and Mattie Kircher, and their three children, Catherine, Rosie and Charles. The men had purchased the farm together; the women now chose their family's portion. Margaret Kohler chose the east side of the hill as the site for a house where she could look toward the rising sun and the old Ohio home. Mrs. Kircher chose the west slope so she could sit on her doorstep and watch the setting sun. Over the years the two families were a great help to each other and by the fourth generation Phillip Kohler Kelly married Velda Lee Kircher.

Seven children were born to Margaret and John in the first ten years of their marriage. The first child, Sarah, died of diphtheria at the age of three. John Luther, September 10, 1868; David Henry, December 28, 1869; Margaret Jane, April 20, 1871; Edmond Dieppe, August 6, 1872; Alfred William, April 4, 1874; Isaac Morgan, August 23, 1876. All attended old Mt. Zion school and the high school in Harrisonville. Each became actively engaged in farming and stock-raising, as did their father, with the exception of David Henry, who operated the O.K. Transfer Line from Coffeyville, Kansas, and Margaret Jane, who married Jedd C. Twitchell, owner of the Archie Newspaper and after his death, William F. Wolfe, a prominent Cass County attorney.

In a few years the cabin of '66 was replaced by a larger house. The carpenter was a Mr. Runnenberger. He left his home and walked to the Kohler place in time for a 5:30 breakfast each morning. After working from dawn until dusk he trudged home every night. This was the father of Turner and Frank Runnenberger, long-time undertakers and furniture merchants in Harrisonville.

Margaret and John prospered during their thirty years on the farm. In 1903 John Kohler won the silver medal at the World's Fair in the world-wide flax competition. Mr. John Patrick built them a lovely home in town. Here they spent their last twenty-five years. More farm land was acquired and John Kohler was a familiar sight in his "cart" drawn by a fine old mare named "Fanny" as he visited a farm every good day and purchased stock from the farmers. The stock was shipped to the yards in Kansas City and he usually accompanied the shipment. Margaret would arise and prepare breakfast very early as the old "Gulf" railroad left at 4:00 a.m. She then busied herself with household tasks baking bread, frying doughnuts, making custard pie, and waiting for "Pap" to return late at night.

On May 4, 1923, John Kohler died at his home at 706 Main in Harrisonville. Death was probably hastened for John and others in Harrisonville because of the Burney bank scandal. To see so much of the fruits of a lifetime of toil lost was devastating. The great rule of his life was "Do unto others as ye would they should do unto you." Margaret Mary survived him three years, dying December 15, 1926.

The values and family unity to which John and Margaret Kohler pledged their lives are celebrated by their many descendants in the annual Kohler Family reunion. In 1972 the Kohler family held its 38th meeting, attended by over sixty descendants, representing six generations from John and Margaret Kohler.

KOSKY FAMILY

Louis William George Kosky arrived in New York from Germany on September 20, 1851. He married Anna Wasserman from Dubach, Bavaria in Fort Wayne, Indiana Oct. 10, 1853. After living in several small towns in the midwest, the family consisting of two daughters and one son settled in Pleasant Hill, Missouri in 1868.

Mr. Kosky erected a barber shop and established his business here. In 1887 he purchased the lot where the Pleasant Hill Historical Society museum stands. His son built, in 1904, the small building, which housed his barber shop for so many years, and which burned in January, 1971. The elder Kosky barbered in Pleasant Hill from 1868 to 1898. The front wall of the building was built of stone from the old "Stone College" built in 1866. Old photos of the college show the keystone doorway and two windows of the stone wall as a part of the three story tower on the college building, which was carefully razed and rebuilt as the front of the Kosky shop. The Society preserved and used the stone front for the museum as its historical value is measureless and it remains strong and sturdy.

Being an early pioneer in Pleasant Hill, he helped lay out the town. The original framed layout of the town hung in his barber shop for many years.

His son, William George Kosky, who lived all of his life from the age of six in Pleasant Hill, barbered in the barber shop from 1888 until his death in 1943 (55 years.)

DRURY LAFFOON

Drury Laffoon bought Calvin Powell's acreage adjoining Grandmother Powell's 85 acres.

During the Civil War a sister of Drury Laffoon, Lucinda Smith, and her husband, who was home on furlough from the Civil War, began walking across the fields to visit another brother, John Laffoon, who lived west of Grand River. This was a short time before their child was to be born. As Lucinda Smith tired from walking, they stopped under a tree to rest. Some soldiers (Bushwhackers) came along and seeing the husband, said he was a deserter. They took him and hung him in the barn on the John R. Williams place. Because of the tragedy which Lucinda Smith was forced to watch, her baby was born afflicted and lived only a short time.

At the time of Order No. 11, Drury Laffoon was made a freighter in the Army between Missouri and Nebraska because he said he could not kill a man. He took freight from one Army post to another, unprotected.

Saleta Laffoon Powell, wife of James M. Powell, had vivid recollections of crossing the Platte River on a ferry boat.

John Laffoon, as a very young child, was playing in the yard when some soldiers or Bushwhackers came along, grabbed him and mistreated him so badly that he lost his speech for several weeks. When he could speak again, he stuttered, an affliction that remained with him all of his life. A great-granddaughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Rogers, still own 35 acres of the original Laffoon farm. A great-granddaughter of John E. Laffoon, Stelline Simon, still owns 55 acres of the original Drury Laffoon farm.

THE JOHN LAFFOON FAMILY

Sometime in the early 1700's a Laffoon family left France and sailed for America because of the persecution of certain religious sects at that time. The Laffoons were French Hugenots. The first Laffoon to come to America was Dennis. Dennis and his family settled first in North Carolina. His son, James, moved to Tennessee from North Carolina. Drewry Laffoon was a son of James, and a grandson of Dennis Laffoon. Drewry and his North Carolina wife established their home in Tennessee, but later moved to Missouri and then to western Kansas. The Drewry Laffoon family consisted of four sons and one daughter: Frank, George, John, Mark and Leta. Three children died in infancy. After the death of Drewry's first wife, he married Minerva Stone, who was the mother of the above children.

John Laffoon married Louise Frazier and to them were born five children: Drew, Ralph, Virgil, Heber and Irene, who died before she was a year old. About 1892 the family moved back to Missouri from Kansas.

Mark Laffoon married a Kansas girl. They had five children, four sons, and a daughter that died while young. Of the sons, France was a physician; Merette, an electrical engineer; Gilmer, a dentist; Vernon was employed in Kansas City. Mark and his wife, Kate, are buried in West Union Cemetery. Frank was married twice. He had two daughters. The George Laffoon family had two children, a daughter that died young and a son that now lives in Albion, Oklahoma. Leta Laffoon married James Powell and had two daughters, Delvena and Ora. John Laffoon's oldest son, Drew, lives in Peculiar and has served as assessor and tax collector for West Peculiar Township.

L. D. LAFFOON

L. D. (Drew) Laffoon was born November 11, 1891, in Comanche County, Kansas. His parents, John H. and Louise A. Laffoon, moved to Peculiar in 1893, where Drew grew to manhood. He attended a country school near Peculiar and the two-year high school in Peculiar, graduating in 1909.

Drew was married in 1916 and divorced in 1930. In 1937 he married Ida Larkin of Springfield, Missouri.

He farmed near Peculiar in 1928 and the worked in a garage for eight years. He was employed by the Witte Engine Works in Kansas City for fifteen years.

Drew is an active member of the Methodist Church in Peculiar, and served as chairman of the official board for a number of years. He belonged to the Modern Woodmen of America and held an office until the fraternal organization gave way to its successor insurance company. Drew was a member of the I00F Lodge, where he served as Noble Grand and Secretary, a position he held at the time of its consolidation with the Westport Lodge. He joined the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons in 1917 in Peculiar, and served as Worshipful Master in 1925. He then became secretary and was holding that office when the Peculiar Lodge consolidated with Raymore in 1932. In 1937 the Raymore Lodge consolidated with Belton, where Drew was elected secretary, a position he holds at this time. Drew is now 76 years old, an active member of the Peculiar Lions Club, and a Democrat.

JOHN LaMAR

John LaMar was born in Jefferson County, Tennessee October 24, 1819. He married Frances Hodges in Jefferson County February 18, 1841 and a son was born to them in January, 1842. Later that year they left Tennessee for Missouri, with Frances' parents, Welcome and Rebecca Callaway Hodges. They crossed the Mississippi River by ferry at Cairo, Illinois and re-shod the horses at Charleston. They found a log house in what is now Polk County, Missouri and spent the summer of 1842 there. Not being satisfied with the land in Polk County, John and Welcome left the family there and set out on horseback for Platte Purchase where John's brother, William, had settled. They found the land more to their liking and returned and brought the family to Platte County near Weston. John and his family settled in Cass County four miles southwest of what is now Belton, Missouri and built a log cabin in 1854. The land was bought from the U.S. Government and a great-grandson, Baker LaMar, still has the original land grant issued and signed by the then president, Franklin Pierce.

When Order No. 11 was issued during the Civil War, Frances took the small children and returned to Platte County for the duration. John and the two oldest sons, James C. and N. B. mounted their horses and joined the Confederate forces. In 1858 a frame home was built about 300 yards west of the original site. Two rooms downstairs and two rooms upstairs, with rock fireplaces on each end of the house. This house was set on fire two or three times during the war, but was not destroyed. All three men survived the war but had to relinquish their horses to the Union forces. The horses were later returned if the owners could identify them. Mr. LaMar went to Harrisonville where the Union Army had corralled them and was able to identify two of them.

After the war the two older sons joined a wagon train in Westport, Jackson County, Missouri and made the trip to Oregon and back. Of the seven sons and two daughters born to John and Frances, six sons, N. B., J. C., Charles, William, John Jr. and Henry and one daughter, Harriet, were married and settled in the surrounding area. Thomas, the other son, died at age 23, and Rebecca Elizabeth, never married, took care of her parents until their death; Frances in 1898 and John in 1905. One rather unusual aspect of this family is that the entire family are buried at the Bryant Cemetery, three miles west of Belton. In 1891 John and Frances celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in the old homestead.

The youngest son, Henry, and his wife, Adabelle Baker, built a home not far from the original house and raised their family there. His son, Walter, and his bride, Mayme Kerr, moved into the old home and raised their family. Walter's son, Baker LaMar, built his home on part of the original land and he and his wife, Myrtle Mae, lived there until 1973 when they sold their place and retired to McAllen, Texas.

Tommy Dobson, another grandson of Henry's, N. B. LaMar, grandson of N. B. and Margaret Wade, granddaughter of Harriet, still live in Cass County. A few grandchildren and numerous other great-grandchildren of John and Frances LaMar live in the greater Kansas City area.

In 1928, Jordan's father sold his interest in the First National Bank of Corning. In 1930, Jordan and his father organized the Security Bank of Rich Hill which they later sold; however, before the sale, on April 6, 1931, Jordan and Gracia Lorene Day, daughter of Delmar Perkins and Bertha Louise Day of Datto, Arkansas, were married. Gracia's father was a banker and plantation owner who grew cotton, rice, and soybeans. Gracia taught school.

Jordan had a strong belief that a person must be useful to the community where he resides by doing what he could for the betterment of everyone. During his 20 years in Cabool, he served as mayor for 16 years. During this time, a complete sewer system was installed, and additional water facilities and electrical system were completed. Main street was paved and most other streets surfaced with asphalt, and an airport, including administration building, was built. He also organized a development corporation which has been responsible for bringing a number of other industries to the community. Jordan was Vice President, President, and Lieutenant Governor of Kiwanis.

Under his direction as Mayor, expansion of the electrical, water, and sewer facilities, Harrisonville Lake, street program, zoning, and comprehensive planning study were begun. Thirty-six units are under construction. Today, Harrisonville is reaping the benefits of his efforts.

RALPH F. LOFLAND

Father of Ralph Lofland was Perry Lofland, who was an early settler in the Peculiar area. Perry Lofland was married to Addie Urton at an early age, and they made their home in the vicinity of West Union and Peculiar. Two sons were born of this union, Claude Lofland and Ralph Lofland. The grandfather of Ralph Lofland was Baker Urton, who served as constable of Peculiar for many years. Baker Urton served in the Confederate Army during the Civil War and was a picturesque character in the small town of Peculiar during its early history. Ralph Lofland now bears the nickname "Bake" and is possessed of some of the same characteristics as his noted grandfather.

Ralph Lofland was educated in the public schools in this community and attended four years at Missouri University, where he studied Civil Engineering. After working with a Consultant Engineering firm in Kansas City, Missouri, and later with the Missouri State Highway Department, he went to Little Rock, Arkansas, to open an office for the Portland Cement Association. Later he was sent to Oklahoma City to open an office for a construction materials company.

In 1933 the company transferred him to Dallas. Despite the depression years, Lofland saw a future for Dallas and the southwest. So a year later, with a great amount of confidence and very little money, he and Dave May opened their own construction materials office.

As they expected, Texas grew, and so did their company. Ill health forced May to retire in 1939 and Lofland bought his interest and formed The Lofland Company.

In addition to this operation in Dallas, Mr. Lofland has a plant in Little Rock, Arkansas, and another in Houston, Texas, in which he has an interest. In addition to his interest in steel fabricating, Mr. Lofland also has the Lofland Realty Co. of Dallas, which is operated by his wife, his daughter, Maebath, and his three grandchildren. In addition to his many duties with his companies, Mr. Lofland finds time for memberships in over 15 different community organizations and civic groups. He is a very busy and very happy man.

SAMUEL HENRY LOFLAND

Samuel Henry Lofland was born Sept. 23, 1826 in or near Milford, Del., was left an orphan very young and lived with his brother, John Lofland. When about 14 or 15 he ran away and joined the navy, was assigned to the ship "The Sea Bees" and became Captain. On May 18, 1851 he married, in or near Charleston, Ill., America Victoria Nordyke. In 1859 they moved with their 3 children to Mo., living first at Independence, then in Kansas City for a while, then moved to a farm 5 miles SW of Peculiar, Cass Co., Mo.

When the Civil War started Mr. Lofland volunteered and was made a Captain in the army. His family at home suffered frightening experiences. Bushwhackers were always hunting Mr. Lofland, would come by searching the house and grounds, grabbing and taking everything they could use, blankets, furniture for camp fires, food, sometimes eating, there, food ready for the family and throwing away the rest. As a fortunate precaution Mrs. Lofland and the older children had taken silverware, best dishes, treasured blankets, quilts and linens to the corn field and hidden them in the corn shocks.

One time Mrs. Lofland sent her 9 year old boy to bring in the cows. The enemy came by, searched the place, let the cows come home but took the boy, but did release him unharmed the next morning. Another time Mr. Lofland slipped home to see about his family and just managed to escape discovery by climbing a tall cottonwood tree. After searching his home it was dark when the Bushwhackers came to the tree so they camped there. Mr. Lofland heard their conversation and plans, was able to get back to his headquarters and have a successful trap set for them. When the war got closer and more severe the family moved to Lawrence, Kans. and remained near there until the close of the war. While living there they saw the burning of Lawrence. When they returned to their home farm they found nothing left but the log house which was badly battered. But they thanked God that they were all together and home again, even if it meant starting all over on the farm.

In 1869 they built a new house which, through excellent care, is still standing and looks the same at over 100 years. The Loflands were a respected and helpful part of their community. When the community got back together after the war was over they invited everyone to their home Sunday afternoons for Sunday School and Bible Study. After a year or two the group organized a Baptist Church and built the New Hope Baptist Church in 1879 in the West Union School District, having preaching once a month, the pastor being the Rev. Ewing Bailey. When the old town of Peculiar was moved to its new location Mr. Lofland retired from the farm and located one block N. of the present Baptist Church in Peculiar. Soon after settling, Mr. Lofland set about getting neighbors interested in organizing a Baptist Church. They started holding services in the old Presbyterian Church that had disbanded, and 2 years later built the present Baptist Church of Peculiar which was dedicated 1908. Samuel Lofland died Mar. 3, 1913 age 80 years.

Samuel H. and America Victoria (Nordyke) Lofland had 10 children: William H.; Charles H., who died in infancy; George A.; James; Thomas; Perry; Emma (Lofland) Kelley; Rosa J. (Lofland) Mossman; Anna D. (Lofland) Foster; Fannie (Lofland) Hoffmuster. These children all attended elementary school at West Union, which at that time was a log building with board slabs that had been sawed from walnut trees. Mr. Lofland was a school board member for many years. At the present time (1973) only one representative of the Lofland family is living in Cass Co., Mo., a granddaughter, Mrs. Elsie Lofland Shores of Harrisonville.

WILLIAM H. LOFLAND

William Harrison Lofland was born July 26, 1852, near Charleston, Coles County, Illinois. He came to the Peculiar area in Cass County, Missouri in 1859 with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lofland. In 1879 he married Laura Ellen Phillips. Mrs. Lofland was born September 14, 1863, near Aubrey (now Stillwell), Kansas. They were married in the home of her parents, Andrew J. and Fannie E. Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. Lofland established their home on the Lofland homestead in the West Union community, where the bridegroom was engaged in farming and where he had built a two-room house. This original structure served as their home for five years. At that time they bought a farm in the same community, seven miles due west of Peculiar, where Mr. Lofland engaged in farming and where they lived for many years. Mr. Lofland served as clerk of New Hope Baptist Church at West Union for over 40 years. He was also a member of the West Union School Board for several years.

In 1912 Mr. and Mrs. Lofland retired from the farm and moved to Peculiar. He passed away July 1, 1923. Mrs. Lofland continued to live in their home until her death March 15, 1931.

In the 1880 census the family lists three children: Laura, aged 12; Thomas Brent, aged 10; and Tod, aged 3.

Mr. Matthews contracted pneumonia early in 1887 while on a trip to Blue Springs to visit relatives and died there on February 5th and is buried in the Blue Springs cemetery.

CHARLES LEE MAY

Charles Lee May, son of Samuel Alexander and Laura Viola May, was born January 10, 1878, in Miami County, Kansas. His parents lived on a rented farm. Shortly after his birth, his parents moved to Cass County in Missouri where he spent his childhood.

He attended a private school at Sharon Church. When the public school at Prairie View was opened, he attended school there, and later he went to Drexel High School.

When he was eighteen, he went to St. Louis and underwent an operation for hernia. He spent six weeks in the hospital in St. Louis and wrote to his parents to keep them informed.

In the year 1900, at the age of twenty-two, he went to Montana where he worked in the gold mines, shoveling and drilling ore. After a year of working in the damp mines, he returned to Missouri and married Anna Florence Beam, who had worked in his parents' home. They were married near Butler, Missouri on June 13, 1901.

They moved to Troy, Kansas and Charlie went to work for the Baker products company. He sold Baker products in Brown and Doniphan counties. From his huckster wagon he sold spices, medicines, and cooking supplies. Since there were no hotels in the country then, he usually spent the night at the last country house he visited. He paid the people for his bed, meals, and hay for his horse.

When they returned to Cass County, Missouri, he farmed with his father for a year, then rented a farm near Adrian, Missouri. He then bought 80 acres of land. He later sold that land and bought 80 acres adjoining his father's farm. In 1952, the house was 70 years old.

At the age of 72, he traveled to Wilmington, California to visit his son, Elza, and other relatives in California. He made another trip to California in January of 1955 and celebrated his 77th birthday with his son.

Charlie May enjoyed good health most of his life, although in 1905 he was critically ill with typhoid and pneumonia.

SAMUEL ALEXANDER MAY

Samuel Alexander May, son of William and Christina May, was born in Rockingham County, Virginia, February 8, 1843. His childhood was spent on his parent's farm in the western section of Virginia, near McGaheysville.

He joined the Confederate Army in the 10 Virginia Infantry Company E and was at Gettysburg. Sam May was taken prisoner and he recorded his experiences, "Went in June or July, 1861, 10 Virginia Infantry, Company E. Was captured first day of October, 1864, exchanged in spring, 1865. Prisoner 6 months in Point Lookout, Maryland." Conditions in the prisoner of war camp were quite bad. Sanitation measures did not exist, there was no protection from the cold, pine needles served as a bed, and the prisoners nearly starved, having little but moldy bread to eat. He returned to home near McGaheysville after the war. He decided to go West where the new country was being settled. He never regretted his decision to go West. Sam May often spoke of his brother, Martin Luther May, who was lost at sea during the war. Apparently this brother did not return to Virginia after the war was over; however, he did not die in the war and later married and raised a family. Sam never knew that his brother lived.

Sam May was 33 years old when he arrived at Paola, Kansas in the fall of 1875. He had nothing but the clothes he wore and eight dollars. He plowed with a horse-drawn walking plow and worked from sunup until sundown for fifty cents a day. Since he had but one pair of shoes, he worked in his bare feet. It was here that he met Laura Viola (Ola) Harper, daughter of William and Sarah Harper, the hired girl; when she was homesick to see her parents, it became his job to take her to Cass Co., Missouri to see her family. They were married at Paola, Kansas on October 15, 1876.

Sam May first rented a farm in Miami County, Kansas. They were living in Miami County when Charles Lee May was born in January of 1878, but he had bought eighty acres of unimproved prairie land for $8. per acre in Cass County, Missouri. An old gray horse made the down payment on this land, and the next payment was made by selling some cattle. They brought 2½ cents a pound. He then plowed 69 acres of the prairie sod with a horse and walking plow, planted corn, and cultivated it with a walking cultivator. A second son, Harry May, was born Oct. 6, 1879, died Apr. 18, 1881.

In 1888 he took his wife and son back to Virginia to visit friends and relatives. They went by train and spent three months there. In 1900 Sam May again went to Virginia and brought his mother back to Missouri to live with him until her death in 1902. Later Sam and Ola May went to California to visit Hazel McNeil, daughter of Ola's sister Fidelia, whom they had raised until she was eighteen years old.

Sam May was an excellent gardener and raised all sorts of fruits, berries and vegetables. He owned one of the first automobiles in the community, but he did not learn to drive. His granddaughter, Eunice May, drove his car for him.

In 1904 the original house was rebuilt. The new house had eight large rooms, with a wing of the old house as a kitchen. The house cost $1,000. and was considered to be one of the finest in the country. Sam May was a member and a stockholder of Drexel's first bank, the Interstate Bank.

He became a Christian at the age of thirty, and later became a charter member of the Prairie View Baptist Church near Drexel. He had been under a doctor's care for heart and stomach trouble for several years before his death. One evening a storm came up and he said, "Mother, we had better go to the cellar." She thought it was not necessary, but as the weather grew more threatening she consented, and they hurried to the cellar where Sam May sat on a chair while Ola fastened the cellar door that was blowing back and forth. When she returned she found that he had died of a heart attack. He died September 4, 1921 and was buried at Sharon Cemetery, near Drexel, as was Ola May who died April 9, 1923.

Prior to this the family traveled by covered wagon to Ponca City, Oklahoma and remained there several years before returning to Missouri again by covered wagon.

In 1908 he married Lydia Katherine Schrock, daughter of Jacob B. and Elizabeth Peachey Schrock. They were parents of five children; Norman J. Miller (deceased in 1974), Katherine McCarthy Schrock, J. Emerson Miller, S. Paul Miller and Mary Eleanor Kochsmeirer.

In early years Ami attended "High School" in Holden and college in Warrensburg, preparing himself for a career of teaching. He taught five terms of rural school in Cass County. His last term of school was at the Marshall School where later all of his five children attended and graduated from the eighth grade. One of his daughters taught at this same school thirty-four years later.

In 1909 Ami took up farming at the Jacob B. Schrock farmstead where he remained in this occupation. He never lost interest in people, in schools, in church work, and in current events. He was on the school board in the Marshall District for thirty years. He had a keen interest in the school programs and many times took part himself. He will be remembered for his ability to give "Readings."

Lydia was a devoted housewife and mother, known as an excellent "Pennsylvania Dutch Cook." She took great pride in her garden and in the many quarts of fruits and vegetables she canned for her family's winter supply. She, like her father, became a breeder of fine chickens which were shown at Fairs. Her Rhode Island Reds won many ribbons.

After Lydia's death in 1959, Ami spent much time traveling. Six months prior to his death in 1970 he was able to travel from coast to coast visiting all of his brothers, sisters, his children and grandchildren.

MILLER FAMILY

William E. Miller, born on March 21, 1924, resides at 204 W. Washington Street, Harrisonville. The son of the late Earl Cranston Miller, (11/30/1897-2/12/1975) traces his ancestry back to Jacob Miller, a native of Switzerland. Jacob was born in Zurich in 1663, and lived his early years there. Because of the persecution of Protestants in that country in the 17th century, he left Switzerland to seek religious freedom. From Switzerland he traveled to Amsterdam and thence to London. He left London on June 29, 1710, and arrived in Philadelphia in September, 1710.

The third of John Miller's sons was Henry, born in 1751. He received an English education, studied law, and was admitted to the bar in York County in 1770, where he moved. There he married Sara Ann Ursula Rose on June 26, 1770. Henry won distinction in the War of the Revolution. He was one of the first to enter the service. He raised a company and joined Washington's army with the commission of First Lieutenant. He won prestige especially in the battle of Monmouth, and was promoted by Washington to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. In 1779 he resigned his commission on account of the straitened pecuniary circumstances of his family, which had arisen by reason of his long absence in the field. He was Major of York when Washington visited that city, and a member of Pennsylvania's Constitutional Convention. During the War of 1812 he was in command of the militia at Baltimore, and charged with the defense of Fort McHenry. When the English left the Chesapeake, he retired from the army with the rank of Brigadier-General, and returned to Pennsylvania, where he lived until his death.

Henry Miller had seven children of whom Henry, Junior, born in 1771, was the eldest. Young Henry married Barbara Rebecca Kramer, and together they pioneered into Westmoreland County, western Pennsylvania, and then on into West Virginia. There seems to have been little or no correspondence between the younger and elder Henry, as they lived so remote from each other. Henry Miller died in 1820, four years before the death of his father, General Henry Miller, who died in 1824 at Carlisle, Pa.

One of Henry, Jr.'s eight children was Samuel, born in Somerset County, Pa., July 23, 1796. Samuel moved with his father to West Virginia, but later returned to Pennsylvania and married Mary Elcher (1797-1890), and settled at Mount Pleasant, Westmoreland County, Pa., and there raised a large family. He owned an iron foundry where his sons assisted him. He later moved to Iowa, locating near Iowa City where he died in 1881.

Samuel's large family included eleven children, of which David, born in 1821 at Mt. Pleasant, Pa., was the eldest. In 1852 David and his wife, Lucy Ann Statler, moved to Iowa from Pennsylvania.

One of David Miller's brothers was Alexander James Miller, 6th son of Samuel and Mary Miller. Alexander had a military record in the Civil War that reads like that of his great-grandfather Lieutenant Colonel Henry Miller in the Revolution.

When the Civil War was practically over, on November 30, 1864, as his great-grandfather of Revolutionary fame had done in 1779, Lieut. Col. A. J. Miller resigned his commission, and returned home to his family (his bride of August 24, 1863), soon to be augmented by the arrival of their first child, Walcutt Miller.

Meanwhile, David Miller and family were still in Iowa, and remained there until about 1876, when they went to Kansas, locating in Sedgwick County about eleven miles southwest of Wichita. William Miller, born in Johnson County, near Iowa City, November 15th, 1854, moved with his father to Kansas. David Miller was engaged in farming and livestock raising and also practiced medicine in Sedgwick County until 1889, when the family came to Missouri, locating in Grand River Township, Cass County.

David Miller died on his place on March 22, 1900, and his wife passed away in the fall of 1890. They were the parents of five children, of whom William Edgar was the second son. William was associated with his father in farming and stock raising during the lifetime of the latter. He married September 14, 1892, to Miss Belle Harshbarger, and had three children, of whom Earl Cranston was the youngest. Earl survived two older brothers, and assumed control of the farm at his father's death in 1927. Earl married Stella Alberta Braden in November, 1919, and farmed until his death in 1975. Stella died early in 1976, leaving two grown children, Stella Francine Eichenberber of Tucson, Az., and William Earl Miller, of Harrisonville, Mo. An older brother, Harold, had died some years earlier.

William Earl Miller was born in 1924 and has farmed practically all his life on a farm near his parents. He was active in the community having served on the Cass County School Board, and as president of the local Missouri Farm Bureau. Just recently he moved into Harrisonville with his wife of 25 years, Loura Lee Bennett, daughter of Schyler Nelson and Carrie Alice Bennett of Lone Tree, Missouri. William, however, is now in Haiti seeking new horizons. His oldest son William E. II, born in 1951, now farms both his father's farm, land of his own, and his grandparents' estate, all located west of Harrisonville. William E.'s other children include Samuel L., born 1953, and Sam's wife Sabra Clary Miller; Alice Ann, born 1954, and her husband Mike Gray and their son Aaron Zachariah; and Jacob Merle, born 1955, and his bride Phyllis Daniels Miller, all of Harrisonville.

CHARLES W. MOHR

Charles W. Mohr, son of Max Mohr and Erna Kempfe Mohr of Kansas City, was born October 30, 1939. His father was a native of Wilster, Germany, coming to Kansas City at the age of 18 to help his uncle in a florist shop. He married Erna Kempfe of Alma, Missouri. Max Mohr has conducted his florist shop at 70th and Troost for 36 years. In 1957 he purchased 80 acres from Mrs. Jess Urton and planted ten acres to various types of evergreens.

Charles was united in marriage to Jeanne Tolbert of Kansas City on June 25, 1960. They now have one son, Charles W. Mohr, II, born July 31, 1962. They moved to their present farm in 1963. He built a greenhouse in the summer of 1966 and now specializes in the culture of hydrangeas, potting 25,000 in 1968. In addition to caring for the evergreens and the greenhouse, Charles assists his father in the florist business in Kansas City.

Jeanne Mohr is an accomplished musician and has taught accordion lessons and accordion bands in Harrisonville, Holden, Pleasant Hill, Drexel, Freeman, Kansas City and Peculiar.

EDWARD MONEYMAKER FAMILY

Ed Moneymaker came to the Raymore community from Cheshire, Gallia County, Ohio with his bride, Clara Ann Cook, and his mother, in the springtime of 1883. They arrived at Pleasant Hill, Missouri by train. After the purchase of a team and wagon and some necessary articles of furniture, they began farming one mile south of Raymore. (The Council farm).

Ed Moneymaker and wife grew up in the Ohio River Valley and spoke of hearing the distant rumble of cannons during the days of the Civil War. He evidently grew up on a farm in an area that produced potatoes, among other crops.

After several years trial on the farm, he moved to Raymore, finally to a small house, which he built, located in the southwest part of Raymore. This house was located where the latest addition to Raymore Elementary School now stands. Here his vocation was that of a masonry tradesman...self taught. He was a keen observer of how and why things worked.

Descendents were: Earl, minister in the Presbyterian Church and master cabinet maker. He passed away in Seattle, Washington in 1967; Blanche Funk, school teacher, housewife and mother; Anna Scheurer, school teacher and Juvenile Court worker, housewife and mother; Carl Moneymaker, now deceased, construction worker and electrician; Dean Moneymaker, lawyer and safety educator; Harry Moneymaker, carpenter, grocer and gunsmith; Clara Seba, teacher, housewife and mother.

From 1892 through the following 79 years, either 1st, 2nd, or 3rd generation descendants of this family have attended grade and high school classes at Raymore or the combined Raymore-Peculiar schools with the exception of one year. Clara Moneymaker taught in the Raymore grade school for two years.

HORACE BAKER MOODY

Horace Baker was one of four children. He was reared in Indiana, educated in the public schools of Elkhart and graduated from Notre Dame University at South Bend. Later he was a partner in the hardware business with his uncle, Will Clements. He was also a member of the well known Kiwanis quartet. This quartet achieved much recognition throughout the state and nation, accepting at one time an invitation to sing at a national convention in Canada. Members of the quartet were H. J. Moody, James Idol, L. M. Crouch Jr., and Harry (Jay) Bird. Their organ accompaniment was played by E. W. Shepherd. H. J. Moody married Lucile Connely in June of 1921. To this union were born two children: Jackson Connely and Mary Patricia Moody.

While living there he held several township offices and was a justice of the peace for many years. His death was in 1892.

John C. was the second son of Richard T. and Mary Moore. He was born in 1821. He married Nancy Hannah. They made their home in northern Pike County, Ohio and were the parents of seven children. Charley Daniel, their youngest child, was born February 20, 1860. His mother died about 1863 and soon after her death John and his children moved to Iowa, and resided there two years. He left Iowa in a covered wagon with six of his children. They crossed the Missouri River on the ice, and continued south to Mount Vernon, later moving to Taney County. The six children came to Cass County in 1874, their father moving to Springfield, where he died in 1895.

Charley D. grew up in the Lone Tree community. In 1894 he purchased 100 acres along the Grand River for $16.00 per acre. He and Florence Brookhart Antill were married January 30, 1895 and became the parents of three children: Mary Elizabeth, Charley Daniel, and Faye Bernice.

Florence, the daughter of Kile and Mary Catherine Brooks Antill, was born February 18, 1873. Kile Antill was born near Wheeling, West Virginia, August 16, 1836, the son of John and Deliah Keath Antill. This family came to Cass County in 1852 and settled on a farm south of Harrisonville. John was employed at a sawmill near where Clark's bridge is now located. He died here suddenly and is buried in the Brady Cemetery.

Kile Antill and Mary C. Brooks were married October, 1869 and became the parents of the following: William Worthy, Florence Brookhart and an infant son, who with his mother, died January 1, 1875. Dr. Lynch Brooks, the first physician to come to Harrisonville, was the father of John L. Brooks, who was the father of Mary Brooks Antill. William W. Brooks was Mary's brother.

Charley Daniel Moore II and Anna Lora Duncan were married December 6, 1921. Their children are Charley Thomas, Anna Lee Moore and Madonna Mildred Wilson. Anna Lora Duncan was born October 10, 1902, the daughter of Thomas F. and Mildred N. Duncan. Her grandparents were John and Josie Shaler Duncan, and Garrett Buckner "Doc" Peterson, and Nancy Shelton Starks Peterson. They came from Hardin County, Kentucky, and settled near Freeman.

C. H. MOORE

Columbus Houston Moore was known to all his friends and acquaintances by the nickname "Lum". He was born Sept. 24, 1857 in Grayson County, Virginia to Nimrod and Elizabeth (Snyder) Moore. His grandparents were Thomas and Hulday Moore who had come from England, date and place unknown.

Nimrod (Aug. 5, 1829-June 21, 1910) had a brother, Isaac and two sisters, Violette and Lucinda. Nimrod married Elizabeth Snyder (1832-1875) on June 5, 1851 and three children were born in Virginia: John Snyder (Apr. 3, 1853-July 20, 1916); Josephine J. (May 25, 1855-Aug. 20, 1877) and Columbus Houston. The Civil War found Nimrod serving in the Confederate Army. In 1867, he brought his family to Cass County, Mo. They drove a covered wagon and Nimrod's sister, Violette, came along. He bought a forty acre farm east of Harrisonville where two sons were born: Franklin B. (Aug. 31, 1870-Oct. 4, 1921) and Edwin Thomas (Oct. 19, 1872-Feb. 14, 1926). His wife, Elizabeth, died on June 14, 1875 and was buried in Orient Cemetery, Harrisonville. Nimrod married again but there was no children of the later marriage.

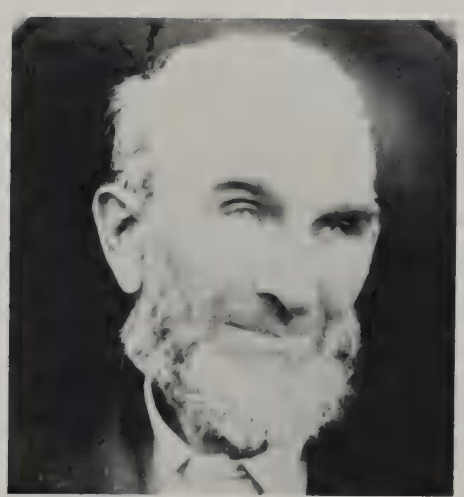
Nimrod was active almost to the last but he never gained enough of this world's wealth to be independent financially in his late years so he spent his final days living in turn with his sons. Nimrod died June 21, 1910 and is also buried in Orient Cemetery.

C. H. had to help at home until he was 21 years old, which was 3 years after his mother died. The wages he earned when he worked away from home were kept by his father. After he became 21 years old, he saved his own wages until he had enough to buy a team, the needed farm tools and some household goods to "batch" with. After five years of living alone, he married Rosa Ottilla Kircher on Sept. 23, 1883. She was the daughter of Jacob and Magdalene (Keller) Kircher. Their first home was near Hutchison School. They lived there one year and their first child, Mabel, was born on Sept. 2, 1884. They moved to a farm 1½ miles east of the Orient Cemetery and lived there until 1893. Three more girls were born: Grace (Jan. 26, 1886), Pearl (Apr. 20, 1888-Mar. 3, 1918), Katherine (Jan. 21, 1892). The family moved to a farm three miles south of Harrisonville. Alberta was born Nov. 8, 1896 and a son, Chas. Houston on Feb. 28, 1900. He died June 1, 1973.

C. H. Moore joined the Pleasant Ridge Baptist Church in late middle age and became a very devoted worker and a deacon in the church. In 1911, the farm was sold and the family moved to Idaho where they lived about 1½ years. The Missouri farm buyer could not meet his payments so the family came back to the farm. Again they sold the farm and in 1920 went to California for a year. They came back to Harrisonville and in 1923 the farm had to be taken back again. They started farming again and in 1927, their son, Charles took over the farming. In 1930, "Lum" and Rosie took a vacation trip to California and Idaho. Rosie's health suffered a change and she passed away Feb. 12, 1933, at the farm home south of Harrisonville. "Lum" and his son, Charles, farmed together until "Lum" decided to retire. In Dec. 1936, he went to El Dorado Springs where he lived until failing health brought him to the home of his daughter, Alberta in Harrisonville, May, 1945. He died on August 6, 1945 at the age of eighty-eight years. He and his wife are both buried in the Orient Cemetery.



Nimrod Moore.

His daughters and son had married as follows: Mabel to Reid Hutchison, Grace to Will McLay, Pearl to Myron G. Holloway, Katherine to Frank N. Savage, Alberta to Dr. E. H. Owen and Charles to Lela Rains. All his daughters, except Pearl, are living at this writing. Fifteen grandchildren were born but none carried on the Moore family name. Only one son-in-law, Frank N. AMBUS MORRISS

Ambus Morriss was born July 6, 1834 at Wigtoff, Lincolnshire, England, the second son of William and Frances Seymour Morriss. They were the parents of three children: William, Ambus and Elizabeth Overton Morriss. The father was killed by a loaded two-wheeled cart, overturning and pinning him beneath it in a roadside ditch.

William, the eldest son, inherited the family estate. Because of compulsory military service, Ambus wanted to leave his native country. In 1854, William, with his wife and sons, came to the United States of America, bringing 20 year old Ambus with them. They settled in the state of Michigan. After spending two years here, William and Ambus left for the mining district in Montana, where they stayed for ten years. In 1864 the brothers became separated. Neither Ambus nor William's family ever heard from William again. It was presumed he had been killed, as he was carrying gold on his person. In 1886, Ambus came to Westport Landing. From there he came to Harrisonville, Missouri, looking for farming land with timber and water. This he found in south Cass County, near Grand River. It was here in south-east Austin Township that he bought land, moving into the one room cabin, November 1, 1866. On November 15, 1868, he married a young war widow with a small son, who lived with her parents, Philip and Mary Jane Fulkerson, in near-by Dayton Township. The Fulkerson family were pioneers, having come from the state of Kentucky prior to the Civil War.

Ambus Morriss and Margaret Adeline Fulkerson Hubble were married at the home of her parents by the Rev. A. H. Deane of Austin, Missouri, who at that time was pastor of the Austin Baptist Church. Ambus had been converted and baptized by the Rev. Deane a few months prior to his marriage. They were the parents of seven children: Mary Frances — married Burke Pulliam, Philip Adam, Margaret Adeline, Elizabeth Overton, William Rayson and Ambus Seymour, who died at the ages of 5 and 8 respectively, in the year of 1879 and George Ennis, who married Mabel Jackson App. The children of George and Mabel are: Marjorie — married Ralph Heins Patterson, (son, Wendell Heins); Ennis App — married Ruth Settle (daughter, Mary Patricia Pieroo); Delmer Roberts — married Virginia Corene Mouse (daughter, Betty Carroll Marchbank); Harriet Seymour — married Urson Charles Logue, Sr. (daughter, Linda Louisa Zellmer; son Urson Charles, Jr.; daughter, Sherry Sue Limpus).

The lives of the Morriss family were interwoven with the growth of the Austin Baptist Church through the years. Almost from the first beginnings of the church, the family have been active members. Beginning with Ambus and Adeline, through each generation the family have remained faithful and true to the church of their choice. Members of three generations have served their church as deacons.

For almost 53 years, the farm he first purchased was home to Ambus Morriss and his family. His church, his family and the community were his life. He never returned to his home land for a visit. Margaret Adeline passed away January 17, 1912 and Ambus June 28, 1919. They are bured at Austin Cemetery.

Miss Margaret Morriss died Easter Day, April 18, 1976, just 45 days before her 100th birthday. Today, 1976, a great grandson, Urson Charles Logue, Jr. owns the original farm, making it one of the Bicentennial Farms of Cass County.

HELEN MORSE

Born Dec. 4, 1897 near Diamond, Mo. in Newton County Miss Helen Morse was the third child and only daughter of Delbert and Olive (Lawrence) Morse. In 1904, the family moved to Neosho where her father, Delbert Lewis Morse, was a bookkeeper. Later they moved to a farm where he and his family developed the "Morse Purebred Stock Farm". Later the stock farm was made into "Morse Park". It contained a half-mile race track, a freshwater swimming pool, campground and a baseball field. The land is now owned by the City of Neosho as a park and is still known as "Morse Park."

Helen graduated from the Neosho High School in 1917 in the spring and began teaching in September at "Number 4" school not far from Seneca, Mo. She taught eight years in the Neosho school system; a grade teacher four years and principal of M. E. Benton Ward School for four years. Higher wages lured her to Adair, Okla. where she taught English and Agriculture in high school. At Sallisaw, Okla., she taught Home Economics. She had one class of 16 boys in Food. She was here when in 1933 the banks were closed by Pres. Roosevelt. In the meantime, Helen was working toward a college degree. After receiving summer school credits at Mo. University, Columbia, Mo. and Boulder, Colo., extension and correspondence credits at Northeastern Teacher's College, Tahlequah, Okla. She graduated from the latter college on July 20, 1933 with a B.S. in Education.

Her father died of a heart attack in Nov., 1932 so Helen and her mother moved to Cass County, Mo. to be near their sister and aunt, Mrs. Leo (Lois Lawrence) Armstrong. Helen taught the seventh grade in the Harrisonville school system in 1933 and the eighth grade in 1934 term.

She secured employment at Neosho as Supervisor of Women's work in Rural Rehabilitation in Newton County, Mo. She was the first woman in Missouri to be employed by Rural Rehabilitation, but the project closed for reorganization in 1935. Works Progress Administration (WPA) was being organized so Helen was employed to be Home Economist of seven counties in southwest Missouri. She worked out of Joplin for 2 years, when the district was enlarged to include 22 counties with headquarters in Springfield, Mo. She resigned in 1940 to enter the University of Mo. at Columbia, where she graduated in 1941 from the College of Agriculture with a B.S. degree in Home Economics. As a Home Demonstration Agent in Texas County from 1941 to 1947, she worked with George Penn Smith, County Agent during the World Wat II period. Gardens, canning, clothing made of feed sacks, and making over hand-me-down clothing were only a part of the effort to help with the war effort.

When her mother needed hospitalization occasionally during her invalid years, they decided to move back to Cass Co., so Helen asked for a transfer and began her work there in 1947. She replaced Miss Margaret Nelson, who had given 24 years of excellent leadership. Helen's mother passed away April 15, 1949 and is buried beside her husband, D. L. Morse, in the Wills Cemetery, east of Peculiar.

June 30, 1960 Helen took voluntary retirement with 24 years of U.S. Government work, after receiving many recognitions and honors from national, state and local groups. Feeling she could not leave her beloved friends in Cass County, she still maintains her home in Harrisonville, Mo. where she worked thirteen years as Home Demonstration Extension Agent.

JOHN MOSBY

John Mosby and his wife, Casaranda, spent their early life in Woodford County, Kentucky as farmers and in 1825, four years after Missouri became a state, they migrated to Clay Co., Mo. They settled on virgin land that had just been released by the government, in the area where Linden and Barry, Mo. are now located. There were eleven children in the family and, when the slaves who worked on the plantation were released, the land was divided into a housing subdivision and is known as the Mosby Highlands.

Warfield Mosby married Cordelia Goode and to their union were born nine children. During the Civil War Mosby was known as a strong believer in the Southern cause and was, at one time, threatened by the Union troops with hanging; but his wife's pleading saved his life.

James Woodford Mosby was born in Clay Co., Mo. in 1867, and in 1888 was united in marriage with Irene Faubion, of Parkville, Mo. In 1909, they moved to Stilwell, Kansas and later purchased a farm from John George in the High Blue community. James Mosby believed in quality education for the children of that period, serving for fifteen years on various school boards before moving to the High Blue area, where he served for 25 years on that district's board. James and Irene spent their entire life together in the dairying business. They had five children, Winnie, who died at the age of fifteen, Roy, Jesse, Frank and Dollie.

Roy Woodford Mosby was born in 1890 in Clay Co., Mo. and, in 1919, was united in marriage with Bertha Kerr, of Belton. To their union two children were born, Oletha, who died in 1974, and Leroy, who now resides in Belton. Roy served as Sheriff of Cass Co. 1928-1932, and retired as a deputy U.S. Marshal. He died in 1971.

Jesse James Mosby was born in 1895 in Clay Co. and was united in marriage with Hazel Allsworth, of Kansas City, in 1918. They had three children, Robert, Leo and Faye Mosby Wallace. They have all resided in Belton their entire lives. Jesse, early in life, was in the dairy business, worked for Brown-Strauss for 25 years and retired as a street foreman for the City of Belton. After his retirement he worked for the Belton Park Board as Park Supervisor until his death in 1968.

BOYD H. MOSS

We arrived in Cass County in January, 1932. Boyd has been "bumped" off his job as an Express messenger and train baggageman with the American Railway Express Company in Kansas City, Missouri, because of the depression at that time. We purchased a small farm here from Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rogers, northeast of town, but in the city limits of Harrisonville. A story was told of a hanging on this farm years ago. It seems a man was caught stealing horses or cattle, and was hung from a tree by the well.

We had one daughter, Ada Ellen, 2 years old, born in Leavenworth, Kansas. The Rogers had three sons, Glenn, Paul and Eugene. They moved to the next farm east, the Del K. Hall place. We used coal oil lamps until we installed electricity. We had chickens, hogs, cows, horses, cats and dogs. The field work was done with horses. In 1932 I had 22 men for dinner the day we threshed. The next year only two extra men because a combine did the work. I would hang butter and milk in a bucket and lower it into the well to keep it cool.

In 1938 another daughter, Dorothy Ann, joined our family. She was born in the hospital run by Mrs. Clarence (Helen) Price. Dr. J. U. Scott and Dr. Ed. M. Griffith brought their patients there. It was over the old Bennett Drug Store, on the corner where the Allen Bank is now. Mrs. Nina Parsons, I remember, was present that day, having come to the farm to take me to the hospital.

In 1940 Boyd took the Harrisonville census. I met him in Atchison, Kansas, where I was working for the Western Union Telegraph Company. He was living in St. Joseph, Missouri, and working for the American Railway Express Company. Boyd was a veteran of World War I. He passed away in the Veterans Hospital in Kansas City, Missouri, in 1961, and is buried in the Orient Cemetery.

In 1944 we bought the home of Mrs. Walter R. Brown, where I still reside. We sold our farm to Bart Henderson.

Our girls were interested in their church, the Methodist, Girl Scouts, 4-H projects and Rainbow work. Both attended Girls' State in their junior year of high school. They took piano from Mrs. George Brinley and Dorothy Ann took voice from Mrs. H. J. Moody.

Ada Ellen graduated from Harrisonville High School in 1948 and entered the old Research Hospital School of Nursing, graduating in 1951. She married Arthur Monroe Hubble. She is employed in the Neosho County Memorial Hospital in Chanute, Kansas, where they reside. Ada Ellen is a hospital coordinator, and a licensed Medical Records Technician.

Dorothy Ann graduated from Harrisonville High School in 1956 and entered Park College, Parkville, Missouri. She married George Comninellis, also a student there. She graduated from UMKC in 1966 and at present is an educational resource teacher in the Park Hill R-5 school system.

HENRY MOTT

Henry G. Mott, one of eleven children of Andrew and Caroline Mott, was born on a farm near Maysville, Missouri on November 25, 1895. The father and mother came by ship from Germany, married after landing in the U.S., and then located in Northwest Missouri. Henry was a veteran of World War I; two brothers served overseas and one brother was killed in action in France in 1918.

Henry moved to Cass County in 1922, working on a farm near Gunn City. He met and married Merle Dean, oldest daughter of Thomas and Nellie Dean, in 1932. Nellie Merle Mott was born near Gunn City, Cass County, July 11, 1905, receiving her grade school education there. She taught in rural schools of Cass County eight years before her marriage.

Merle and Henry Mott moved to Puente, California in 1932. Both had employment on Handorf Dairy Farm, where 300 cows were milked. In 1946, Merle and Henry Mott returned to their native state, purchasing ten acres at Grandview. In the spring of 1947, they purchased and moved to the Van Huber farm, two miles west of Raymore. Henry continued to enjoy his livestock and farm life until his death in December, 1971.

On March 31, 1974 at the Belton Christian Church of which Merle is a member, she signed an annuity agreement with the National Benevolent Association of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) with headquarters in St. Louis. She gave to them 54.71 acres for a Christian Living Center, which is now known as Foxwood Springs Living Center for Older Adults. The property had been annexed to the city of Raymore a few years ago. Mrs. Mott continues to live in her home until building progresses.

HENRY MUCKE

John and Anna Mucke are descendants of an early day settler in Missouri. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Mucke came over from Germany around 1852 and homesteaded land in Henry County in Montrose, Missouri where they raised their family. Their son John B. (1869-1946), married Anna Cook (1879-1959) and they reared five children: Ann of Miami, Florida; George of Kerrville, Texas; Henry A. of Belton; Lawrence (1908-1976) of Peculiar; and Lena M. Catron, wife of Herbert Catron, present mayor of Belton. They lived on a 240 acre farm in Henry County on which the crops were sown and harvested with horses and mules. He also leased 400 acres besides his own land, and they had a lot of cattle, good horses and mules. He lived on the farm fifty-six years. He bought his first car, a Model T Ford in 1913, for approximately $350.00. The brass on the radiator would be worth more than that today.

Lee McRoberts, born in 1866 in Paris, Missouri, died September 7, 1926 at Marceline, Linn, Mo. He is buried in Harrisonville at Orient East Cemetery.

The McRoberts family moved to wherever the fathers work took him; but Cass Co. seemed to be their main home. Even in Lucinda's will she requested being taken home to be buried next to her husband; but since she was in New Mexico at the time of her death that is where she is buried.

The family were members of the Baptist Church and they were Democrats. All the children at one time taught school, except Anna. Carroll built the Methodist Episcopal Church in Harrisonville, with the help of another man. The reflection of the sun shining on the steeple covered with tin left him practically blind the remainder of his life.

Carroll Bailey McRoberts died February 28, 1884 and is buried in Brown Cemetery in Cass County. After Carroll's death the family stayed at the farm, which was about 5 miles northwest of Harrisonville and known as the Ussery farm. Nancy gave up teaching to be with her mother and the boys helped run the farm. On March 19, 1886 Lucinda sold the farm to her son, Winfield. In 1893 Lucinda moved to Raton, New Mexico for health reasons and there she died on May 27, 1908.

ALBERT OSBORN

About the year 1871, Albert Osborn and members of his family left their native Floyd County, Kentucky for the West. With Albert were his wife, Mary (daughter of Drury Burchett and wife, Elizabeth McCowan), and probably 4 or 5 children including DeLancen ("Lance") Goode and Martin Green ("Branger"). Daughters, Elizabeth and Armintia, may have been in the group as well as son, James Thomas ("Tom") but Tom may already have been in Missouri along with another son, Drury Jackson ("Jack") and Jack's wife. The group lived at Lone Jack in Jackson County, Missouri until they ventured on to Otter Creek Township in Greenwood County, Kansas. It was about 1872 when Albert, Mary, DeLancen, and Martin arrived in Greenwood County. Jack and his family had gotten there in 1871 and Tom likely was with them. Jack finally settled in Everett Township, Cass County, Missouri in 1876; DeLancen followed in 1890; and Albert and Mary moved there sometime later; but Martin remained near Piedmont, Greenwood County, Kansas where he married Emilie Sele and had one child, Glenn Edward.

Albert Osborn was born December 8, 1818 in Floyd County, Kentucky, youngest of 6 children of Sarah (Burchett) Osborn, widow of Edward Osborn. Edward had murdered William and David Morgan in Floyd County in 1813, was jailed, and he mysteriously disappeared from the jail. Some think he was lynched; others think he escaped to unknown parts. Family tradition is that Albert's father was a Mr. May and some identify him further as Reuben May (1800-1840), son of John and Sarah Jane (Phillips) May.

Albert's work in Kentucky was lumbering — logging and sawing. He said the land was no good for farming. He knew Civil War troubles for Northerners took his horses and Confederates burned his lumber piles, lumber mill, and buildings including the house. Once the Union Cavalry had ridden in and demanded food for themselves. Mary (Albert's wife) told them that if they would wait, she would send her youngest son, Martin, across the river to the mill to get meal for bread. As the 5-year-old was crossing the stream, the Confederates shot and wounded him so that he fell off into the water and wasn't able to aid the Union soldiers. The War and the subsequent day-to-day hardships apparently prompted Albert to remove from that country and see what great promises the states farther west held.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Osborn.

Albert's son Tom (1841-1916) never married but lived with his brother Jack several years. Jack married his first cousin, Elizabeth Burchett, daughter of Thomas and Letitia (Vaughn) Burchett and had 13 children with several descendants now living in Cass County and nearby. DeLancen married Eda Catharine ("Kate") Lewis and had 8 children.

Albert and Mary were wed October 18, 1840. Mary was born in 1819 and died in Everett Township, Cass County, Missouri on February 28, 1894. Albert died there August 20, 1904. They share a tombstone in the Everett Cemetery.

DELANCEN GOODE OSBORN

DeLancen ("Lance") Goode Osborn, farmer, son of Albert and Mary (Burchett) Osborn, was born February 13, 1853 in Floyd County, Kentucky. In 1871, he went to Lone Jack, Jackson County, Missouri and a few months later he went on to Greenwood County, Kansas. Eda Catharine ("Kate") Lewis, born February 3, 1863 in Jasper County, Indiana, daughter of Whitsel and Eliza Ann (Bruner) Lewis, visited her aunt in Greenwood County and met a neighbor, Lance Osborn. They were married February 15, 1882 at her parents' home, Malta Bend, Saline County, Missouri and lived near Piedmont, Greenwood County, Kansas until about 1890 when they came to near Main City, Everett Township, Cass County.

When Lance was a boy on the way from Lone Jack, Missouri to Greenwood County, Kansas with his parents in 1871 or 1872, they traveled the wagon road from Lone Jack, through Pleasant Hill and Harrisonville, and on to Kansas. They crossed Owens Creek in Section 20 of Everett Township. The land there looked very desirable to the boy Lance — so in 1890 he returned and purchased the farm at the creek crossing he remembered. Here at the edge of Amarugia he farmed the farm which undoubtedly reminded him of his birthplace in the Big Sandy River area of eastern Kentucky and here in Everett Township he died on May 3, 1933. His wife, Kate, died November 27, 1934. Both are buried in the Everett Cemetery.

The DeLancen Goode Osborn Family in 1907.

Lance and Kate had 8 children — the first, an unnamed boy, dying in infancy (1882). Cora Mabel (born 1884), now living in Ontario, California, married Ernest Emmett Kinder (no children). Martin Jay (1886-1965) married Eva Esta Blake and moved to California; their 5 children have families there. Otis (1891-1971) married Flava Dell Murphy, now living in California with their only child although Otis and Flava lived many years near Lisle, Cass County. Lela Pearl, born 1894, died in 1911 of appendicitis. John Wesley (born 1898), unmarried, lives in his birthplace northeast of Main City in Everett Township. Frank Lewis (1900-1942) married, first, Elsie Lydia Flanary and had 2 children, Donald Lewis (born 1933) and Lester Dean (1940-1942), and married, second, Beulah Fenn Reynolds. Linnie Lucile (born 1902) married Frank Milton Arnold; they live on the Arnold farm adjoining the farm where she was born and are parents of Jimmie Eugene Arnold (born 1942).

Donald Lewis Osborn and Jimmie Eugene Arnold, the only grandchildren of Lance remaining in Missouri, married daughters of Lee Philip and Phyllis Marie (Robinson) Hodges, of Archie. Don married June 20, 1964 Wanda Kay Hodges (1940-1974) and lives in Lee's Summit, Jackson County, with children, Sarah Catharine (born August 29, 1966) and David Lewis (born November 14, 1968). Jim married September 1, 1961 Carole Lynne Hodges (born 1942); they live near Archie with children, April Lynne (born September 21, 1965), Anne Marie (born October 5, 1967) and Erin Leigh (born April 30, 1973).

Their home, on South Lexington (where the Democrat-Missourian now stands) was purchased in 1910.

Bettie Ann was a member of the Harrisonville Baptist Church where her husband was a deacon. She was a talented dressmaker. Mr. Ott joined the church in 1888 and was ordained a deacon at Freeman. He served as the first Sunday School Superintendent and on the Freeman School Board. He seldom missed a Blue River Associational Meeting, attending his first meeting as a baby, making the trip by a covered wagon that was ox drawn.

The Otts were parents of three children: Mrs. George E. (Pearl Lee) Brinley, born June 17, 1885; Ruby Etta Gertrude, born July 28, 1888; and Forrest William Jewel Ott, born Feb. 12, 1903. All were born at Freeman. Ruby died in Belton in 1907.

Sandra Dee and Nancy Ann Herde and Mark William and Julie Jane Matthes are the grandchildren of the Forrest Ott's.

FERD OWEN

Ferd Owen was born Jan. 15, 1889, near Gainsville, Missouri. He was the fifth of nine sons of James Franklin Owen and Mittie Green Amyx. The family moved to West Plains where James F. Owen operated a wagon yard and livery stable. Ferd started trading stock and horses at 14 for himself and those of his relatives and friends. April 1, 1907, he married Britty Lela Keen. She was the daughter of Stephen Lewis Keen and Jemima Ellen Harlan of Ozark County, Missouri. Ferd and "Bertie" had two daughters, one died in infancy, and Lela Ferdinand. They lived in Joplin during World War I, furnishing horses and mules to the Army. In 1922 they moved to Kansas City where Ferd was a partner in the Kansas City Horse and Mule Commission Co. He became sole owner in 1930. With the help of seven brothers and two Keen brothers-in-law, Ferd established a nationwide organization selling domestic and foreign trade. Through the years the older brothers went their own way setting up their own businesses. Ferd continued in Kansas City with his son-in-law Gilbert Good, and a few others places with nephews and two brothers. During this time the Owen family lived at "Whitehall" near Liberty, and Lela and Gilbert Good, Wendell and Roberta Keen and Leon and Darthula Keen lived on surrounding farms. Here Gilbert Good died in Feb. 1950, leaving Lela and their four children: Ferd, Gib, Owen and Bertie Lela.

In the flood of 1951, Ferd's business in the stockyards in Kansas City was almost a total loss. He decided to move to a portion of the Pickering Ranch and make it his permanent home. An auction barn, working office, private office and cafe were built and weekly auctions were held. The Owen-Keen-Good business was short-lived for Ferd Owen died of a heart attack Oct. 7, 1955. The Owen-Good Ranch is still in operation with Mrs. Ferd Owen, Lela Good and her two eldest sons, Ferd and Gib, as owners. The fourth generation is on its way with Ferd Good's sons, Brian and Ward, and Gib Good's sons, Hal and John, and two daughters, Reeve and Talyn.

GEORGE PARROTT

George Parrott (1866-1948), the son of Matilda (Humbarger) and Jackson Parrott, married Elizabeth H. Wilmott (1869-1930) on January 14, 1892. She was the daughter of Nancy Jane (Cunningham) and William Robert Wilmott, and was born in the Kingsville community. Her father died when she was 7 and her mother died when she was 15. She went to live and make her home with Thomas and Elizabeth Wherritt, a prominent family of Pleasant Hill at that time. They lived west of Pleasant Hill, on what was later known as the Fred Guyton farm. She made her home with the Wherritts until she and George Parrott were married. After their marriage they moved in with George's parents, as they were acquiring more land and George's father was getting old and he was needed at home. See the Jackson Parrott history for the early life of George Parrott.

George Parrott and his wife were the parents of seven children, one dying in infancy. The living ones were; Vera E., Lou Ella, G. Harold, Mary, Wilmott J. and Juanita. Vera E. Parrott (1895-1974) married George B. Lane, Jr., a prominent man whose family moved from Kentucky. Vera attended the State Normal at Warrensburg (now Cen. Mo. State Univ.), and taught the Coleman school for the year 1916-1917, prior to her marriage. Two children were born of this union, G. Barker III and Mary Elizabeth. Lou Ella Parrott (1898-1975) married H. G. Benson, who operated a lumber yard in Pleasant Hill with his brother, H. L. Benson. H. L. continued the operation there and H. G. moved to Oklahoma where he acquired a chain of 12 lumber yards. To this union two children were born; H. D. and Mary Lou. Harold Parrott (1902-1939) married Gladys Coleman and to this union one son was born, George Robert. Mary Parrott married John Spencer Coleman and a son and two daughters were born; Spencer Parrott Coleman, Mary Ann and Beverly Sue. The Coleman family were very early landowners in the Coleman community. Wilmott married Thelma Jeter, whose folks came from Illinois about 40 years after Jackson and Matilda Parrott had left. To this union one son was born, Wilmott Jack. Juanita Parrott married John W. Moore and moved to Oklahoma. To this union three children were born, Bruce, Jeanette and Wilmott Moore. With the exception of the Bensons and the Moores, the principal occupation of these families was farming and stock raising. Juanita's husband, John Moore made a career with the Army. The Parrott children were raised in the Baptist faith.

George Robert Parrott, son of Harold and Gladys Parrott, married Patricia Ann Jeter, daughter of Delos James and Ruby (Larson) Jeter. JACKSON PARROTT

Jackson Parrott (1825-1898), his wife and five children, lived in Summerset, Ohio. After his wife died he married Matilda Humbarger (1836-1929), one of three daughters of A. Humbarger, who was a gun maker. He also made drums for the Union Army during the Civil War. Jackson, with his new bride and five children, left Summerset, Ohio and came to Putnam Co., Illinois and settled near Magnolia. During his stay there a son was born, George Parrott, the first of his second marriage. Illinois was not what he liked or expected it to be and he was not satisfied there. Through a friend, John Fitzhugh Thornton, he heard about Pleasant Hill, Missouri, and after spending 3 years in Illinois he moved to Pleasant Hill in 1869, to a farm about 2½ miles southwest of there, where he lived for 3 years. While he lived there the Lawrence and Pleasant Hill Railroad was being built. After 3 years on this farm he moved to a small farm on No. 7 Highway in Old Town, which was a fruit farm with orchards, grapes, etc. While living on this fruit farm in Pleasant Hill, a daughter was born to this marriage and she was named Belle Parrott.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Parrott.

Jackson and Matilda decided to try farming again, after 2 years on the fruit farm in Old Town, and bought 37 acres 8 miles west of Pleasant Hill in Sec. 30, Big Creek Twp. The Lawrence and Pleasant Hill Railroad ran through the middle of the 40 reducing the acreage to 37. This was in 1875 and the railroad went by the house within 75 feet and was known as "Bee Hive" Station. Anyone could flag the train down and ride into Pleasant Hill or back and be let off out in the country at "Bee Hive" Station. I might add that this was one mile west of 291 Highway, which was then non-existent, but was the line between the timbered country and open prairie. There were no trees, roads and very few houses out on this prairie when Jackson and his family moved out here. The year they moved to this farm, a horde of grasshoppers, or locust, as they were known in bible days, settled in the fall and laid their eggs. In the spring of 1876, there was an awful scourge of grasshoppers, which ate everything green clear to the ground. The crops could not be planted as they ate them off as fast as they came up and it looked very dark for the settlers. The grasshoppers left on June 28th and 29th and I have heard the old timers say that 3 days after they left you couldn't find a grasshopper. The early settlers then planted their crops but it was late and part of it did not mature and consequently they had a hard winter to endure — the winter of '76. After that, things seemed to go better and in due course of time Jackson's family was growing up.

His eldest daughter, Mary Parrott, married Bud Farmer, a prominent farmer and stockman in the Pleasant Hill vicinity. There were several children born to this union but only one grew to adulthood, James P. Farmer. James married Carrie Riker and 3 children were born to this union; Irene, Verna Gee, and Elizabeth Ann Nielsen. Shortly after this, Emma Parrott, the second girl married Jerry V. Hon and to this union there was Charlie Hon, Alice Gustin, Elsie McDonald and Frank Hon. Lucricia Parrott, of this family, died as a very young woman. Phillip Parrott, the only boy of the first set of children, married Ida Boyer, one of two daughters of Samuel and Malinda (Humbarger) Boyer, who had followed Jackson Parrott and his wife to Pleasant Hill. Phillip Parrott and his wife had two children, Lucy and Laura. Elsie Parrott married Jamison Perkins and moved to Montana, where he staked out his own ranch and became a large rancher. They never had any children, but they became very successful in their part of Montana. There is a wing on one of the hospitals in Helena, Montana, which he endowed after his death. Belle Parrott married David L. Doughat, a conductor of the Pleasant Hill and Lawrence Railroad, and lived in Olathe. There were two children born to this union, Pansy and David. Pansy Lindauer passed away in 1958, leaving 3 girls, Sally Y. Lindauer, Shirley J. McKinney and Betty J. Geppelt. David Doughat never had any children.

(See George Parrott history.)

The following October 16, 1879, Betsy Ann lost her husband, Charles R. Pitcher. A son, Sherman E. Pitcher, her husband and brother are buried at the Burdette Cemetery. Betsy Ann Pitcher was united in marriage with George E. Snider. They had one son, Ray C., who was a railroad man in Idaho. In 1880 she moved to Archie, Missouri. She was a charter member of the Archie Baptist Church. She is buried at Crescent Hill Cemetery, Bates County, between Adrian and Archie, Missouri.

After the marriage of Harriet E. Pitcher (1863-1946) and William Henry Patterson (1856-1899), they immediately established their home on the Patterson farm. They were the parents of 6 children: Mabel Claire married Leslie C. Wright — (daughter — Hazel Margaret Trost, son — Harold L.); Walter Sherman married Grace Alma Wright — (sons — Ernest W., Emmett J., Vernon W.); William Henry III married Ruby Ethel Babylon — (sons, Kenneth D., Kermit E., daughters, Velma Cook, Bonnie B. Mahood); Ernest; Ralph Heins married Marjorie Morriss — (son — Wendell H.); Edith Margaret married Wallace W. Rader — (daughters — Nadine Roberts, Corene Jones, Wander Rader, son — Ervin Rader).

After the death of the husband and father, the young mother was left with the task of rearing her family, which she did nobly and well. Living today are the two daughters, Mabel and Edith, the 14 grandchildren named above, 24 great grandchildren, and 9 great, great grandchildren. A grandson, Wendell Heins Patterson and his mother, Marjorie, live on the original Patterson farm on Eight Mile Creek today. This is one of the Bicentennial Farms of Cass County, Missouri. Many descendants of the Patterson father, who came from Ireland, can be found today in Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Minnesota and Missouri, especially in Jackson, Cass and Nodaway counties in Missouri.

ERNEST BURNS PEARCE

Ernest Burns Pearce was born in Pleasant Hill, Missouri on April 17, 1877, the eighth child and second son of William Edmund and Margaret Burns Pearce. He attended Central School in Pleasant Hill and graduated from the high school in 1895. He then joined his father in the well established hardware business and tin shop located on First Street. Following the father's death, the business was incorporated in 1910 as W. E. Pearce Hardware and Mercantile Company. It was managed by Ernest and his younger brother, Lester, until its sale in 1960 to William P. Gray of Pleasant Hill. The business thrived and expanded in the first half of the twentieth century. It became known throughout Cass County and beyond as Pearce the Hardware Man, a store well stocked with leading brands of merchandise with a reputation for absolutely fair dealing and always the best of customer service.

Ernest Pearce was a devoted church leader, being ordained an elder in the Presbyterian Church as a young man. His service included many years as Clerk of Session, Superintendent of the church school, and teacher of a popular Men's Bible Class, as well as delegate to district, state and national church meetings. After training at Warrensburg Normal, Miss Whitsett taught school in southern Jackson County until Sim Whitsett moved his family in order to homestead land in the Texas panhandle "because Missouri was becoming too crowded". However, the courtship continued by mail, eventually resulting in Minnie's return to Missouri as a bride.

To this union, a son, William Ernest (Ernest Junior) was born on March 4, 1907. Educated in the local schools, he graduated from Pleasant Hill High School in 1925; A.B. 1929, Westminster College, Fulton, Missouri and M.S. in Chemistry 1931, University of Illinois. Ernest died on June 14, 1965, aged 88, in a nursing home in suburban Chicago. Minnie died in Cass County Memorial Hospital on February 7, 1968, just short of age 86. Both are buried in the family plot in Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

DR. GILBERT DORSET PEARCE

The Pearce family has been in residence in Cass County since 1866, when the founder of this branch of the family in America came here from Cass County Illinois.

William Edmund Pearce was born 3 Nov. 1823 in Wimborne, Dorset, England, the son of William Baker and Frances Witt Pearce. The parents of William Edmund had come to Wimborne from Ringwood in Hampshire, where they had been married on July 3, 1820. The father was a brazier, as was his father before him, and instructed his son in this trade.

Dr. Gilbert D. Pearce.

William Edmund came to America in 1844 and, after returning to England for a visit in 1848, came back to the States and settled in Beardstown, Illinois. In 1850 he went to the gold fields of Oregon and California. Returning to Beardstown he went into the milling business and it was here that on 1 July 1856 he married Margaret Ellen Burns, daughter of Thomas Joseph and Eleanor Craig Burns. Four daughters were born to them there, Ellen Frances, born 17 June 1857, married John Mortimer Cheatham; Alida May, born 24 July 1860, married William Leavel Jarrott; Alice Edna, born 22 Oct. 1862, died 24 Oct. 1863 and Jessie Craig, born 27 Oct. 1864, married Horace Dickenson Williams.

In 1866 W. E. Pearce left Beardstown and came to Pleasant Hill where he entered the hardware business with a former resident of Beardstown, Theodore Leland. Mr. Leland left the business in the 1870s.

Five more children were born to William and Margaret Pearce at Pleasant Hill, Effie Grant, born 27 Sept. 1867, died 27 May 1870; Grace Margaret, born 4 Nov. 1871, married Dr. Jesse David King; Gilbert Dorset, born 20 Oct. 1874, married Minnie Huestis Shaw; Ernest Burns, born 17 April 1877, married Minnie May Whitsett and Lester Edmund, born 9 July 1879, married Mrs. Callie (Holland) Tavis.

The three sons of W. E. Pearce followed their father in the hardware business, but only Ernest and Lester remained, continuing as Pearce Hardware Company until 1960. Gilbert attended dental school at Washington University in St. Louis, and after graduation returned to Pleasant Hill to establish a dental office. He continued to practice his profession there until his retirement in 1962.

Gilbert Dorset Pearce and Minnie Huestis Shaw were married in Pleasant Hill on Dec. 31, 1902 at the home of her parents. Her mother married secondly Christopher Morgan Edward Shaw, whose surname Minnie adopted. Minnie was born 26 September 1876 at Emporia, Kansas. The Shaw family came to Pleasant Hill from Sedalia, Missouri about 1884. Before her marriage Minnie attended State Normal School at Warrensburg and was a teacher in both Cass and Jackson County schools. She was an accomplished musician and during the 1920s and 30s conducted a large class of piano students. She was pianist and organist for the Methodist Church from the time she was eight years old until illness forced her retirement in 1948, at which time she was named organist emeritus of the church.

Gilbert and Minnie Pearce had one daughter, Marjorie Ellen, born 11 January 1905 at Pleasant Hill. She attended the public schools of that city and Hardin College at Mexico, Missouri, and on Dec. 25, 1926 was united in marriage with John Thornton Buckner. To them was born a son, John Richard Pearce Buckner. Dr. and Mrs. Pearce built their home on South Randolph street next door to the home built by his father in 1866. These two houses continued to be occupied by Pearce families until 1974 when the Gilbert Pearce home was sold. The original family home is still occupied by a daughter of Lester Pearce, Grace Eleanor, who married Parker Dinges.

HARRY ROBERT PEARSON

Harry Robert Pearson was born near Harrisonville, Mo. on Aug. 17, 1876, son of Henry Charles and Margaret Burke Pearson. He received his education in the Harrisonville Public Schools, later reading law in the office of Mr. W. D. Summers. In 1897 he and Mr. Ed Deane purchased the grocery store of Brous Brothers on the N. side of the square, the firm becoming Deane and Pearson. The partnership lasted until 1899 when Mr. Pearson bought his partner's interest. He was Harrisonville's City Clerk when he and Mr. Deane bought the store and continued as City Clerk until 1899 when he became the sole owner of the store. His business sagacity was evident from the outset of his business career. He worked in the store from early in the morning until late in the evening, having but one clerk and a delivery man. This schedule was maintained a decade.

On Apr. 20, 1898 Harry Robert Pearson and Mary Emma Christopher were married at the home of the bride by the Rev. W. A. Fite, then pastor of the Harrisonville Christian Church. Mrs. Pearson was the daughter of William C. and Mary Warren Christopher, he being a well known merchant in Harrisonville for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson had one son, Harry R. Pearson II, who practically "grew up" in his father's store. On Jan. 11, 1925, Mr. Pearson took his son into full partnership as he had been working in the store during his school days and summer vacations and after graduating in 1920 from the Harrisonville High School. Shortly after "young Harry" came into the business father and son began a program of remodeling and the store was kept in step with the times. It was sometimes spoken of as the "Wolferman Store" between Kansas City and Joplin.

Harry Robert Pearson died in his home at 1204 Pine St., Harrisonville, Apr. 28, 1944, age 67 years, after he had operated the store for about 47 years. Until 1955 Harry Pearson II continued to operate the store then sold it, having been in the same location on the square occupied by the Pearsons for 57 years. At that time he and his son H. R. Pearson III formed a realty company. Mrs. Harry Robert Pearson died Oct. 10, 1954, age 84 years, at the Harrisonville Memorial Hospital, having been in ill health many months. Besides the great love for her family she derived her greatest pleasure in remembering her many friends. She especially loved the beautiful things of life and thus found expression in creating things with her hands — making fancy work and painting china. Her beautiful sense of color was shown in her work. She was much interested in her hometown's welfare, always wanting to do her part in all things. She took pride in Harrisonville's advancement.

HARRY ROBERT PEARSON II

Harry Robert Pearson II was born in Harrisonville, Mo., Aug. 2, 1901, son of Harry Robert and Mary Emma Christopher Pearson. He received his basic education in the Harrisonville schools and graduated with the high school class of 1920. He practically grew up in his father's grocery store on the N. side of the square, in which his father made him a full time partner Mar. 1925. He continued to operate the store after his father's death and until 1955 when he sold it and he and his son, Harry R. Pearson III, formed a real estate company, having extensive holdings in Harrisonville, Kansas City, Mo., Kansas City North and Grandview, Mo. and Topeka, Kans., a firm still in existence and active.

Harry R. Pearson II and Mary Ruth Burney, daughter of Judge and Mrs. W. L. Burney, formerly of Harrisonville and Clinton, Mo., were married Oct. 11, 1925 at the home of her parents in Osceola, Mo. They established their home in Harrisonville, where, on Oct. 11, 1975, in their home at 1204 Pine St., their son and his wife were hosts for the celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. They had one son, Harry Robert Pearson III, born Feb. 15, 1928, Harrisonville, Mo.

Harry R. Pearson II has always taken an active part in the betterment and expansion of his home town. He has been president of the Harrisonville Kiwanis Club and of the Harrisonville Memorial Hospital. He was chairman of the Harrisonville Centennial, planning it from a sick bed in the hospital, president of the Harrisonville High School Alumni Association, president of the Harrisonville Development Corporation, member of the Board of Public Works and a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson and their son are communicants of St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Harrisonville. In 1966 Mr. and Mrs. Pearson were awarded the Bishops Cross by the Rt. Rev. Edward R. Welles, bishop of the diocese of West Mo., for their work in the parish and the diocese. Mrs. Pearson was corresponding secretary to the Women's Auxiliary of the diocese for 6 years. She was also given an award by her Rector, the Rev. Brian Packer, for over 30 years of service as head of the Alter Guild in St. Peter's Church. Harry R. Pearson III was the first acolyte to serve in St. Peter's Church, and was elected to the Vestry at the early age of 21 years. Harry R. Pearson II has often been a member of the Vestry. Mrs. Pearson has always been active in the different "drives" for the betterment of Harrisonville. She was chairman of the Harrisonville Fiesta, a national good-will project between the U.S. and South America, is a member and past president of the Coterie literary club, member and past president of Chapter G.R., P.E.O. and of the Harrisonville Progress Club, a federated club, is a member of the Mary Sibley Chapter D.A.R., a life member of the Cass County Historical Society and of St. Lukes Hospital Auxiliary in Kansas City, Mo.

Harry Robert Pearson III received his elementary education in the Harrisonville public schools, graduating with the class of 1946. He attended William Jewell College and Missouri University, and also the University of Arizona at Tucson. Having graduated from High School just as the Korean War ended, H. R. Pearson III enlisted in the Naval Air Service, spending one week each month receiving his training at the Naval Air Base, Olathe, Kans. He was honorably discharged 1956. On June 21, 1975 he and Mrs. Loretta Ferguson were married in Eureka Springs, Ark., by the Rev. H. L. Foland, former rector of St. Peter's Church.

HENRY CHARLES PEARSON

Henry Charles Pearson, son of Robert D. and Jane Lockhart Belcher Pearson, and Margaret Burke were married in 1874 in Harrisonville, Mo. After a few years of farming NW of Harrisonville and near Medicine Lodge, Kans., they moved to Eldorado Springs, Mo. on account of the young husband's health, where he engaged in the harness business. One daughter and four sons blessed this union, Harry R., Jessie, Fred J., and Charles J. Mr. Pearson died in Oct. 1886, and the young mother and her children came to Harrisonville to live in her mother's house at 500 S. Independence St.

Margaret Burke Pearson was the daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Walker Burke and was born Jan. 4, 1856 on the family homestead just S. of Harrisonville. Her parents were natives of England. Her father was a botanist and a gardener in the famous Covent Gardens. He knew how to make the virgin soil of his adopted country produce and his farm home was soon marked for its beautiful gardens. In this frontier home Margaret Burke received her education and training that marked her a capable, courageous, God-fearing gentlewoman. She was reared in the religious faith and was a communicant of the Episcopal Church from June 6, 1872, and continued faithful and zealous in the cause of humanity. Her days were spent in service and her quiet goodness and gracious personality were manifest to everyone whose life she touched and gave them a vision of her hope and faith. She loved her fellowmen. She never said unkind things about anyone, and her daily life was like a benediction to those who loved and knew her best. Many know of the heart's high courage and God's great mercy because of her. She was faithful to her church in Harrisonville and cared for the Altar in St. Peter's Episcopal Church for many years. It was a dedicated service and the weather was never too hot or too cold for her to walk to its services.

Her only daughter, Jessie Pearson Stair, died Mar. 18, 1928, leaving daughters their grandmother cared for as if her own. Her three sons, Harry R. Pearson of Harrisonville, Fred J. Pearson of Salina, Kans., and Charles H. Pearson of Wichita, Kans., all contributed much to their communities and fellowmen due to their mother's influence. To her great delight her son Harry R. always dined at her house on Wednesdays and others at her table accused her of that day having the best menu. She spoiled her greatgrandchildren the same way, always having their favorite menu when they dined with her.

She would pass off the accusation with a smile, never commenting.

Mrs. Pearson died in August 1938. The service was held in St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Harrisonville, by the Rev. Richard L. Harbour.

JOHN PORTER

John Porter and Martha Gibson were married in 1813 in Guernsey County, Ohio. They owned land in the Military District which was sold by the government. Early County records show that John was a proprietor, a Justice of the Peace and a miller.

Martha Gibson's parents, William and Nancy Larison Gibson had moved to Ohio from Washington Co., Pa., and William's parents had come from Ireland. In 1806 William and Nancy Gibson and six of their children lived in Newellstown, Belmont County, Ohio, but the following year they moved further west into what is now Guernsey County (then Muskingum) and selected 320 acres of land in the Military District. The family carried their goods on pack horses and drove their cattle and sheep from Newellstown to Cambridge. There they obtained two boats and lashed them together, loaded them with their household goods and floated them downstream to the site of their future home. The animals were taken through the woods near the creek because there was not even a trail through the forest to the homesite.

Of the twelve Gibson children one died in infancy. The others were John, Martha, Henry, James, George, Elizabeth, Mary Lucinda, Abel, Thomas and Hiram. In 1817, when John, the oldest, married, William Gibson gave him 60 acres of land across the creek. In 1828 John laid out a town on that site which he named Liberty. The name was changed about 1850 to Kimbolten, the name of a town in England, and today boasts they are the only town of the name in the United States.

ABSALOM AND CALVIN POWELL

When Missouri was being settled, several of the Powell brothers and their families came and homesteaded in various sections of the State. Two of these brothers were Absalom and Calvin Powell. Absalom settled near Lone Jack or Lee's Summit. Calvin homesteaded in the Peculiar neighborhood. Others settled farther south. Absalom wrote his parents asking them to come to Missouri, and he would give them 160 acres of his land. The parents loaded their possessions in a covered wagon and started to Missouri. Absalom died before they reached Missouri and the father died of cholera on the way. When Mother Powell reached Missouri she had no place to go, so Calvin said he would give her 85 acres of his land if she would come to Peculiar. They built a log house for her and she and the younger children lived there until she died.

When Calvin Powell died his property was sold to Drury Laffoon. Drury Laffoon's daughter, Saleta, had married James M. Powell and they lived in Riley County, Kansas, near Manhattan. "A glimpse of my life memories through the years. My parents, William Isaac Powell and Fannie Elizabeth Phillips were born in Cass County, Mo. I had one sister, Iona and one brother, Glenn. I was born at Cummingsville, Kansas. When I was one year old, we came back to Mo. where we always made our home. My school days through the eighth grade were the Burney School or known as the Fairview School, which was about a hundred yards from our home. My sister and I went home to lunch every day at noon.

At country school we had every grade from the primary to the eighth. I joined the West Union Baptist Church when I was 14 years old, the church was about five miles away, we attended regularly, driving a team of horses hitched to a carriage. I played the pedaled organ for church when I was 13. We only had two years of high school then at Peculiar, so when I was 17 I was at Warrensburg College for one summer term, studying teacher training, also had piano at the conservatory before I came home from school. In 1909 Wash and I were married at my home at high noon, September 1st. We left that P.M. for Kansas City, Mo., my first trip to Kansas City. We were with Wash's folks the next year on the farm. After that we were on our own. In 1914 I moved my church membership from the West Union to the Freeman Baptist Church. I played piano for the male quartet, also was church pianist for 31 years, was O.E.S. organist 30 years. We farmed for about 30 years, Wash was a good farmer and stockman, he had a prize winning dapple gray team of mares, had driving team named Starlight and Midnight, had riding horses. During those years Lila Pearl was born on October 5th, 1915 at the Suddarth homeplace on the farm. J. W. was born July 10, 1918 on the John Colburn farm near Freeman. The children finished high school at Freeman, Lila Pearl married Ray Bourland at seventeen. J. W. married Dorothy Burgoon in 1938. I have three grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Wash passed away at his home in 1953. In 1944 J. W. entered the service, he was gone two years. In 1945 we bought our home in Freeman. Wash quit farming. He then worked for Stanolind Oil Co. where he had his heart attack. J. W. has retired from the Oil Co., he is now at Springfield, Mo. in business."

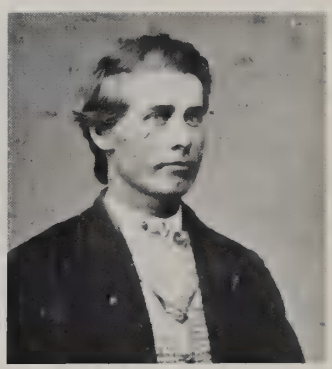
RUSSIA HENRY (DUDLEY) PRATER

May I tell you about a remarkable lady, Russia Henry Prater, who at her death in 1954 had eighty-three living descendants. Many of her descendants still reside in Cass County.

Russia was able to trace her lineage nine generations in this country. She was born in Fleming County Kentucky Oct. 9, 1846, the daughter of Henry Bruce Dudley and Elizabeth America Moore. Her early life was affected by the death of her father in Jalapa, Mexico (1847) where he had gone with Captain Cox as a volunteer in the Mexican War. Her mother, Elizabeth America, died at an early age, Jan. 1, 1859 leaving Russia in the care of her maternal grandparents, John H. and Suzan Cord Moore. Tragedy struck again when her grandfather died after spending some time in a northern prison during the Civil War.

Russia taught one year in an elementary school in Flemingsburg, Ky. at the age of seventeen. It was while she was teaching that a young soldier returning from the southern army saw her and said to himself, "I'm going to marry that little widow." Grandmother was wearing mourning for her grandfather. The soldier was William Wallace Prater, who, in 1864, became her husband. In about 1866 they migrated to Cass County living about one mile east of Pleasant Hill. He died in 1888 leaving her with a family to raise.



Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Prater.

She often told us of her ancestry, but we thought little of it until my sister Blanche Goodman Jarvis and myself decided to visit our ancestral past. What a surprise we were to have. We visited Pleasant Hill to get as many facts as possible. My aunts, Blanche Vaughn and Pearl Robertson, my uncles, Wallace and Virgil Walker and my paternal cousin, Etta Mae Hon, were able to give us many clues.

First we visited the Flemingsburg, Ky. courthouse. There we found records of our ancestor, Joseph Dudley, the father of Henry Bruce Dudley. Joseph was born July 8, 1797 in Fleming Co., Ky. He married Harriet Hackley Bruce Feb. 6, 1826. He died Apr. 1, 1864. Harriet did not die until Apr. 24, 1883 at the age of 78.

Joseph Dudley's parents were Wm. Dudley, Sr., born Feb. 10, 1756 in England, who married Elizabeth Hite Taylor in 1778. He was an American Revolutionary soldier and the D.A.R. in Flemingsburg is named in his honor. Elizabeth was born in 1762 in Old Town Hampshire Co., Va. She died in 1833. Both are buried Flemingsburg, Kentucky.

Wm. and Elizabeth left Va. just before their fifth child was born. They arrived in 1792 while Kentucky was still a wilderness. They lived within a fort and later built the sixth cabin outside the stockade.

These are our ancestors, many of their descendants live in Cass Co.: Louis Du Bois, 1626-1695, married 1655 Catherine Blanchen born 1629, Artois, France, died 1713, Kingston, N.Y., French Huguenots who arrived in this country 1660 seeking religious freedom; their daughter, Sara Du Bois, 1662-1726, married 1682 Joost Jansen Van Meteren, 1656-1706, who came with his father from Holland 1662; their daughter, Rebecca Van Meter, 1686-1755, married 1704 Cornelius Elt-ing, 1681-1754; their daughter Sara Elting, born 1715 married 1737 Col. John Hite, 1710-1792, son of Joost and Anna Marie (Du Bois) Hite. Col. John Hite was an officer of the Va. Colonial Troops, built the first brick house, 1787, west of the Blue Ridge Mountains; their daughter Anna Marie Hite, 1728-1833, married 1758 Simon Taylor, 1728-1786, lived near Romney, W. Va.; their daughter, Elizabeth Hite Taylor married William Dudley Sr.; their son Joseph Dudley married Harriet Hackley Bruce; their son Henry Bruce Dudley married Elizabeth America Moore; their daughter Russia Henry Dudley married 1864 William Wallace Prater, both buried in the Pleasant Hill Cemetery. Seven of their eleven children survived Wallace and six survived Russia; their daughter Mary Josephine Prater, 1872-1954, married 1889 Charles Jasper Walker whose ancestry can be traced to Quakers in New Kent Co., Va. in the late 17th century and on back to Scotland as early as 1296; their daughter Rida Jane Walker born 1894 married 1912, Cass Co., Mo., Lewis Goodman, now live in Kilgore, Tex.; their daughter Coleman Josephine Goodman born 1913, Cass Co., married 1932 Conrad B. Akin, 1905-1964, lives Houston, Tex.

JAMES R. PREWITT

The Prewitt family had its origin in both England and France. The Michael Prewitt line came from France, where the French Huguenots came to Manakintowne, Virginia in 1699 and 1700. The J. R. Prewitt family are descendants of this line.

James Robertson Prewitt was born Sept. 24, 1876 near Independence, Missouri. He was employed at a young age at Sheffield Bolt & Nut Works, Sugar Creek, Mo. On April 21, 1898 he married Mary Samantha Blake, who was born Oct. 18, 1875 in Harlan, Iowa. They lived in Independence and he continued with Sheffield.

The Prewitt family moved to Pleasant Hill, Missouri in March, 1912 to a small acreage north of town, at 1105 N. Campbell St., J. R. commuted by train weekly to Independence to his work at Sheffield, for a while. Then he opened a garage and machine shop in the old Hon Building at Lake and Cedar. In 1916 he moved his business to lower First Street in the Chas. Reader Building, which had housed the Reader Electric plant, which furnished power for the city. He later acquired an adjoining building from Guy Ball who had a laundry. Some years later he purchased some open lots from Benson Lumber Company, where he built a new building about 1947. He also acquired a two story brick building on the corner at 201 First Street and the building adjoining. In 1928 J. R. converted his business to full machine shop operation, and started manufacturing the Belsaw Sawmill for Belsaw Machinery Company of Kansas City, Missouri, which was owned by Mr. E. S. Field and his son, E. Stan Field, Jr. The belsaw was the invention of a local farmer, Mr. John Bell. The Belsaw line of equipment was expanded later to include planers, edgers, gang saws, molders, etc.

In 1938 the Prewitt family moved to their 422 N. Lake Street residence.

J. R. was on the Pleasant Hill City Council beginning in 1935, for six years, and then was elected mayor of the city for two consecutive terms. During this period the Pleasant Hill Municipal Power and Light plant was built, operating with a board of public works. A rock quarry west of town was reopened, and after completely rebuilding the rock crusher, it furnished rock for twenty-seven miles of roads around town and north of town to the county line. During his years as mayor the city lake was built, after many difficulties and delays. And on August 31, 1947 the city had water service from the new lake. This was completed during his last year as mayor.

On Jan. 1, 1946, J. R. incorporated his business as J. R. Prewitt & Sons, Inc. As a family owned corporation, all seven sons: Harry, Jim, Byron, Sidney, Marion, Bert and Ralph were active in the business, also Hugh Wakeman, the grandson they had raised, and one daughter, Mamie Snow, several sons-in-law, several grandsons and granddaughters. J. R.'s brother, Theo. H. Prewitt worked there about sixteen years, until his death in 1961.

In addition to the belsaw line of machinery, other machinery items were designed and manufactured: small garden tractors, concrete mixers, wagon unloaders, post-hole diggers, boat anchors, foundry castings, and extensive machine work. The Prewitts designed the horizontal earth auger, which bores horizontally under streets, highways, roadways, railways, etc., without disturbing the roadbed or flow of traffic. By 1949-1950 it had become a large volume item.

J. R. Prewitt died at his home on November 5, 1951. Mary S. Prewitt died at St. Luke's Hospital, K. C., Mo. on July 29, 1958.

The plant continued under Prewitt management until 1972, when J. R. Prewitt & Sons, Inc. was sold to Verle Rice and Harvey C. Brown, who now operate it.

Fairview Farm has been the home of the Clarence Brooke Price family since January of 1877. Clarence Brooke Price, better known as C. B., is the great grandson of Silas and Mary Ellen Brooke Price, pioneers of this community. He is the youngest son of C. Brooke and Nanna Asbury Price. C. Brooke's parents were Clarence Brooke and Albina Diana Stephens Price, who were married in Freeman, Missouri on October 23, 1873. They celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary in 1923, and were married 59 years when he died in 1932. She passed away in 1934.

According to C. Brooke Price, a wagon train passing through the farm was struck with diphtheria. Approximately 25 to 30 persons died and were buried in a mass grave in the south pasture of the farm. A lone grave marker is still there for Mary Brooks and several unmarked stones for these people.

Fair View Farm still has an abundance of redbud, walnut, hickory and many other trees. Dutchman Breeches, Jack-in-the-pulpit, violets, columbine, gooseberries, blackberries and grapes are a few of the wild flowers and shrubs still growing there. Deer again roam the woods and fields as they did many years ago.

CORNELIUS QUICK

Elizabeth and Clara Little, wives of George B. and Clarence Ruckel, were the daughters of Harriet Quick Little, whose parents were Cornelius and Dosha Page Quick, an early Cass County family. Harriet (Quick) Little (1853-1925) was born in Cass County southeast of the former site of the Dover rural school. The nearest town being Grant and farther south was Wadesburg. Only cemeteries now remain where these towns were. Even though there were no schools during her early life, due to the Civil War, her father's instruction formed a foundation for her later interest in education. She attended school at every opportunity, including one term taught by her future husband, John Little, Baird, Ohio. Harriet Quick was enrolled in the first term of the old Warrensburg Normal in 1871. She taught several terms of school before her marriage in 1873. All five daughters of John and Harriet Quick received most of their education at the Warrensburg Normal. Four of them taught school and the other taught music.

Harriet Quick Little kept a diary for many years. The following are notes selected from records kept by her and her descendants which concern her family during the Civil War while living in Cass County. "In 1860, the first cook stove was bought. Hitherto, cooking had been done in the fire place and food baked in a skillet. During the spring of 1861, most schools ceased, but children who did go to school played a popular game, 'Secession and Union'. Harriet Quick's 'Union' side was in the minority. The General Store at Grant (Lotspeiches) was a communication center for the area and the place where the people congregated to discuss the war.

In 1861 and 62 little farming was done and raids on farm homes to obtain food, horses and household valuables were frequent. As Prices' Army went south for the winter, it passed one and one-fourth miles west of the Quick home. Bands left the regular lines and nearly every home was looted. From the Quick home such things as pins, needles, scissors, jewelry and food were taken. The family succeeded in keeping shoes, silver and money hidden. On one occasion Cornelius Quick was ordered by bushwhackers to go to Settles' Mill on Grand River the next day or be killed. He escaped during the dark, foggy night. When he returned home, he took his money from the hiding place, his wife sewed it into his clothing and he left for 'Wyandotte' to join the militia. The firing during the Battle of Lone Jack was plainly heard at the Quick homestead.

1863 brought Order No. 11, and the Quick family moved ¾ mile south and ¼ mile east into Henry County. Also mentioned in the diary was a big prairie fire (fall of 1863), which came from Grand River threatening their cotton crop. During the night it came from the northwest and they had to work through the night to save the crop."

RICE-WILLIS

In the early 18th century, iron deposits were discovered in Virginia. In 1714, Peter Hitt and his wife Marie Liesbeth were among the iron workers and families who came to America to work in the mines. They settled 9 miles south of Warrenton, Va. in Germantown, Prince William County. It is now called Fauquier County.

On the second day of June, 1724, Peter Hitt took oath that he came into the colony to dwell in 1714 with his wife, where upon a certificate was ordered to be granted them of right to take up 100 acres of land.

Their son Peter married Sarah James (said to be ancestor to Frank and Jesse James). They had a daughter called Elizabeth who married John Arnold.

Elizabeth and John migrated to Kentucky in August 1781 with 180 others. Their first lengthy stop was at Bryant's Station. They were there during the time of siege in 1782. The women and children helped the men of the fort to deceive the Indians and British into thinking they were unprepared for the attack planned by the British. They later moved to Craigs Fort where John owned a great deal of land. Their daughter, Nancy Arnold, married William Rice (son of Richard Rice and Polly Cave Rice) and they lived for a time on the border of Jessamine and Woodford Counties, Kentucky. They moved to Clay County, Missouri in 1834. William Rice died August 1877 in the pulpit at Clear Creek Church at Kearney, Missouri while using the text "Oh, death where is thy sting?" Following family tradition, their son John Cave Rice married a McGee (Elizabeth). Their son, Eugene and wife Emma Cox Rice owned and farmed what is now the Trimble Wild Life Reserve in Clinton County. They had 13 children. The youngest, Lawson, married Susan M. Martin of Edgerton, Missouri and are the parents of Mrs. Harry H. Willis of Harrisonville. Shirley and Harry moved to Harrisonville in October 1970. Liking the area, Harry retired from the USAF and a home was built. Their daughters, Gwen and Susan, are graduates of Harrisonville High School and now married and also make their homes in Cass County. Charles, a son, is still in high school at H.H.S.

It is not known whether David Rice Atchison is a cousin, nephew or grandson of Richard Rice but he is spoken of as a distant cousin of John C. Rice and joked about as having been president of the United States for one day and slept thru most of his term in office.

JOHN VOLVIA RIFFLE

The father of John Volvia Riffle, Byron Sylvester Riffle, was born in Fountain County, Newton, Indiana. In 1882 he moved with his wife, Melissa, and three sons, Ira, Lou and Ivan to Malvern, Iowa, where he engaged in grain and livestock farming. John and his brother, Tom, were born on this farm. In 1903 Byron Sylvester Riffle and his family moved to Cass County, Missouri, to a farm four miles northeast of Pleasant Hill. The move from Iowa was by horse drawn wagons in severe winter weather and took six days. Household goods and farm machinery were shipped by rail and unloaded at Pleasant Hill. The move from Iowa to Missouri was made so Mr. Riffle could invest in more farm land and his sons could continue in their farming operation, knowing that Cass County was bountifully blessed with nature's gift of ideal land for cultivation, luxuriant grasses for their livestock and adequate water and wood supply.

John V. Riffle attended Pleasant Hill High School and on Dec. 31, 1912, was united in marriage with Barbara Elizabeth Sulser at the Methodist Church parsonage in Pleasant Hill, both belonging to the Methodist Church all of their lifetime. Barbara Riffle's father and mother, William and Elizabeth Sulser, were born in Mauer, Germany, near Heidelberg, and came to America in 1869. The Riffle and Sulser families have been land owners in Cass County since 1874.

John and Barbara Riffle started farming one-half mile south of Pleasant Hill along the Jefferson Highway, now Missouri Highway #7. Their farm lies where the Great and Little Osage Indians roamed, near Big Creek. Their farming operation in 1912 included a large herd of registered Angus cattle, Chester White hogs, Percheron horses, White Leghorn chickens and Holstein dairy cows. Grain and hay crops were raised. They retired on the farm they built, which is recognized as one of the best in Cass County.

John Riffle spent over 25 years as a 4-H leader and advisor in Cass County. On Feb. 26, 1953, the Cass County Farm Bureau presented Mr. Riffle a diamond pin recognizing over 20 years of 4-H leadership, and later a ruby pin was presented him for 25 years as a 4-H leader. John and Barbara Riffle celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on Dec. 31, 1972. Representative Ed Bohl introduced a resolution in the Missouri House of Representatives recognizing their long years of marriage. ROMEY ROBERT ROOKS

Romey and Addie Rooks.

Romey Robert Rooks (born Ind. 22 Dec. 1865, died 15 Dec. 1942), together with his father, John Rooks (born Ky. 1814, died 1906) and three brothers, Fred, Cammie and Ray, came to Harrisonville by covered wagon around 1893 from Terre Haute, Indiana. Romey married Addie Smith (born 28 July 1879, died 14 Nov. 1954) and settled on North Lexington St. at the edge of what is known as Luna Lake. In fact, he, with horses and slip, excavated the lake under contract from John Davis. Romey was a house mover and heavy machinery erector and there still is evidence of his work around Harrisonville. For example, he installed the clock in the cupola on the Court House; the large columns on the front of the Christian Church, quite an undertaking in those days.

One of the favorite stories about Romey by Frank Runnenburger: One Halloween Romey and a local veterinarian hoisted a stuffed bull to the top of the Court House. Can you imagine the amazement of the local people the next morning on seeing that bull standing up there? The news soon spread throughout the county and people drove from miles around to see the sight. Romey would not own up to being the culprit and refused to take it down. The spring rains came and the formaldehyde started oozing out, running down the gutters and contaminated the well. Finally the county board had someone go up on the roof and push the carcass over the side.

Romey and wife lived out the rest of their lives at the North Lexington address. They had three daughters, Helen (Cash), Julia died by drowning when eleven months old, and Blanche (Stevens).

Blanche Rooks (Stevens), born Harrisonville, Missouri, daughter of Romey Robert and Addie (Smith) Rooks, attended the Harrisonville school system, graduating with the class of 1919. Attended and graduated from Central Business College, Kansas City. Worked two years as secretary for the Western Bridge Co., then for Judge Andrew Whitsitt, and for Farm Bureau until 15 June 1926. She was married on 15 Aug. 1926 to William Smith Stevens (born 28 July 1903, died 1 Aug. 1960), of Green Forest, Ark. They were married at Sun Forest, Wisconsin, and made their home at Lake Beulah, East Troy, Wisconsin. They had two children: William Rooks Stevens (born 2 Jan. 1930) married Marilyn Peterson 23 April 1955. They have three children: Kristen, Carl and Elizabeth. They make their home at Rockford, Michigan. Esther Stevens Goldberg (born 22 Dec. 1931) married Dr. Eugene Goldberg of Chicago on 19 June 1955. They have two sons: Raymond and Adam. Their home is Castro Valley, California.

LAWRENCE ROSIER

To give the history of the Lawrence William and Abbie Jane McNeil-Rosier family one must step briefly across the line from Cass County into Bates County. Lawrence's father, George Rosier, owned a farm a few miles over the line in Bates County. Abbie's father, James McNeil, was also a Bates County farmer. Both families located in Missouri before the Civil War.

During the War, when the jayhawkers and bushwhackers were stealing and marauding along the Missouri-Kansas line, the McNeils left Missouri, as it was unsafe to remain. They traveled by wagon to Otterville, Missouri where James had a brother, Peter McNeil. They then went by rail to Pennsylvania, returning to Bates County after the War ended.

The George Rosier family returned to Iowa during the War and they, too, came back to Missouri after it ended.

Time went by and Lawrence and Abbie became sweethearts. One Sunday afternoon, September 26, 1875, they rode on horseback several miles to "Preacher Lacy's" house, near Freeman. Here they were married and the next spring they moved to the two-room log cabin on their farm three-fourths of a mile west of Everett.

A two-story house was later built which burned to the ground in the very cold, hard month of January, 1905. The present house was completed by May but the family never recovered financially from the loss and had to give up the farm. They moved to Las Animas, Colorado in 1910 and on to Maxwell, New Mexico in 1914.

The Rosiers lived in Cass County thirty-two years.

Elsie (1877-1954) married John George in 1903. Cass County was her home all of her life except the last nine months, spent in the home of her son, F. Rosier George, in Texas.

Edna (1883-1970) married Clyde Walley in 1906. The Walleys were another pre-Civil War Bates County family. Mrs. Lee Smith, of Drexel, is the only one of Edna's eleven children now living in Cass County.

Fred (1889-1951) was a machine gunner in W.W.I. Fred married Emma Van Houten in 1928. At the time of his death he was working in the Federal Customs Office in El Paso, Texas.

Booker (1891-1930) never married. He remained on the farm working with his parents. The three of them are buried in the little cemetery at Maxwell, New Mexico.

Alice (1893-) taught three years and then married Dr. M. T. McDowell of Maxwell where they lived until Dr. McDowell's death in 1948. She now resides in Las Cruces, New Mexico. Her four children all live in New Mexico.

Alda (1896-) lives in Las Vegas, New Mexico, where she began teaching in 1925. After retirement she married Earl L. Robinson, who died in 1969.

Alice and Alda's teaching careers began in Cass County. Alice taught her first year in the Amarugia School and Alda's first teaching experience was in the Everett School.

FRANK ROTH

Frank Roth, son of Peter and Miriam Neuenschwander Roth, was born near Wheatland, Missouri on September 14, 1889. His paternal grandparents were the Chris Roth family from Germany. The Neuenschwanders came from Switzerland in 1853.

When he was eighteen Frank came to work on farms in Cass County. On November 22, 1908 Frank was baptized with twenty-nine others in Clearfork Stream near Sycamore Grove Mennonite Church by J. J. Hartzler.

On Thanksgiving Day of 1910 Frank and Emma Plank, daughter of Moses and Fanny Plank, were married. They first lived at the Plank Farm. It was there Celesta (Mrs. Charles Sperry of Independence, Missouri) was born March 9, 1913, and Harold was born December 10, 1915.

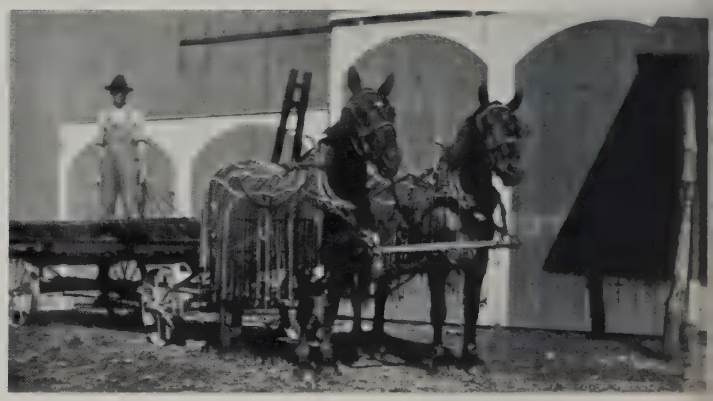
The Roths rented Aaron King's farm in 1918, and September 11, 1919 Eva Ruth (now of Independence, Missouri) was born. Celesta and Harold began their education at Clearfork School.

The present Frank Roth farm, located eight miles east of Harrisonville on #2 Highway, was bought in 1922. Neighbors helped move thirty-two wagon loads and livestock to the Roth's new home. Then the Roth children attended Smith School where Frank served on the school board twenty years.

In 1939 Frank and Harold rented the adjoining "Yoder" Farm, and the Roth Partnership began. Harold moved there after his marriage to Mildred Allinson, a rural teacher. In 1944 the farm was purchased.

Emma Roth died June 28, 1953. Frank farmed until his retirement in 1957, but was always ready to help during busy times.

Children of the Harold Roth family were: Dwight, born October 26, 1941; Leonard, born September 21, 1943; Shirley (now Mrs. Thomas Schrock), born December 5, 1949; and Carol, born August 7, 1958. The boys went to Smith Rural School. Later the few pupils were transported to #9 School. After consolidation, the girls attended school at East Lynne. All graduated from Harrisonville High. Leonard received a degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Mo. at Rolla. Shirley attended Missouri University at Columbia. Carol has been accepted in the University of Missouri School of Medicine at Kansas City.



Frank Roth going for a load of hay.

Dwight was a state FFA officer and received the state and American Farmer degrees. He joined the farm operation in 1960, and the Roth Partnership was again in existence.

1962 was the year of Roth weddings! Dwight and Wanda Andrews were married in July and moved into their new home on the "Dave Hershberger" farm which joined the other family farms. Leonard married Joan Payne in July, also. The wedding of Frank to Nellie Hartzler was in December. They built a home on Frank's farm, and there he enjoys his lawn and garden in summer and wood-working projects during winter.

4-H has been a favorite project of the family. They have been members of the Eight Mile club many years. They also enjoy active membership in the Harrisonville Christian Church. Harold was a charter member of the Cass County Livestock association and has memberships in the Missouri and National Cattlemen's organizations. In 1966 he received the "Showme Stockman Award". In 1970 he was presented the cattlemen's "Booster Award".

Dedication to farming is reflected in the partnership's participation in the Cass County Balanced Farming Program. In 1963 the Roths were the Missouri Farm Family of the Year at the American Royal.

Harold and Mildred Roth are charter members of the East Lynne Chamber of Commerce and Mildred is a charter member of her local extension club and the Elco Garden Club.

They enjoy traveling, entertaining foreign students, and their six grandsons.

Frank and Nellie still attend the Sycamore Grove Mennonite Church where he was trustee nine years. One of his joys is seeing the farming operation about him.

CLARENCE H. RUCKEL

Clarence H. Ruckel, son of George W. and Ellen (Smith) Ruckel, was born in 1878 and married Clara B. Little, a sister of the wife of his brother, George B. Ruckel. They established a home on an 160 acre farm one mile west of his parental home. Four daughters were born to them, Clara (1907), Harriett (1909), Mary Louise (1912) and Rachel (1921).

Clara Ruckel taught school ten years in Cass county and upon receiving a degree in Home Economics from Warrensburg, taught at Richmond, Missouri. During this time she married J. Carney Ogg, a farmer. After the death of her husband, she joined the University of Missouri Extension Service. After serving eighteen years, Clara retired in Harrisonville, Missouri. Among her travels were trips to Canada, Alaska, Mexico, Jamaica and Hawaii.

Harriett Ruckel was married to Harold W. Jenkins (Cass County) in 1932, after teaching three years. They bought a farm east of Garden City. She was awarded a degree from Warrensburg and has taught continuously since the death of her husband in 1957. She bought a home in Garden City in 1966. Their son, Jerrold W. their three children, Brian (1963), Jana Rae (1965) and Timothy (1971), live in the new home they built in 1972 on the parental farm. Iona taught at Garden City prior to her marriage. Jerry is in construction and farms.

Mary Ruckel married John C. Koch, of Holden, Missouri, in 1932 and they established a home three-fourths mile from the present Koch farm, which was the homeplace of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Ruckel. Their children are John Ruckel (J.R.) (1933) and Mary Carol (1941). J.R. married Lela Parris, Garden City, in 1958 and lives in a home they built in 1968 just west of Creighton. Lela is an avid lover and collector of antiques, dealing mostly in depression glass. She has operated "The Glass House" in their home since 1968. Mary Carol Koch graduated from Warrensburg and taught six years in Truman School at Hickman Mills. She married Richard E. Thornburg, of Creighton, who was then serving in the Navy. They purchased eighty acres and built a new home three miles west of Creighton. Their children are Kimberly (1968) and Richard C. (Ricky) (1970). Richard is a carpenter, cabinet maker and stockman.

Rachel Ruckel, the fourth daughter of Clarence and Clara Ruckel, married Lt. Bentley Teaver, Senath, Mo., who was killed in an army accident. She married 2nd, Robert J. Sitzes in 1943. (See sketch)

The Clarence Ruckel family was industrious — the day began at 5 a.m. In 1907, more land, 240 acres, was added to the farm they had purchased and improvements were made. They raised cattle and hogs for marketing. Butchering and wood-sawing were more or less a social event for the men of the neighborhood. Work was exchanged and extra farm labor was hired during harvesting. Like most families, the Ruckels kept at least two teams of work horses and two light horses for driving and riding. One of the proud events of the family was the purchase of a surrey to replace the buggy the family had outgrown in 1912.

Mr. Ruckel cared for the soil by rotating crops. Extreme importance was placed on care given machinery, fences, buildings and household equipment. Weeds were cut out of the fence rows by hand. Homemade butter and bread were a part of every meal. Social life usually consisted of parties in the home or church and school events. Popular in the fall was the box or pie supper held in the rural school. Social life was often curtailed by the effect of the weather on the dirt country roads.

The wives of Clarence and George B. Ruckel, Clara and Elizabeth Little, were daughters of Harriet Quick Little, whose parents were Cornelius (See sketch) and Dosha Page Quick, an early Cass County family. Clarence H. Ruckel died in 1947.

CHRISTIAN W. RUSHLY

In 1882, C.W. Rushly, a boy of fourteen, together with his sister, Emma, and his mother, Mrs. Anna Rushly, and grandmother, Mrs. Maria Klopfenstein, emigrated from Alsace Lorraine, France. They were looking forward to a good life in America. This life they found on a farm near Medford, Missouri south of Holden.

Chris's mother and grandmother passed away and were buried in a little cemetery near Medford. Emma married Chris Klopfenstein. They farmed for several years and then moved with their two children, Fred and Olga, to Los Angeles, California.

In 1907 Chris met and married Susie Raber. Her parents were Peter and Elizabeth (Gillom) Raber. Their ancestry is also traced back to Alsace Lorraine. Sam and Joe Raber, Peter's brothers, lived for many years in Holden. Joe's wife, Mrs. Ellen Raber, is a resident at the ABC Nursing Home in Harrisonville. Although she is 97, she still enjoys visits from her relatives and many friends.

The Rushlys sold their Johnson County farm in 1916 and bought one in Cass County from the Dave Kauffmans, who were moving to North Dakota. So it was 60 years ago that Chris and Susie, with their three sons, Rolla, Lawrence and Ralph located five miles northwest of Garden City. Nine years later they purchased, from Noah Hartzlers, 60 acres just to the north of their farm. The family enjoyed tilling the soil and raising cattle, hogs and chickens. It was a familiar sight to see Chris riding to town in his buggy, as he never learned to drive a car.

In 1935 and 1936 respectively, Lawrence and Rolla married sisters, Ruth and May King. Vera Hartzler and Ralph were married in 1939. Even after all three sons left home they continued to work together. Each had his own farm but shared in the farming responsibilities of the others. This continued until their owns sons were old enough to farm.

Chris and Susie had six grandchildren. Rolla's children, Mrs. Joe (the late Barbara Jean) Yoder and Ronald; Lawrence's daughter, Mrs. Don (Ella May) Shingleton; and Ralph's children, Martha Sue, Roger and Don. The great grandchildren are Brian and Rachel Yoder, Debbie, Tamie and Jerry Shingleton and Raymond, Mahlon, Christian and Jonathan Rushly. They all attend the Sycamore Grove Mennonite Church.

The Chris Rushly family roots are deeply planted in Cass County. Martha Sue, who is an LPN in Kansas City, is the only descendent who lives more than three miles from the family home. Ralph, Vera and son, Don, live on the homeplace. Roger who recently married Susan Willis, lives nearby and farms with his father and brother. Ronald and his wife, Loretta (Edwards), and four sons live on the 60 acres. Don Shingleton and Joe Yoder have also chosen agriculture and their occupation. In addition to being a farm wife, Barbara Jean was a Registered Nurse at the Cass County Memorial Hospital at the time of her death in 1975.

Chris, unlike his father, who only lived 37 years, enjoyed a busy active life for 85 years. Susie spent the eleven years following Chris's death in 1954, with her sons and their families. She passed away in 1965 at 88.

One gets a feeling of nostalgia when remembering the many homemade goodies made and served by Susie. Chris will be remembered for his quiet personality and deep concern for his family and friends.

DUNCAN RUSSELL

Duncan Russell, born in Scotland, was the son of William and Margaret Russell. The family emigrated from Scotland to America in 1852, and located in Virginia. Mr. Russell was a skilled iron manufacturer and operated a rolling mill and a furnace in Virginia.

During the Civil War the family came to St. Louis, Missouri; and at the close of the war they moved near Drexel in Cass County, Missouri. In 1868, the Russell's purchased a farm in Grand River Township, where he lived but 3 short years to enjoy his land. He died in 1871, and is buried in the Orient cemetery in Harrisonville. Mrs. Russell survived her husband 41 years, her death came at age 81, in 1912. William and Margaret Russell were the parents of 6 children; Margaret (Brown), Duncan, Ellen (Wilson), Sarah, Daniel B., John (Jack). All are deceased, and several are buried in Orient cemetery beside their parents.

Duncan Russell was born in Clockmanen, Scotland, May 11, 1847; coming to America at the age of 5 years. He received his education in the public schools of St. Louis, Missouri, and added to his store of knowledge by reading at home.

At the age of 27 he began life for himself on a farm southeast of Harrisonville known as the Mount Zion Community. Here he brought his bride, Eliza Jack, daughter of John and Emmaline (Creed) Jack, of Lamar County, Texas. Mrs. Russell was born in Tennessee in 1853. To them were born 6 children: Dollie (Tribert) who, as this is written, was 101 years old November 2, 1975, and is living in New York City with her daughter, Lora McCabe.; William, Walter D., Margaret (Eastin), Anna (Hoover), and C. Winfrey. All are deceased except Dollie and Winfrey, who yet live in Harrisonville.

Mr. Russell purchased a 120 acre farm 4½ miles southeast of Harrisonville on March 8, 1875, from W. H. Wells who had entered it from the government. This farm is presently owned by his son Winfrey. He raised stock and farmed the land until his death in February, 1934. He and his wife, and 3 of the children are buried in Orient cemetery.

Duncan Russell served as presiding judge of the Cass County Court from Nov. 6, 1894 to 1898. During his term of office the present court house was built. It was built with a levy of 25 mills for 2 years without issue of bonds. Many said that it could never be built with the money thus raised, but it was built, and with a surplus of $500.

Some of the Russell history is enclosed among items placed in the corner stone of the court house.

A farmer boy, with few advantages, he made a place of trust and respect among his fellow citizens; and earned the success he honorably attained.

David M. Schrock was born near Smithville, Ohio on March 21, 1870. He is thought to be the descendant of Casper Schrock who came to America from Switzerland about 1741.

David Schrock came to Cass County in 1891. In the spring of 1892 he began working for Levi D. Zook as a farm hand. Mr. Zook lived in the Gunn City-East Lynne area.

On Feb. 12, 1893, David Schrock married Susana Diener whose family had settled in Hickory County, Missouri in 1869. Following their marriage the Schrocks lived on a farm three miles southwest of Garden City. This farm was owned by Jonathan Famuliner who employed David as a farm hand for two years.

In the spring of 1895 the Schrocks purchased their first farm about three miles southwest of Garden City. David's outlay to begin farming consisted of a team of black horses, a wagon, a walking plow, a harrow and a single row cultivator. The total cost was about $200.

In the fall of 1904 the Schrocks sold their farm to Mr. Fred Fischer from Illinois, for $65 per acre. That fall, David Schrock bought the John Kauffman farm three miles northwest of Garden City for the unheard of price of $80 per acre. In addition to general farming, David became interested in fruit farming. By 1925 the Schrock Orchard had grown to 18 acres supplying apples, peaches, cherries, Early Gold Plums, and strawberries to many satisified customers.

David and Susana Schrock had eight children all attending the Clearfork County School and all earning an eighth grade diploma. David and Susana Schrock were members of the Sycamore Grove Mennonite Church near Garden City.

Susana Schrock died on May 3, 1936 at the age of 68. David Schrock died on June 10, 1956 at the age of 86. Both are buried at the Clearfork Cemetery 4½ miles northwest of Garden City.

My mother's family with a neighbor's family, Col. William Whites, moved to Liberty, Mo. for safety. My mother, Carrie (Caroline) A. Dye, and Matilda White walked and drove their cattle through Kansas City. The Kansas Jayhawkers had stolen all the good animals my grandfather owned and all they had to haul their belongings was an old pony and a worn out horse. The Jayhawkers took the meat from the smokehouse, quilts, corn, wheat, machinery, — anything they could use. A Baptist preacher from Harrisonville helped the Jayhawkers steal our State Senator's father's saw mill and they took it to Kansas. The State Senator is C. S. Nelson of Freeman, Missouri. When the war closed, my people came home to find their home and barns burned." All their buildings were burned during Order No. 11, excepting one room of the house on the Dye farm, which was made of logs, and today is incorporated in the home later built by a son who had acquired the Dye homestead. JAMES HENRY SEARS

James Henry Sears, sixth child of James Shumaker and Martha Jane Thompson Sears was born October 13, 1863 in Miami County, Kansas, near Wagstaff, on Bull Creek. His father was a member of the Missouri Militia, and his mother had to leave Cass County, Missouri during the Civil War, complying with the infamous "Order No. 11". It was during this time away from their home south-west of Peculiar, that James was born. The family came back to Cass County to their farm, when that order was lifted.

His mother died when James was eleven years of age, leaving ten children, one only a month old. The eldest daughter, Nancy Louisa Sears (Mrs. John Hughes) Freeman, had the responsibility of rearing the children, with the help of two younger sisters.

James Henry worked on a threshing machine when only fifteen years old. One of the farms where he worked was owned by the father of the infamous "Dalton" boys, and he was their play-mate. That was located north of Maxwell (now Cleveland), near the small village of Jaudon.

As a young man of twenty-one, he went to Western Kansas to homestead, in Lane County. After nearly starving, he returned to Missouri. He also worked at the Indian Agency in Johnson County, Kansas.

When the Order No. 11 was lifted the family of Frederic and Arminta Ann Guartney Doll came to Cass County at the persuasion of their friends Samuel Henry and America Virginia Nordyke Lofland. Their sixth child, Emma Doll, born December 21, 1865 was to become the wife of James Henry on July 24, 1890.

They were married by the Rev. Ewing Bailey, Farmer and neighbor, in his yard. That farm later was owned by James brother, Charles Robert Sears. James and Emma lived on the farm a mile west of the then thriving village of West Union. They later built a new house between two older homes they had lived in, and raised their family of four children; Irl R., born October 18, 1891; James Arleigh, born February 3, 1893; Harry D., born July 9, 1894; and Jessie Pearl, born September 29, 1896.

James and Emma were charter members of the Union Hill Methodist Church at West Union. The Church building was later moved to Maxwell (now Cleveland) and called the Cleveland Methodist Church. They were members of the Masonic, Woodman, Eastern Star and Royal Neighbors Lodges.

They lived all their married lives on this same farm, cared for by two of their children, Arleigh and Pearl. James died in August 1933 and Emma died in June 1951.

Irl R. Sears, their first child, was employed by the Commerce Trust Bank in Kansas City for several years and was stationed at Great Lakes Naval Station, with the U.S. Navy during W.W. I. Irl remained on the farm until early 1960, when with failing health, he and Sylvia moved to Harrisonville. He died in February 1966 and Sylvia still lives in their home.

James Arleigh remained with his parents, and farmed, except for the months he served in the U.S. Army in Texas, during W.W. I. He was a faithful member of the Cleveland Methodist Church until it disbanded, and was a member of the Masonic and Eastern Star Lodges. He had so many nephews and nieces around him, he was never lonely for children, for he spoiled them all.

Harry D. married Lula Belle Nelson, daughter of Frederick and Ella Nelson in September 1928, and they had two sons: Frederick Henry (married Janice Bernadine Wimmer) who has three daughters; Harry Hartsel (married Loretta Folsom).

Harry D. owned the Cleveland Garage when he first married, then they moved to a farm in the West Union area. Later moving to a farm north of Cleveland belonging to Lula's father. They built a new home in Cleveland and lived there several years before Harry died in June 1970. Lula lives in the Harrisonville Retirement Home.

Pearl remained with her parents all her life, always making a home for the family, and caring for her parents in their old age. She raised large flocks of chickens and a large garden. She was a faithful member of the Methodist Church and Eastern Star Lodge. Like Arleigh, she was devoted to her nieces and nephews, and gave them many fond memories.

Pearl and Arleigh sold their farm where they spent their entire life in 1959 and built a new home in Cleveland, where they moved in February 1960. Then in June 1973 they moved again, to Belton, where they had built another new home. Arleigh died there in February 1975, and Pearl still lives in their home.

MARY T. GIBSON SETTLE

The Settle family, of Cass County, came to Missouri from England by way of Virginia and Kentucky. The emigrant ancestor was Francis Settle of West Riding, Yorkshire, England, whose passage to America in 1656 was sponsored by James Williamson. By 1664 he had acquired land in Old Rappahannock County (now Richmond County) which remained in the family until 1743, when it was sold by his grandson, also named Francis. This grandson moved to the Blue Ridge mountains and the Virginia frontier. Francis, his two sons, John and Strother G. lived and were land owners on this frontier until their deaths.

Strother G. Settle was a Captain of the Virginia Continental Line "For the War" (Revolutionary War). He married Dorothy Ash of Fauquier County 10 June 1782. His son, Mansfield, born a Virginian, with his wife, Mary T. Gibson Settle, emigrated to Lewis County, Kentucky by the year 1832. According to famiy tradition, he died there after 1834, leaving his wife with ten children. She came by ox cart to Van Buren County, Missouri, from which Cass County was later organized.

The family settled near Dayton. There was a crossing on the Grand River near them, which in later years, became known as "Settle's Ford." The children were: Charles Grayson; Virginia Ann; Mary; William Morgan; Larkin Ash; James Francis; George Franklin; Strother Mansfield; Elizabeth Jane and Lucinda Lavina. Lucinda married James Madison Rogers of Bates County in 1853 and died in 1860. He married Nancy Jane Majors, daughter of Isham Majors, of Freeman. He farmed for a short while in eastern Kansas, then later homesteaded in Bates County near Settle's Ford. There they lived until his death in 1873, except for the duration of Order No. 11, when the family went to Arrow Rock, Missouri. James Francis and his wife are buried at the old Settle homestead near Dayton.

James and Nancy Settle's children were: Alexander; Marion Lee; Ella; Thomas J.; George B.; William; Jack and Charles Angelo. They landed in Lee's Summit, came four miles southeast of where Raymore is now and purchased a section of land at $9 per acre. There were no fences and they drove across the prairie hauling lumber to build a house on their farm. This house still stands. Lewis Shackelford was a Baptist minister and preached a number of places, one being the Judy Schoolhouse.

John Allen Shackelford still lived in Ohio. At the age of 19, he enlisted in Company "C" 20th Ohio Volunteer Infantry of the Union Army. He was mustered out at the close of the Civil War in West Lancaster, Ohio. He married Miranda Ann Griffith March 28, 1866. The father, Lewis, wrote John Allen in Ohio asking them to move to Missouri stating there were good possibilities in this new country. John and Miranda covered a wagon, put in a trunk, some clothing, cooking utensils and feed for the team of horses with a box on the back of the wagon from which they could feed the team. They started for Missouri in 1869 and met many other wagons going West. Just west of St. Louis, the weather was getting so cold they stopped at Gray Summit, Missouri. Mrs. Shackelford and their little boy, Johnnie, boarded the train for Pleasant Hill where they stayed at a hotel while waiting for John to arrive with the wagon. The Shackelfords farmed the land until John's death in September, 1920. They united earlier with the Baptist Church at Old Peculiar but later united with the Coleman Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Shaler.

NATHAN TYLER SHALER

Nathan Tyler Shaler, son of Rufus and Hannah Cole Shaler, was born 13 Nov 1806 at Haddam, Conn., but moved as a very young child to New York and it is possibly there that he and his five brothers were ordained into the ministry. His first wife was Deborah Ann Lawrence, but facts concerning their marriage are not known.

In 1835 Nathan Shaler came West to Indian Territory and what is now Kansas. For at least eight years he assisted Rev. Thomas Johnson as a Missionary to the Shawnee Indians at his Manual-School Mission at what is now Shawnee Mission, Kansas.

Rev. Shaler worked among the Indians from 1835 to 1858, during which time he lived with and taught among the tribes of the Shawnee, Delaware, Potawatomi, Kickapoo, Peorias, and Wyandottes. It was in 1837, during his mission at the Peoria Station that Nathan married Ann Beauchemie, a Shawnee girl. She was the daughter of Mackinaw and Betsy Rogers Beauchemie, and had lived in the Thomas Johnson home, caring for their children, and attending their school since she was a child. Betsy Rogers' father, Henry Rogers, was a Virginia boy who had been kidnapped by the Shawnee Chief Blackfish, and raised as his son, and later married Blackfish's daughter. Mackinaw Beauchemie was half Chippewa, but had been raised among the Potawatomi, where he was a native preacher. Ann Shaler assisted her husband in the duties of the Mission until her death from consumption in 1843. To this date no record has been found of children of this marriage.

Nathan Shaler married Sarah Ann Albright 10 Nov 1843 in Cass County, Mo., and continued to accept assignments in Indian Missions until 1859, and in 1861 he was given superannuate relation by the Methodist Episcopal Church South. He moved with his family to land he had purchased in Cass County and became the County's first Circuit Rider Methodist Minister.

Construction of the farm home was begun just prior to the out break of the Civil War. Located south-west of Freeman, Mo. it was located in the path of Bushwhackers, Jayhawkers, and border ruffians. Before the house was finished the family had to evacuate, possibly due to Order No. 11. It is believed that they lived in a house on Scarritt Point in Kansas City during that time. When they were able to return to Cass County they found that soldiers had camped in the uncompleted structure and some of the doors, windows, and finishing lumber had disappeared. Construction resumed and the house still stands and is inhabited.

In 1868 a Methodist Episcopal Church was built in the neighborhood of the Shaler farm. It was named Shaler Chapel in honor of Nathan Shaler, and his oldest living son at the time, F.C. Shaler, was one of the builders and first members. The Chapel burned in 1886 and when it was reconstructed the location was changed and it was called Shiloh.

The family Cemetery is south of the farm house on a grassy knoll, rising above the pasture and corn field that surround it. It is well maintained by descendants and relatives and is the final resting place of Nathan Shaler, who died 5 Feb 1879, and Sarah Shaler, who died 17 May 1911.

Children of Nathan and Sarah Shaler were: Jerome C. Berryman Shaler, John W. Shaler, and Nathan Scarritt Shaler, who died as children; Fernando Cortez Shaler, married Mary Ann Dunn; Mary Catherine Shaler, married C. C. Smith; Josephine Shaler, married John W. Duncan; William Paine Shaler, married Mollie Dudley; Julie Shaler, married James Peyton; and Erastus W. Shaler, married Louisa Jane Hite.

The annals of history have passed by without recording the deeds of Rev. Nathan Tyler Shaler and many men like him. But their acts cannot be labeled insignificant, for it was on men like these that our Mid-West was built. They give us reason to be proud.

RAY SIMS

Ray Sims, of Raymore, Missouri, and a native of the "Show Me" state, has been showing cattlemen how to sell at fast-paced auctions for 31 years. An auctioneer who is highly respected, with a wide acquaintance, he is also one of the nation's best known auctioneers. Ray Sims and Angus auction sales are nearly synonymous in the middle west. He sells all breeds of cattle, horses, mules, hogs, sheep and real estate, beginning in general farm sales when he was 18 years old. His selling career was interrupted for two years of military service, spent in the United States and Guadalcanal. Ray was born at Green Ridge, Missouri, has a general farm background and was an active showman in 4H and FFA, showing hogs, calves and sheep. He began selling purebred cattle with Roy Johnston, Raymore, Missouri, after returning from service. Ray has served as auctioneer at sales in nearly every state, selling close to 4,000 sales.

Earlyne Stanfield, Windsor, Missouri, and Ray Sims were married in 1943. A twin engine airplane has been owned by Ray for several years to shorten the hours of travel necessary in his auction business. Ray is a licensed airline pilot but hires retired pilots to operate his plane most of the time.

Daye Sims, daughter of Ray and Earlyne, studied animal science at Kansas State University at Manhattan, Kansas.

Both Daye and her brother, Tully, are active in 4H. One of their important wins was Daye's champion stee at Phoenix. Their record in 1971 boasted champions at five shows, then at Missouri State Fair they had two firsts, one second and reserve champion. Although both are knowledgeable in showing, fitting and selecting, they do have talents in other fields. Daye is one of Missouri's top young singers, as she has won first place in statewide contests.

Ray now owns and operates about 2,000 acres, with the main livestock program being registered and commercial cows. Ray is enthusiastic and interested in all phases of the livestock industry. He is an active promoter of breed associations on national, state and local levels. In addition, Ray has enjoyed a long-time membership in the Belton Missouri Optimists Club. He is one of the owners of the Superior School of Auctioneering at Decatur, Illinois. He is gratified that the school is graduating some of the top new men of the nation.

Ray Sims was the inspiration for the nationally famous song, "The Auctioneer". LeRoy Van Dyke, the song writer and a cousin of Ray's wrote the song while in Korea during the war. Van Dyke, at one time served as fieldman for the Drovers Journal before entering the entertainment profession.

Ray and Earlyne bought the Bishop farm in 1955 and in 1967, built their present home and moved to the farm near Raymore, Missouri where they now reside. The family are active members of the Belton Christian Church. Ray has served as board chairman, Daye and Earlyne sing in the choir and Tully is a member of the Youth singing group, "The Celebration".

Ray is one of the governors of the American Royal and a member of the Missouri and National Auctioneers Association. Earlyne is a member of the D.A.R., Junior Women's Philharmonic Group, Sketch Box of the Art Institute, Kansas City and a leader in 4H work.

JOHN HOSEA SISK

John Hosea Sisk was born October 5, 1866 in the state of North Carolina near the town of Marion. His parents, Marion and Rachael Sisk, were the parents of thirteen children. They enjoyed life together on their tobacco farm. Summer evenings were spent quite often attending Camp Meetings. There was the preaching, of course, but the sound of music filled the air for miles around. Mr. Sisk's ambition was to get an education. When a young man, he with his brother, Robert packed their trunks and came to Cass County Missouri. He enrolled in the "Institute" at Warrensburg. He became a schoolteacher and taught twenty terms in rural schools in Cass and Bates counties. Dover, Schuyler and Number Eight were among those schools. Attendance was sometimes in the sixties and seventies.

Maysburg, Mo., a very small town now gone from the map, was the place where Mr. Sisk met his future wife, Bessie May White. She was born March 7, 1877 in the State of Indiana, daughter of Benjamin F. and Pernita White. They were farming people living in Cass and Bates counties their entire lives.

Mrs. Sisk had two sisters and one brother. As a young woman she did housework. Her longest period of service was for the Joseph C. Cartwright family. Mr. Cartwright was editor of "The Garden City Views" at the time Mr. and Mrs. Sisk were married. He wrote the wedding account praising Mrs. Sisk for her culinary arts. They were married August 23, 1899 in Maysburg, Mo. They started housekeeping in a house in the Number Eight School District where Mr. Sisk was teaching. There, their first child, Clifford (who now lives with wife Rozella in Dayton, Mo.) was born.

In the next few years, a decision was made to rent a farm about three miles East of Garden City and start farming. Three children were born here. Buford, with his wife Blanche, lives in Garden City now; Dottie, with husband Harold Gwinner, lives three miles West of Garden City; and Ivan with his wife Lucy, lives on the home place five miles East of Garden City.

In 1911 the family bought a 120 acre farm North East of Garden City, where three sons joined the family. They were Albert, who departed this life on January 21, 1937, a victim of leukemia; Richard with his wife, Wilma is engaged in farming and live on the farm first rented by the family; Eugene with his wife Pat, lives in Grandview where he is employed by the Hobart Company. Pat is a cook in the Grandview schools.

John Sisk departed this life at the age of 62 on October 18, 1928. Mrs. Sisk moved to a home in Garden City and spent her remaining years there, departing this life on September 21, 1951. They were members of the Garden City Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) church. Mr. and Mrs. Sisk and Albert are buried in the Garden City cemetery.

ALFRED GRUNDY SLOAN

Alfred Grundy Sloan and his young wife, Serepta Ann (White) Sloan set out to seek their fortune. They were pioneers from Kentucky migrating westward to Missouri in 1846-1847 by covered wagon and leading, sometimes riding, a black pony. It was a long journey and they endured many hardships. They first arrived in Pleasant Hill, Cass County, Missouri. There they met an old Indian. They asked him to lead them to land where water never failed. As a guide he led them to land in Cass County, north of Freeman, Missouri, where there they found twin springs. They gave the Indian the black pony they brought from Kentucky, in exchange for leading them to the land. Later they were granted land of 160 acres for a homestead. The original patent, an official document issued by the government, was printed on sheepskin and signed by President James K. Polk in 1848. They cleared the land and built a log cabin. A son and two daughters were born. They were all charter members of the Freeman Christian Church. They engaged in farming and livestock raising until 1863. During the Civil War the "Kansas Bushwhackers" came over the border burning and stealing. They came to the Sloan place, but the family hid in the small basement of the log cabin and they did not find them. In later years a large two-story frame house was built around the center section of the original log cabin. A large fruit orchard was planted. They also had bee hives and enjoyed delicious honey.

On December 25, 1877 a daughter Katherine (Katie) Sloan (1860-1952), in the same home where she was born, was married to Mark Filmore Tribby (1857-1943), son of pioneers from Kentucky, John G. Tribby and Almedia Jane Tribby. Mark and Katie (Sloan) Tribby purchased the homestead from the Sloan heirs and lived their entire married life on the homeplace. In 1927 they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

GEORGE RUSKIN SMITH

Mr. and Mrs. George Ruskin Smith and daughters, Inez, now Mrs. Roy Klesath, and Sylvia, deceased, came to Raymore Township in 1918. The farm home, a lovely southern mansion type house, is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Peterson. Another daughter, Carol, was born in this house. She married Ralph Huber, who died in 1968. The Smith daughters graduated from Raymore high school, their father being a school board member for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were both active members of the Order of Eastern Star of Raymore and attended continuously until their death. The Smiths came from Valley Center, Kansas but they felt the Raymore community had much to offer. In the year 1939, they sold the farm where they resided and moved to their other farm home in the northern edge of Raymore Township. Mrs. Smith passed away in 1941 and Mr. Smith in 1949.

Both Inez, who is associated with Crest Realty, and Carol reside in Kansas City, Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. James Madison Smith.

JAMES MADISON SMITH

James Madison Smith, (b. Tenn. 2 Sept. 1811, d. 21 Sept. 1872) son of William and Susannah Smith emigrated to Cass County from Tennessee sometime during the early 1800's. 1 July 1850 he married Eliza Endicott at Carthage, Mo., who was his third wife. (b. 27 Jan. 1828, d. 11 Aug. 1913). J. M. Smith owned a section of land north of Harrisonville about eight miles, in the old Knight School district. Part of the land was acquired by a land grant and the rest he purchased from Fleming Harris in the early 1850's. There is a Smith Cemetery located on this property.

J. M. served during the Civil War in the Missouri Home Guards from 1861-1864, part of that time under Captain Robinson. He took a vital part in the community. The Youngers and James Bros. were neighbors and many events happened between the families. A diary, now in the hands of the family, has the following affidavit dated 27 July 1869: "That three men of said name Cole, Bud and John Younger stopped at the house of Mr. Knight and in conversation informed him that they would kill Mr. J. Smith on first sight, he also told me that Mr. Smith was the cause of the death of the old man Younger. Cole Younger told Mr. Knight that the said Smith sent a party of soldiers to follow his father out of Kansas City and shot him in his carriage on his way home. etc." Signed Augustus Quarles.

J. M. and Eliza had eleven children, some died in infancy: Catherine (Ensign); Nancy (Pierman-Quarles); Neplia (Nev); America (Burden); John; Mary Martha (Hilterbrand); Will; James; Joseph; twins, Genetta and Merlisa and Ida Bell (Shelton) all born at the home place.

JOHN WATSON SMITH

John Watson Smith was born in West Line, Cass County, Missouri, on October 23, 1870. He was a citizen of West Dolan Township. His father was Charles C. Smith and his mother was Mary C. (Shaler) Smith. He had one sister, Mrs. Sarah Ann Jordon, and six brothers, Peter C., James S., Frank F., Fernando C., Charles A. and Liggon W. There were three other children who did not make their stay in this world long. He owned 80 acres of land in West Dolan Township northeast of Lisle by the old Dodger Point school house, which he farmed. Farming was his sole occupation. His nickname was "Shorty", although I don't know why for he only stood six feet six and one-half inches tall.

Charles C. Smith.

John married Sarah Malinda (Mills) on Sept. 20, 1903, at West Line, Missouri, he being at the age of 33 and she being 18. This home was blessed by fourteen children, six of whom are now gone, twin brother and sister who were never named; Katherine Irene, who lived two years; Mary Esther, who lived only eight months; Ora Emmett, who lived to be twenty-five years and then fell out of a tree and died from his injury. The latest death was William Alfred, who lost his life due to a heart attack at the age of fifty-seven. The eight living children are: Mrs. Clara Taylor, Charles R. Smith, Henry (Hank) E.

Smith, Mrs. Alice Pfannes, Mrs. Sarah (Jo) Baker, John L. Smith, Louis J. Smith and Mrs. Lucy Crawford.

John was laid to rest at the Shaler Cemetery on July 30, 1928, at the age of 57 years, 9 months, 8 days, as are most of the ancestors and some of the descendants. The Shaler Cemetery is located south of the old Shaler home in West Dolan Township. It is a beautiful cemetery and kept up now by the family of John Watson and Sarah Smith. After John's death Sarah married Charles Milton Kern on December 23, 1938. Sarah passed away on January 29, 1969, at the age of 84, and she is laid to rest at the Shaler Cemetery.

The Shaler Cemetery is over a century old. The spot for this family cemetery was chosen by Nathan Tyler Shaler. It is a knoll in the pasture where high flood water never reaches, although the corn field and pasture around it have been overflowed and covered with water a number of times. The cemetery knoll towers above the water so it was well and carefully chosen.

Nev Smith was killed by Joe Arnold in front of what used to be the Old Terrell Hotel just off the square on North Independence St. Nov. 12, 1891. E. STOUTZENBERGER

In 1912, E. Stoutzenberger moved from Coleman to Raymore along with his wife, Mary, daughter, Vivan and sons, Belknap and Eugene. About one year later he bought a home on Main Street with three and one-half lots where he constructed a building on the back of the lots to house a light plant. He soon had poles set, wires strung and most of the houses in town wired for electricity. He was assisted in this work by his oldest son, Belknap, with son, Eugene as errand boy. He sold the first electric irons and washers in town. He later added to the building and installed a stone burr mill for making corn meal and graham flour, which was sacked in paper bags with the name "Raymore Milling Company" and

Mr. Stoutzenberger's name. These products were sold to grocery stores in Raymore, Harrisonville, Pleasant Hill and Kansas City. Later, adding to the operation, he bought a grinder and corn sheller and did custom grinding for the farmers in the community. He also made his own mixture of chicken feed for resale.

In about 1915 he put another building on Main Street between the home and a brick building which housed the Lee King Grocery. Mr. Stoutzenberger started Raymores' first picture show, the light for showing the film being furnished by an ark carbon machine. The film machine was turned by hand at intervals by Dad and Belknap while Mother sold tickets, Sis took them up and Eugene sold peanuts and popcorn.

In about 1916, at age 16, Belknap decided to be a mechanic, so large doors were cut in the rear of the show house and this building served a dual purpose for a while. As the garage grew, the show was closed and the Raymore Garage came into being. Belknap operated this business for five years.

In the mean time, Mr. Stoutzenberger had purchased the drug store from A.G. Sears and the light plant was sold to Green Light and Power Company, which is now the Missouri Public Service Company. He operated the drug store until 1928 when he retired. Mr. and Mrs. Stoutzenberger moved to California where they lived until his death in January, 1955.

During the depression years they did not close down, but gave each man three days a week. As many as seventy-five men were hired at one time during the time Mort was manager, and up to a hundred right after the war. CHARLES TALLIAFERRO THORNTON

Charles Talliaferro Thornton and his wife Katharyn Miller Hathaway Thornton came from Montgomery Co., Ky. to Cass Co., Mo. with 7 of their 8 children in 1857. Their 6 sons and 2 daughters, the last daughter born in Mo., were: William T., who became a doctor, David, Charles, Phillip, John, and James, all farmers, Molly (Mrs. Oscar Byram), and Kate (Mrs. J. W. Alexander). The family bought a farm of 255 acres of prairie land 3½ miles NE of Pleasant Hill where they made their home the rest of their lives. They also bought 170 acres of timberland about a mile E. of their farm as they had to have fuel.

When the Civil War came, Southern sympathizers had a hard time in this locality. Mr. Thornton's nephew, Dr. Tom Tully, was killed in the Lone Jack battle and Mrs. Thornton and her younger boys had to bring him home in a wagon and bury him on the farm even though the Pleasant Hill Cemetery was not far from their home. When Order No. 11 was issued the Thorntons went north of the Missouri River where their relatives the Buckners lived, and stayed a few years. When coming home, anxious to reach Lone Jack by night, the oxen were so tired that James Thornton walked in front of them with a basket of corn to get up the Sni Hills.

James Aylette Buckner Thornton was the only one of the Thornton boys to marry. He married Julia Waugh Kennedy, born in Ky. while her folks were there during Order No. 11, daughter of Washington and Sara Amos Kennedy. The Kennedys had come to Mo. from Ky. a few years before the Thorntons, settling in the Southern part of Jackson Co. They buried their silverware on their farm to keep it from being stolen, and Mrs. Kennedy dug for silverware the rest of her days, never finding it all.

James and Julia (Kennedy) Thornton had 6 children: Katharyn (Mrs. Tillmon Cope) who had 3 children, Tillmon Cope Jr., a radio operator for the Highway Patrol, Katharyn (Mrs. Arnold Dennis of Tacoma, Wash.), and Christopher Thornton Cope who was killed in action off the English coast in World War II; Charles Talliaferro Thornton who served with the 128 Inf., 35th Div. in World War I, came home safely in 1919 but was killed 1934 by a tree falling the wrong way while he was helping cut it down, had 3 children, John Phillip Thornton of Oklahoma City, Okla., Marie (Mrs. Harold Tuck of Lamar, Mo.), and Helen (Mrs. Green of Salt Lake City, Utah); Sallie Kennedy (Mrs. Tom Riffle of Pleasant Hill, Mo.) who has one son, Tom Sylvester Riffle, a farmer of Pleasant Hill; Mary Belle (Mrs. Roy Wilt) who had 2 sons, James T. Smith of Pleasant Hill, retired from the U.S. Navy and a veteran of Pearl Harbor, and Roy Wilt of Pleasant Hill who works at Unity; Mattie (Mrs. W. E. Howard) who died 1951, had no children; Bessie (Mrs. L. Cecil Chaney of Pleasant Hill) who had 4 children, Lorene (Mrs. Leonard Lindsey of San Diego, Calif.) who died 1969, Ruth (Mrs. Maurice Wright of R.R. Greenwood, Mo.), Norma (Mrs. William Norris of R.R. Kingsville, Mo.), and David Chaney who is the Navy and located at Oak Harbor, Wash.

Molly (Thornton) Byram had 5 children: Katie who died age 4; Emma (Mrs. Harley Clark) who had one son, Harold F. Clark, a bacteriologist with the U.S. Public Health Service; Mary Belle; Thornton, B.; and Price T. The Byrams lived in Harrisonville.

JOHN FITZHUGH THORNTON

The 1883 history of Cass County states that J. T. Thornton (which should be J. F. Thornton) was a native of Virginia. This is false, for John Fitzhugh Thornton was born in Green

John Fitzhugh Thornton and his daughter, Mary Barret Thornton.

County, Kentucky 5 Oct., 1924. He was the son of Anthony and Ann Lee Barret Thornton, the daughter of Francis and Elizabeth Lowry Barret. It has only been in recent years that the line of descent for this particular Anthony Thornton has been confirmed, there being so many Anthony Thorntons.

Anthony, the father of John Fitzhugh, was the son of Dr. Henry Fitzhugh and Ann Rose Fitzhugh Thornton, the daughter of John Fitzhugh, of Stafford County, Virginia, and his wife Alice Thornton Fitzhugh. Dr. Henry Fitzhugh Thornton was born in Caroline County, Virginia 14 Aug. 1865 and was the son of Anthony Thornton, born 1727 in Stafford, County, Virginia and his second wife Susanna Fitzhugh Thornton. The lineage continues back through the first Anthony born 1691, who married Winifred Presley and Francis Thornton, born 1651, of Gloucester County, Virginia, who married first Alice Savage, to the emigrant and founder of the Virginia family, William Thornton, who came from Yorkshire, England to Gloucester County, Virginia in 1646.

Anthony Thornton, the father of John Fitzhugh, died in 1826 while visiting a brother in Oldham County, Kentucky. His wife, Ann Lee Barret Thornton, took her family to Illinois and established a home near Athens in Menard County. This family consisted of Ann Rose, born 1808, married her cousin, Francis Thornton and lived at Jacksonville, Illinois; Henry Fitzhugh, born 1810; Anthony Y., born 1812, died 1827 at Greensburg, Ky.; William Presley, died at age 18 in 1834, in Green County, Ky. and whose will, filed 24 June, 1834, proved his line of descent; Mary Barclay, born 1817, married James Mitchell; Henry Arnold, born 1819, married Mary Jane Fyffe; James Thomas, born 1823, married Mary Graff and John Fitzhugh, who came to Missouri, settling on a farm in Big Creek Township.

He first married Matilda Farmer, daughter of Frederick Farmer. They had one child, Margaret, before Matilda died. John Fitzhugh Thornton married secondly Mary Jane Wherritt. She was born 14 Sept., 1835 at Jacksonville, Illinois, her family later coming to Big Creek Township in Cass County, Missouri.

John Fitzhugh and Mary Jane Wherritt Thornton returned to Illinois, living for a time at Magnolia in Putnam County, and later coming again to Cass County. Their children were Benjamin Barton, born 1859, married Lila Foree; Harriett Lee, born 1864, married John Mackenzie; Mary Barret, born 30 April 1867 at Magnolia, married John Armstrong Buckner (See Buckner family); Frances Arnold, born 1869, married William Hornbeak and John Anthony, born 1872. Of these children the latter three made their homes in Pleasant Hill.

CHARLES HUGH TOWERS

C. H. (Hugh) . . . Asa . . . and Frank Towers, like other young men, "Went West", they came from Argenta, Ill. by team and wagon, arriving in Drexel, Missouri April 22nd, 1896. Drexel was chosen because Mrs. Tower's father Robert Sellers, and her Uncle Wm. Deweese were living in Cass County, and they thought opportunities existed there for the Towers brothers.

Asa bought land in Bates County, Frank returned to Ill. Hugh stayed, sending for his wife Lillie, sons Carl (three) and Guy (one). Hugh was a carpenter, building and repairing, houses, barns, and business buildings that were needed by the new citizens.

Hugh believed in giving more than an hour's work for an hour's pay. He said he never built anything on the ground, until he had built it in his head, so all problems were worked out. When the Drexel elevator was built for Mr. Harve Reed, he insisted that Hugh not leave the ground before each board was sawed, marked for placing from the blueprints by Hugh and the building was completed to Mr. Reed's satisfaction.

The Towers family were good neighbors, their home neat, in good repair, yard always trimmed, a variety of flowers blooming, always a good garden, berries and grapes for family use. The five children Carl , Guy, Audra, Velma and Hadley were Drexel High School graduates, and their recreation was the same as all children living then in Drexel.

All the children married, the three boys learned their fathers trade, Guy and Hadley became "inside finishers" on many of the expensive homes in Kansas City, Carl worked in the office of the Kansas City Southern Railway. There are nine grandchildren and thirty great grandchildren living in various states, of the children only two survive, Audra (Mrs. George Schottenhamel) Salt Lake City, Utah and Velma (Mrs. Rosier George) Port Isabel, Texas, all like Mr. and Mrs. Towers are proud of their ancesters that were soldiers in the Revolutionary War, name the Towers, the Maris, and the Hadleys.

KEITH DOUGLAS TUCKER

Keith Douglas Tucker came to Pleasant Hill, Mo. from Independence, Mo. 1935, age 19, coming because he had secured his first steady job at the American Scale and Vise Co. Very soon he married Margaret Pooler, whose family had moved from Independence the previous year, daughter of Charles and Drue Pooler who live in Harrisonville. Margaret was also the niece of Mort and Lydia Swift, he being the superintendent of the Scale plant at the time, having come to Harrisonville 1908 to work at the Foundry there and moved on to Pleasant Hill 1916. The Swift and Tucker families have been close. Mrs. Swift still lives an active life at age 91, at 115 S. Jeffreys, Pleasant Hill.

Keith and Margaret Tucker bought a cabin at Baldwin Lake and began to prepare it for an all-year home. During the school year 1935-1936 Margaret's cousin, Margaret Bullard, came from Ava, Mo. to Pleasant Hill to stay with her grandmother and attend her junior year in high school, spending much time with her young married cousins.

Tragedy struck the following year when on Jan. 5, 1937, Margaret Tucker died giving birth to twin boys, Kenneth Douglas and Keith Darrell, later nicknamed Nip and Tuck respectively. Keith's widowed mother, Nina Tucker, gave up her home in Independence and came to live with him and care for the twins.

Two and a half years later Keith Tucker married Margaret Bullard. They continued to live at Baldwin Lake until 1947 when they bought the 40 acre farm located at the intersection of the Mo. Pacific Railway and "P" highway, west of #7. They had 5 children, Robert, Margaret, Leonard, William, and Richard. Six of the 7 Tucker children attended one or more years at the Prairie Dell country school before it was closed, and ultimately carried away in a tornado. All of the family are members of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, and most of them are active in church work.

Keith Tucker continued to work at the American Scale and Vise Co., and was Supervisor of the plant for several years. When in 1953 the firm of Cromb and Gagel bought the plant Keith continued as Supervisor until 1961 when the American Scale plant was closed and part of the operation moved to the Kansas City firm of Gresham and Co., owned by Cromb and Gagel. Then he and several others transferred from the Pleasant Hill plant to the Kansas City plant. In 1973 Keith was awarded a silver tray in commemoration of his 20 years with the firm.

On Feb. 5, 1975, after having driven back and forth to Gresham daily for 14 years, Keith drove his truck into the commuter's parking lot at #50 and #7, on his way home late evening, and there he was found, the victim of a heart attack.

MARVIN TURNER

In 1937 Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Turner and Bill moved to a farm three miles east of Raymore, known as the Thomas Pierce of Earl Smutz place. Here they began general farming with one team of mules.

In 1939 they joined the United Brethern Church in Raymore and were members until the church dissolved and all the members went to the Presbyterian Church.

Several years later they began raising registered Angus Cattle. Later they formed a partnership with H. R. Carpenter and fed cattle, hogs, and sheep. The farm was named Mil-Ina for Mildred Turner and Ina Carpenter and this name was on all registered papers.

In 1943 the Turners purchased the farm from Kansas City Life Ins. Co. and began farming with a tractor.

Until the spring of 1945, their only lights were kerosene lamps. When the light lines began to come in Mr. Turner and Clint Righard wired the house. As this was new in the community everyone was afraid the house would burn when the lights were added, while Mrs. Turner was in the hospital with Mary, a silo for storing feed was built.

The partnership with the Carpenters was dissolved, the Angus Cattle sold in 1948 the Turners started milking cows. For several years the cows were all milked by hand, later a milking machine was installed.

With the purchase of an ensilage machine, Marvin and the boys did custom work over the community. One place they enjoyed working was the Lucy Webb farm because she always fixed a hot dinner.

By this time the dairy herd had been culled till most of the herd was registered stock.

Bill, Harry and Mary were all active in 4-H and showed many of their animals throughout the state, winning many ribbons and trophies. Marvin had been a 4-H leader for fourteen years when he passed away in March 1961. He also was a school board member for about fifteen years.

After Marvin's death Mrs. Turner and Mary remained on the farm for two years, with the help of Bill, Harry, and Vernon Guilford who had worked for the Turners.

In the fall of 1962 and farm was sold to C. W. Muckey of Lee's Summit and Mrs. Turner and Mary moved into their new home on Jefferson St. in Raymore.

Bill and Harry went to the Raymore School for twelve years. Mary graduated from Raymore Peculiar.

After graduation Bill went into the service spending one year in the states and three in France. He and Mary Archer were married in the Presbyterian Church on Jan. 4, 1957. They and their daughter, Tammy Sue, born Aug. 9, 1965, live in a new home across the street from the Church.

Harry joined the Army Reserves, after graduation, and spent six months active duty and five and a half inactive. He and Personia McMillan, who was from Raymore, were married in the Presbyterian Church June 14, 1959. They now live in Lee's Summit, Mo.

In 1965 Mary and Jimmy Miller, from Harrisonville, were married in the Methodist Church. They lived in Harrisonville four years, then built a home in Raymore. They have two boys, Carl Wayne, born Nov. 28, 1967, and Douglas Lee, born Oct. 20, 1970.

S. Turner was a county agent in Anderson County, Kansas before moving to Pleasant Hill, Mo. in 1922.

W. F. Turner and his brother, F. S. Turner, operated a dairy farm in Pleasant Hill for two years before they and their families moved to Belton in 1924. They rented a farm and produced raw milk from a herd of Registered Jersey cows and ran a retail route in Kansas City. In 1930, they moved to the Holloway farm two miles west of Belton. Here they stayed for twenty-five years, eventually buying the farm from Mr. Holloway. W. F. Turner continued to operate the retail route in the south part of Kansas City, while F. S. Turner ran the farming end of the business. Tom Keeney and Dick Turner helped on the milk route, while Jay Hopper of Belton assisted with the farming.

Three disastrous fires occured during these years: in March, 1926, the milk barn was destroyed, in 1934 lightning caused the destruction of the combined machine shed and hay barn, and in November, 1936 defective wiring caused the fire that destroyed the residence.

The partnership was dissolved in 1947, when W. F. Turner retired, but he stayed in Belton. F. S. Turner bought the farm and continued farming operations.

Kathy Jo is married to Timothy Wolff and lives in Denver, Colorado. Alice and her husband Alfred Gerdel, are in Hutchinson, Kansas, Alice is treasurer of the Junior College and Al is pastor in the Presbyterian Church. They have four children: John Gregory, Steven Turner, Sherri (Gerdel) Parker and Richard Polson. Gregory and his wife, Cheryl, are in Waitsfield, Vermont. Margaret, Bill and Kristy are teaching in schools in Missouri. Bill is a park ranger in Yellowstone Park during the summer months.

The Turner farm was sold to Ray Sims in 1954, but is now known as West Belton. The family moved into Belton in that year, where F. S. (Duke) became active in several civic organizations, including the American Legion, in which he is an officer at the present time. He was township assessor from 1956 to 1961.

FRANK TUTTLE

Ellis Franklin Tuttle was born December 8, 1891, at Deepwater, Missouri. His parents were Ellis and Catherine (Brown) Tuttle. The family moved to Butler when he was young and he attended elementary school there. He attended the Fort Scott, Kansas, Collegiate Institute from 1913 to 1971, when the school was closed bacause of World War I. He went into the armed forces and served until June 6, 1919, with seven months of that time with the A.E.F. in France.

Frank started his newspaper work at the age of 13 when he was employed by the Butler Weekly Times. While in Fort Scott he earned his way as a printer. After being discharged from service he came to Harrisonville, where his parents had moved, and that same month was employed by Homer J. Clark to work on "The Cass County Democrat", first as a printer, later as advertising salesman, still later took over the duties of news editor. He was an avid student of Cass County history and did much reserach in county records, interviewed older residents and wrote many articles about people and places of interest in the county for the newspaper. He maintained a log of all the principle stories contained in each copy of the newspaper from 1929 until shortly before his death October 31, 1966, and this is an invaluable record of the past for the present "Cass County Democrat-Missourian".

Frank was a long time member of the Kiwanis Club, serving 13 years as secretary, and was an active member of the Hurley Lee Spicer American Legion Post, serving as its Commander in 1930.

Frank Tuttle never married. He and his two sisters made a home for their parents until their deaths. The sisters, Lola Tuttle, a printer at the newspaper office for many years, and Mrs. Eura Tuttle Black, who was a telephone operator in Butler and Harrisonville, survived Frank. Lola died in 1971. Mrs. Black is still living in the family home.

Milton Twente served his community well, including service on the Raymore school board for twelve years, from 1928 to 1940. Milton, John and Ella are now deceased. Laura (Mrs. Earl Barr) and Verna (Mrs. Glenn Voorhees) are still residents of Raymore and Belton communities, as is Mrs. Milton Twente, Sr.

Other descendants include the sons of J. T. and Mabel Rea; Ronald and Milton Dean; Ronald's two daughters, Christine and Cheryl and Miltons' daughter, Deborah Jane, and son, Michael Owen. Also, Mary and Teds' son, Mark Higgins and Milton, Jr. and Marthas' two sons, Edwin and Steven Twente.

Mr. Unnewehr came to the United States alone in 1882, landing in Baltimore, Maryland when he was 20 years old. He possessed an abundance of ambition and frugality. With these qualities, plus opportunity of the new world, he started at the bottom of the ladder to success and worked up. He acquired work as a laborer on farms in Illinois and Northern Missouri. After many years of work, he was able to acquire 40 acres of farm land near Norborne, Missouri.

In February, 1940, the Unnewehr's celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. Unnewehr acquired his United States citizenship in 1893.

Mrs. John (Winnie) Urton, living now in Portland, Oregon with her daughter, Mrs. Hazel Dutro, was born in Bradford, Ohio, December 10, 1874. She married John Urton in 1897 in Harrisonville, Missouri.

Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Urton lived with Mr. Urton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. "Bake" Urton. Within the first year of their marriage, John Urton built a three-room house on what is now Maple Street, across from the present Foust home. At this time there were only ten houses in Peculiar.

"Uncle Bake" Urton and John Urton built many houses and other buildings in Peculiar, including the Bishop home, the Brierly home, and many other houses and buildings in the farm community surrounding Peculiar. They helped build the Methodist Church, and the William Wills home.

Later John Urton with Taylor Mills, operated an undertaking establishment with Earl Ewers as driver of the hearse. Ewers, at that time operated a livery stable in Peculiar.

STELLA URTON

One of the oldest living earlier settlers of Peculiar is Mrs. Jess (Stella) Urton, now living in Harrisonville, Missouri.

Mrs. Urton was born March 9, 1876, to a German immigrant family, Carl and Stella Newman, living near what is now Parsons, Kansas. She was one of twin daughters. Their mother died shortly after their birth. When only a few hours old, the Huffman family learned of the family's hardship and offered to take her into their home. Here she was fondly loved and cared for.

In 1880, the Huffman family moved to Cass County. At the age of seven, the family moved to Old Peculiar. In this vicinity, she grew to womanhood and on July 21, 1897, she was married to Jess Urton, son of Alfred Urton and a member of one of the earliest families to settle Peculiar. To Stella and Jess Urton were born four children, all living. They are: Will Urton, Butler, Missouri; Myrtle (Mrs. Charles Stine), Harrisonville; Hail Urton of Urich, Missouri; and Carl Urton of Peculiar, Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. Urton farmed extensively. In 1947 they were privileged to celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary at their farm home. On March 3, 1957, Mr. Urton passed away and soon afterward Mrs. Urton moved to Harrisonville.

Besides her four children, Mrs. Urton has ten grandchildren, nineteen great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren. Her foster brothers and sisters passed away several years ago, the last being Emma Huffman Brockhouse.

In later years Stella was reunited with her own family, although efforts to locate her twin sister were never realized. She had been placed in an orphanage and records had become lost.

JOHN VAN BRUNT JR.

Mr. and Mrs. John Van Brunt, Jr. moved to Cass County in 1912 to the Westervelt Orchard, located four miles west of Belton in Section 17, of Mt. Pleasant Township. Mr. Van Brunt was a prominent Kansas City architect together with his brother, Adriance, for whom Van Brunt Blvd. was named as a member of the first Kansas City Park Board. They were the sons of Margaret Westervelt (1813-1882), for whom the orchard was named, and John Van Brunt (1802-1882), a New Jersey Senator. Their ancestor, Rutgerjoesten Van Brunt arrived in this country in 1653, being one of the original settlers of New Utrecht which is now New York. The Westervelts arrived in 1662 on the ship "Hoop" which is the Dutch word for hope.

John Van Brunt, Jr. (1854-1924) was married to Hope Casey Van Brunt on Oct. 19, 1887 in Kansas City. Hope was born at "Rosecroft", at Caseyville, Union Co., Kentucky on July 24, 1865, the daughter of Elizabeth Mackall Taylor and Nicholas Waggener Casey. She was a grand-niece of Pres. Zachary Taylor. The Casey family lived in New Orleans where Mr. Casey was an auditor for the Bureau of Customs from 1874 to 1884.

Hope was instrumental in marking the Santa Fe Trail through Missouri and was honored by the DAR for so doing. She was, also, one of the original restorers of the Old Arrowrock Tavern, Arrowrock, Mo. The original ferry across the Missouri river at Arrowrock was named "Hope" in her honor. She was a direct descendant of Elder William Brewster, presiding Elder of Plymouth Colony, who came from England on the Mayflower.

Faith Casey, Hope's twin sister, lived with the Van Brunts at the Westervelt Orchard until the orchard was sold prior to WW II. After that time, they made their home in Kansas City to be with their sister, Josephine Casey, one of the first Home Economics teachers in the Kansas City school district. They were members of the Grace and Holy Trinity Cathedral. Josephine and a brother, Samuel Casey preceded their sisters in death. Faith died in 1950, Hope on Dec. 21, 1952.

Mr. and Mrs. John Van Brunt, Jr. were the parents of John Van Brunt III (1888-1974) and Elizabeth Taylor Van Brunt Drury. John Van Brunt III was married to Grace March Wilson (1892-1973) on June 2, 1920. Grace, the founder of the Grace Company, was the granddaughter of George W. Scott, the founder of the town of Belton. The Van Brunts' have one daughter, Margaret Macon, who married Julian W. Rymar on December 11, 1954. They have three daughters, Ann Mackall, Gracen Macon and Margaret Gibson. The Rymars live in Kansas City and are the owners and managers of The Grace Company, a designer and manufacturer of children's clothing.

GROVER CLEVELAND VAN METER

Grover Cleveland Van Meter (9), son of Robert (8) and Jimmie Duncan Van Meter, was born 13 Nov 1892 in the Brownville Community north-west of Freeman, Mo. and attended the Brownville School. He was twelve years old when his father died and the responsibility of helping rear the younger children fell upon the older brother and sister, and although Cleve (9) was very young he began working for farmers in the area, sometimes living in their homes.

On 29 Sept 1920 Cleve (9) married Margaret Hite, daughter of John Franklin and Myrtle Reno Hite. The ceremony was performed in the Murt Harris home in Harrisonville by Rev. Weir. Their first home was in Freeman, Mo. while Cleve (9) continued to do farm work. Prior to their marriage Margaret had been the switchboard operator for the Cass County Telephone Co.

Cleve (9) became co-owner of a grocery store in Freeman but later sold his share to one of the partners and went to work for Weller's Produce, where he drove a truck route picking up produce from area farmers. He was well liked by the people that he met daily and had the reputation of enjoying a joke. He asked a lady customer who came to the produce store to buy "bird dog food" if she wanted "pointer" or "setter" food. When she telephoned her husband to find out she was assurred by him that she was on the receiving end of one of Cleve's (9) jokes.

Margaret took charge of the Farmers Mutual Telephone Co. and the family moved into the home which also housed the office and switchboard. Cleve (9) then went to work at the United States Post Office in Freeman. His health failed and he died 10 Jan 1952 and was buried in the Freeman Mo. Cemetery.

Cleve (9) and Margaret Van Meter were parents of two children: Robert Franklin (10), married Jo-Ann Porter; and Norma Geraldine, married Marvin Lee Staley. Norma and Marvin Staley had two daughters; Marvalee Ann, born 29 Nov 1947, married John Unrein, and had one son Matthew Marvin 29 April 1974; and Jerre Lynne born 21 Aug 1950.

Robert Franklin Van Meter (10) was born 30 Oct 1923 in Freeman, Mo. where attended school. He attended Business College in Kansas City where he later was employed. When he returned to Cass County he worked at Hight-Eidson

Abstract Office and later in retail Men's Clothing. On 13 May 1951 he married Jo-Ann Porter, daughter of Theodore and Zedna Bramhall Porter. She was born 29 Aug. 1931 in Harrisonville.

In 1959 Bob (10) purchased a Flower Shop located on the north-east corner of the Square in Harrisonville. It was a good outlet for his natural artistic ability and within a short time he expanded it, adding a gift line, and Antiques. He moved the business to the Kunze building on the north-west corner of the Square. Bob (10), a civic-minded man, always maintained an interest in Harrisonville, its assets, and its growth. He was equally interested in the future of his native Freeman.

Bob (10) and Jo-Ann Van Meter are parents of one son Robert Douglas Van Meter (11), born 31 Dec 1955 in Harrisonville. Young Bob (11) attended school at Harrisonville and at the time this writing is a student at S.M.S.U., and is capable help in the family shop.

There is a story handed down in this family telling of a Tribe of Indians crossing a river as they moved their home. The river was swifter than they expected and it swept all of them to their death except two young girls who were playing along the way and lagged behind. When they saw what was happening to those ahead in the water they stayed on the bank and didn't venture in. Later they were befriended by a Van Meter family who reared them, and one of the girls married one of the Van Meter boys. More than one generation has claimed Indian ancestry. History has many documented stories like this one, but after much research this writer has never been able to prove or disprove this story.

JOHN WILLIAM VAN METER

John William Van Meter, son of Robert and Jimmie Duncan Van Meter, was born 1-31-1886 and died 1-28-1957. He married Nannie Elizabeth (Lizzie) Russell 12-6-1911. She was born 1-6-1889 and died 12-1-1954. John and Lizzie had three children, Esther Elaine, who died in infancy, La Verna Marie, born 12-26-1914 and Robert Russell, born 3-1-1916.

Clyde, Jr. married Sandra Anne May. She is the daughter of Harold and Isabelle May. They have two sons, Kevin Ray and John Matthew. Their children are Stacy, Robbie, and Bart.

VAN METER FAMILY

The immigrant ancestor of the Cass County line of Van Meters was Jan Joosten van Meteren (1). He and his wife Macyken Hendricksen, and their five children arrived at New Netherlands in America in the ship "Fox" in 12 Sept 1662. He came from Thielerwardt, a fortified town in Gelderland, Holland and his wife from Meppelen, Province of Drenthe, where they were married and the following children were born: Lysbeth, Catherine, Geertje, Joost Jansen (2), and Gysbert Jansen.

Jooste Jansen van Meteren (2) is said to have been the first white man to visit the country immediately south of the Potomac. He was an Indian Trader and pioneer explorer of the Shenandoah Valley. He and his wife Sara DuBois, daughter of Louis DuBois and Catherine Blanchan, French Huguenots, were parents of Jan Jansen (3), Rebecca, Lysbeth, Isaac, and Hendrick Jansen.

Jan Jansen van Meteren (3) married (1) Sara Bodine, daughter of Marie Crocheron and Jean Bodine. Their children were: Sarah, Johannes (John), and Marie. Jan Jansen (3) married (2) Margaret Mollenauer, daughter of Henddic Mollenauer. Their children were: Rebecca, Isaac, Elizabeth, Henry (4), Rachel, Abraham, Jacob, and Maudlina. This family moved to Maryland before 1726, and later to Virginia, now Berkley Co., West Virginia.

Henry Van Metre (4) married (1) Eve Pyle about 1736. They had; Hohn, Joseph, Henry, Jr., Isaac, and Jacob (5). Henry (4) married (2) Hannah Pyle, about 1756. They had; Hannah, Ruth, Nathan, Joshua, and Hester. Henry (4) married (3) Mrs. Elizabeth Pyle. No children of this marriage has been found recorded. Henry (4) served in Frederick Co., Virginia Militia. He was a member of the Peace Commission of West Augusta Co., Virginia in 1776, and was Sheriff of Frederick Co., Virginia.

Jacob Van Metre (5) married in Virginia, a German woman, Catherine Covenhaven. They accompanied his Uncle Jacob Van Metre, Sr., and a large group of relatives and friends to Kentucky in 1778 and 1779. They came down the Ohio River on barges to the point where they came inland and built a fort for protection against the Indians and where Jacob, Sr. later built his home and a mill. It was about 1½ or 2 miles from Elizabethtown, Kentucky and was called Fort Van Metre. It was one of the first forts built in Kentucky and was well located because 185 years later the big spring he used was still being used for the water supply of Elizabethtown. Jacob Van Metre (5) was commissioned an Ensign at Fort Henry, Virginia in the Militia for Kentucky and April 1778 marched under Col. George Rogers Clark. He was appointed by Governor Thomas Jefferson, May 1782, a Captain and marched with Lewis and Clark's Expedition that Fall.

Jacob Van Metre (5) and Catherine Covenhaven had the following children; Abraham, married Sally Van Metre; William, married Elizabeth Goodin; Jacob, married Ruth Spurrier; George Washington, married Ellen Carson; Henry, married Easter; John (6), married Rachel Watson; Hannah, married Ebenezer Richardson; Rebecca, married Jesse Morrison; Ruth, married (1) Thomas Davis, (2) Giles Chambers. Jacob Van Metre (5) married (2) Rebecca Rawlings. Their children were; Nancy, married Joseph Van Metre; Letitia, married J. Watson; Mahala, married (1) William Prather, (2) George Milburn; and Edward R. Van Metre, married Mary Bird.

John Van Metre (6), born circa 1792, married Rachel Watson 12 Feb. 1813 in Hardin County, Kentucky, where he was a miller and farmer. Little else is known of his life. Children of John (6) and Rachel Watson Van Metre were: Josiah, married Amanda Glover; William, (7) married Margaret Creager; Nancy, married Bladen A. Williamson; and Jane, married Aaron Van Metre.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Meter.

ROBERT VAN METER (8)

Robert Van Metre, born 21 March 1848 in Hardin Co., Kentucky, was the oldest child of William B. (7) and Margaret Creager Van Metre. He came to Cass County, Mo. with his family in 1870 when he was 22 years old. He was a farmer in the Freeman Community and a very capable carpenter.

On 2 Dec. 1885 he married Jimmie Duncan, daughter of John and Josephine Shaler Duncan. Jimmie was born 24 Jan. 1866. Robert (8) and Jimmie were parents of nine children: John William, Mary, Fredrick, Grover Cleveland (9), Lee Roy, Walter, and Clyde Christian. Two children died in infancy.

Robert Van Metre (8) died 29 April 1904, when he was only 56 years old though his obituary states that he was "an aged and respected citizen of Cass County". Some years later Jimmie Duncan Van Metre married William Warner. She died 27 Feb. 1940 and both she and Robert Van Metre (8) are buried in the Freeman Mo. Cemetery.

It might be well to note here the change in spelling of the family name. In the very early years when Jan Joosten immigrated from Holland he no doubt used van Meteren, (which means "of Meteren") to distinguish himself from others with similar given names. Less than a hundred years later the name was written Van Metre, which some family lines still use, while others use the spelling Van Meter.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Van Meter.

WILLIAM B. VAN METER

William B. Van Metre(7) was born in Hardin County, Kentucky 17 Feb. 1824. On 8 Feb. 1824. On 8 Feb. 1847 he married Margaret Creager, daughter of Christian and Sally Bird Creager also of Hardin Co.

Will (7) was a farmer and miller, as was his father and grandfather before him. Family legend tells that, at the time of the Civil War, he threatened to drown a subscriber if he crossed the Nolin River where the Van Metre Mill was located to enlist Will for Military duty. He did not lack the patriotism that his grandfather had shown by serving during the revolution, but he knew that his was the only Mill in operation in the surrounding countryside at that time and without him his neighbors and friends would suffer more hardship and discomfort than they already felt because of the War.

On 20 Sept. 1870 Will (7) and Margaret left Hardin County, moving their family to Cass County, Missouri in three covered wagons. Their journey ended south of Freeman, Mo. Will (7) had traveled to Illinois and Missouri prior to the move in search of good farm land. He had considered land south of Peculiar, but decided the soil "wasn't the right color". After settling in Cass County he bought several hundred acres near Freeman, Mo. and became a successful farmer in the area.

All seven of the children of Will (7) and Margaret Van Metre were born before the family came to Missouri and all of them grew to maturity in the Freeman area. They were: Robert (8), married Jimmie Duncan; John Christian, married Melvina Buckles; Sarah, married Richard Tabb; William Henry Clay, married Mary Alice Thomas; Amanda, married Peter Maloney; Jefferson Davis, married Mary Elizabeth Williams; and Levi, married Ellen Nelson.

Margaret Creager Van Metre died 9 Sept. 1875, only five years after coming to Missouri with her family. Will (7) died 18 Feb. 1890. Both are buried in the Freeman Mo. Cemetery.

LORENZO DOW VANSANDT

Lorenzo Dow Vansandt, progenitor of the Vansandts of Cass County, was a son of Elijah Vansandt (Vanzandt/Vinsant/Vandzant/Vanzant) and his wife Eleanor Wilson who were married September 2, 1784 in Botetourt County, Virginia. Elijah served 7 years in the American Revolution, using a gourd for his powder horn. Four years after the war ended, he was ordained an elder in the Methodist Episcopal Church. According to family tradition, he knew Greek and Latin and in 1805, his was the first Methodist Episcopal sermon to be preached in Gallia County, Ohio. As a circuit-riding minister, he liked that part of Ohio and moved his family there in 1806 from Rockbridge County, Virginia. Elijah soon died; the settlement of his estate was commenced November 30, 1807 in the common pleas court of Gallia County. The estate records list 7 children: James, Nancy, John, Betsey, Matty, Sally, and Lorenzo. Elijah and Eleanor had named their youngest son for Lorenzo Dow, popular Methodist preacher at the time. The widow Eleanor was married on May 1, 1809 in Gallia Methodist minister and ancestor of several Cass Countians, Lorenzo Dow Vansandt in 1870 owned 80 acres in Section 2 of Austin Township and Lot 51 in the town of Austin. He died May 17, 1892 and was buried in the Vansandt Cemetery at the south edge of Section 2. Leah died January 21, 1894 and shares Lorenzo's tombstone. Seven marked graves — all Vansandts — are in the cemetery.

CLYDE A. WADSWORTH

I, Clyde Arlington Wadsworth, Sr. was born May 3, 1876 in Slippery Rock Township, Butler County, Pennsylvania, (my parents being Dawson C. Wadsworth (1852-1921) and Mary (Bollinger Wadsworth (Sept 1849-Dec. 1947), in my grandfather Dawson Wadsworth's big log house, situated on the West end of the Wadsworth bridge. The log house was a large one, two rooms down stairs, with a part built onto each end, a large stone chimney in the center and three rooms up. We lived in the West end of that house until I was two and a half years old. In my early boyhood we moved to Clay township and my mother and father taught country schools. They were paid about $20.00 per month, each. We moved back to the Wadsworth farm the Fall of 1866 onto 30 acres my father purchased from grandfather. I had one sister, Katherine I. Wadsworth (Aug. 1873-1957) and one brother Percy Dawson (Dec. 1879-1948). We attended Oak Grove School. As a young man I went to Pittsburgh with my brother where I worked for the Union Switch and Signal Co., a branch of Westinghouse, located in Swissvale, Pa.

Clyde A. Wadsworth, his son and daughter.

I met and married Maggie M. Campbell (Oct. 1881-Jan. 1975), in Smithfield, West Virginia, May 18, 1904. After marriage we moved to Gulfport, Miss. and engaged in the clothing business. We lived in South Dakota several years and 15 years in Kansas, moving to Harrisonville in 1941 after retiring from the mercantile business and purchased and farmed the former Yoder farm, Gray Gables for several years.

We had three children, Mary Alma (June 1908-1958) Agnes H. (Dec. 1910) Clyde A. Jr. (Jan. 1913). Alma Married Hugo Nyman (Nov. 1906) in July 1933, they had two sons, Gary W. Nyman (May 1937) married Kay Morning, July 1971. Bruce C. Nyman (Nov. 1939) married Mary Ann Tippin, they have two children Richard and Mary Ann Nyman. Agnes Married Robert Leinenger Feb. 1943, they have two sons, Robert II (Sept. 1944) and Alan W. (May 1951). Brother, Percy married Lena Ellen Rick (July 1888) Gulfport, Miss. they had two sons, Lawrence Dawson (July 1911) married Lillian Craig they have one son, Craig Dawson Wadsworth; and Charles Bruce (Dec. 1914) Married Lois, they have two children, Lana and Lon.

My great grandfather was William Wadsworth, County of Monagan, Milltown Ireland (March 17, 1764-March 17, 1856.)

My great great grandfather, Abraham Bollinger (1756) served in the York County Militia in 1778. He is listed as a private in the Captain Leehner's Company and also 2nd Lieutenant and Captain of the 1st Company Fifth Battalion, York County, which sent five battalions to New Jersey where they joined Washington's army and fought in Long Island and Fort Washington on the Hudson. My Mother, Mary Bollinger was raised on the land grant that Abraham received for serving in the armed forces of the country. It was about 160 acres known as Chestnut Ridge (Cherry Township) Butler County, Pa. This land was never used until my Grandfather, John Bollinger (1818-1893), grandson of Abraham, took possession of it and I believe his Father, Christian Bollinger (1785-1875) lived with them.

John Bollinger married Katherine Wallace of near Unionville, Pa., built a log house, moved in, started to clear land, build stone fences, burn charcoal for the Hickory iron furnace, teach school and raise a family. They had three boys and three girls, Wallace, Mary Wadsworth, Ell Ralston, Charles, Flody Kissic and Orville. The three older ones all taught School and Charles became a Methodist minister.

My grandparents had great ability to make use of whatever was at hand. Grandfather could fashion most anything out of wood with an ax, broad ax, foot adz, froe, draw knife, hand saw or any tool available. He made most of his farm equipment, which consisted of, ox yoke, wood sled, land roller, flails, fanning mill, wooden scoop, hand rakes, baskets, barrels, hinges for gates and barn doors and bee hives. He had a large apiary and sold honey. He did all his own budding and grafting and had the finest orchard in the neighborhood. He was one of the first to use fertilizer, about 1884. When he butchered a beef he would take the hide to the Slippery Rock Tannery, get the leather in the Fall, make lasts and make shoes for the whole family. He was a religious man, a great reader and assembled quite a library. Grandmother made all the children's clothing, milked the cows, made the butter, dried the fruit, baked the bread on the hearth in a dutch oven or in the big clay oven outside. She bleached the ashes to make lye to make soap. She had a wonderful flower garden and large vegetable garden.

There were ten children in my grandfather's family, one brother Daniel's family moved west to Union Star, Missouri where 32 members of that branch of the family still reside, as farmers, teachers, etc. (the family of Harry and Frances Bollinger, Union Star).

DOUGLAS CHARLES WAGNER

Douglas Charles Wagner was born March 7, 1867, two miles northeast of Harrisonville. His parents were Isaac Peter Wagner and Mary Moore Hudson Wagner. Isaac Peter Wagner was born near Harrisonville February 26, 1824 and died September 24, 1883. He married Mary Hudson in 1847 and they were the parents of nine children: George Byron Wagner (Aug. 7, 1849-May 1, 1919); Nancy Elizabeth Wagner (Sept. 22, 1850-Nov. 22, 1927); Clarissa Jane Wagner (Dec. 16, 1853-Mar. 4, 1880); Laura Anne Wagner and Jacob Ira Wagner (both died during the civil war); Frances Cathren Wagner (July 22, 1881); Peter Sylvester Wagner (Feb. 29, 1864); Douglas Charles Wagner (March 7, 1867-Jan. 24, 1950) and Christopher Perry Wagner (Aug. 11, 1870-Feb. 27, 1878). Isaac and son, George, served in the Union Army between Harrisonville and Kansas City, Missouri, helping the U.S. supply trains get through. These trains were being attacked by the Kansas Red Legs and Missouri Bushwhackers, two bands of thieves in the area. Three of Isaac Wagner's brothers joined the Confederate Army in the South and never returned. Captain Bob Gilliland (married to Isaac's sister) had Harry S. Truman's Dad serving under him.

Douglas Charles Wagner married Cornelia Annas Brown, daughter of Quillar and Nancy Brown, February 27, 1889 in the old frame Christian Church of Harrisonville, which burned in 1916. They made their home in Gunn City on a farm, where most of their children were born. In 1904 they bought the "old home place" two houses east of the Orient Cemetery, where they spent the remainder of their lives. The farm was modern for its day, having a coal furnace in the basement of the two story house and a full bath upstairs that was furnished water by a windmill and pipeline system.

There was a large main barn, several other buildings and a huge orchard, all enclosed by a white board fence. The front yard had several cedar trees in it that are still standing. Mr. and Mrs. Wagner were active members of the First Christian Church of Harrisonville, where Doug sang in the choir. Mr. Wagner was a very successful farmer, raising all of their fruit, and was still tending his crops with a team of horses when he died at the age of 82 years. To this union six children were born: Quillar Isaac Wagner (Mar. 1, 1890-Mar. 23, 1971—; Letha Frances Wagner McGee St. John Shultz (Mar. 7, 1893-July 18, 1958); Floren Wilburn Wagner (July 1, 1885-April 1971); Alpha Mary Nancy Wagner Still (July 18, 1898); Opal Adalene Wagner Atkinson (May 31, 1904) (see Theodore Wayland Atkinson history) and Albert Douglas Wagner (July 13, 1908). Alpha still lives in Peculiar, Missouri, and Opal (Mrs. Charles S.) Atkinson lives in Harrisonville, Missouri.

W. D. "DALE" WAINWRIGHT

In 1957 Dale and Beverly Wainwright moved to Harrisonville. They were newly married and had been looking for an apartment to start housekeeping. Mr. Wainwright was employed by The Western Electric Installation Division of Kansas City, Missouri. His wages then were around $35 a week. A friend told them about an apartment on 800 East Pearl Street. They rented the five room furnished apartment for $35 a month from Mrs. Dora Barnard. The old two story historic house since then has been torn down. It was known as the "Ryan House." While living here their daughter, Joyce Marie, was born.

They purchased the Harrisonville Taxi Company from Don and Ulah Richardson and operated it from this location. They equipped the taxi with the first 2-way radio system. From East Pearl Street they moved to 907 Green Street and continued the taxi service. In 1960 they sold the Taxi Company to Damon Bartles.

In 1960 they purchased a farm 5 miles Southwest of Harrisonville in the Grandriver area. While living here their daughter, Judy Marlene was born.

In 1962 they sold their farm and bought a spacious 11 room house in Drexel. This house was a landmark of Stuart City and was known as the "Old Pfost Place". The old buggy steps are still in front of the house. While living here their son, Alan Dale, was born. Because of the rising cost of living and the several miles Dale had to drive to work, they sold the large house and bought a five acre tract of land near Freeman, where they are presently living.

Their daughter Joyce is studying to be a nurse. Judy and Alan attend the Cass Midway R1 School, near Cleveland, Mo. Dale is still employed with the Western Electric Co. and Beverly is employed at The Little Shirt Factory in Freeman, Mo.

In their spare time they enjoy fishing, hunting and traveling.

JAMES WALTERS

The Russell F. and Gloria W. Bennett farm, in the North part of Camp Branch Twp., Cass Co., Mo., is located on the original land homesteaded in June 1851 by Russell F. Bennett's great grandfather James Walters, who was then age 29. The Bennetts possess the treasured original documents, including the Land Grant and the first Abstract of Title No. 1594.

James Walters married, prior to 1849, Cynthia Ann, whose surname is not yet known. She was born 1823 and died 1911, her tombstone in the Pitts Chapel Cemetery reading "Sinthy A. Walters". James and Cynthia Ann Walters had 6 children: Joseph H. Walters born 1854 and died age 7; William Walters who died about 1914, was unmarried; Sarah Walters; Lyda (Lydia Elizabeth) Walters; Christopher G. Walters born 1850, died 1914, unmarried; Minnie Bell Walters born Apr. 5, 1868, died Mar. 20, 1946, married July 31, 1917 Edward B. Brumley.

After the death of his father, Christopher G. Walters remained with his mother, brothers and sisters and assumed his father's responsiblities until all had left the homestead except his mother and sister Minnie Bell. Since Cynthia Ann Walters had lost her eyesight after the birth of her second child, she was never able to see her other four children. Yet, being a true pioneer woman, she remained an active, busy hard-working member of her household. After her death her son Christopher G. made his will leaving everything he possessed, including this homesteaded land, to his faithful sister Minnie Bell, as neither of them had ever married or "left the place they were born". After his death Minnie was all alone, until her late marriage to Edward B. Brumley. She still never left her home and lived her entire life on her father's homestead. It is told that Minnie was a truly "liberated woman" most of her life, highly regarded and respected in the community, a large, raw-boned woman, with firm convictions and fear of none but God.

Lyda (Lydia Elizabeth) Walters married a cousin, John James Bennett. They had two children, William and Ida Bennett, John James Bennett lost an arm during a thrashing accident, and the arm was buried under a tree at Pitts Chapel Cemetery.

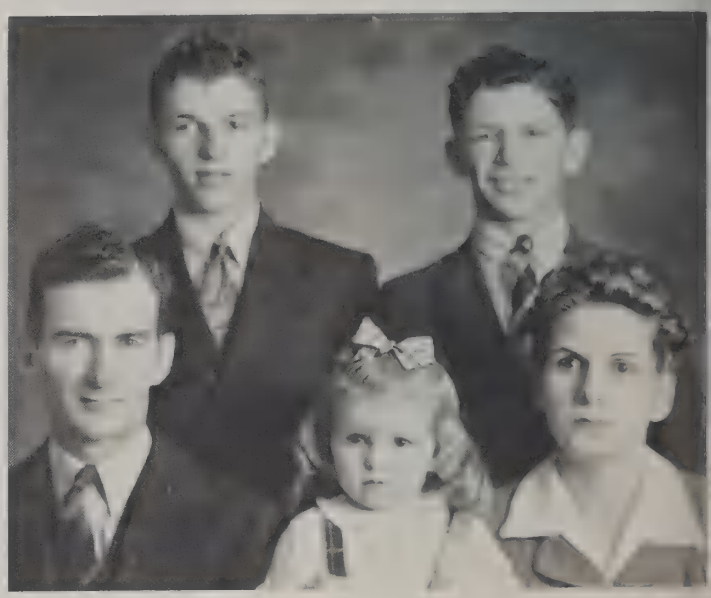
William Bennett was born Apr. 15, 1882, and married Cora Stanley. They had 5 children: One, name unknown, who died at birth; Delia (Bennett) Sparks; Lydia (Bennett) Kerns; Henry W. Bennett; Russell F. Bennett. All are deceased except Lydia (named after her grandmother Lydia Elizabeth Walters) and Russell F. Bennett. (See his sketch).

Lydia Bennett married Jesse Floyd Kerns. They have one married son, John Walter Kerns, who has wife Dorothy and several children. Both families live in the Lisle community, near Drexel, Mo.

GEORGE W. WALTMIRE

In 1895, George Wickliffe Waltmire was born in Illinois, coming to Missouri in 1901 with his parents. In 1915, George taught the Judy School with an enrollment of 36 pupils. This school was located near the intersection of 71 and 58 Highways. In 1918, he married Bernice Holstin, a Warrensburg girl he met while in college. After returning from World War I, they moved to their present home and named "Belly Acres Farm". They have two children; Winnifred, Mrs. Richard Short, Ringwood, New Jersey, and Allen, of Canoga Park, California. They have six grandchildren.

In 1968, George received a life certificate membership in Free Masonry for fifty years continuous membership. George and Bernice have traveled in all fifty states except Vermont and Rhode Island, and most of the Canadian Provinces and Mexican States.



The Jerome J. Waltmire Family.

J. J. WALTMIRE

Jerome Waltmire was born at the Walnut Park Farm purchased by his father in 1901 and which is still his residence. The main part of this house was built by Sanderson H. Rogers while he was sheriff of Cass County in 1874 and a part of the house is approximately 40 years older. Jerome has lived in this house his entire life, except for eleven months when he managed the Terrace Lake Farm located at Hickman Mills. He went to Greenlee rural school a half mile west of the farm. This would be located on J Highway, it being a part of the Shackelford farm at that time, now the H. J. McBride farm. Jerome graduated from Raymore high school in 1923.

This same year, Jerome and his parents took an extended trip by car (called "Baby Overland"). It took five days to cross Kansas due to the muddy roads, 25 to 40 miles per hour, and they were away three months.

Jerome began farming in 1924 and this same year was married to Lena Phillips. They were the parents of Marion, who lives at Princeton, Kansas and Dean, who lives at Harrisonville, Missouri. Dean is the owner of the former Apollos Waltmire Farm, south of the H. J. McBride farm, this being land owned by the Shackelford family and the birthplace of Lucy Webb and Emily Bratten. The house is still in use. After the death of Lena Phillips Waltmire in 1937, Jerome was married in 1938, to Vera Jungmann, of Carbondale, Kansas. Jerome and Vera were the parents of two daughters, Theresa (Mrs Ron Cotter) and Kathleen, who died in infancy.

The Waltmire home has been the scene of much activity relating to the history of Raymore. Mr. Wert, a teacher at Greenlee school and later in Raymore, his son, Van A. Wert, class of 1899, boarded here. Later in the 1900s, what was known as "The Illinois Picnic" was held here. These are some of the families who attended: Chaffin, Brawner, Champion, Harper Pearson, Jeter, Webb, Leonard, Dunseth, Small, Allen, Watkins and Waltmire.

An annual event, ever since Jerome and Vera were married is Thanksgiving dinner. All of their children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and Veras' relatives attend. The largest number attending being fifty-three. Jerome and Vera were members of the Bethany Church, he serving that church as a board member for 50 years and Vera teaching a class for 25 years. In 1970 Bethany Church closed and they transferred their membership to Belton Christian Church. Vera is a member of the church advisory board for Culver Stockton College, Canton, Missouri.

In 1939 Mr. Clifford Bratten and Jerome became interested in securing electricity for their neighborhood and surrounding community and spent several days in the Coleman community and Raymore Township securing 105 signers at $5.00 per member. Soon after, war was declared and everything pertaining to building electric lines stopped, until in January of 1948, electricity became a reality for these and others.

Jerome served as leader and chairman of the Boy Scout Troop of Raymore and both his sons, Marion and Dean, became Eagle Scouts, Jerome is a member of the Belton and the South Kansas City, Missouri Chamber of Commerce, a charter member of the Raymore Lions and active in 4H work. His interest in livestock came from his early association with his father, an expert stock-man and show judge. In 1920 Jerome started showing hogs and sheep in shows and fairs in Missouri, Texas, Louisiana, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas and at the American Royal, where he once sold a winning Chester White boar and Hampshire ram to Harry S. Truman and his brother, Vivian Truman. In the year 1929 Jerome purchased some registered Guernsey cows and commenced selling grade A milk to a dairy in Kansas City. In 1948 he held a complete dispersal sale of the dairy herd and equipment. In 1962 he went into business for himself and in 1970, his son-in-law, Ron Cotter, came to Belton to work with him as a partner.

Jerome graduated from the Raymore high school and his sons, Marion and Dean, and daughter, Theresa, graduated from the first class after Raymore and Peculiar schools combined. Both boys served in the Armed Services, Marion for four years in Europe, and Dean, two years in Korea.

JOHN GILBERT WALTMIRE

John Gilbert Waltmire was born to W. W. and Addie D. Waltmire on a farm near Carbondale, Kansas in 1888. Later the family moved back to Delavan, Illinois, then came to Missouri in 1901. He attended Raymore high school and then enrolled in Missouri University at Columbia. At that time Raymore had only a three year high school.

In 1912 he married Pina Sandy Waltmire, courting her with horse and buggy, as was the custom in that day. They started farming and built the house on what is known as the George Waltmire farm. They were the parents of Ralph, who died in infancy; Hazel, Mrs. Junius Kellam, of Ventura, California; Samuel; Ross; Don and Wickliffe, who lost his life in World War II. All four boys were in the Armed Services.

In 1920, the Waltmires left the farm and lived in Colorado a short time, then going to Whittier, California, where they bought a home. Gilbert became an electrical engineer and worked for the Edison Power Company until his retirement in 1954. He was presented a fifty year pin in the membership of Free Masonry. In 1916, he married Opal Quillen and they moved to Bridger, Montana where they purchased a farm. They were the parents of four boys; Robert, who died in infancy; Everett and twins, Jack and Joe.

WICKLIFFE W. WALTMIRE

Back in the year 1816 a party of emigrants left Arguar, Switzerland, to come to America. One of the families was the Waltmire family and the baby of the family was Jerome Waltmire. The passage to America was a long, sad journey for cholera raged aboard ship. At last a remnant of the original party landed in America and Jerome Waltmire, 4 years old, was sold into slavery to pay his passage money. After serving the required 21 years, young Waltmire came westward and settled for a time in the state of Ohio where he married Jane F. Bennet. To this union eleven children were born, four girls and seven boys and one of them was Wickliffe W. Waltmire. The family moved from there to Tazwell County, Illinois, near Tremont where W. W. was born. He attended high school at Delevan, Illinois. At the age of seventeen he became a member of the Christian Church.

When Mr. Waltmire had finished school he went to Kansas (1879) and worked as solicitor, laborer and farm hand until he was able, by the help of a friend, to buy 160 acres of prairie land, for $820.00 This farm was located near Carbondale, Kansas, 18 miles south of Topeka. He broke prairie, planned his farm and built most of the improvements himself and then went back to Illinois to marry the girl of his choice, Miss Addie C. Drake. The wedding took place January 13, 1881. For the next twelve years the Waltmires lived on the Kansas farm and of course were active in the church life of their community. He served as superintendent and elder for forty years in Illinois, Kansas and Missouri, and has helped to build three church buildings.

In 1893 the Waltmires left Kansas and moved to Delevan, Illinois, where they lived for ten years, in order to take care of Mr. Waltmires' parents, who were in failing health. There Mr. Waltmire engaged in the lumber and coal business. Mr. Waltmires' father, Jerome Waltmire, passed away in 1896 and his mother in 1901. A year later a number of families from Delavan, Illinois moved to Cass County, Missouri and among them was the Waltmire family. Mr. Waltmire bought a farm of 160 acres near Raymore, which came to be known as Walnut Park Stock Farm, the widely known home of Chester White hogs, Oxford sheep and Barred Rock chickens. The Waltmires moved from the Walnut Park Farm to Belton in May, 1927.

There were five children in their family but they lost their only daughter, Mrs. Maude Ketteman, July 8, 1927. The boys of the family were Gilbert, of Whittier, California; Martin, of Bridger, Montana; and George and Jerome of the home neighborhood. Besides his wife and four sons Mr. Waltmire has one brother and two sisters living. Mr. and Mrs. Waltmire celebrated their golden and diamond wedding anniversaries. Mr. Waltmire passed away at his home in Belton, Missouri in January of 1941 and Mrs. Waltmire, at the age of 91 years, at her home in Belton in 1952.

As it tells in the previous Cass Co. history, Mr. Wilhite was a Miller by trade. He had built a fine Flouring Mill at Gunn City, Mo. in 1881. It was while the family lived there that Joanna Brown died April 28, 1882.

On December 2, 1885 Mary Pricilla Sorency and Alvin W Wilhite, Sr. were married and moved to Triplett, Mo. where he erected another mill. The family then moved to Belton, Mo. where Mr. Wilhite built a mill on the north side of Mill St., near Baldwin Street. This is why Mill St. has its name. The family moved to Garden City

Mo. about 1882 where Mr. Wilhite built a hardware store on Main St. His son, Elea Sorency Wilhite was born June 27, 1894. An addition was built on to the store and besides the buggies, washing machines, cook stoves, heating stoves, and the usual hardware items he added dry goods, groceries, and even pianos and phonographs. His two sons, Tom and A. W. Jr. were both grown by then so he turned the business over to them, calling Wilhite Bros. Department Store. The brothers kept it a show place until it burned in 1927. After the store burned they moved across the street and opened for business, selling mostly groceries and hardware. They rebuilt on the site of the original store and instead of returning to the new building decided it would be better for Garden City to encourage a Garment manufacturer to occupy it. A. W. Jr. was elected Mayor of Garden City, and also served two terms as Missouri State Legislator. He was interested in the Garden City Bank and was President of the Board at his death. Tom died May 11, 1939. Alvin married Miss Mabel Brandt in 1951. When Alvin died in 1964, his wife Mabel was elected to his chair at the bank. FRED WINTER

The main value of a family history will probably be to future generations trying to trace family backgrounds. For this reason, the Winter family history will be partly made up of where the family burial grounds are located. Fredrick William and Christina Mae (Compton) Winter moved to the Garden City area in 1947, having previously purchased the former Everett Leadbetter property. They moved to their farm permanently in 1948. This one-half section of land was identified as Maple Lawn Farm in the 1895 plat book of Cass County.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Winter were born in Bates County, the descendents of early settlers of western Missouri. Mrs. Winter's maternal grandparents' name was Pierce. They were of English descent. The Pierce family is buried in Appleton City in St. Clair County. Her paternal grandparents' name was Compton. They were also of English descent. Her paternal grandparents and parents are buried in Myers Cemetery in Bates County. Mr. Winter's maternal grandparents' name was Wolfe. They are buried in Round Prairie Cemetery in Bates County. EUGENE J. WIRTHMAN

Eugene J. Wirthman is the owner of, and resides on, his farm known as Skyline Stock Farm. It is said that this farm is on the highest elevation in Cass County. It was formerly the Arch Miller farm and was purchased by Mr. Wirthman in 1939. An interesting fact about the building of the Wirthman home was that plans were in order to build a home on Ward Parkway, location purchased and plans drawn, but a decision was made to change and build a "Town House" in the country. When all was ready to begin, this nation was plunged into war, but building materials were assembled as could be purchased and stored in a warehouse in Kansas City and eventually building began. One other difficulty was encountered; no available line to electricity could be reached, so a commercial Delco system was installed.

This lovely home, with improvements which followed; a tenant house, milk barn, sheep and horse barns, give evidence of truly progressive ownership in an advancing area.

ETHEL MASSIE WITHERS

Ethel Massie Withers was a daughter of B. H. and Margaret Ryman Massie. She lived in Raymore until going to Independence, Missouri to attend Woodland College. While there she lived in the home of an uncle, Jeremiah Massie. In 1903, she taught school in Liberty, Missouri. There she met Robert Steele Withers, the son of an old and prominent Clay County family. Ethel Massie and Robert Withers were married in Raymore, December 22, 1906. Mr. Withers was a guest in the Dr. W. F. Chaffin home when he came to Raymore for the wedding. The Robert Withers family lived on the lovely old family farm on Withers Road near Liberty.

All of her adult life, Mrs. Withers was interested in journalism and was an active member of the Pen Women of America. She was state historian for the D.A.R. at one time. Mrs. Withers and her husband contributed greatly to the Missouri Historical Society. One of her greatest interests was the organization known as the Country Women of the World. She attended their convention in England in 1939, coming away filled with enthusiasm for their efforts for understanding and unity. The Withers entertained overseas guests from this group and were always gracious in sharing them with their neighbors.

Mrs. Withers died September 13, 1958. She was a forthright, outspoken lady, yet sincere, leaving her associates in awesome breathlessness but always with deep affection. Mr. Withers died in January, 1959. Their daughter, Maraget Teague, lives in El Paso, Texas. Their son, Conn, and wife, Jeanne, are still on the Withers farm. His grandfather, Joe Miller, came here from Indiana in 1870 and bought 80 acres of land, three miles north of Garden City where Joe Yoder now lives. In those days when folks went to Pleasant Hill, they cut across the prairie.

Elby was a lover of horses and was some of the last in the community to farm with horses and to drive his horse and buggy.

He was married to Clara Schrock on January 1, 1920 and started farming with a gangplow and two row cultivators, which was modern farming for those days.

KENNETH YODER

Kenneth Yoder, born near Pigeon, Michigan on April 13, 1930, only child of Milo D. and Amy (Roth) Yoder. Mr. Yoder was reared and educated in Michigan. He came to Cass County with his parents in June of 1948.

Mr. Yoder's father, Milo, was the fifth child of Joe and Anna (Miller) Yoder, born on February 21, 1900 on the farm of his parents located about four miles north of Garden City.

Milo Yoder's mother, Anna Miller, was the sixth child of Joe and Christina (Coffman) Miller, who came to Cass County with her parents in 1872. She received her education at the Clearfork School and after her married to Joe Yoder, who came to Cass County as a young man from Pennsylvania, settled on the farm where Milo was reared. Milo Yoder's father died in 1912 when Milo was age 12; his mother's death came in April, 1959 when she was age 88.

As a young man Milo Yoder went to Illinois to work. While there, he met Amy Roth, born May 31, 1899 near Oberlin, Kansas. They were married on November 23, 1923 and lived on a farm near Pigeon, Michigan when Kenneth was born. When they returned to Cass County they purchased a 240 acre farm west of Garden City in Camp Branch township.

On August 9, 1962, Kenneth Yoder married Ellen Kauffman, born January 31, 1935 at Minot, North Dakota. She was the first of seven children born to Floyd and Ida (Troyer) Kauffman. Floyd, a twin, was born in Cass County in 1906, the son of David and Anna (King) Kauffman, who moved to North Dakota in 1916. (See Stephen Kauffman entry.)

After marriage, Kenneth Yoder operated the farm of his parents. He now raises mostly corn. The farm was a bank barn built by David Youn in the late 1800's. The first house was destroyed by fire and the present house was built in 1918. Mr. Yoder keeps the building on the farm in good repair and the farm has a neat appearance.

Mrs. Yoder is a school teacher and does some free lance writing and artwork. Mr. and Mrs. Yoder are the parents of two children, Dale Dean, born October 14, 1963 and Dianne Kaye, born October 1, 1967. The Yoder family are active members of the Sycamore Grove Mennonite Church.

NOAH YODER

Noah Yoder was born in Logan County, Ohio in 1848. He came to Cass County, Missouri in 1867 with his parents the Reuben Yoder family and settled on a farm 9 miles due east of Harrisonville.

The family came to Holden, Missouri by train and moved across country by wagon. There were few fences and not many roads. Reuben Yoder bought his land the same year, in 1867 and paid $2,000, or $12.50 an acre.

The 160 acre farm was half timber and half prairie. The timber afforded wood for fuel and lumber for building. A stream supplied stock water. Squirrels chattered in the trees, grouse drummed in the woods and prairie chickens roamed the open fields. There were also black berries to be gathered in summer and nuts in the fall.

Noah bought 80 acres adjoining the home place 15 years later in 1883, and paid $2040, or $25.50 an acre. He kept adding to this until he had 392 acres. He farmed and raised livestock, lived at home a number of years, then moved on his own farm and lived alone, until February, 1889 at the age of 40, when he married Katie Hartzler from Michigan. They raised 5 children. Priscilla, wife of O. J. Hartzler, deceased; Lucy, deceased, wife of John E. Miller; Nellie, wife of C. V. Hartzler, deceased, now Mrs. Frank Roth; Reuben J; and Lela, deceased.

The buildings on their farm were all old, so in 1901 they built a six room house and in 1906 they built a large barn, and made many other improvements.

He was a successful farmer and stock man. His sows, which took a lot of care, went out into the timber to farrow and only raised one litter a year. When the offspring were 15 or 16 months old they were big, fat hogs and went to market with their mothers. He shipped by rail and usually had two car loads. Noah also bought livestock in the community and shipped them to Kansas City or St. Louis. Noah died in 1918, Katie in 1942.

After Noah's death, Reuben J. stayed on the farm with his mother and sister, Lela. In 1930 he raised a drove of prize winning hogs, and made a national record. In 1933 he married

Ruth Schrock, they have three children: James, Donna, and Jerald. In 1942 they bought and moved to the C. D. Yoder farm, that had belonged to his uncle. It was 160 acres and he paid $50 an acre. This land has been in the Yoder family for 99 years, and has had only two owners.

Jerald married Joan Wittrig in 1972 and moved on this farm. Jerald is a farmer and has hog raising as his speciality.

In 1958 James married Miriam Martin, from Pennsylvania. They bought and moved on the Noah Yoder farm. He paid $55 an acre. They are the parents of three sons, Garry, Philip and Eric. They are the fifth generation. In 1964 he bought the B. J. Yoder farm and paid $300 an acre. In 1975 they built a home there, located on Highway No. 2. He is a farmer and has 80 acres of orchard and 35 acres of strawberries.

Donna lives in Tucson, Arizona and is a teacher in Pima Junior College.

Reuben also built a home on his C. D. Yoder farm on Highway #2 and retired, but still enjoys what goes on, on the Yoder farms.

The land that belonged to Reuben Yoder, now belongs to Reuben J. It has been in the family 109 years.

The Yoders have always been affiliated with the Mennonite church. The older Reuben Yoder was a charter member in 1868.

MARTIN ZIEGLER

Martin Ziegler (1846-1923) and wife Lydia (1845-1936) came in 1872 by train from Wooster, Ohio to East Lynne, Mo. Four children accompanied them: Emma, Amanda, Levi and Selina. A fine group of Mennonites from Sycamore Church met them and gave them food and lodging. The Zieglers soon rented the "Capp" farm and resided there two years. Martin purchased a farm one quarter mile south of Eight Mile. When the KCCS railroad (called "Leaky Roof") was built in 1885, the town was moved one mile north and was renamed Daugherty, for a Bill Daugherty. KCCS stood for Kansas City, Clinton, Springfield. Vernon remembers the growing town of 2 stores, blacksmith shop, livery barn, and a stock and grain buyer named R. D. Noell. The stores were owned by Chas. Clark and Bert McBride. There were 2 passenger trains north, 2 south and a freight train each way daily. Also, a stock train 2 or 3 days each week.

By 1888 five more children were born: Simon, Mattie, Fran, Ethel and Vernon. Vernon, the youngest remembers his parents speaking German to his children. He remembers his father always returning thanks at the table, never working on Sunday. Several times a week they would all sing, pray and read the Bible at bedtime. Vernon continues "Thanks for a great father and mother". Martin and Lydia left the farm in 1920 and moved to Garden City, Mo. Their children:

Emma married U.S.G. Plank, a professor and superintendent of Haskell Institute, a government school for Indians at Lawrence, Kansas. Their children were Ewart and Elizabeth. Ewart, a graduate of West Point, is now retired from the Army as a 3 Star General and living in California. Elizabeth married Leland Jenks, a professor. They spent 5 years in old country making text books for University. She now lives in Wellesley, Massachusetts.

Amanda married, in 1891, Bud Wykle, a farmer and stockman and after 20 years of farming, retired to Garden City.

Mattie married R. W. Conn, a railroad man and farmer. Children: Hilda and Robert. Mattie died at age 50.

Frank married Ida Kennedy, another school teacher. He was a merchant in Nampa, Idaho for 20 years. Frank is still living in Nampa at the age of 94 and has one daughter, Isa Rea.

Ethel married Walter Garmon. They lived in Emmett, Idaho where he was ditch rider for the Irrigation Department of Idaho. Children: Lela, Betty and Donald. Ethel died at age 50.

Vernon married Maude Kirk in 1911. She taught school in Cass County. They left the farm and were in the grocery business 5 years in Peculiar. Vernon was auditor for Hope Lumber Co. in Belton 7 years. Moved to Spring Hill, Ks. in 1925 to become the first independent jobber for Mobil Oil Co. in Johnson County, Ks. Vernon and Maude retired in 1946 to Harrisonville where he continues to reside at age of 88 years.
